A collage of 1990s pop culture elements. At the top left, the word "nada" is written in a stylized font. To its right, a red sports car is shown. Below the car, a green sign with the word "TATTOOS" in white letters is visible. To the left of the car, a white sign with the word "TEMPTU" and "NYC" is shown. At the bottom right, the word "90s" is written in large, bold letters. Other text elements include "can't", "further", "a go", "cating", "with", and "right" on the far right, and "Wh" on the bottom left.

Diana Leech, Nicole Fritz, Tiffany Sutt, and Susan Palmieri all try to squeeze into one picture.

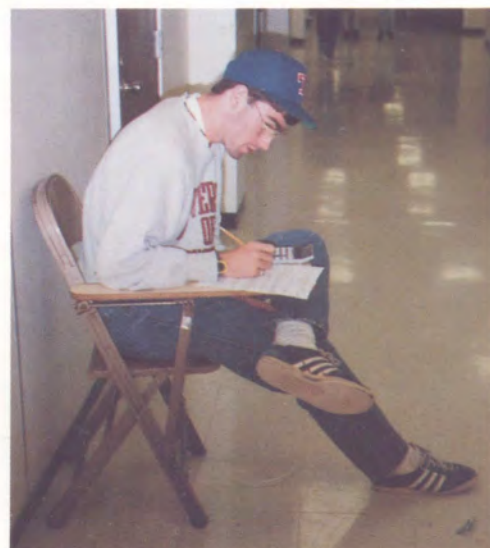

Heather Mazur and Katie Goetz are pitted against each other in a contest to see who has the largest smile.

While the transition into high school makes most students frown, freshman Ali Michael manages to turn her frown upside-down.

Natasha Huque models the latest fashion in hair accessories . . . lab goggles.

Ryan Turner demonstrates his special talent of being able to take a math test and monitor the halls at the same time.

"Up in the air, Meng Stolkowski! Up in the air upside down! Up in the air, Meng Stolkowski! . . .

Nichole Neumaier defines homework as work to do in homeroom, not at home.

Ronny Toler finds himself trapped between two long sets of doors.

This girl smiles as she thinks of seventh period being only six periods away.

Brian Buczynski waits for inspiration to hit.

"Excuse me, what do you think you're . . ."

In her hurry to get to her next class, Katy Chiappetta almost runs over the cameraman.

Meghan Crossey gives this class two thumbs up.

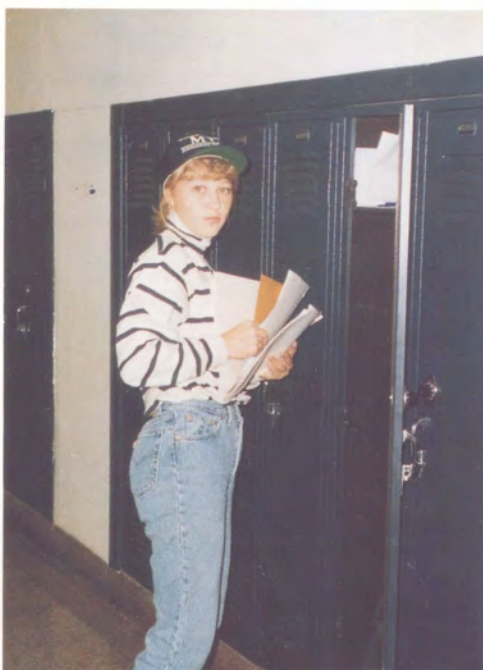

BJ Hansz tries, unsuccessfully, to scare the photographer away with a dirty look.

Robin Moore and Alison Obye show their love for the school by giving the wall a great big hug.

Extremely upset that she can't remember her combination, Jackie Lekse throws her arms up in despair.

Surprise, Kristen - - - you're in the LOG!

A look of shock comes over Mark Berton's face when he suddenly realizes what it is he's actually eating.

Matt Ragan can't decide whether he should do his homework or eat during his lunch period.

Chinatsu looks sleepily into the camera as she tries to get used to the American school customs.

Students gather in center court to finish today's homework.

Katie Yokota looks up to see who is interrupting her studies.

Taking a break from her work, Lisa Warno leans back and relaxes.

Sarah, could your smile be wider?

Mt. Lebanon's version of Little Orphan Annie.

Courtney Morrill works diligently at her computer.

What are you looking at?

Dreaming of the fame she will acquire from being featured in the Log, Sara Paonessa gazes into the camera.

Some typing students find the class so simple that they can do two things as they type.

Lab partners can be a great help in figuring out confusing lab procedures.

A confused freshman makes sure the door reads "girls" before entering the bathroom.

Realizing he forgot his books for class, Meyer Potashman looks to the photographer in despair.

Like many other students, Dave Schlendorf attempts to finish his homework in the few minutes before homeroom.

Kim Pollard, Brian Smith, and Chris Schultz consult Mr. Minnotte about the confusing cadences.

Rikki Solomon and a classmate try to tape their art project back together.

Steve Vegh peers deeply into his calculator hoping the correct answer will appear.

Chiara Figallo opens her mouth and says "aahhh" for the photographer.

Mike Green and Ray Geyer lean against their lockers to prevent the doors from opening.

A student looks down to avoid being called on.

Amy Best and Carolyn Michael race to see who can finish scratching their itches first.

When this photographer came near, Brad and Tracey quickly look away.

