Obvious, subtle, even lost at first, a motif co-ordinates a year's experiences.

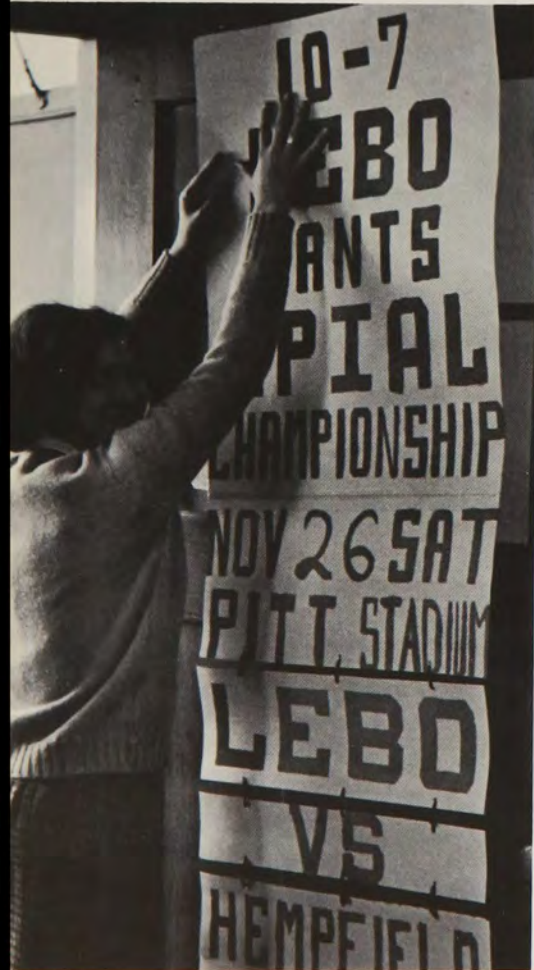

Simplicity reduces often complicated, confusing issues to their bare framework.

Seen from a short or long distance of time, one event, person, or place becomes a center of activity and attention—a focal point.

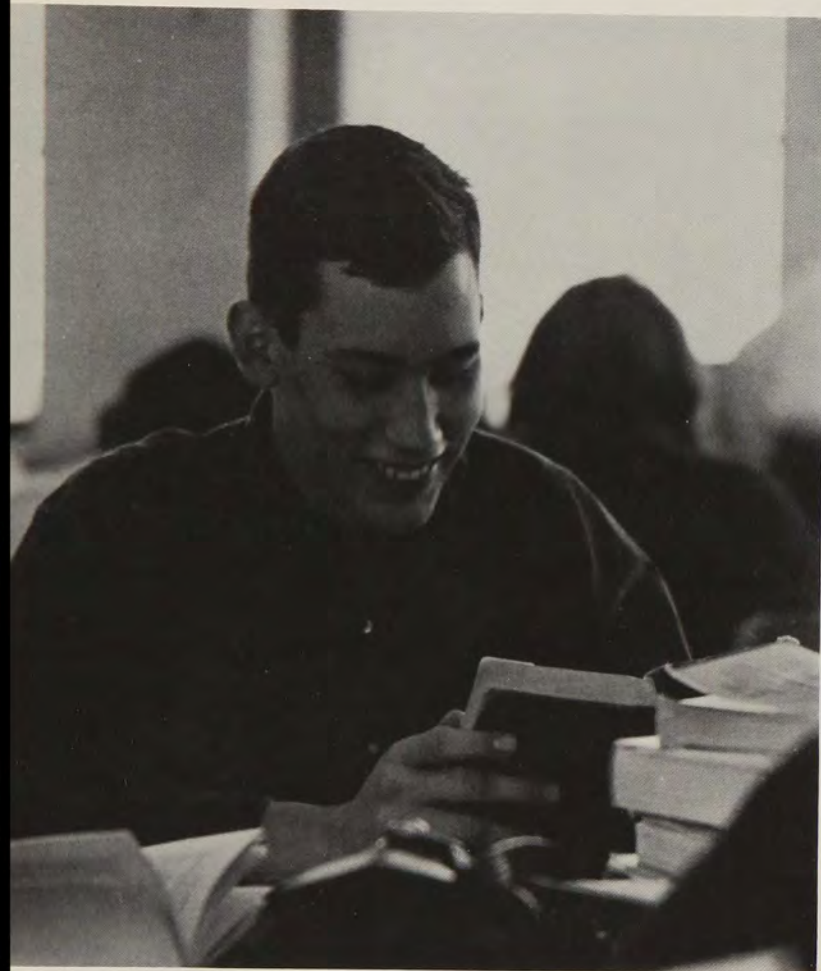

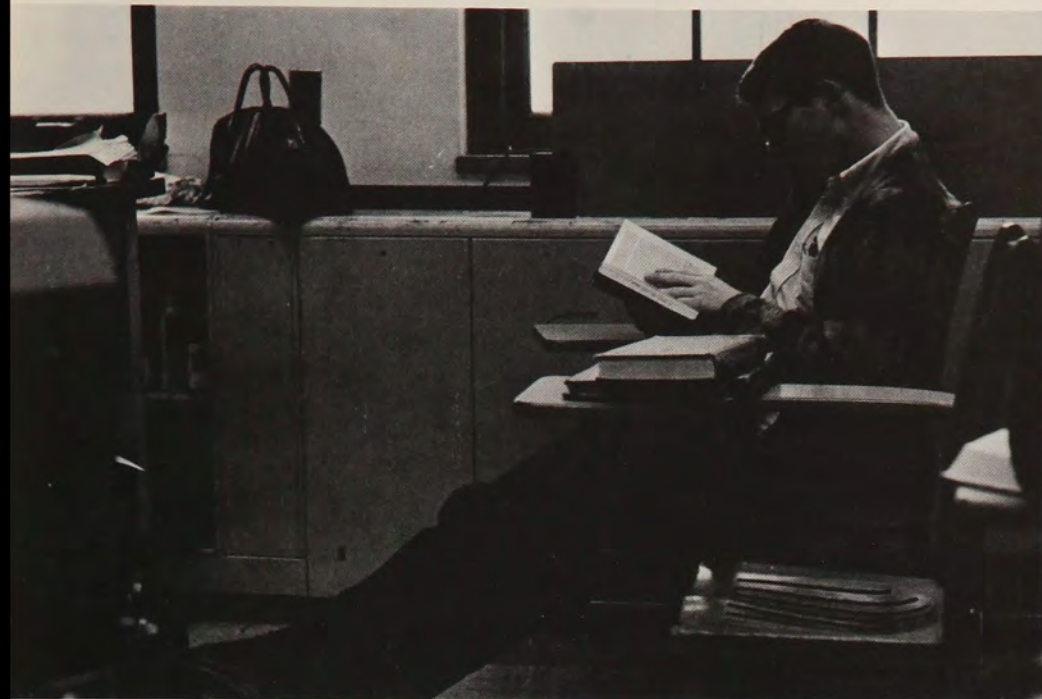

Harmony discovers common interests in apparent diversities.

In the flashing physical sparkle of an outstanding place or the inner light of an interesting individual, color adds beauty.

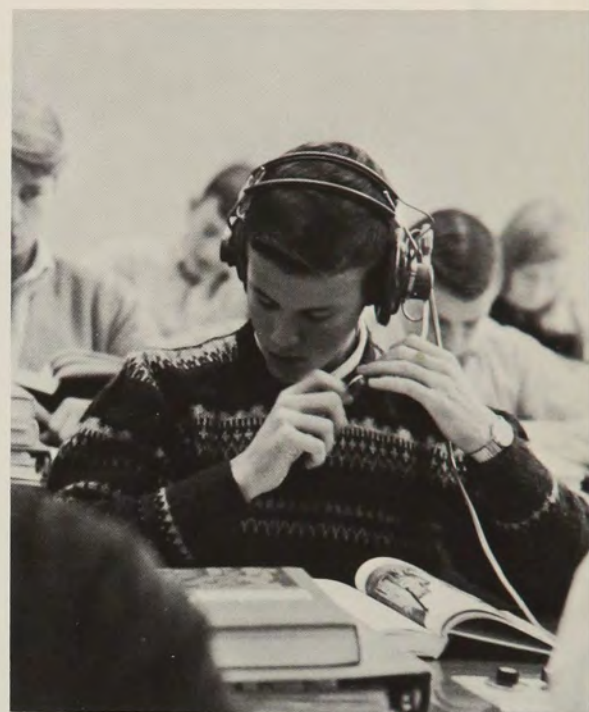

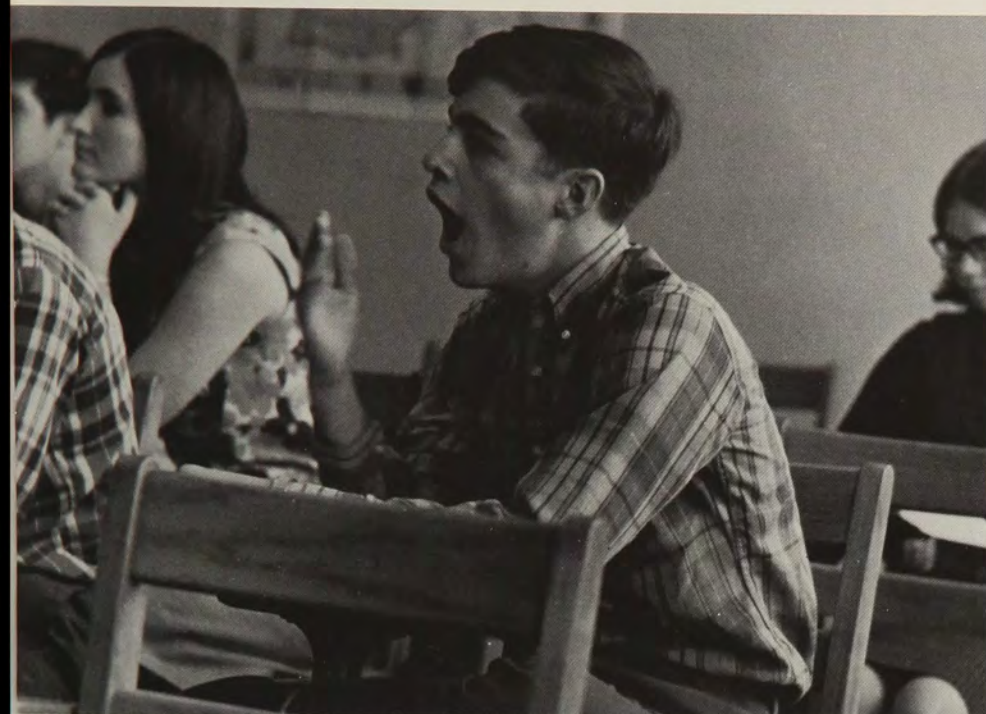

Accurate perspective and personal stability require a balance of academic and social activities.

