Environment...

a gray stone building shapes, molds us in a manner peculiar to our own personalities.

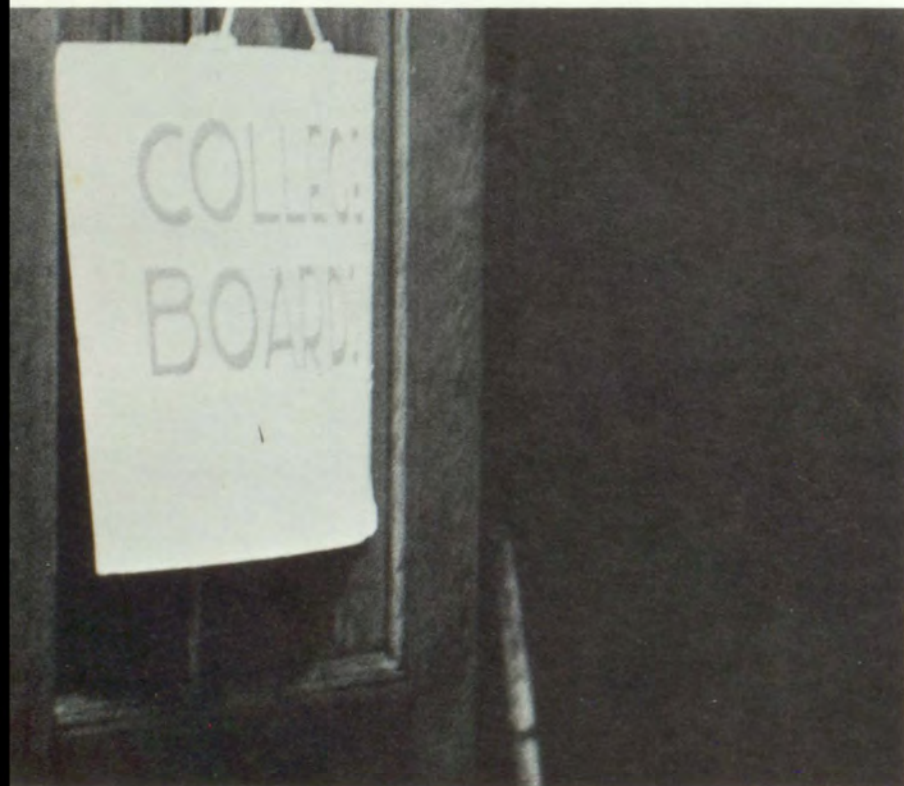

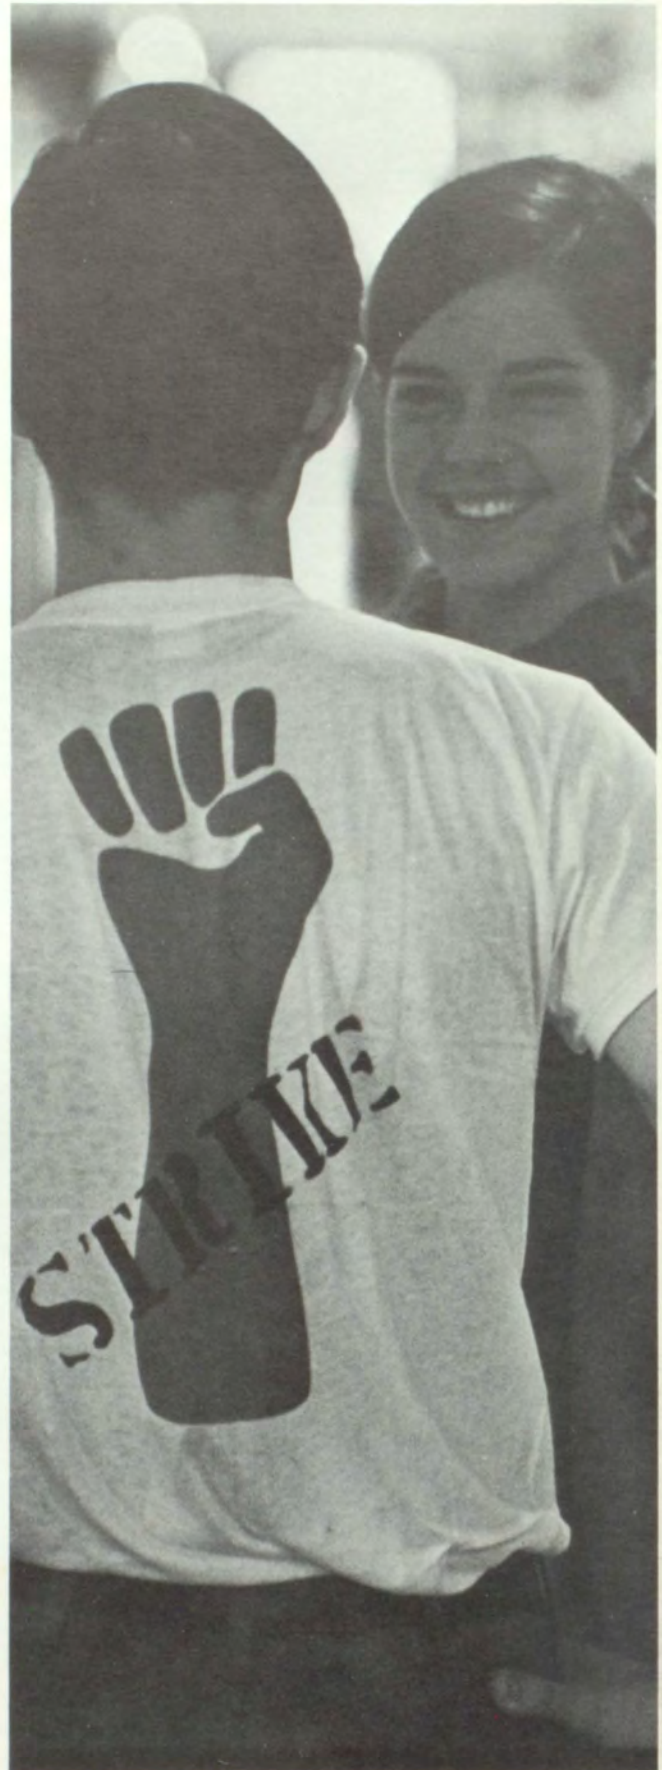