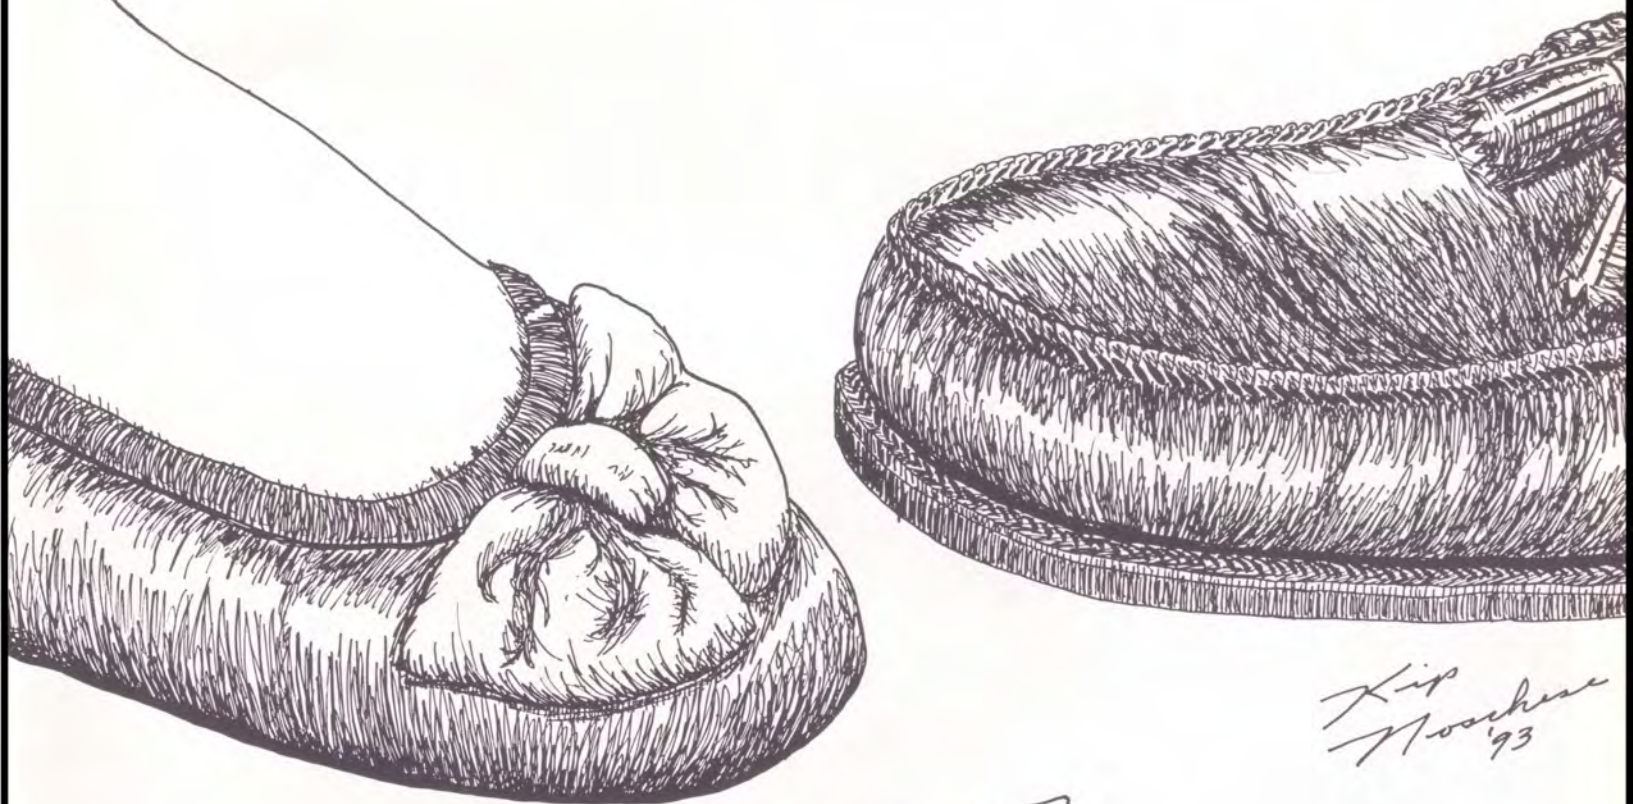

Jackie Lekse, Oren Lifshitz, and Sara Mahrer stare dumbfoundedly at the mysterious growth on the blackboard called THE CALCULUS PROBLEM!

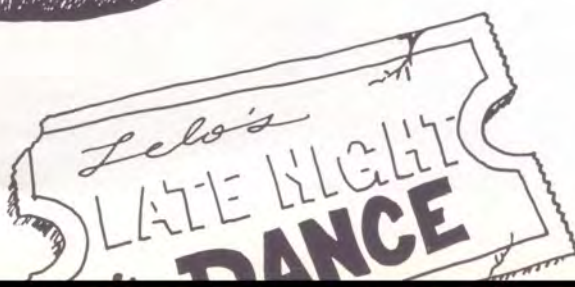

Heather Bond is hard at work in her science class.

Homecoming

Etienne and Ginny smile nervously as they wait to see who will win the next King and Queen.

We are the seniors. Couldn't be prouder. If you can't hear us we'll shout a little louder.

"And the winners are . . ."

A.F.S. takes part in the American Homecoming tradition.

Three cheers for Homecoming!

Lauren Stradley- you have won Homecoming Queen- Where are you going next?