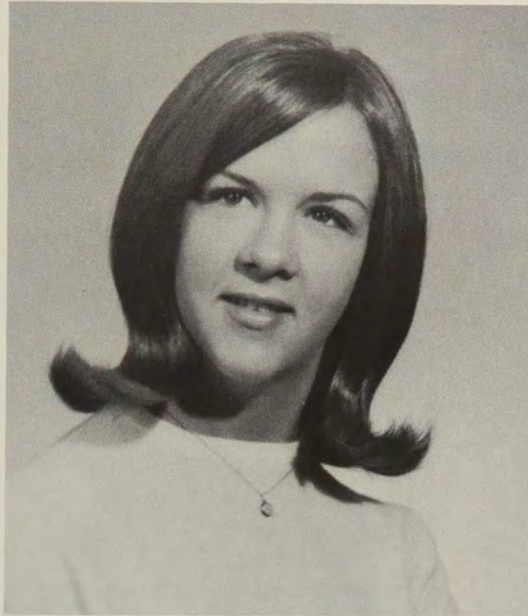

Repetition strengthens a weak frame of reference, enabling a creative spark to take the routine a step further.

IN MEMORIAM

Kathleen Jane Ritz

December 6, 1949
February 25, 1967

Lord, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console; to be understood, as to understand; to be loved, as to love; for it is in giving that we receive, it is in pardoning that we are pardoned, and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.

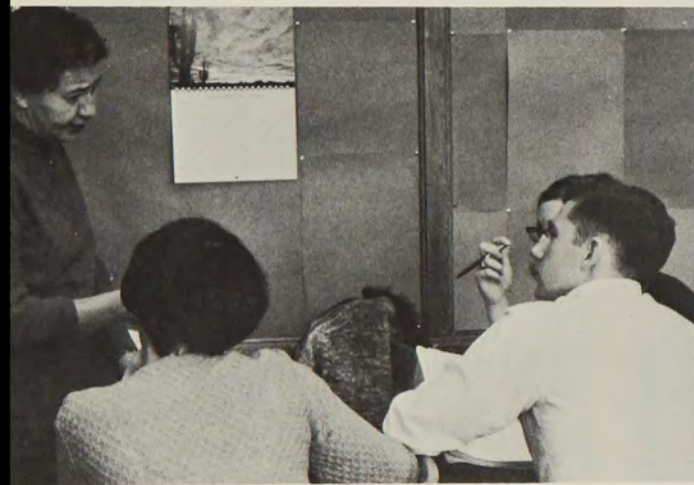

St. Francis of Assisi

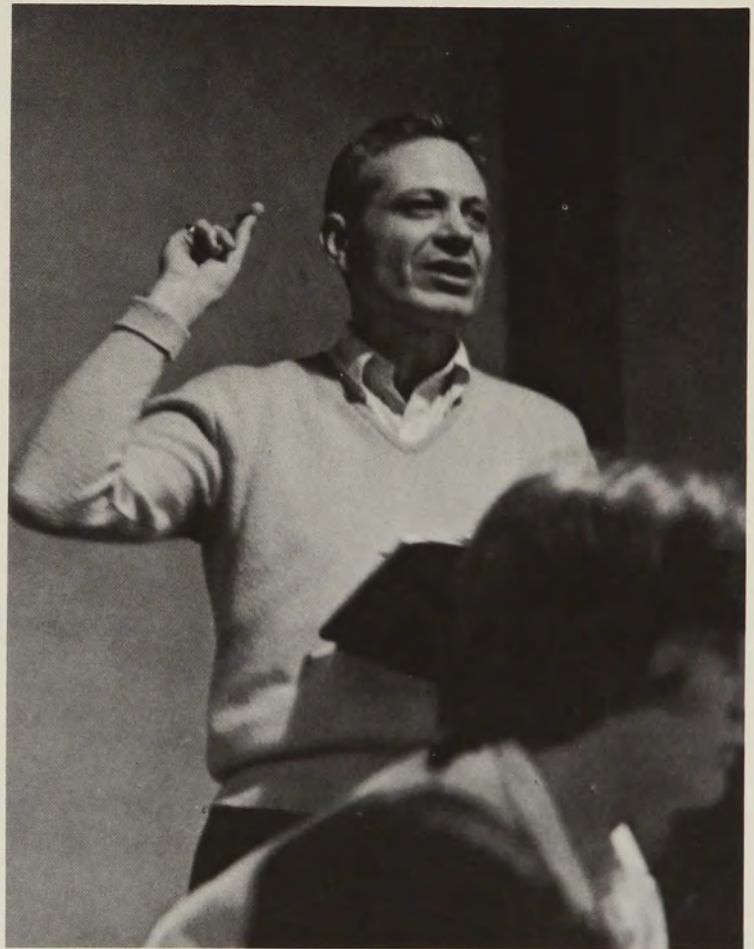

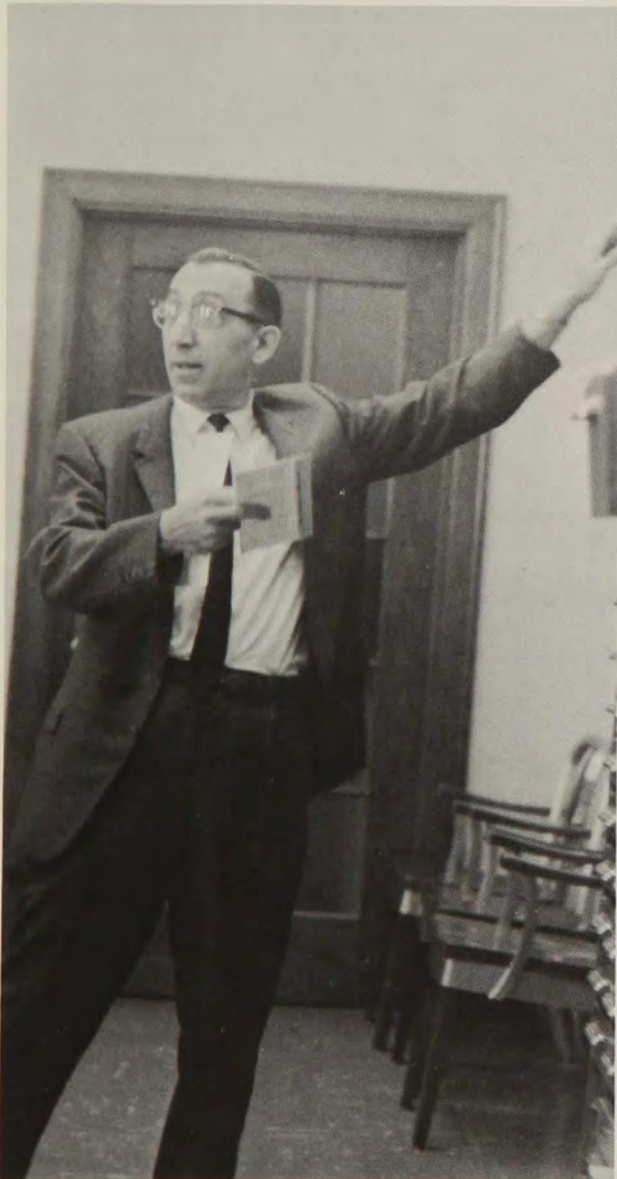

FACULTY

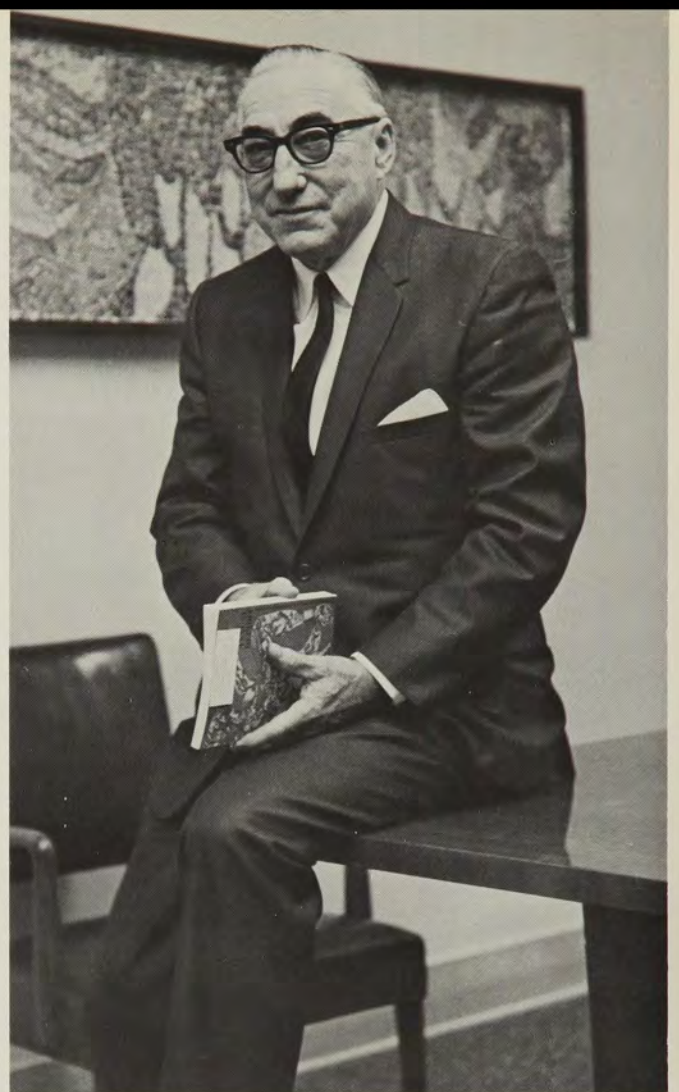

Dr. Floy Penn, director of instruction, evaluates educational innovations.