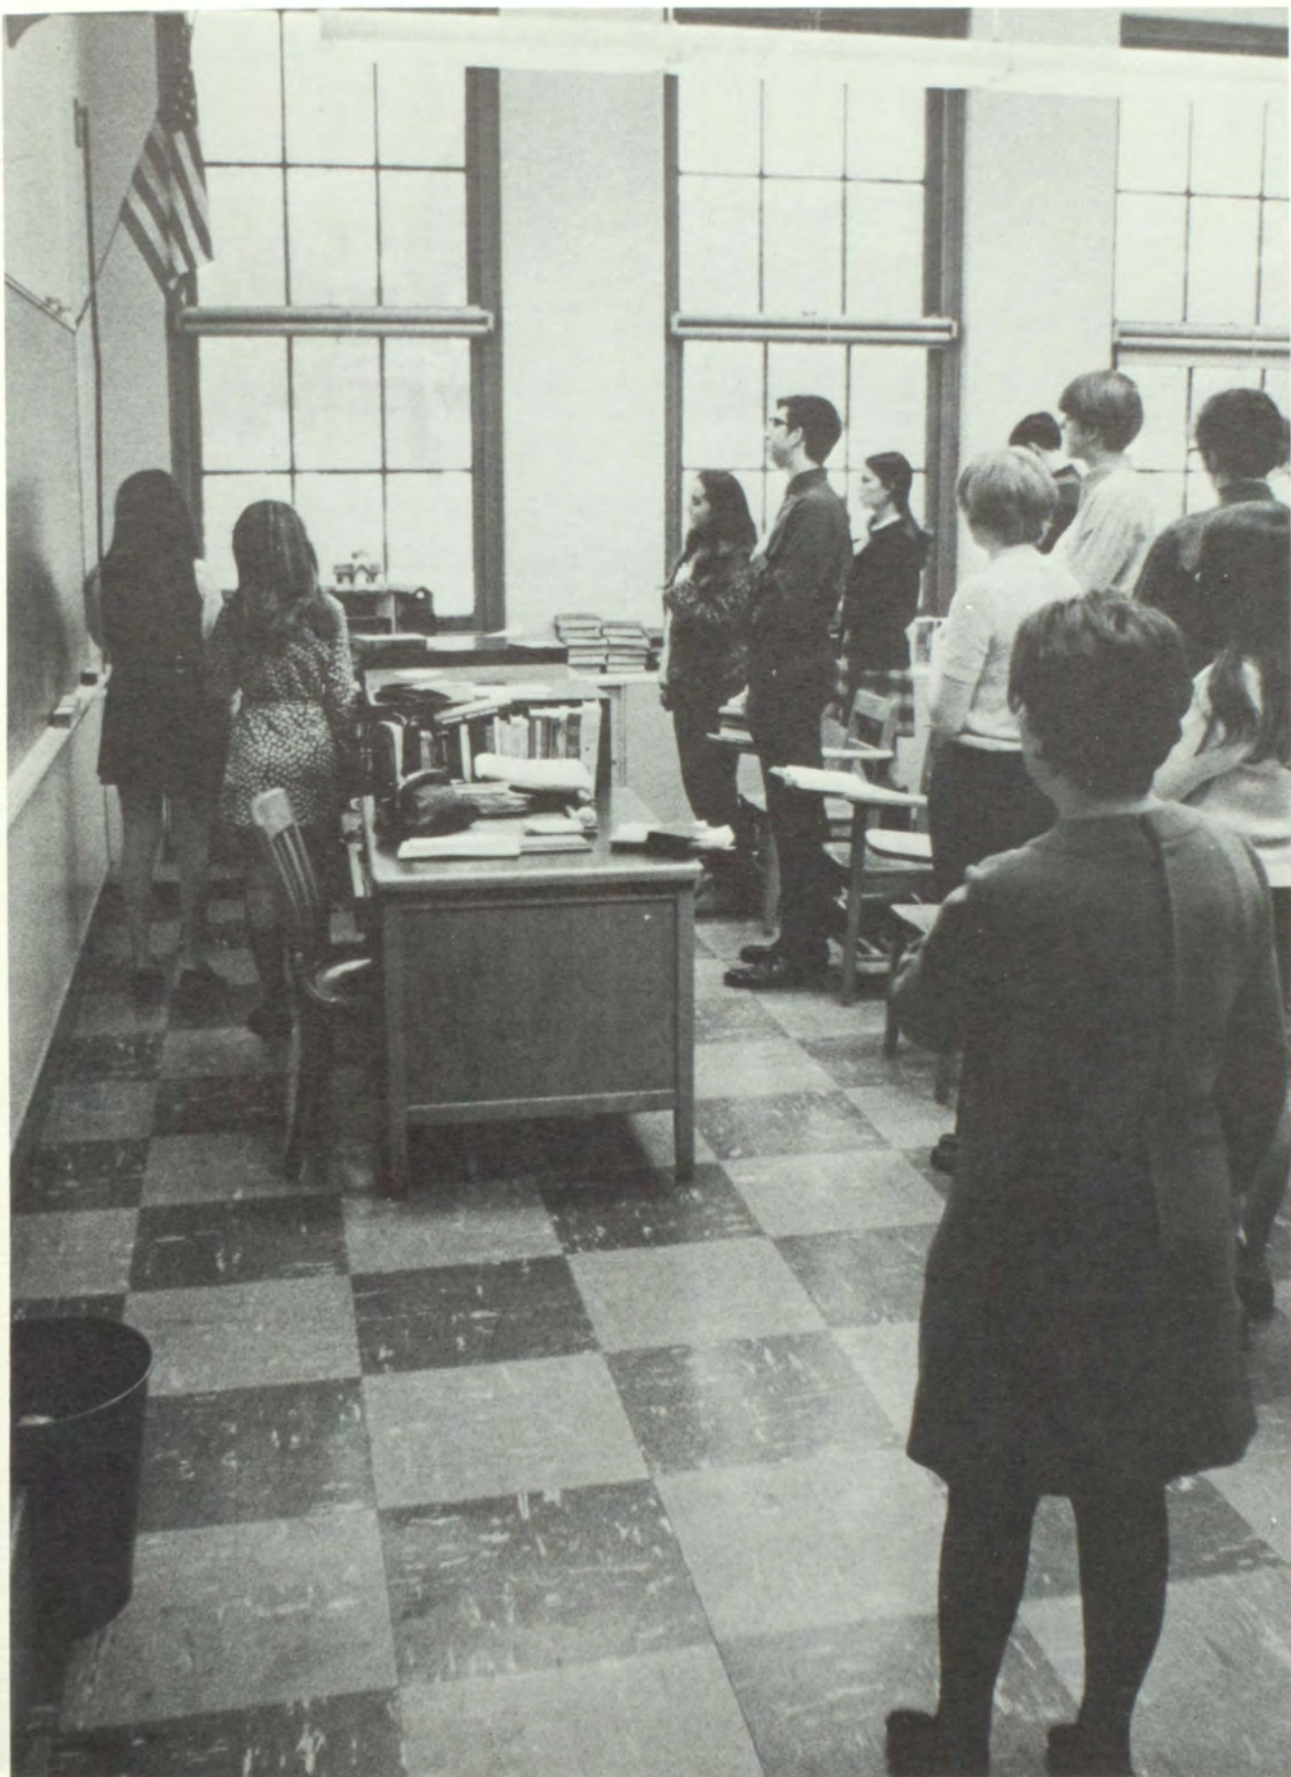

Harboring our excitement, reflecting our disillusionment . . .