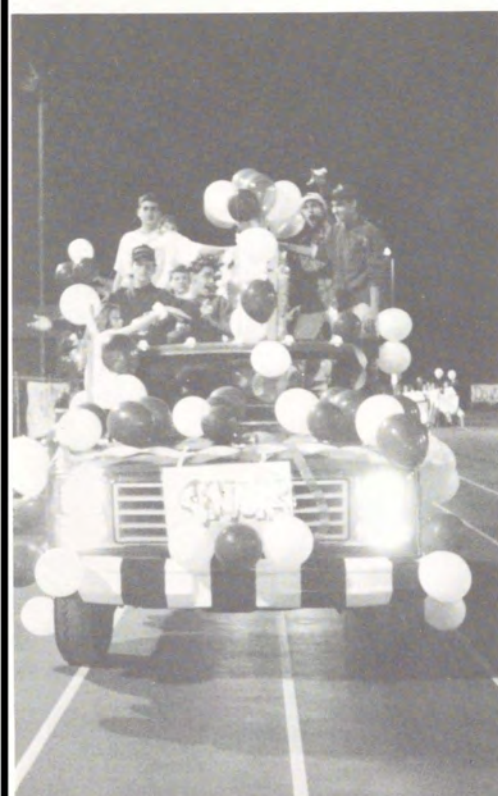

A girl at each side causes Adam's smile to widen.

"Did Mrs. Ball just announce that I won?" Ray asks.

The juniors smile knowing next year it will be their turn.

Watch out! The seniors are coming! The seniors are coming!

"Missy please stop yelling to the crowd. You're embarrassing me!" Allison shouts.

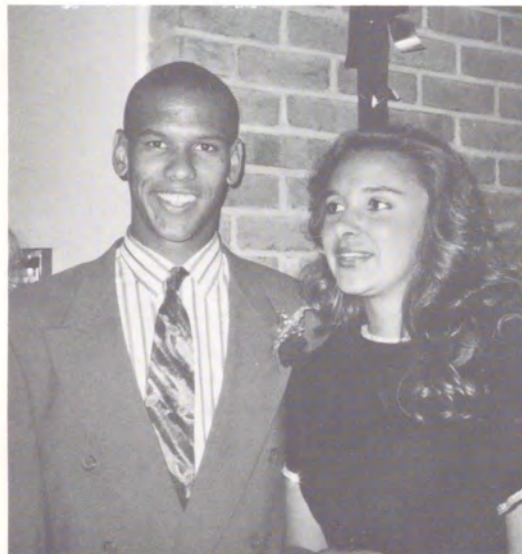

Only eight more months left!

The Homecoming Court: L. Stradley, L. Rectenwald, M. Vanzin, G. Hall, M. Kelly, E. Hightower, R. Gever and A. Phillips. Missing: J. Repicky and R. Douglass.

Jen and Megan are ready for a night out on the town.

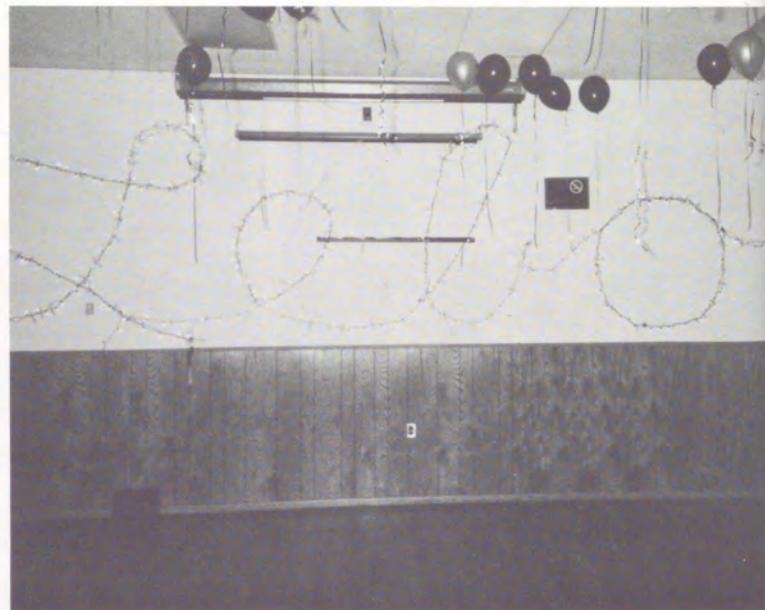

"Penny, the camera is over this way," nudges Etienne.

You have a reservation for how many?

"Can't a girl eat in peace?" complains Amy.

Mt. Lebanon splurges on decorations for the Homecoming Dance.

"How much longer are people going to take our picture?" Ginny and Blair wonder.

Amy, Brooke, Meghan, Erin and Julie are all smiles for the log photographer.

Jill grits her teeth while asking her mom if she has taken enough pictures.

Queen Lauren and King Ray pose for picture.

Smile pretty!

This group is ready to take Mt. Lebanon by storm.

Senior Rec

Jeff's parents are very proud of his accomplishments this year in golf and hockey.

The Wollings patiently wait with the other parents for their child's name to be called.

Pete and his family make a quick stop for their picture to be taken.

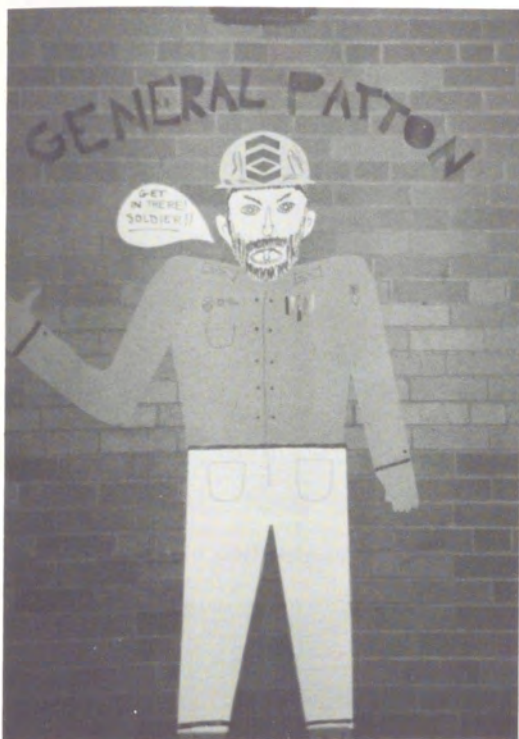

Elaine and her mom grin from ear to ear.