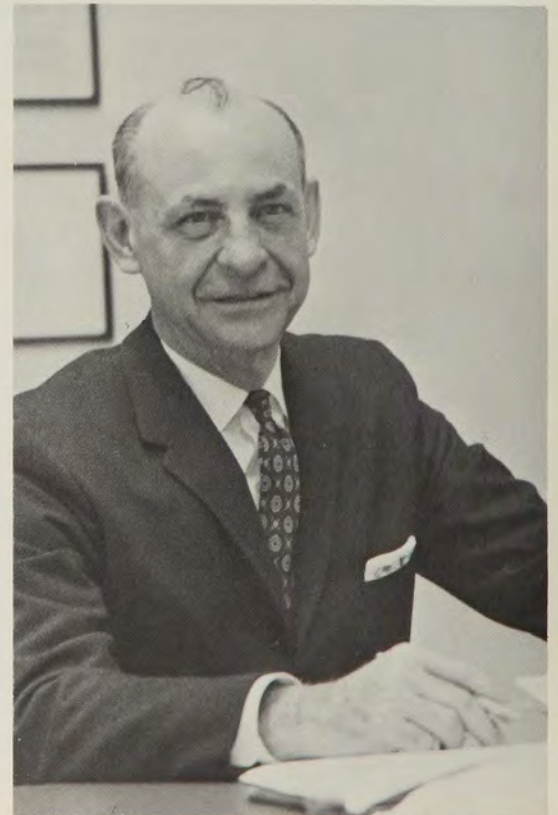

Dr. Ralph D. Horsman, superintendent of schools, supervises the direction of education in the school system.

The school board, working with the administration, determines school policy in Mt. Lebanon. Members include Miss Miriam Headley, secretary; Mr. Robert Dyson; Mr. Louis Stark, president; Mrs. Virginia Sherman, vice president; Dr. Ralph Horsman; Dr. Joseph Keifer; Mrs. June G. Cameron; Mr. John Dickinson; Mr. Eugene Maddex; Mr. Donald Bush; Mr. George Kessel; Mr. John Loos; and Dr. William Hall.

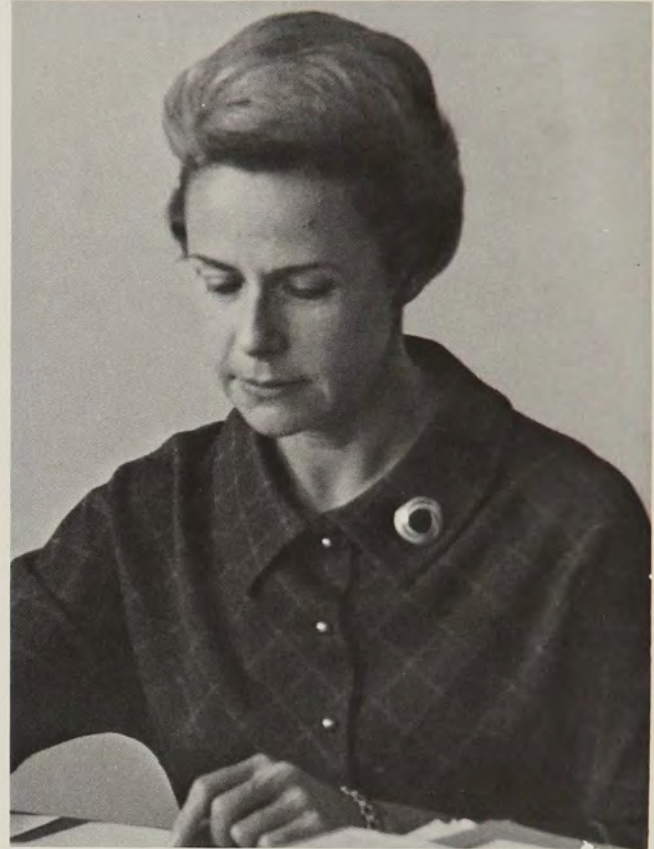

Dr. Joseph C. Keifer, assistant superintendent of schools, oversees the work of other administrators and directs the curricular program.

Miss Elizabeth A. Evans, vice-principal in charge of the academic curriculum, also heads the independent study program.

Principal Dr. Nelson Mills correlates and supervises the various phases of education at Mt. Lebanon High School.

Vice-principal Ralph W. McDermot directs scheduling as one of his administrative duties.

The administration co-ordinates the complex facets of a modern educational system. To maintain a program best adapted to the needs of students and faculty, the principals, superintendents, and school board members supervise scheduling, public relations, and school policy. The administration also considers changes in curriculum method, constantly striving to provide a progressive approach to education.

Home and school visitor Miss Ruth Gordon meets with parents to promote a close relationship between home and school.

Mr. D. Moore, school psychologist, appraises new vocational and academic testing procedures.

Three groups of faculty members devote their time and skills to working with students in areas outside those of the teaching faculty. The nurses treat minor injuries and keep health records. The guidance counselors help students select courses and colleges, while the activities directors sponsor Student Congress projects and club affairs. In performing such tasks, these people supplement the efforts of students, teachers, and administration.

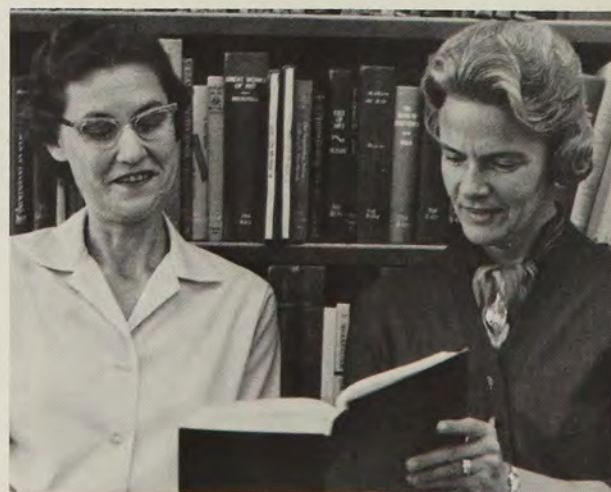

Administrative assistants Mr. Gene Shaffer, Mr. Allan Blacka, and Mr. John R. Ramsey distribute supplies to district schools and oversee building maintenance.

Secretaries Mrs. C. Rodgers, Mrs. B. Cassidy, Mrs. L. Gerhold, Mrs. M. Steffans, Mrs. F. Taylor, Mrs. R. Clatty, Miss R. Wass, and Mrs. J. Booth assist the administration by keeping precise student records.

Miss Fern High and Miss Patricia Croke manage the medical office and sponsor the school's chapter of the Future Nurses of America.

Librarians Miss Jean MacKinney and Mrs. Jane Kehoe order and catalogue books for students' use.

Mrs. Ferne Horne, director of guidance, maintains records of students' post-graduate activities.

Mrs. Elsie Cox and Mr. Basch assist sophomores in their adjustment to the high school.

Mrs. Irene Menges and Mr. Andrew Zeedick acquaint juniors with the opportunities available after graduation.

Activities director Miss Dorothy H. Grove oversees commencement and the extra-curricular activities program.

Senior counselors Mrs. Luella H. Caldwell and Mr. Joseph B. Price aid seniors in choosing a college.

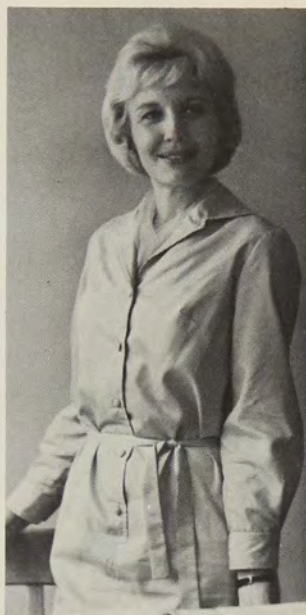

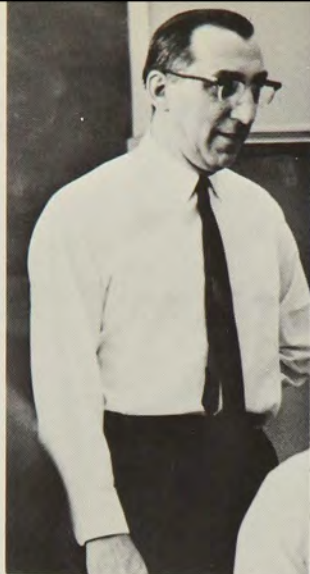

Mrs. Stephanie Broglie, assistant director of activities, compiles records of students' participation in committee and squad activities.

Miss Barbara J. Martina, speech therapist, helps students correct speech difficulties.