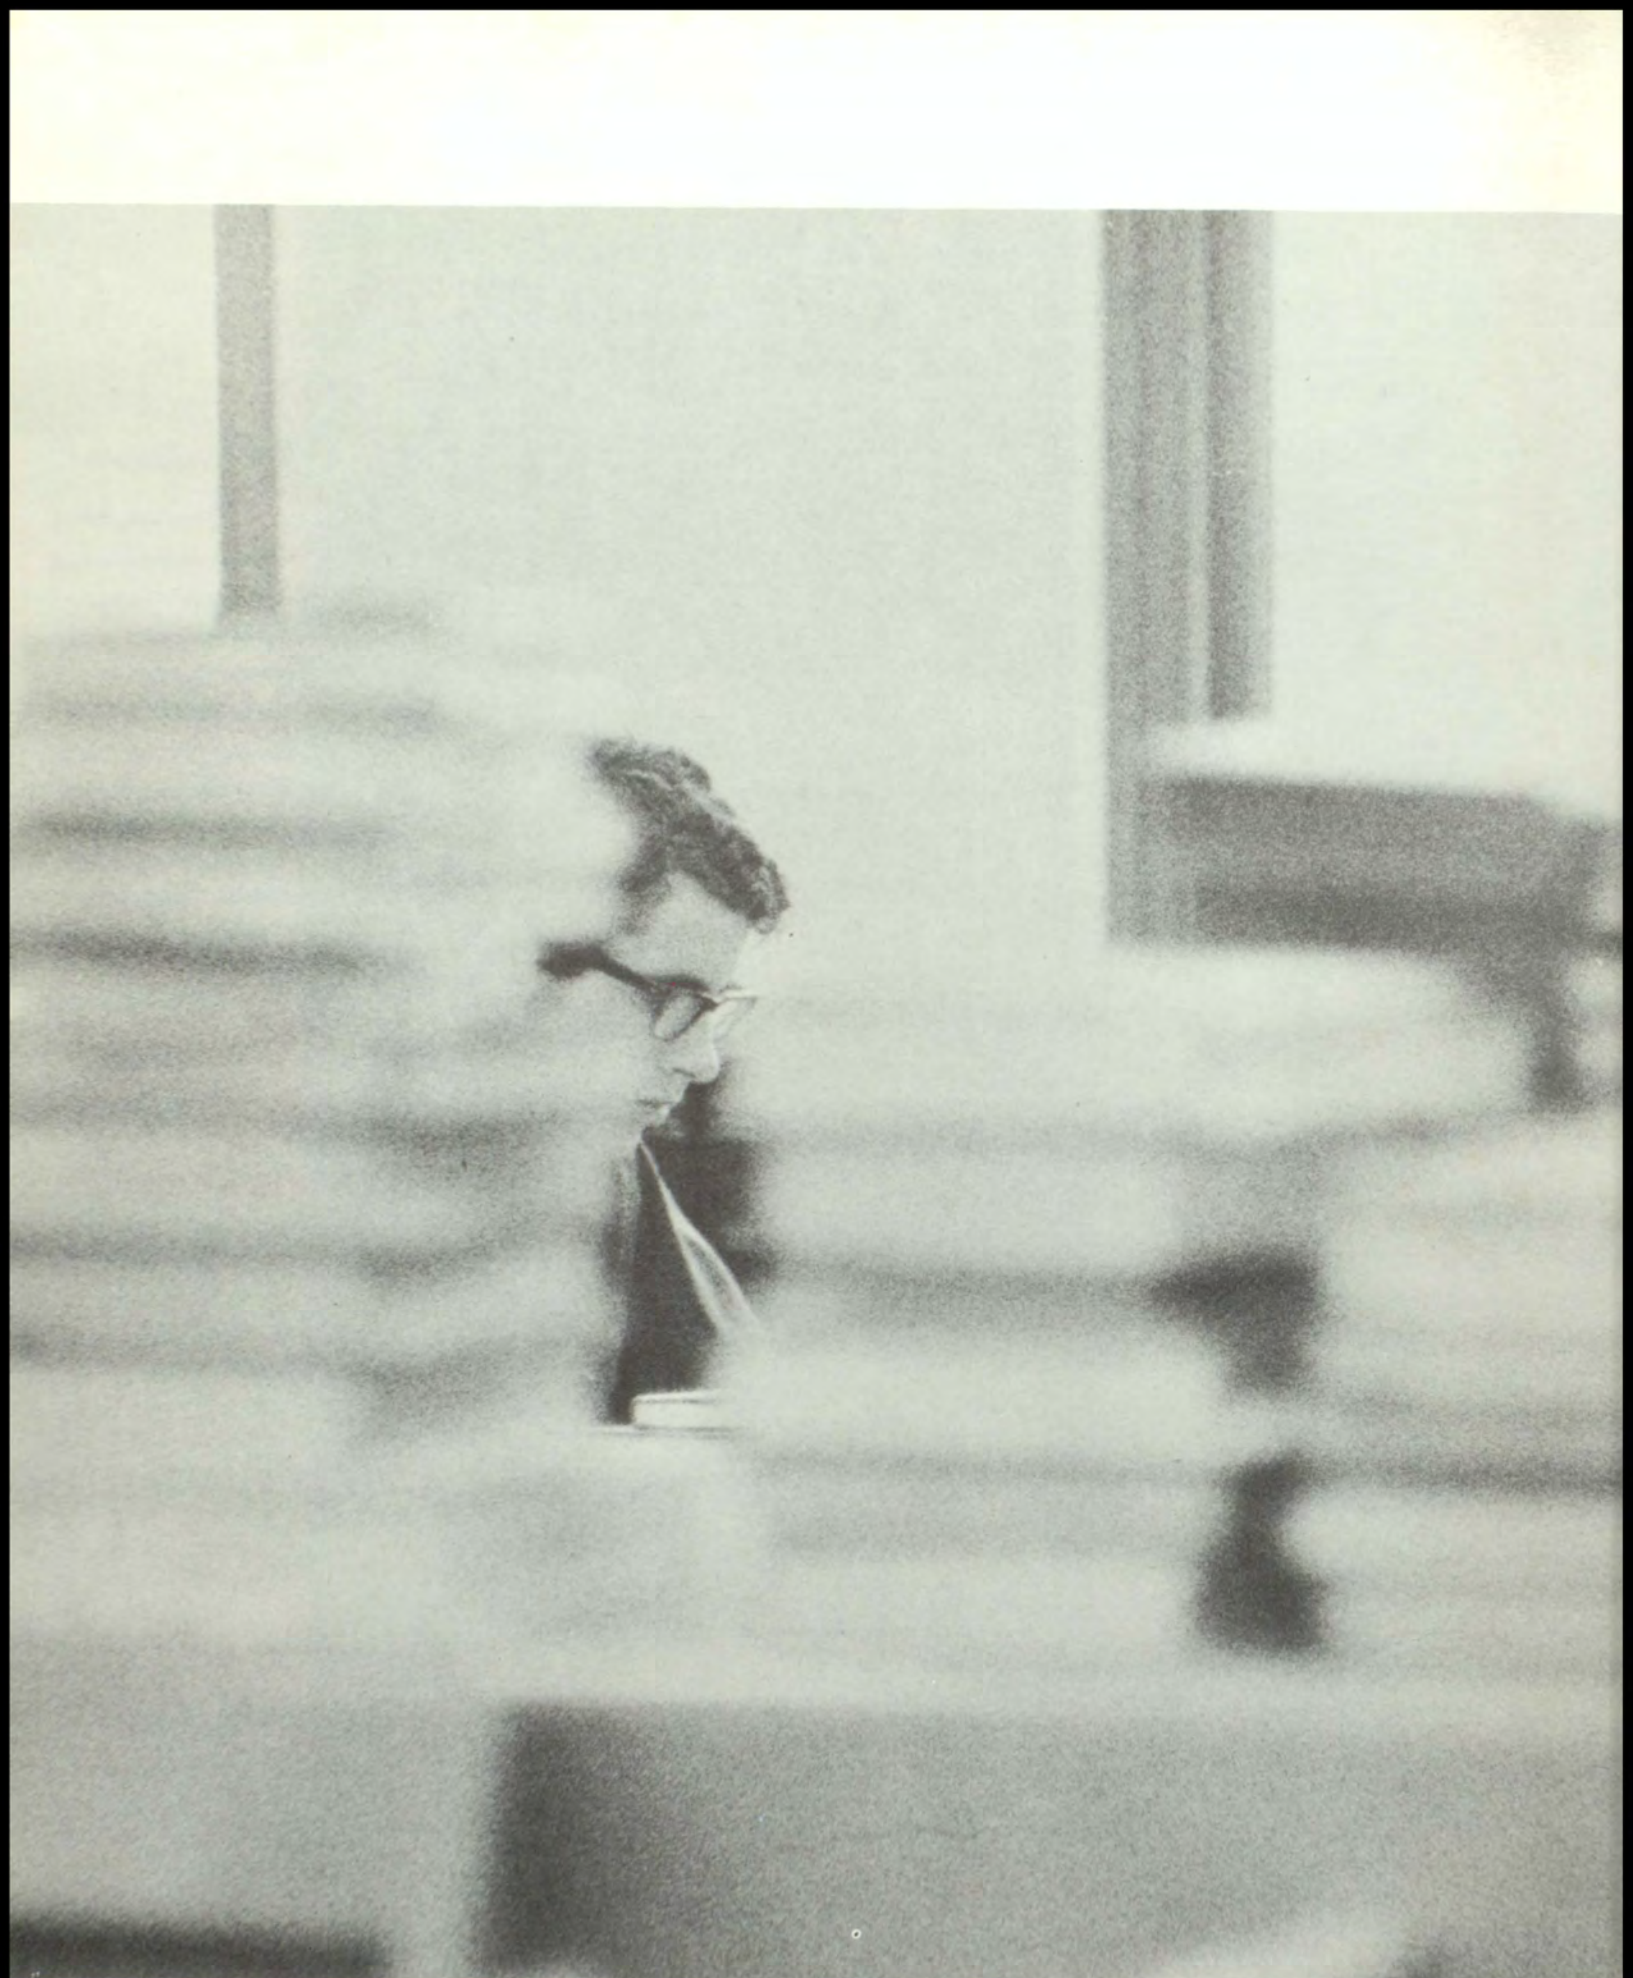

'Nature's mighty law
is change

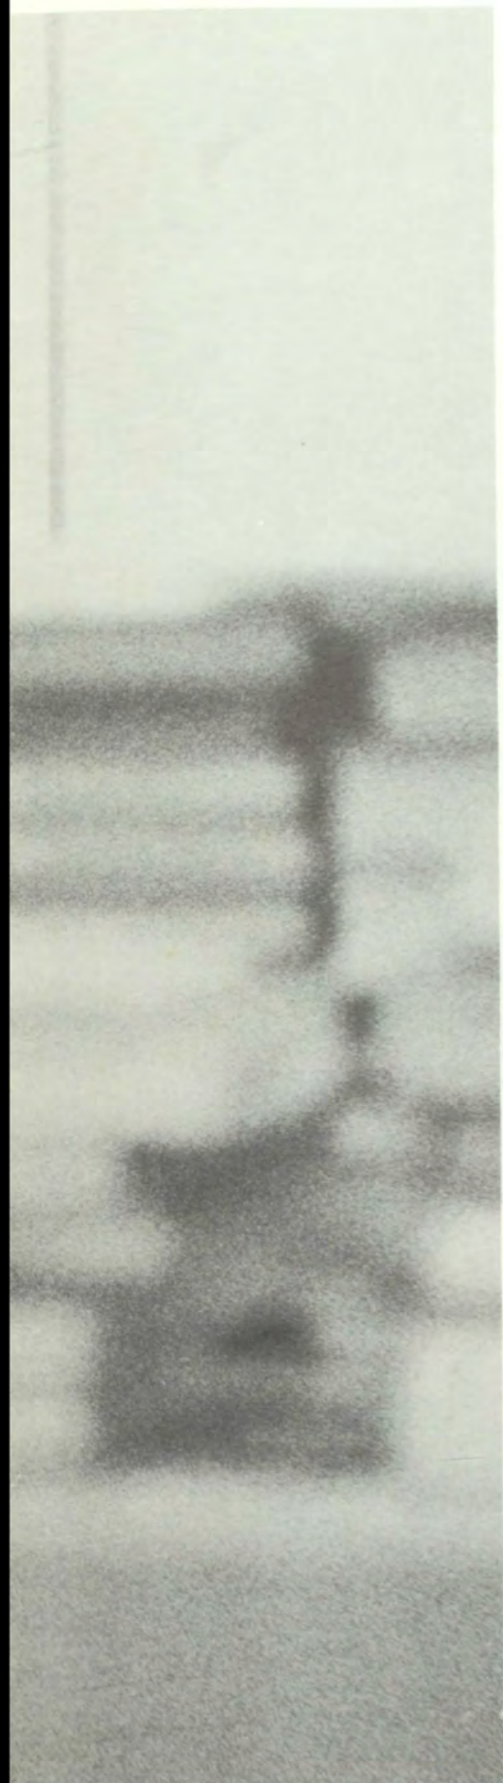

We are tossed between the shadow of tradition and the compelling magnetism of change . . .

But we search beneath the patterned monotony of everyday existence—to grasp our relationship to environment.

Experience . . . sometimes it has to start in the most conservative of environments, perhaps even in the classroom.

You can't build a new world without knowing thoroughly what the old one is about. The truths, the beauties, the trials of life are in a class as much as anywhere else. The truths may seem stilted in form, erudite in presentation, but that's a necessary part of the "total" experience.

Administration