Len Fechter offers his parents his balloon back so he can save all his energy for the game.

WE ARE THE CLASS OF 1993

Mr. Patton's homeroom, 12-12, won the senior homeroom decoration.

Mrs. Ball leads the parents of the seniors to their correct spot.

Ray and his dad look confused as to where they are on the night of senior rec.

Melissa Weiss and her mom remember all the great times Melissa had playing golf.

Drum major Jason Ermer poses with his proud parents.

Senior Boat Ride

Where's Waldo?

G.Q. here we come!

Erin, Julie, Meghan and Kelly are happy to be sailing away.

Karen and Leslie are headed for the high seas.

Rhett and Colette dance the night away.

Kara and Colleen are awaiting rescue by the sailor of their dreams.

"Put me down Jason!" shouts Paul.

These girls are ready to have some fun.

A blast from the past.

"This wind is messing up our hair," complains Jill and Kara.

Pete, Brian, Mike, Brian and Chris shout, "Let's go fishing!"

Pat wants the photographer to leave so he can go back to talking with Chrissa.

Carolyn and Anna create a new form of voguing.

"You put your whole self in. You put your whole self out . . ."

Penny, Danielle, Kate and Colette take a break from dancing to smile for the camera.

Samantha, Mary, Melanie, Sarah and Kristen anxiously wait for the music to begin.

"Cheers!" exclaims Krissy and Nicole.

Conga!

"We may be tone deaf, but we don't care!" sing Blair and Amy.

Regina, Sarah and Erin's smiles attest to the good time had by all.

The boys are back.

Slave Day

Nice legs Brian!

And the new Homecoming Queen is . . .

"One of these things is not like the other . . ."

Look out Cindy Crawford, here comes Amy.

"To think we volunteered to do this," marvel Jill, Emily, and Jenn. 27

Bonfire

K-I-L-L U.S.C.!

Nicole and Ginny huddle together to keep warm.

"Why does she always get all of the guys?" exclaims Megan.

Does anyone know any good campfire songs?

The Mt. Lebanon Fire Department is always ready just in case.

The Mt. Lebanon bonfire sparks the senior unprecedented enthusiasm.

Holiday Show

"Ginny, would you believe it was this big?" asks Dan.

Adam, wake up! You're on!

Is it spring break already?

John Travolta eat your heart out.

Wrong!

Meghan and Jen charm the audience.

Is it Simon and Garfunkel or James and Jack?

Get out your guns!

Lisa's two bodyguards protect her from the oncoming patrons of the arts.

Disco is still alive in the eyes of Brian, Emily, Lynn and Ben.

"Jill, don't you sleep with stuffed animals?" asks Ben.

Look out, Steve Martin. Here comes Mike.

Mt. Lebanon's answer to Schwarzenager!

Truth or Dare: Adam have you done this many times before?

"Jen, singing is not your forte!" thinks Rob.

Pat and Paul doing what they do best.

The cheerleaders impress us with their talent.

"Ray, snap out of it!" whispers Emily.

Angela, T.C. Leslie, Rachel and Elanie are heading for the ball field as soon as the show is over.

Another Holiday Show goes down in history.

Happy Holidays to all and to all a goodnight!

Sarah's voice puts everyone in the holiday spirit.

10. Almost impossible to get personal license plate "Otto."
9. Ben and Jerry's ice cream now called Otto and Otto's.
8. Expectant parents could be heard saying, "Otto if it's a boy and Otto if it's a girl."
7. When someone comes into the school and asks for Otto, everyone would reply, "Yes?"
6. 007 fans look forward to classic line, "Bond. Otto Bond."
5. Instead of screaming, "Hey you, watch where you're going!" You would scream, "Hey Otto, watch where you're going!"
4. Could throw the office into total confusion by calling and asking, "Is Tony there?"
3. Not enough red courtesy phones when Otto is paged at the airport.
2. Wouldn't have to look in T.V. Guide to see who's on the Tonight Show.
1. Most popular New Kid? Otto.

Top Ten Disadvantages of Winning a Nobel Prize

10. Have to get kissed by herring-breathed King Olaf.
9. Automatically disqualifies you from being contestant on "Jeopardy."
8. Dangling medallion could get caught in open blender.
7. More junk mail from fly-by-night award-polishing services.
6. Distant relatives pestering you for free advice on particle physics.
5. Have to get in embarrassing kickline at end of ceremony with other winners.
4. Friends always borrowing medal for 10% discount at participating Red Lobster.
3. Run-ins with gangs of Pulitzer Prize Winners usually end up in a brawl.
2. Sarcasm of postman when he says, "Here's your new copy of National Geographic magazine, Mr. Nobel Prize Winner Man."
1. Don't see a dime from Mattel Nobel Prize action figures.

This year was one of growth and learning for the Girls' Tennis Team. We started out slowly with a new, young team and worked together to improve immeasurably by the end of the season. The girls put forth a unified effort and ended the season in the WPIAL finals. -Ting Yu

Special congratulations to senior Ting Yu and sophomore Erin Gustine for winning the doubles title at the State Championships this fall.

"Never let the body tell the mind what to do."
-General George S. Patton

Hartwood Acres at five thirty in the evening, with the wind chill near freezing and there is a steady downpour. We remove our sweats and are once again confronted with the cold and the question, "Why?"