The English teacher guides the student in appreciating the meaning and techniques of literature, prerequisites to the clear expression of logical, perceptive thought. The study of such works as The Pearl, Moby Dick, and The Canterbury Tales enables students to survey literature of every period and genre. Lecturing on background material, provoking class discussion, and correcting compositions, the English teacher establishes a firm basis for the further exploration of literature.

The mastery of a language demands more than rote memorization and repetition. Besides conjugating verbs and learning conversational speech, the student must assimilate the culture of another people to fully understand the language he is learning. The language teacher, by introducing foreign concepts through works such as Vergil's Aeneid or Camus' L'Etranger, enhances international understanding while providing students with deeper insight into world literature.

Social studies teachers, by instilling an understanding of the dynamic forces underlying American or European history, connect names, dates, and facts. Through studies of world relations both past and present, students learn a variety of historical interpretations which serve as exercises in obtaining objective perspective. Thus, aided by the co-ordinator, the social studies teacher helps students analyze causal relationships to appreciate the legacy of the past and the possibilities for the future.

Whether explaining graphing techniques or developing a careful proof for the binomial theorem, the mathematics teacher gradually unifies a complex world of abstract thought into a body of practical knowledge. Courses offered in algebra, geometry, trigonometry, and calculus form a broad basis for college level mathematics or a career in business or science. Familiarity with the various methods of mathematical reasoning enlarges the student's capacity for logical thought.

Many electives offer students the opportunity to learn technical skills or pursue their creative interests. Participation in art, band, chorus, or orchestra enables students to enrich their cultural backgrounds as well as to develop their talents. The bookkeeping, shorthand, and typing courses emphasize practical knowledge important for business careers outside the high school. Other courses, such as wood shop, metal shop, and mechanical drawing, combine creativity with the useful techniques of applied mechanics.

Cafeteria assistants wash and stack the dishes.

Custodians regulate the temperature in the building.

Cafeteria workers dice eggs for egg salad.

The school custodians and kitchen staff promote sanitary conditions and maintain school property. The work of these two groups manifests itself not only in clinking trays and clean halls, but more importantly, in the efficiency and pleasantness added to the daily routine of students and faculty.

ACTIVITIES

Participants in Student Congress, Student Court, and the Advisory Council consider matters concerning the entire school as well as individual problems. Representatives elected to Congress from all grade levels express ideas on proposed projects and vote on the projects after appointed committees have thoroughly examined them.

To accomplish tasks such as raising funds for the American Field Service or filling Christmas stockings for Kane hospital, Congress members co-ordinate the efforts of the student body with the guidance of the faculty. In after school sessions, twelve peer judges selected for Student Court review the circumstances of pupil disciplinary problems. Advisory Council members, meeting with Dr. Mills, discuss school policy on issues such as the painting of the stadium.

A twelfth grade section organizes its Christmas project during a Thursday morning homeroom period.

Members of the Student Court including Chris Banerjee, Regina Kelly, Diane Miller, Natalie Martini, Marc Small, Robert Ruck, David Bankston, Dave Donahoe, Greg Carrington, and Jim Wholehan review out-of-orders.

Second semester Congress officers Ted Swisher, Tina Bauman, and Charlie Phillips read a student newspaper containing fund raising ideas for school projects.

Pete Marsh initiates a discussion concerning a traffic light at Cedar Blvd. and Mt. Lebanon Park.

Con Howe helps in painting the stadium, a first semester Student Congress project.

Mrs. Adamson, Dr. Mills, Mrs. Oelschlager, Mr. Mathias, David Fasulo, Ted Swisher, Alice LaRosa, Jack Howard, Arlene Cohen, and Sally Beidler of the Advisory Council meet to effect co-operation and understanding between the faculty, administration, and student body.

Vice-president Jane Ortner and secretary Judy Beachler record motions and minutes of a discussion led by president Con Howe.

For exceptional involvement in school activities, Gayla Kraetsch and Bruce Rosen were awarded activities guards. Not pictured are Jon Delano and David Donahoe.

Mary Rapp, Gayla Kraetsch, Pam Watts, Carolyn Additon, Chris Holland, Barb Hauss, Ron Frisch, Tom Stechschulte and Steve Hirsch earned activities keys at the end of their junior year by accumulating one hundred activities points. Missing from the picture are Tina Bauman, Karen Koegler, Pete Marsh, Karen Mikus, Barbara Schilberg, and Barry Wyerman.

Elected by members of the senior class, Candy Conrad was honored with the D.A.R. award.

The recipients of national and community awards win honors on the basis of noteworthy scholastic achievement, exemplary character, and initiative. In the National Merit competition, a measurement of academic achievement in all areas, eighteen Mt. Lebanon students placed as semi-finalists. Forty students whose grades consistently demonstrated high performance throughout their high school careers obtained membership in the Cum Laude Society. For those participating in extracurricular activities, the high school offers keys and guards in recognition of outstanding contributions of time and talent. For special athletic ability and character a senior girl received the Sportsmanship Award for Girls' Junior Tennis in Western Pennsylvania. The D.A.R. award honors one senior girl for academic excellence and outstanding citizenship.

The honor organizations at Mt. Lebanon High School, including the National Forensic League, Modern Music Masters, and the National Thespian Society, award membership to prominent students in their respective areas. National Forensic League members gain poise in public speaking, whether debating the various aspects of foreign aid or defending Ian Smith in parliamentary discussions. In addition, by meeting and talking with students from other high schools in Pittsburgh, Mt. Lebanon debaters exchange viewpoints with other students on many topics. Chapter 547 of Modern Music Masters admits students outstanding in chorus, orchestra, or band. Projects this year included a performance at a local rest home and monthly drawing room recitals. Students who earn one hundred points by acting or working backstage become members of the National Thespian Society. Members meet to discuss current trends in theater and technical aspects of theater production. Several trips to the Pittsburgh Playhouse and the troupe's presentation of the World of Carl Sandburg highlighted the year.

In the choral room, officers Marjie Harris, Mike Henderson, Marcie Fink, and Ellen Sargent open a Tri-M meeting.

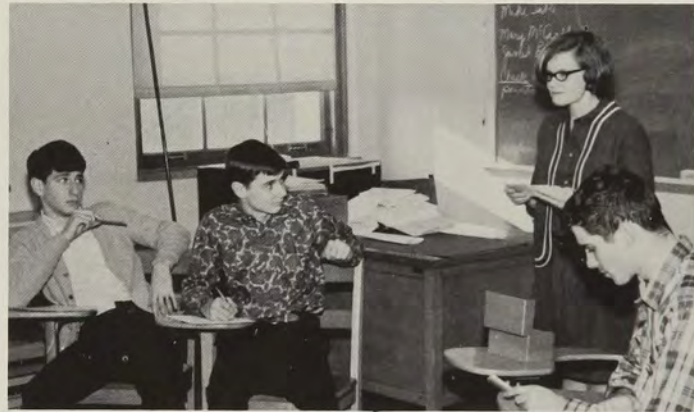

National Forensic League members Mary Rapp, Susie Parker, Mark Miller, Tina Bauman, Mindy Genstein, Jon Delano, and Carolyn Additon evaluate the tournament held at Mt. Lebanon.

Pam Watts, Carolyn Additon, and Karen Koegler, honored by membership to Quill and Scroll during their junior year, discuss new journalistic trends.

Beverly James, supported by her partner Greg Jones, delivers an affirmative rebuttal to the skeptical negative team, Robert Ruck and Ron Holroyd.

Thespians earning one hundred points at the close of last year include Bruce Rosen, Gayla Kraetsch, Cherie Amick, Ron Frisch, Cheryl Houser, Steve Shields, Charlie Wells, Susan Hirsch, Ted Kubiak, Greg MacIver, and Rob Finley.

Bonnie McDowell, Judy Brown, Kathy Grotevant, Sally Hankey, Valerie Gibbs, Georgia Kent, Tina Bauman, and Pam Schwartz, honor award committee members, determine and record activities points for all students.

The tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grade guidance councils, in conjunction with the Achievement Bulletin staff, the honor award committee, and the tutorial squad, recognize and stimulate student achievement. The guidance councils, composed of students selected from the three grades, plan two programs a semester designed for the specific needs of each grade level. The programs, planned by members of the guidance councils and presented by home room vice presidents, consider topics such as involvement in life or the problems of college planning. The Achievement Bulletin staff collects and distributes information about the accomplishments of students, faculty, and alumni.

Members of the honor award committee, by recording activities points, determine the key and guard awardees.

Saturday mornings, members of the tutorial squad help McKees Rocks grade school children complete their assignments and strengthen their understanding in weak areas of study.

Through responsible planning, these squads encourage student participation in school and community affairs.

Eleventh grade guidance council members Kyle McQuade, George Kincheloe, Marian Genstein, Bill Campbell, Jim Read, and Chris Haus organize programs to assist juniors' college selections.

Pam Watts, Katheline Kimmick, and Barbara Baird compile and type information concerning Mt. Lebanon students, faculty, and alumni for the Achievement Bulletin.

Carolyn Crothers, Pat Martin, Sally Colon, Ellen Barnhart, Nancy Parker, Judy Kanarek, Lynn Zimmerman, Paula Jennings, Margaret Fenton, Lynn Phillips, Nancy Nordurft, Kate Worcester, Sue Reed, Peggy Dillinger, Linda Prine, Tim Hoff, Anne Copeland, and Debbie Petoile, Mt. Lebanon students, tutor children in McKees Rocks on Saturday mornings.

Tenth grade guidance council members Doug Brindle, Ed Bleiberg, Charles Myers, Linda Sapienza, Scott Fields, Linda Simon, Denny Moore, and Debby Hamilton design programs to help sophomores adjust to high school.

Tutors Chris Rutherford and Kathy Nesbit use an educational game in a tutoring session.

Con Howe, Bruce Rosen, Carolyn Additon, Jon Delano, Pam Watts, and Debby Gratz of the senior guidance council, outline homeroom discussions concerning post-graduate plans.