The result of a nationwide search for a superintendent of schools to succeed the retiring Dr. Ralph D. Horsman is the young and vigorous Dr. Norman S. Green. Dr. Green comes to Mt. Lebanon from Proviso, Illinois. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in music, a Master of Education degree, and a Ph.D. degree.

Dr. Green asserts that Mt. Lebanon's school system is the most worthy that he has seen in the country; the school buildings, the staff, the school board, and the overall democratic spirit of Mt. Lebanon, feels Dr. Green, are institutions of quality. Dr. Green's primary objective, however, is to update Mt. Lebanon to meet modern educational demands. His aims will be dramatically manifested in the new high school complex to be begun soon, which Dr. Green calls "the most significant change in the history of Mt. Lebanon School System." Dr. Green further states that it is the responsibility of the student to adjust to his new environment. In this way, Dr. Green intends that Mt. Lebanon will provide a relevant and stimulating educational experience to each of its students.

most important is the ability to relegate academic talent to the level of your own interests and enjoyment.

A.F.S.

Learning a language and using it . . . absorbing new customs—all-part of living in a foreign country. Only a handful of the world's students gain the happy opportunity to do this, as members of the American Field Service. Perhaps no other experience broadens the scope of intelligence like traveling to another country, another culture.

Once again, this year, Mount Lebanon has hosted an A.F.S. student. She is Verena Fritz, from Austria, and the cultural exchange between her and Mount Lebanon has been rewarding.

Verena hails from Mittelberg, a small town in Austria, and she thinks of Mount Lebanon as a "very well-organized community."

For all of us who "suffer" under the pressure of the tremendous work load in Mount Lebanon, one of the most interesting aspects of Verena's background is her education. Although she ultimately plans to be a music teacher, Verena takes three or four languages, two sciences, religion, geography, and history, in addition to music courses at her "gymnasium" (high school).

On the other half of our A.F.S. operation, Tricia Bell visited Iran during the summer of 1969, where among her numerous adventures she met the Queen. Both Verena and Tricia can attest to the advantages of foreign travel through A.F.S.