Cross Country has never had the notoriety of other sports. We have no flashy uniforms or expensive equipment, no time-out, and no overtime, just 3.1 miles of trail. With all these adversities it is surprising runners return year after year. It is a testament to the coaching and the mentality of the sport. Six months of practice and over twelve races give the runner an experience unique to this sport. This year, we had no superstar, no big names and were written off by other schools. We proved unquestionably our strength when we won our section and finished first in our section qualifier. The departing seniors are proud to have been part of such a great team, and a team that will go even further next year.

Adam Golomb passes a lesser runner as he easily runs the last 500 meters of the race.

Senior runner Chris Hill had a big influence on this season's team, both with his running and great attitude.

The girls were invincible running on their home course through Mt. Lebanon Park, defeating long-time rivals Canon McMillan, Baldwin, and Upper St. Clair.

Sophomore Erin Smartschan secured her position on the varsity team with great performances, like her race at the Malone Invitational.

WPIAL CHAMPIONS

"The Mean, the Quick, the Mentally Sick."

This year's Girl's Cross Country teams had outstanding seasons. The Girl's Varsity won the Tri-State Area Coaches' Invitational, while the Junior Varsity captured the first place trophy at the California Invitational. With a 7-0 record, the team easily took the Section Title, mauling long-time rivals Bethel Park and Upper St. Clair. At qualifiers, Mt. Lebanon completely dominated every race, winning the Girls' Varsity, and Girls' Junior Varsity races. The girls finished the season by seizing the WPIAL Championship Title, which has not been done since the early 80's. At the PIAA State Championships, the team placed an incredible second. The girls showed outstanding spirit while running the hills to get their thrills, doing it long and hard. Overall, the mean, the quick, the mentally sick Cross Country Team had an incredible season.

Blue Devils Finish Second Place in Section Girls' Volleyball

This season has been the best yet in Mt. Lebanon history. We capped the regular season with a 12 - 2 record and a fifth place ranking in the WPIAL. Throughout the season the team experienced many rewarding victories. Most notable were the wins against Norwin and Baldwin at the Airport Area Classic to capture third place and bring the first ever volleyball trophy to Lebo.

Our success was due to outstanding individuals who together provided a great team effort. Juniors Jana Orlofske, Kristen Graziano, and Meghan Burrows provided much needed talent along with leadership. Consistent play by Katie Bluemling and Kalna, "The Freshman Wonder," Miller helped make Lebo powerful. Seniors Sarah Emanuel, Anna Dubrovsky, Margaret Conti, Jackie Grady, Jen Rump, and Mary Kay Pivetz were the team leaders. The team will be even more solid next year and we wish them the best of luck.

Boys' Soccer Section VII Champions

Boys' Soccer

The Mt. Lebanon Soccer Team overcame the pressure of high expectations to complete an outstanding regular season with a 14-3-3 record. Mt. Lebanon's overtime victory over Upper St. Clair in the regular season finale highlighted the Blue Devils section championship. Mt. Lebanon also qualified for the WPIAL playoffs. Instead of winning with one dominant player, the Blue Devils trampled the competition with a well-balanced attack. Seniors Scott Marshall, Todd Stabenow and Sean Yokota, along with junior Kevin McClure, began the Blue Devils' relentless offense while seniors Brian Berklich, Mike Green, Etienne Hightower, and Jon Kostyal supplied the scoring punch. Grant Naylor, a junior, was nearly unbeatable in goal. A bright future should lie ahead for the Blue Devils. Thank you to all the coaches, parents, and fans who helped make this year successful.

"Circle - up!" Those two simple words meant everything to the 1992 Girls Soccer Team. To the freshmen, it meant four years of hard work. To the seniors, it meant the last take-off. To the team, it meant playing in the toughest section ever and coming out victorious with the section VI title. To the team, it meant demolishing Upper St. Clair, 4-0, in the WPIAL semi-finals. To the team, it meant bouncing back from a devastating loss in the WPIAL finals. To the team, it meant distant bus rides to muddy, snow-covered fields to play in the first state playoffs for girls. To the team, those two words mean a chance to be state champions. We were a team this year and that has made the difference.

This season has proven to be the most successful ever for Lebo Girls' Golf. For the first time, the team finished with an undefeated record of 8-0! Individually, five girls played in the WPIAL Sectionals in order to qualify for the WPIAL Championships. All five girls—Erin Dickerson, Jen Kintz, Mary McGinley, Laura Stittsworth, and Liz Tranter qualified for The Championships and Mary McGinley and Erin Dickerson placed first and second respectively, at the Sectional Meet. During the season, team captain Melissa Weiss promoted team spirit and boosted confidence, while Courtney Morrill and Sara Stittsworth played hard and helped Lebo to The Team Championships, where we placed second, a most impressive victory for a team that wasn't meant to be.

Blue Devils Once Again In Playoffs

Football

Upon losing many great players from the exciting 1991 Mt. Lebanon Football Team, it appeared that we would have a rebuilding year in 1992. With few returning starters, the team consisted mostly of untested juniors and sophomores.

The conference title came down, once again, to us and our greatest rival, Upper Saint Clair. Throughout the season, we remained focused and our coaches held us together. We again were able to deliver a playoff season in the great tradition of Mt. Lebanon football.

Alice Young (an excellent shot) steadies herself and focuses on the target before pulling the trigger.

The 1992-1993 Rifle Team faired well this season due in part to the coaching staff. Coach Elizabeth Bowers and Coach Art Rodgers performed magic with a very young team. Comprised of only four seniors and six returning members, the team still had a winning season. Everyone worked hard to try to rebuild the team from the loss of so many seniors last year. The first few matches were lost to inexperience and nerves, but the team made a great comeback through rigorous practice and many targets, eventually to shoot a 795-53x. No one could have predicted how well the rebuilding of the Rifle Team went and the outlook for next year is excellent.