Members of the bulletin board squad Mary Kay Tucker, Mary Lou Knuth, and Sue Thomas design decorative and informative bulletin boards for display around the school.

Members of the bulletin board, art, decorating, hospitality, and information squads, work to achieve an attractive setting in the high school. The bulletin board squad plans the displays in the first floor lobby, and the art squad brightens the halls with paintings borrowed from local art dealers and students. To create the appropriate atmosphere for dances, the decorating squad improvises in the gym with props, streamers, and lights. Members of the hospitality squad welcome new students and visitors, while the information squad guides them to requested rooms. In contributing their services, squad members get satisfaction from contact with their fellow students.

Student art committee members Linda Henry, Helen Mayers, Keith McDermott, Debbie Hutchinson, and Al Bollinger encourage interest in art by exhibiting paintings in the halls.

Students convert the gym into a Hawaiian scene for the Junior-Senior Prom.

Doug DeLong, Jessica Hallum, and Sally Younkens, members of the information squad, advise and direct visitors entering the high school.

Linda Gottschalk, Gigi Horn, Debby Lampert, Sonia Carande, and Donna Rubinoff, members of the decorating committee, trim the Christmas tree in the library.

Members of the hospitality squad Nancy Leathers, Virginia Ross, Dave Bitner, Doug DeLong, Rick Spangler, Nancy Bell, Kathy Peters, and Mary Jolly welcome visitors and new students to the high school and guide parents at Open House.

Marsha Lauterbach and editors Regina Kelly and Debby Fawcett confer in the Mounty office.

Mounty consultant Dave Donahoe chooses a holiday poster to brighten the publications office.

After careful selection, editing, and typing, Mounty editors Regina Kelly, Debby Fawcett, Rick Shields, Pete Sorg, Karen Koegler, Charles Schlotter, and Margie Darroch publish two issues of student literature.

The Mounty topped all previous subscription sales again this year, featuring as its campaign keynote Rob Sandberg's offer to run a mile for every copy sold over five hundred. By producing one comprehensive issue each semester, including a wide variety of poems, essays, stories, and plays, the Mounty provides a sounding board for student opinion and a channel for literary creativity. The editors, with the guidance of Miss Janice Mellinger, select and revise student work for publication. From perceptive satire to existential exploration, the Mounty reflects a broad spectrum of student talent and taste.

Bold heads and pertinent photos keynote the theme of major articles in monthly issues of the Lantern. To get the material for a typical issue, reporters interview people outstanding in different fields outside the school, as well as students who represent every facet of school life from sports to the foreign exchange program. The Lantern staff assembles articles, editorials, and photographs into attractive page spreads reproduced by a local printing firm. The Lantern also contains two supplements. The "Devilette", a mimeographed section, features entertaining student polls on topics such as current hair styles or famous ancestors. In contrast, the Roto, a national publication, presents informative articles on common teen-age interests and problems. With these two publications added to its regular format, the Lantern provides students with a cross section of news and opinions.

Editors Marno Doczy, Molly Youngling, Gayla Kraetsch, Pam Watts, Barb Baird, Bob Neuworth, and Karen Koegler consolidate news articles, editorials, and fiction for a Lantern issue.

"Devilette" editor Peggy Drake works closely with mimeographer Marie Paolicelli in issuing the "Devilette."

Marno Doczy, Jeanie Haney, and Karen Koegler set deadlines for Lantern articles.

Pam Schwartz, Roberta Chivers, Ricka Nassikas, Diane DuVall, Margaret Milnor, Ronna Jacobson, Donna Rubinoff, Ellen Sitomer, Terri James, Susie Parker, Barb Schilberg, Marjie Harris, Virginia Ross, John Tischuk, Dave Leland, John Heffernan, George McGunagle, Con Howe, Marcus Hallum, Kelly Bruckart, Malcolm Andrews, Francine Pattak, Leslie Kohman, Betty Gordon, Paul Humes, Gayla Kraetsch, Barb Yissat, Joyce Shoepner, and Lynn Walsh work on Log staffs.

Members of the sports staff and editors Keith Milton and Jon Delano balance a layout with various sports pictures.

Carolyn Additon, editor-in-chief, reflects the excitement of assembling a year-book.

Through imagination, hard work, and a combination of all their talents, the editors of the 1967 Log tried to create an artistically effective yearbook that would portray all sides of a diverse student body. Planning layouts, cropping pictures, and revising write-ups in a constant effort to meet deadlines represented only one aspect of producing the yearbook. Besides learning the techniques of pens, dip sticks, and "copy A" sheets, the editors, consulting nightly with their staffs, the editorial assistants, and faculty advisor Miss Jean Piroth, acquired an understanding of the problems and rewards of any dedicated group undertaking.

Log editorial assistants Mary Grummer, Marian Genstein, Thomasine Bartlett, Bill DeLeo, Caroline Crothers, Ron Holroyd, and Bob Ruck develop editorial skills while typing and captioning for the editors.

Students congregate in the publications office to work after school.

Producing the 1967 Log, the editors Keith Milton, Rick Spangler, Carolyn Additon, Jon Delano, Andee Hession, Doug Harding, Karen Mikus, and Ellen Baggott supervise and correlate the work of their respective staffs.

Managing yearbook finances, Log business editors Jeff Fisher and Gus Benedicty file financial reports.

Library squad members Sue Bower, Nancy Logan, Paula Favaro, Sharon Wenger, Margaret Milnor, Patty Welch, Mary Lou Hughes, Beth Lammert, Bonnie Spruill, and Debby Carr check, shelve, and card books.

Cafeteria dispatchers Georgia Clark and Sally Markgraf call classes to lunch at scheduled intervals.

Library assistants work at the check out desk after school, stamping books for students.

The various service squads supplement the daily routines of students and teachers. The lab squad checks, cleans, and repairs equipment from ringstands to lead-caked beakers. The squad may also prepare a special mixture of HCL_4 or set up a complex physics experiment. Medical squad members fill out routine forms and check supplies to help the nurse. By stamping books and locating reference materials for students, members of the library squad free librarians for the more important tasks of purchasing and cataloguing books. The attendance squad collects absentee sheets at the beginning of each period and helps the attendance office maintain accurate records. Cafeteria dispatchers call classes at scheduled intervals to prevent congestion in the cafeteria. With the donation of their time and practiced knowledge these squads facilitate the smooth functioning of school life.

Assisting the school nurses, Mary Waldron, Bonnie Frear, Martha Wolfensperger, Margie Darroch, Hanna McGeeney, Sandi Solomon, and Barb Vissat update student medical records.

Martha Auner, Jill Lamont, Natalie Martini, Sue Benson, Beverly Pasco, and Linda Mogab of the attendance squad collect attendance slips and type absentee lists.

By taking advantage of the resources and activities offered in various clubs, students can pursue individual interest and career possibilities. Future Nurses of America participants receive training in applied medicine when members visit and work at Kane Hospital. Similarly, students in Future Teachers of America practice teaching at community schools to further their exploration of special educational fields. Future Homemakers of America develop practical housekeeping skills while sponsoring bake sales. The Junior Classical League and the Spanish Club reinforce language study with movies and programs slanted toward cultural depth. The newly formed Student United Nations represents Poland and Nepal in the larger Western Pennsylvania organization, while chess club enthusiasts represent the school in interscholastic competition. Ski club members, skilled in safety precautions and skiing technique, enjoy weekend trips to Laurel Mountain resort. These organizations provide students with opportunities for relaxation and enrichment.

Ski committee members Louise Krugh, Bonnie Frear, Debby Davis, Jane White, Barb Dixon, and Sue Lyons return to the bus after skiing all day at Laurel.

Student United Nations members Sandee Rosecrans, Gail Ritchie, Ann Deering, Pam Schwartz, Kris Banerjee, Mary Sue Sweeney, Terry DeWolf, Marc Small, Rob Ruck, Jennifer King, and Debbie Cohen discuss U.N. procedure.

Junior Classical League officers Nancy Drozynski, Susie Parker, and Linda Sortino discuss articles to be sold at the flea market.

F.H.A. officers include Pat Conway, Sally Keisling, Mary Alice Whittier, and Lynn Stock.

Officers Bonnie Lingenfelter, Jackie Hawkins, Candy Conrad, and Judy Reynolds demonstrate hospital bed-making techniques for F.N.A. members.

In an after-school game Bruce Leverett, Greg Jones, Mike Kall, Marty Stern, and Gus Bardy plot strategy for future chess tournaments.

Future Teachers of America officers Louise Krugh, Nancy Parker, Betty Gordon, and Linda Loos organize the annual pot-luck dinner.

Officers Chuck Colver, Sharon Purvis, and Nancy Parker post items of interest to Spanish Club members.

The members of the opening exercises squad Diane Hixenbaugh, Laurie Marshall, Leslie Kohman, Steve Hirsch, Mary Rapp, Terri James, and Gayla Kraetsch present informative messages on Thursday mornings.

Members of the opening exercises squad, the studio announcing squad, the projection squad, the checkroom squad, and the boys' and girls' usher squads perform needed services for the school. The opening exercises squad introduces ideas on current problems every Thursday morning over the PA system. Each day, members of the studio announcing squad keep students informed of club and committee meetings, college interviews, and sports scores. Helping teachers to present new topics through films, the projection squad members learn the essentials of showing movies and running projectors. The boys' usher squad hosts afternoon auditorium programs, while the girl ushers, aided by the checkroom squad, help the audience enjoy evening performances. Displaying a responsible and pleasant attitude, students of these groups help both school and community.

Ann Heston, Maureen Shord, and Lynn Garvey, members of the checkroom squad, assist in checking coats at evening programs.

Ushers Joe Hall, Pete Marsh, Jim Beckwith, Ernie Thompson, Chip Gierhart, Doug Braun, and George McGunagle help seat and dismiss students in afternoon assemblies.