Seniors

Superficially, we're part of it—part of school and its environment . . .

But it sometimes seems as though we're just waiting to get out . . .

A last mad conglomeration of hurried courses and activities . . .

'Neath cedars stately, midst hills so bold, Stands our Mt. Lebanon, realm of Blue and Gold,
 Radiant with splendor, valor, virtue, and truth,
 Moulder of our destiny, guardian of our youth.
 Ever our praises shall ring, Alma Mater, for thee.
 Charles Ruch, '32

before we leave.

For seniors, meaning often comes hardest of all . . .
Senior means transition, and within the violence of transition,

are perhaps a few isolated moments of calm, of thought.

In Memoriam

Cause us to know...
That whether we be born to high or low estate
We share alike our people's lot.
That though we dwell in safety, blessed with abundance
Our brother's hurt is our hurt, their sorrow, ours.

Mount Lebanon High School—So many drab schoolroom walls,

So many hours of homework, So many mechanically absorbed facts . . .

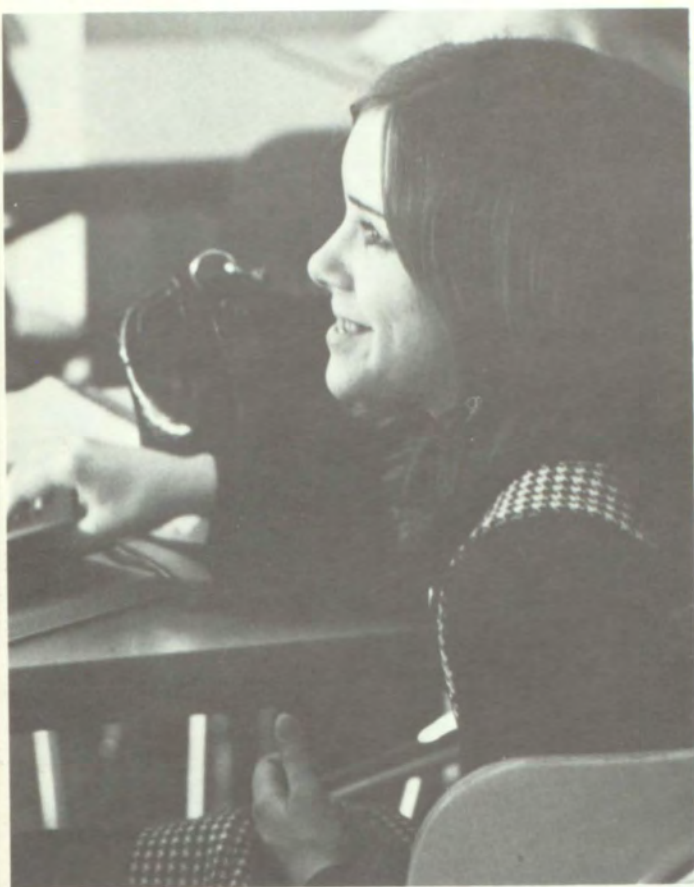

Look a second time. Perceive that high school, though it's merely one stage of life, is also a unique entity; treat that entity not only as anticipation and preparation for life, but as life itself—challenging and enlightening—achieving goals as deep as your own satisfaction.

Recall the small experiences that blend to create a special sensitivity.

Recognize the meaning of a single friend, a single thought, a single accomplishment.

Realize that you are the beauty in your environment and that the environment helps to create the beauty in you.

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of the research and the objectives of the study. It then presents a literature review of the existing research on the topic. The next section describes the methodology used in the study, including the data collection and analysis techniques. The results of the study are then presented, followed by a discussion of the findings and their implications. The paper concludes with a summary of the main points and a list of references.

The research was conducted in a systematic and rigorous manner, following the principles of good research practice. The data was collected from a large and representative sample of the population, and the analysis was carried out using advanced statistical techniques. The results of the study are presented in a clear and concise manner, and the implications of the findings are discussed in detail.

The findings of the study have important implications for the field of research. They provide valuable insights into the nature of the phenomenon being studied, and they suggest areas for further research. The results also have practical implications for the development of policies and interventions.

In conclusion, the study has made a significant contribution to the understanding of the topic. The findings are robust and reliable, and they provide a solid basis for further research and action.