Wrestlers Keep Focus On Winning Wrestling

The Mt. Lebanon wrestlers can be particularly proud of the '92-'93 season. A rebuilding program begun several years ago began to show dividends. This year's team began the season slowly, losing several matches to tough section opponents. But the character of the team led by veteran wrestlers Ryan Douglass, Mike French, and Clay McGalla revealed itself by season's end as the Blue Devils won six of the seven remaining matches. Under the direction of Coach Rod Gerhart, the Blue Devils will be satisfied with nothing less than an even better season for the class of '94.

Boys' Basketball

Mt. Lebanon athletics have a long and proud tradition. This same pride has been seen on the '92-'93 basketball team. Every season competing teams look forward to playing Mt. Lebanon because our team has set the benchmark of discipline, preparation, and enthusiasm. A team must first defeat the Blue Devils before they are to be considered a power in the WPIAL. Mt. Lebanon must never stop looking for ways to improve, and strive to be better, so that future Mt. Lebanon teams will command the same respect and admiration from their opponents.

At the start of the season, knowing we had a young team, we were at a disadvantage. With one senior, Lisa Warno, and three juniors, Amy Barnett, Christina French, and Jen Seaver, we had to rely on the lower classmen to compete at the varsity level. Several times, sophomores Gabe Cook, Tara Lowe, Sarah Paonessa and Christina Weet and freshmen Katie Anderson, Lauren Clister, and Kim Seaver have been called upon to perform.

Although every team's goal is to make the playoffs, this was an impossible dream for the '92-'93 basketball team. Having a small section was another disadvantage for us because we were forced to play each team three times. This was unfortunate because Upper St. Clair and Bethel Park are two top ranked teams which also hurt us drastically. Even though our coaches Mr. Ronald Bradley, Ms. Kate Gannon, and Mr. Bob Lowe have not been to the playoffs in years, they will have to wait yet another.

The 1992-1993 swim team struggled through a long and difficult season. Many obstacles challenged the bid for victories and although they lost some, the swimmers came out as champions. Their team spirit alone made them stand apart from other teams. No matter how well or how disappointingly one performed, a teammate was always there to compliment him. Nice work for this year's swimmers and good luck to those who follow in their footsteps.
-Jeff Tsuda '93

During the 1992-1993 season the Mt. Lebanon swimmers had some of their personal best swims and, overall, the team spirit was incredible. Although the team was lacking in swimmers, all kept a healthy and hopeful, positive attitude and that alone is what made them feel like winners. Way to go, Mt. Lebanon Swimmers, and good luck next year!
-Natalie Budner '93

Hockey Team Completes Impressive Season

Hockey

The '92-'93 Mt. Lebanon Blue Devil Hockey Team came into the season with many new faces on the team. We lost eleven seniors from last year, but with hard work and determination from the newcomers, coupled with leadership from the veterans, we had fused into an outstanding team.

The season opened with a loss to Upper St. Clair, followed by another loss to Bethel Park. We turned anger and frustration from these two games into determination and we then rattled off eight straight wins and surged into second place. Leading the charge were juniors Brian Drew, Rob Guillen, and Adam Locasale who all made significant contributions to the streak. They were supported by the double-shifting of senior Jeff Potter, the play of all-purpose senior Greg Perri, and the hard work from senior Mike Green. Included in the streak was an 8-3 thrashing of Upper St. Clair, the first win against them in over a year. The win was bolstered by a defense that consisted of three sophomores; Devin Gosnell, Jason Lewis, Brad Rupp, and freshman Jason Silver.

Early predictions questioned our depth in the goaltending department, but those questions were immediately answered with three names: sophomore Brian Sciorilli, junior Matt Repack, and senior Anthony Cicala. The trio gave Lebo more than enough talent to handle the goaltending chores. Any further doubts about the Blue Devils' future will be met by talented sophomore Jim Krieger and teammates Jim Delsole, Noah Wandel, and freshmen Mike Flynn and Greg Madeya, who all will be relied upon in the future.

With a good mix of veterans and rookies, and the attitude of a winning team, look for the Blue Devils to go far next season.

Pat Tighe separates himself from the rest of his class and dreams about the end of the day.

Tom Ognibene plunges his hand into the depths of the unknown -the junior male's locker.

Scott Bovitch almost inhales his lolli-pop when he sees his physics grade.

Bill Drummond desperately searches through his locker in a vain attempt to find his next period's homework.

Dave Bissel looks down hoping the right answer will pop into his head.

Thinking they are at the dentist, Missy Vanzin and Lynn Langston say, ".....AAAAAAA!"

"Wait, the ball is supposed to go over the net when I hit it, not behind me!"

Amy Barber searches for any defects in her pottery.

Because she is always being mobbed by her many followers, Kim Buschek uses Matt Sember and Sean Rodriguez as body guards.

Angela Baratta smiles as she shows off her newly cleaned locker.

Joelle Rodzicz and her friend try to untie their tangled fingers.

They're in the same biology class, they sit at the same lab table, they breathe the same air, and, yes, Callie Stevenson and her lab partner wear the same clothes.

Jason Wolling stares with great curiosity at the object in his hands.

Julia Larson is hard at work creating the perfect shape for her sculpture.

Happiness is a new sweatshirt!

Jennifer Riemer takes time out from studying to smile for the camera.

A future fashion designer works diligently on her sewing.

Julia Parshall and Kathy Vudragovich question Mrs. Johns about the safety of the lab.