Mike Shapiro, Susan Sage, Jim Evans, Sue Zook, Jon Delano, Bruce Rosen, Rob Sandberg, John Nicklas, and Bob Ruck, studio announcers, present announcements and tapes for school organizations and projects.

Priscilla Gates concludes the morning broadcast with a thought for the day.

Projection squad members Doug Harding, Mike Dinning, Dave Jennis, Greg Merrill, Jose Pardo, Steve Anderson, and Robert Kobelak distribute films and show movies for teachers.

Penny, Ed, and Donald attempt to quiet Jane White, playing a drunken actress.

The play ends as Grandpa, played by Keith McDermott, gives thanks for the privilege of individuality.

Before the arrival of her dancing instructor, Lynn Walsh, as Essie, practices jumping while her husband Ed, Bruce Rosen, composes music on the xylophone.

At dress rehearsal, Mr. Myers clarifies curtain call directions for cast members Priscilla Gates, Mike Berry, Eric Plotts, Bruce DuPré, Suzanne Zwinggi, Ted Kubiak, Keith McDermott, Jim McKee, Cheryl Houser, Bruce Rosen, Lynn Walsh, Dan McKinley, and Diane Hixenbaugh.

Korsakov, played by Bruce DuPré, demonstrates his wrestling hobby by pinning Dan McKinley, as Mr. Kirby, to the floor.

Eric Plotts, Mr. DePinna, ruefully admits his loss of hair has changed his appearance from that in his portrait.

Priscilla Gates, as Rheba, laughs at Korsakov's offer to make her a ballet star.

Moss Hart's You Can't Take it With

You, this year's senior class production, depicts the problems of the carefree, eccentric McCoys. A conflict develops when a boy with a conventional background courts a daughter in the family. In the hilarious denouement the boy's father recognizes the authenticity of the McCoys' whimsical philosophy. Directed by Julian T. Myers, the play starred Keith McDermott, Suzanne Zwinggi, Cheryl Houser, and Jim McKee, with a supporting cast of nearly twenty other seniors. Performances on November 12 and 13 fulfilled the anticipation of five weeks' rehearsal and preparation.

Penny McCoy, played by Suzanne Zwinggi, entertains the unexpected Kirby family with a disastrous word association game.

The Fantasticks, the 1966 all-school play, starred

Cheryl Houser, Ted Kubiak and Rick Wolfe. To encourage their children's relationship, two fathers feign a quarrel with the construction of a brick wall between their adjoining properties and plan an abduction. The young boy and girl, disillusioned by the deception of their parents, escape to the dream world of El Gallo. Narrator Rick Wolfe, as El Gallo, purposely destroys the lovers' confidence in him to make them realize the value of the lives they have abandoned. The theme song, "Try to Remember," heightened the impact of the spring performance directed by Julian T. Myers, faculty advisor, and Sharon Latchaw, student director.

Backstage, Bruce Rosen and Rick Wolfe memorize lines before rehearsal.

Still dressed as Luisa and El Gallo, Cheryl Houser and Rick Wolfe enjoy the cast party.

After the final performance of the Fantasticks, Cheryl Houser shares her roses with cast members Tom Remington, John Bosley, Pete Marsh, Reed Woodhouse, Evie Strom, Sharon Latchaw, Barry Bronson, Tom Aberant, Dan McGeary, Bruce Rosen, Rick Wolfe, and Ted Kubiak.

Cheryl Houser exhorts the world to "Let a joy kill you."

In The World of Carl Sandburg, the fall Thespian show, twelve students recited some of the poet's best lyrics. Through folk music, dialogue and verse the actors conveyed the author's personality as well as his poetic ability. The audience participated in singing tunes from Sandburg's Songbag and heard both published and unpublished poems depicting the various stages of man's life from birth to death. Professional use of spotlights added to the effectiveness of the inspirational theater-in-the-round performance.

Keith McDermott, Jim McKee, Bruce Rosen, Dan McKinley, and Bruce DuPré provide a rhythmical background as Gayla Kraetsch echoes, "The machine, yes, the machine."

Ricka Nassikas, Laurie Marshall, Cheryl Houser, and Bruce Rosen join in singing as Jim McKee opens the program with a folk tune from Sandburg's Songbag.

Singing "Down by the Riverside," Laurie Marshall dispenses peace and love as she shakes "hands around the world" with Bruce DuPré, Dan McKinley, and Michelle Belluomini.

Various organizations work together in the weeks and final minutes preceding any high school dramatic production to unify the backstage facets of the theater into an artistic whole. The stage crew acts as a liaison between the lighting, sound, and scenery squads. Members of these squads create settings, backdrops, and special effects designed to enhance each stage presentation. The properties committee helps to locate obscure or unusual items necessary for a realistic production. With the careful application of cosmetics and the fashioning of an appropriate wardrobe, the make-up and costume committees prepare characters for stage roles. These six student organizations learn the methods of the professional theater while making an invaluable contribution to the success of Mt. Lebanon High School performances.

Ron Frisch co-ordinates lights and curtains by reading stage directions to crew members Steve Shields, Charlie Wells, Ray Carlin, and Rob Finley.

On stage, Kathy Getz, Gale Weaver, Ruth Ann Dunker, Linda Calland, Leslie Butler, and Krista Happe of the properties committee, hurriedly change a table setting for the next scene.

Barb Dixon pencils on eyeliner to emphasize Jane White's features.

Using grease paint and powder, make-up committee members Jane Murray, Vicki Linge, Jill Taylor, Sue Hirsh, Candy Conrad, and Chris Holland prepare Gayla Kraetsch and Laurie Marshall for brilliant stage lights.

After You Can't Take It With You, Gayla Kraetsch, Mary Rapp, Louise Krugh, Debbie Davis, Peggy Dorrell, and Bonnie Barber mend costumes before packing them away.

Scenery committee members design wall paper for the set in You Can't Take It With You.

Clarinetists Lowell Meek and Sherry Barber concentrate on a difficult score.

To prepare for its two April performances, the high school orchestra practices daily from September through spring. Mr. Arthur Yagello's critical guidance unifies the technique and refines the tone of the brass, percussion, woodwind, and string sections. After playing at the annual Spring Concert and auditorium program, the orchestra performed for the first time at Monroeville High School. At this event four high schools performed together and individually. The orchestra's diverse format included works such as "Pique Dame," by F. von Suppé, and selections from The Comedians Suite, by Kobalevsky. This year the orchestra broadened its musical scope to further its artistic success.

Elizabeth Drake develops a flowing theme by playing a muted violin.

Bill Martin, Dave Ferguson, Warren Hickey, Steve Delano, Pam Schwartz, and Mary Ann Walther of the brass section relax after practicing a complex instrumentation.

Mr. Yagello directs a practice for the Christmas program as orchestra secretary Diane MacLean listens.

Woodwind section members Jackie Archer, Sue Hudson, Maris Peters, Pat Shaw, Anne Heston, Marcie Fink, Marjie Harris, Rick Shields, Lowell Meek, Sherry Barber, Jeannette Davies, and Jim Andrews wait to rehearse musical numbers for the Spring Concert.

Martha Coughanour and Susan Dahlman harmonize with piano accompaniment.

The mixed chorus studies a wide range of music in depth. In their work with numbers such as "The Doe" from Six Chonsons and the spirited "Americana," chorus members, directed by Miss May K. Sneary, concentrate on technique as the means of interpretation. Gradually, the chorus develops a harmonized blend of voices, enabling it to perform operettas, arias, and popular songs successfully. After weeks of rehearsal, the Spring Musicale in May gives the chorus the opportunity to display its talent and training.

Miss Sneary directs mixed chorus members to their places on risers in the auditorium.

Linda Forrester, Liz Cheney, Cheryl Houser, Mary Jolly, Pat Scoggins, Debbie Fitzgibbons, Molly Youngling, Ann Bronson, Suzanne Zwinggi, Gail Holben, and Bonnie Hazlett of the Triple Trio perfect their program for a Rotary luncheon.

At a dress rehearsal, mixed chorus members practice choir numbers for the Christmas Program. Members include FRONT ROW: C. Mager, L. Forrester, S. Lieberman, A. Cohen, S. Kalson, J. Swisher, P. Close. ROW 2: L. Cheney, B. Hazlett, W. Duda, J. Graftan, C. Swinney, E. Koury, D. Deady, D. Gray, C. Amick, L. Charnell, C. Hamilton, G. Holben, G. Krofcheck. ROW 3: A. Deering, P. Andres, K. Harris, B. Perrin, P. Crosby, B. Baird, W. Spooner, C. Smith, D. Carlson, M. Youngling, P. Scoggins, M. Jolly, A. Bronson, S. Zwinggi, L. Kowallis. ROW 4: C. Houser, G. Woodhouse, N. Morrow, S. Hamilton, D. Fitzgibbons, S. Amdur, T. Kubiak, R. Gray, J. Weise, P. Tieman, N. Auner, M. Brown, S. Davis, J. Laros, D. Hackenberg, L. Tilton. ROW 5: M. Morton, K. Pidgeon, D. Leitch, J. Gray, P. Franke, A. Novak, J. Dietrich, D. Sharrow, G. Paterson, T. Waters, W. Llewellyn, K. Johnston, J.

Playing their French horns, Rob Coho, Jack Westerman, and Mary Cathey rehearse during activities period, Tuesday morning.

In formation, the band plays "Tijuana Taxi" for its T.J.B. show.

Under the direction of Mr. Louis A. Scarci, the Mt. Lebanon High School Band exhibited professional showmanship and responsibility. Through hours of practice beginning in the second week in August, the band maintained its reputation as a colorful, well-trained marching unit. The Tijuana trumpet formation, the theme of "A Taste of Honey," and the drum roll at kickoff time highlighted the strong school spirit evident during the football season. On New Year's Day, the blue and gold marched in the Cotton Bowl Parade at Dallas, making the Mt. Lebanon Band one of the few high school bands ever to participate in all three major bowl parades. The successful Spring Concert concluded an entertaining season.

Cindy Gray practices a flute score for the Spring Concert.

The brass section plays the half-time show at Pitt Stadium for the W.P.I.A.L. play-off game.

Members of the band include B. Adair, D. Allen, M. Andrews, S. Asmond, P. Baker, M. Berry, J. Berwanger, E. Bleiberg, C. Bohden, K. Bombik, P. Bower, G. Bradley, C. Brantley, T. Brett, T. Rockettes march along the three mile route of the Cotton Bowl parade.

Rockettes mark time before dancing to the "Lonely Bull."

Facing downfield, Rockettes stand at attention on the thirty-yard line.

Mr. Scarci and Mr. Duda watch the remaining minutes of the first half before positioning Rockette and band members at the goal line.

The steady tempo of the Rockettes' street beat focalizes half-time spirit at football games throughout the autumn season. The Majorettes, in the delicate balance of their baton twirling, exemplify the precision of the rhythmical drills which the Rockettes perform. To the jazz-orchestral sound of the Pink Panther, the Rockettes march through a variety of formations that include the double crisscross whip and the zigzag. With a combination of enthusiasm and practice, they have earned a reputation as one of the most colorful marching groups in the area. Faculty advisors Mr. Scarci and Mr. Duda co-ordinate the Rockettes and Majorettes with the band to create a half-time ceremony complementing the other achievements of a memorable season.

Majorettes Jane Harter and Gina Meade lead the band and Rockettes onto the field for the half-time show.

At sports events and assemblies, members of the scoreboard squad, the parking squad, the sportscasters, the ways and means squad, and the ticket takers aid students through responsible effort. The scoreboard squad posts point totals at football and basketball games, while the sportscasters give a running account of the action. The ticket takers work at the gates before games. Members of the parking squad guide traffic and facilitate parking at all school events. To help raise money for Student Congress projects, the ways and means squad sells candy at games and after school. These squads give willing students the opportunity to perform necessary services for the school.

Members of the ways and means squad Bruce McIlhenny, Dennis Cover, Pete Nicholson, Tim Tumas, Randy Freas, and Ernie Thompson sell refreshments at home football games.

Ways and means squad members Peggy Winschel, Jane Barnes, Carol Cantalupo, Gail Paterson, Marie Paolicelli, Marylou Hamen, and Debby Can sell refreshments and programs at home football games.

Terry Lenhart and Greg Gearhart collect tickets at home games.

Mt. Lebanon sportscasters John Nicklas, Bruce Rosen, and Steve Hirsch relate field plays to the spectators.

Members of the parking lot squad John Feinstein, Jim Kiefer, Richard Birney, Jim McKee, Brad May, and Bob McKee direct traffic at high school activities and athletic events.

Robert Finley, Charles Wells, Bob Meyer, and Dale Reece of the scoreboard squad tabulate the score and relay score changes.

Through pep rallies, color days, and P.A.

announcements, the varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders, aided by the Blue Devils and Pep Club members, promote the success of Mt. Lebanon's athletic teams. The cheerleaders' precision formations and practiced chants inspire a competitive spirit and the full support of an enthusiastic crowd. Blue Devils Gayla Kraetsch and Donna Teodori also exhort enthusiasm for the team with signs and zany antics among the fans in the bleachers. The Pep Club chairmen Pat Kramer and Leslie Anderson lead the flashing of red and white cards with which members of the Pep Club greet visiting opponents. The lettermen of the Varsity Service Club accept new trophies for the school and maintain the trophy cases in the Hall of Champions. All of these organizations encourage participation and sportsmanship in school athletic events.

Spirited varsity cheerleaders Judy Beachler, Kay Ritz, Jane Ortner, Nancy Kirby, Paula McCallum, Jackie Hawkins, Terri McCully, Sally Beidler, and Nancy Collins generate excitement and enthusiasm at athletic events.

With a roar, the crowd rises as Lebo players score a touchdown.

Tension mounts in the final seconds of a wrestling match.

Cheerleaders Janet Rubinoff, Dianne Schwager, Gail Lohman, Debby Wyatt, Lee Calkins, Kim Souder, Debby Milo, Janis Pozzi, and Katie McGeeney rally support for junior varsity teams.

Blue Devil Gayla Kraetsch charges ahead of Lebo football players as they emerge from the locker room after half-time.

Capturing the coveted W.P.I.A.L. championship, the Blue Devils

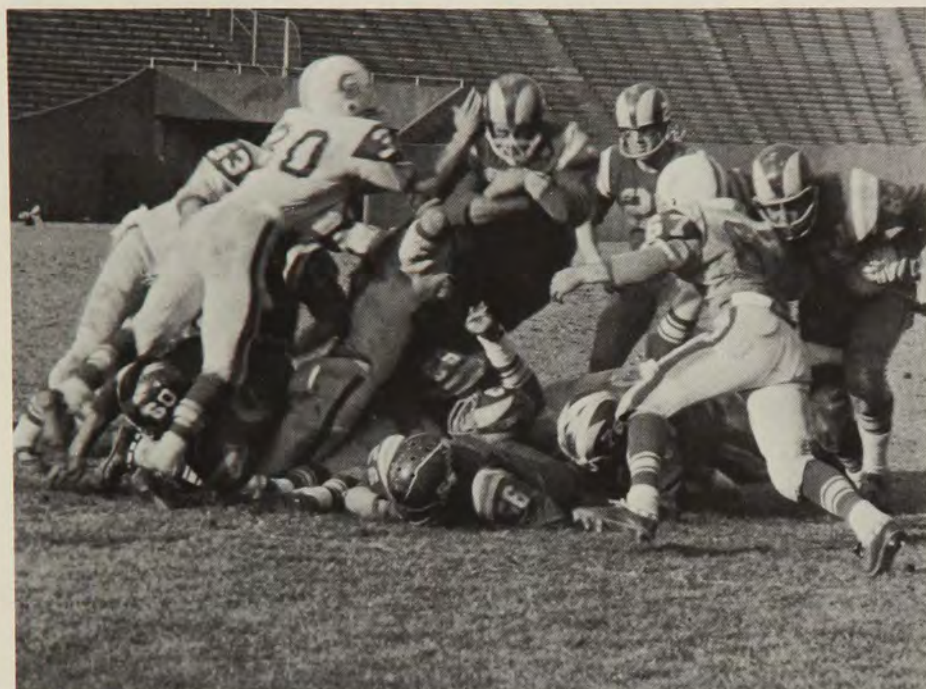

compiled a flawless 10-0 record in the best football season in Lebo history. Fourteen thousand spectators saw Mt. Lebanon High School come from behind to defeat Hempfield High School by the score of 18 to 14 at Pitt Stadium. Previous highlights of the season included the 45-0 romp over Uniontown, the defending W.P.I.A.L. champion, and the 14-0 thriller with Bethel, in which neither team scored until the fourth quarter. The team's Western Conference and W.P.I.A.L. hopes rested on the outcome of the Baldwin game, and a record crowd of 13,000 at the high school stadium watched the Blue Devils defeat the Highlanders, 27-6. Under the direction of Head Coach Ralph Fife, the varsity squad's potent wing offense gained yard after yard with its ground game, with senior Steve Foster and junior Vince Russo carrying for most of Mt. Lebanon's touchdowns. When the team needed long yardage, quarterback Gary Sawhill threw passes to Tom Stechschulte and Bob Seiferth. The defensive unit, led by Vic Surma and Jack Mathison at guard, gave up only one touchdown throughout the regular season. The tribute assembly to Coach Fife and the football team concluded the 1966 season on a triumphant note of personal and team achievement.

The bench despairs as Hempfield increases their early lead.

Heading for the sidelines, Steve Foster cuts downfield.

Vince Russo plunges into the Hempfield line for a first down.

The late maturing talents of many Mounties, plus the fine showing of several runners new to the varsity, sparked the Mt. Lebanon cross country team to a strong late season finish. After losing an early season meet with Bethel, the team increased its margin of victory in each successive meet as the season progressed. The team's improved form and coordination enabled it to take second place in the Follensbee Invitational Meet and seventh place in the W.P.I.A.L. championship meet. Mike Nolan paced the Harriers, bettering the Mt. Lebanon High School home course record and the course record at the Mountaineer Invitational. As his most outstanding achievement, Mike Nolan captured a fifth in the State Cross Country Finals. Dave McCarty, a sophomore, and juniors Dale Frayer and Dave Helwig all performed consistently as freshman runners. Seniors Rob Sandberg and Tom Battaglia returned to the form they displayed last year in the second half of the season to contribute to the team's excellent 5-1 record.

For the seventh consecutive season, Coach Dick Black's Mounty roundballers captured the section title in the W.P.I.A.L. after tough sectional competition. The Blue

Devils edged Bethel twice by two-point margins, compiling a flawless 14-0 sectional record. Going into the W.P.I.A.L. playoff games, Mt. Lebanon had lost only one game, a one point defeat inflicted by Uniontown in a non-league game. After drawing a bye, the Blue Devils triumphed over West Mifflin North in the quarter finals. Then, in a thrilling triple overtime, Mt. Lebanon shaded a fighting Laurel Highlands team 82-75 to advance to the final round. Although Ambridge defeated the Blue Devils, the spirit of Mt. Lebanon fans remained at a high pitch until the last buzzer sounded. The team played a tight defensive game all season and exhibited unusual bench strength as injuries hampered starters John Valentour, Gary Brown, and Don Porter during the second half of the campaign. Jim Haney, high point scorer, Vic Surma, leading rebounder, and Tom Stechschulte also contributed to the Mounty's outstanding ball control and team balance. The 1967 basketball team finished the season with an excellent 24-2 record.