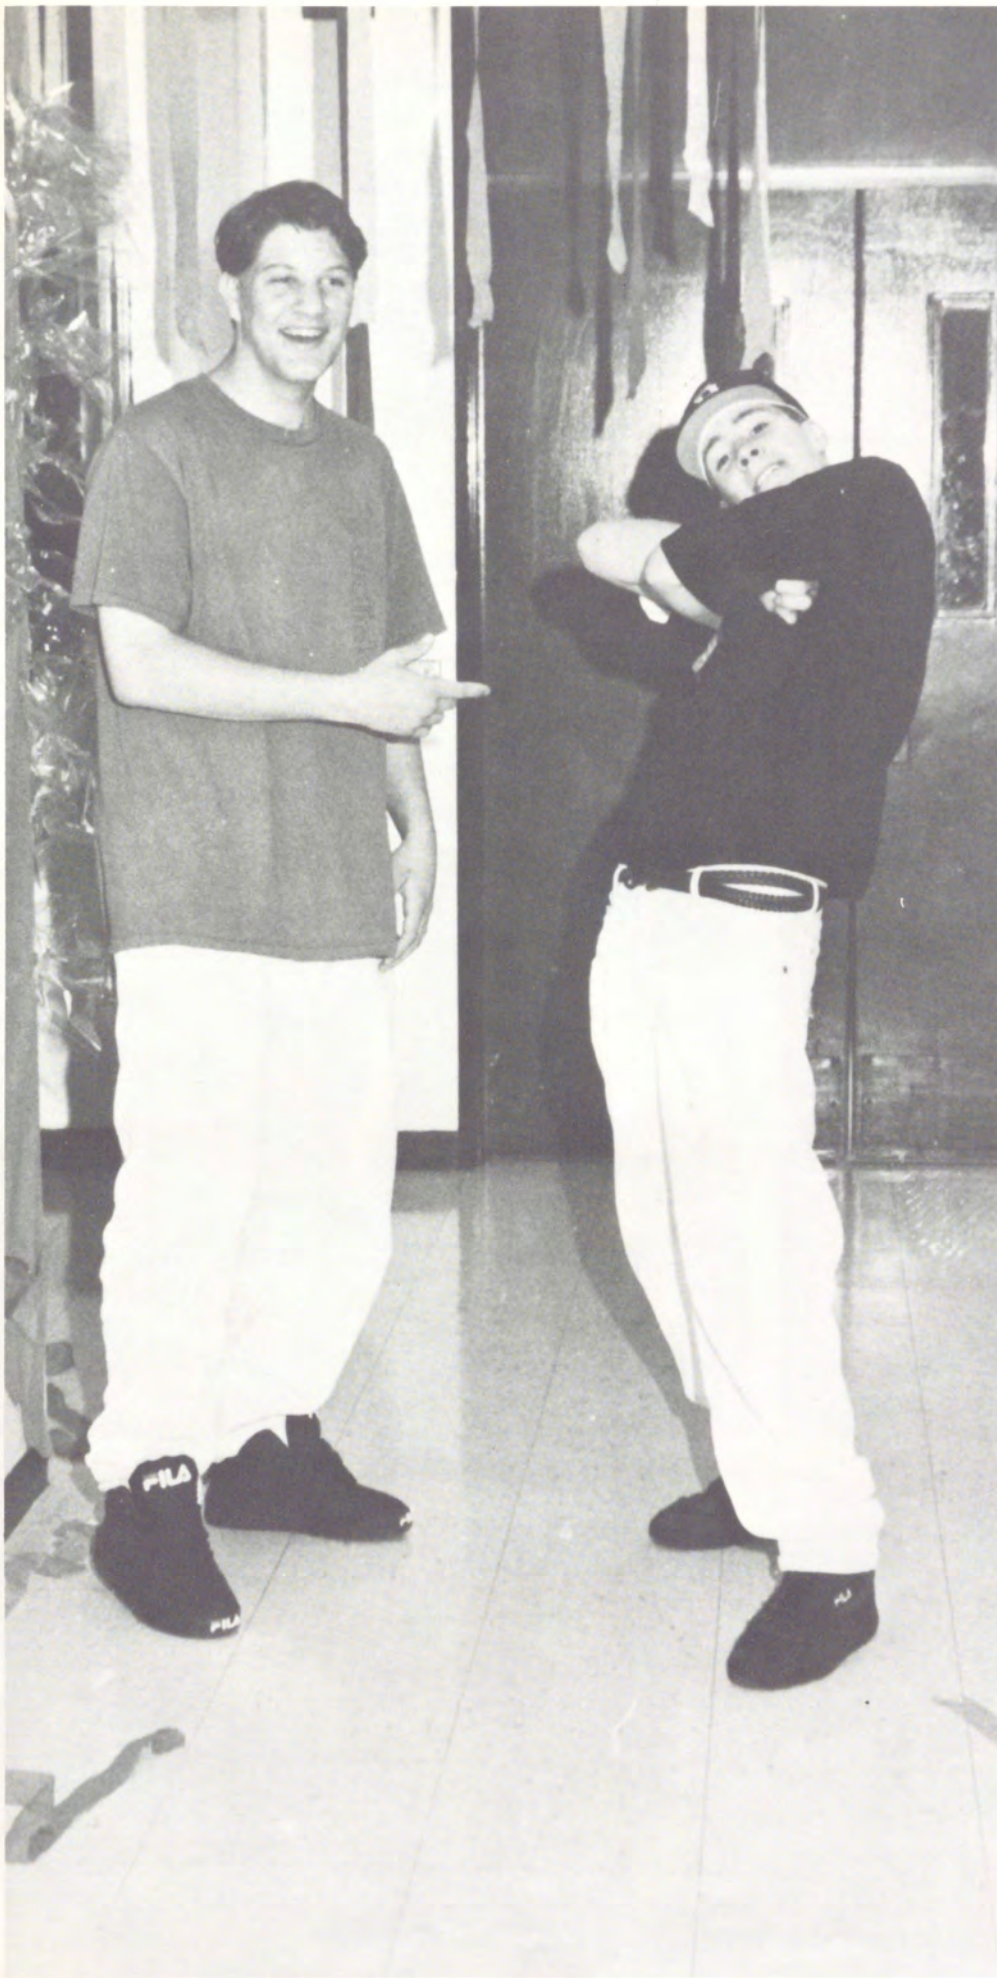

... nine ladies dancing ...