Rex Bennett turns to avoid an oncoming opponent.

Chris Douglass performs an open back flip in diving competition.

The potential of the 1967 swimming team became evident when it captured second place in the tough Grove City College Invitational. Despite the overall 3-7 team record, several individuals formed the nucleus for depth and consistency as the season progressed. All American Dick Rydze remained undefeated in diving competition. He set a new W.P.I.A.L. diving mark and totaled 97.04 points in one meet, more than anyone had accumulated previously. Dick Rydze and Nick Douglass, the diving relay team, and the 200 yard medley relay team composed of Andy Weisbrod, Nick Douglass, Bill Bruegmann, and Wally Coles continued to the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association finals. The medley relay team set a new western regional mark in this event with a time of 1:43.4. Coach William Grant, aided by diving instructor Mr. Will Saunders, paced the training of the team and directed the talent of individuals in mastering the many swimming strokes and dives.

An experienced 1967 gymnastics team finished the dual meet season with three victories and three defeats in which the Mt. Lebanon squad trailed by less than four points. The team took third place at the Western Pennsylvania Gymnastics Meet and fifth place at the Pennsylvania State High School Gymnastics Meet. Senior co-captains Pete Sorg and Ed Taylor paced their team members and aptly practiced Coach James Dally's instructions on graceful form and disciplined balance. Pete specialized in the rings and the parallel bars to amass the highest individual point total in sectional competition. Other outstanding competitors included Neil Frick on the sidehorse, John Schweinsberg on the still rings, John Tischuk, Pat Lawrence, and Lowell Meek in the free exercise event, and John Kazenjian on the long horse.

Co-captain Pete Sorg executes an iron cross on the still rings.

Senior Gary Sawhill vaults over the long horse.

Winning the Section I Championship for the fifth consecutive year, the Mt. Lebanon wrestling team compiled an impressive 12-2 record. Only Waynesburg and Canon-McMillan defeated the Blue Devil grapplers in closely contested dual season meets. Coach George Lamprinakos guided the team to its 30-15 decisive victory over rival Trinity. In the Western Conference Christmas Tournament, Mt. Lebanon finished a strong second. Dick Herrington, Bob Neuworth, Ted Swisher, and Alan Walker utilized a knowledge of wrestling holds to achieve individual records during the season. In the sectional finals at the conclusion of the 1967 season, Mt. Lebanon wrestlers triumphed in eight out of thirteen weight divisions.

Wrestling in the unlimited weight class, Tom Montgomery struggles for the take-down.

Coaches Richard Jones and George Lamprinakos study the progress of a decisive match.

Accuracy and a thorough knowledge of equipment characterized the goals of the 1967 rifle team. Coach John Neal supplied the technical information to team members who strove to polish individual shooting skills every night after school. The Mounty sharpshooters posted a successful 6-2 record losing disappointing matches to Munhall, one of Mt. Lebanon's toughest rivals. Seniors Lynn Garvey, Anne Heston, Marty Ackenheil, and junior Nancy Leathers achieved an outstanding degree of precision marksmanship.

Tom Broderick takes a practice swing before playing the ninth hole.

Under Coach Ralph Fife, the 1966 Mt. Lebanon golf team combined straight soaring drives and precise putting to finish a close second in section five W.P.I.A.L. competition. In the most exciting game of the season, the Mounties defeated the eventual section five winner, Bethel, by the decisive score of 12-4, the only loss inflicted on Bethel in regular season play. Tom Broderick, a junior, and Norm Gustafson, a senior, consistently defeated their individual opponents to lead the team to its successful 8-2 performance.

Rick Ban lines up his putt before attempting a birdie.

Versatility and individual proficiency keynoted the 1966 Mt. Lebanon track team. The Blue Devils finished third in four different meets, the Mt. Lebanon Invitational, the W.P.I.A.L. relays, and two tri-state meets, under the coaching of Mr. Donley Mollenauer. The talents of runners Mike Nolan and Jack Brownlee in the 220 dash, Don Carlson in the 440 dash, and Jim Orr and Tom Stechschulte in the 880 dash and mile run brought numerous laurels to the Mounty team in track events. In field events, Gary Sawhill in pole vaulting, Vic Surma in the discus throw, and John Valentour in the javelin, contributed to the depth of the Mounties' participation in every meet. A highlight of the season occurred when Mt. Lebanon swept the Canon-McMillan relays on its home field. In Class A, W.P.I.A.L. Section I competition, the 1966 track team posted a 3-3 record.

The 1966 tennis team, coached by Mr.

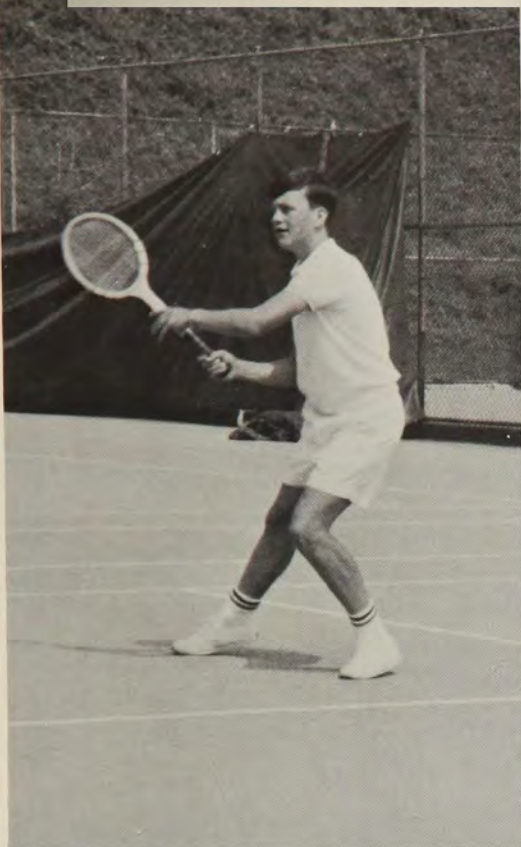

Victor Doak, got off to a fast start by capturing its first five matches, and continued to hold school interest for the remainder of the season. Seniors Frank Willison and Tom Remington paced the Mounty team with their excellent serving and ball control. Juniors Les Dundics, John Schweinsberg, and Jeff Dietrich captured the initiative from opponents by utilizing swift, powerful forehands. Taking second place in Section Two W.P.I.A.L. play, behind West Mifflin North, the Mounty netmen compiled a strong season mark of nine wins and five losses.

Despite poor weather and an unusual number of injuries, the 1966 Mounty baseball team lost only one game by more than two runs in charting a 4-7 season mark. Under the coaching of Mercer Clark and Steven Formento, seniors Bob Altman and Wayne Porter totaled the most RBI's, while Marc Hallum and Wayne Porter compiled the highest slugging percentages. Junior Graham Carter hurled a 3-0 no-hitter against Snowden, the highlight of a series of strong mound performances by Graham, Steve Nickenig, and Jack Kime. The hard-fought, low scoring nature of such contests kept Lebo fans following the fortunes of the team throughout the spring.

The boys' homeroom basketball tournament provided keen competition and recreation for any boy who wished to participate. Brian Harrison's team defeated Mike Robinson's team to finish the intramural season with a flawless 6-0 record. In the spring, homerooms formed co-ed volleyball teams which they named after popular singing groups. In addition to the friendship these games fostered, all teams developed a sense of teamwork and sportsmanship.

activities of physical and mental benefit to all participants. A picnic, attended by over three hundred girls, highlighted the opening of the G.A.A. year. The Leaders' club, staffed by G.A.A. members outstanding in sports and scholastic ability, plans and referees tournaments in kickball, volleyball, basketball, bowling, and tennis. On the basis of involvement in athletic competition, members receive awards recognizing their contributions to the G.A.A. organization and their outstanding sportsmanship.

In its second year of competition, the girls' interscholastic sports program, co-ordinated by Miss Donna Shaver, offered three new sports. Besides basketball, track, swimming, and gymnastics, girls could choose to participate in tennis, golf, or volleyball. The new teams, as well as those formed last year, accumulated records that exceeded the expectations of the inexperienced players. Liz Kowallis and Carolyn English, co-captains of the swimming team, exhibited a strong free style which led the team to victories over Churchill and Munhall. In basketball, Mary Cathey and Sue Zook led the rebounding and point making as the team compiled a 4-4 record. Participants in tennis, gymnastics, track, and golf strove to overcome the handicap of inexperience in the tough competition with a combination of spirit, sportsmanship, and a willingness to learn.

For the sophomore especially, the first few weeks of high school involve unforeseen difficulties—hopelessly confused schedules, endless lunch lines, congested stairways—and as yet undefined challenges. But gradually the desire for achievement couples with a feeling of direction, and the sophomore develops mature judgment. He reconciles the demands of second period math and fifth period English; decides whether to join a publication or a varsity sport; chooses between a Friday night football game and a play rehearsal. All the competing activities and fresh responsibilities resolve themselves into a pattern created by the sophomore's sudden sense of awareness.

The junior seeks to use his newly assembled patchwork of observation and experience to improve a world of growing dimensions. Meanings jell, assume importance, and grow. A formula learned in math yields the key to a chemical analysis. The theory of gasoline engines becomes more than theory in the process of learning to drive. By questioning an idea on transcendentalism, criticizing the voting procedures for Student Congress officers, or examining his own talent, the junior establishes his identity. With sharper insight and perceptive curiosity, he enriches himself while preparing for even greater challenges.

ALMA MATER

'Neath cedars stately, midst hills so bold,
Stands our Mt. Lebanon, realm of Blue and Gold,
Radiant with splendor, valor, virtue, and truth,
Moulder of our destiny, guardian of our youth.
Ever our praises shall ring, Alma Mater, for thee.

Charles Ruch, '32