Brian Sommer hopes that his sculpture won't topple over if he holds it with his hands.

Friends help each other understand things; Robin Goodman shows Danielle Yetman how to do the assignment.

Duuuuuuuh!

"No, I am not going to look up at the camera!"

"Get a load of this guy!"

Master sculptor Esther Aronson leans over and peers into the depths of her clay.

Michelle Schipani discovers that she can have meaningful telephone conversations during the five minutes between classes.

Adam Klivans perfects the art of sleeping with your eyes open.

Gail Miller stares into space and dreams about the weekend.

Mary Anna Denman stirs her secret ingredients which will soon become a beautiful piece of artwork.

Seniors Carolyn Rychcik, Jackie Grady, Lisa Warno, and Deidre Lamb exercise their right to party.

Jason Egal sports a funky hat in his chemistry lab.

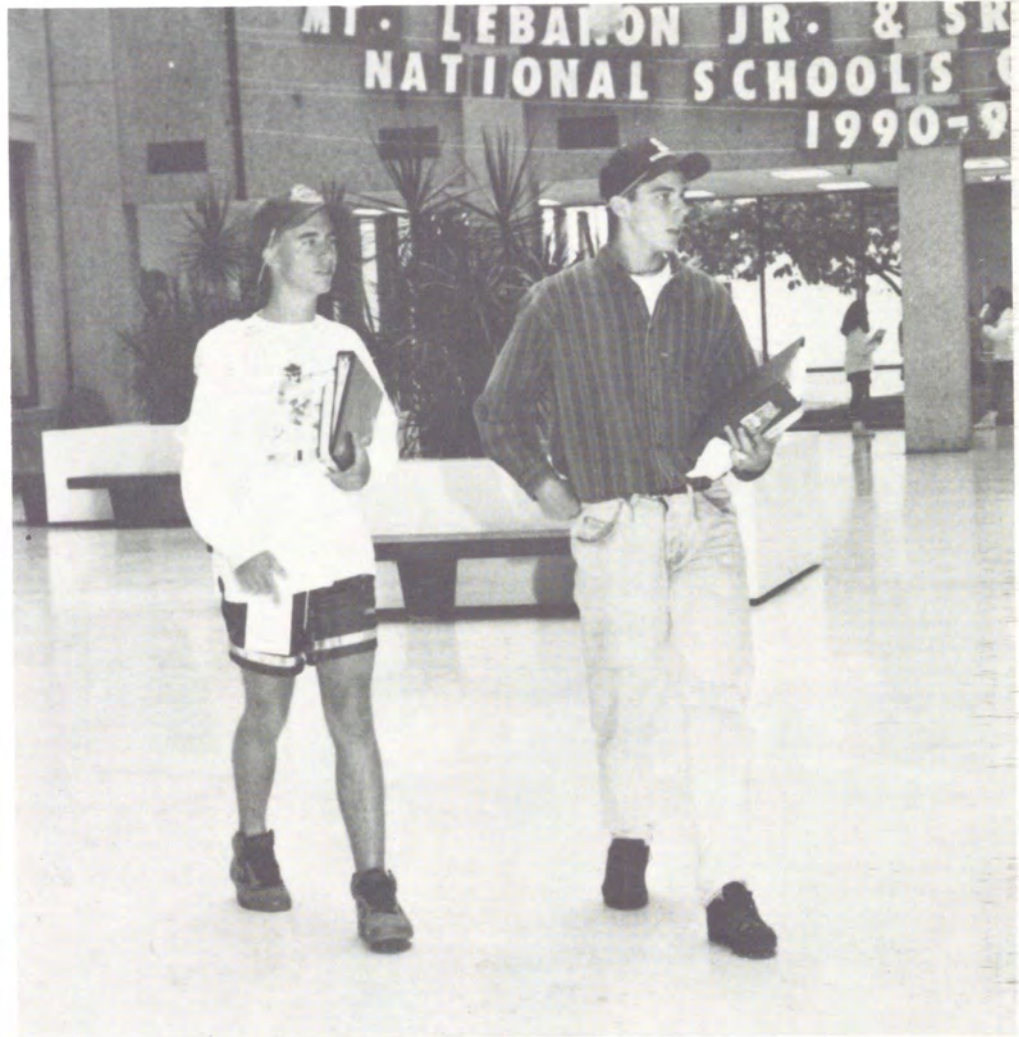

Vince Lee chuckles at the tongue twister he has just typed.

Bill Price and Matt Morcyz both look the wrong way when the photographer calls their names.

Vered Birmaher leans to look at the concepts of biology from another angle.

Drew Coulter, Nate Beachler, and Kelly Snee form a quick study group before their big test.

Sarah Emanuel and Jackie Grady lounge around in center court between classes.

Olivia Kohnfelder struggles with learning the correct way to type.

Nino Arduz practices to become the perfect seamstress.
