BUSTIN' OUT OF THE BUBBLE

looking for reality

Ever wonder what it's like to live in a bubble? Many students of Mount Lebanon regard the community as a sheltering barrier against the real world, a bubble to protect them from the inherent dangers and problems of real life. Although this protection may seem ideal, many students experience culture shock when they venture outside the bubble into an environment which is completely different from home. Consequently, they often feel cut off from the cultures and lifestyles of unfamiliar places. Restricted by these boundaries, students are compelled to find their own identity and means to express it. In choosing this year's theme for the Lebanon Log, we sought to illustrate the prevailing attitudes of students and what they do to break down the limitations of the Mount Lebanon bubble. Students of Mount Lebanon prove that life in the bubble does not necessarily need to be boring or confining. Their time in high school presents a great opportunity to truly "bust out of the bubble."

MAKIN' THE

of life in the bubble

While many people think that there may not be much to do in Mt. Lebanon, Lebo students manage to find interesting things to fill their free time. Summer provides an escape from the stress and monotony of the school year. Summer activities range from everyday experiences here in Mt. Lebanon to daring adventures far from home. Upon the start of school in the fall, the relaxed pace of summer is replaced by the warp speed of schoolwork and activities. For seniors, the pace is set early with boatripe in September. Shortly thereafter, the Homecoming Parade is held, followed the formal Homecoming Dance. Other activities include the Halloween door decorating contest, Senior Serf Day, and Snowball. The Holiday Show, winter concerts, and theater productions allow students to show off their diverse talents.

David had to know fifty lines on board the ship, and how to operate all kinds of complex equipment. He hopes to attend the SEA semester again in college.

SUMMER IN A BUBBLE

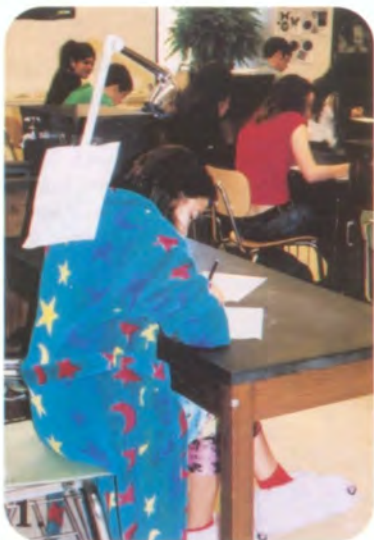

As an escape from the everyday life in the Bubble, summer offers Lebo students the chance to experience "real" life. From fun in the sun to work for the church, Blue Devils always find some interesting ways to fill the precious summer months. In addition, many teens try new activities that they do not have the opportunity to do in Lebo. Sophomore Steve Dayoub comments, "My first time jet skiing at Ocean City, MD was awesome. I would never have gotten the chance to do this at home."

Instead of dare devil activities on the water, some kids opted for endeavors that focused on helping those in need. With members of their churches, some teens traveled all over the country to many various communities on church mission trips. Some teens, like Rob Hlbebinsky, served their church and community musically. Organized summer programs also topped off the list of activities. Along with the everyday activities of the Bubble, the real world also offers a lot to the students.

DRESSIN' UP

Normally, you would be pretty scared if you walked down the hall at school and saw a ninja, a fairy, and a gorilla. But Senior Pledge Day is definitely not a normal day. On November 8, 2002, the seniors had the chance to be as crazy and outrageous as possible. Seniors that wanted to participate sold tickets in advance for $1 each. The tickets were then raffled off, and the winning student got to dress up their senior however they wanted. And as if the costumes weren't enough, many students chose to have their pledges perform songs and dances in the hallways and cafeterias. Senior Stefanie Hesse commented, "I especially liked lunch time. I got to do the chicken dance and make a fool out of myself." Pledge Day was a great opportunity to let loose and ease some of the tension of school, and as an added benefit, the money raised went to funds for boatripe, prom, and other senior class activities.

LEADIN' THE WAY

The night began dreary, but the class of 2003 would not let that get them down. Despite the downpour before the start of the game, the convertible tops were lowered and put into place. The band played a great pregame show despite the inclement weather. The seniors started the parade off with a bang, with their sparkly banner. The court followed, comprised of Daena Adams & Dan Breiding, Lauren Brown & Franco Rivera, Christie Boyle & Willie Gray, Erin Greenberg & Sam Skubak, & Joanie Plake & Ben Webster. GROOVIN' TO THE MUSIC

Stepping back to a groovier time the students at the 2002 Mt. Lebanon Homecoming dance were greeted by the flower power of the 60's and 70's. Dinner before the dance is a big part of the festivities and can be anything from going to Outback to reservations at the Grand Concourse. Others opt for a lovely sit down dinner for eight at someone's home.

Afterwards, as the students arrived to the dance floor, they got to view the psychedelic decorations and smell the sweet aroma of the refreshments.

Those who attended

Homecoming for the first time came to realize that it is a time for the student body to really come together. As freshman Jennifer Karolewski said of her first time at a dance, "I enjoyed seeing all my friends dressed up for the first time, and I loved complimenting all of their hairstyles and dresses." Once again, the Mt. Lebanon students joined together in their casual suits and glammers gowns to prove that they could have a groovy old time.

ROCKIN' ON THE RIVER

Wow! What a night it was! Windy, cold, and wonderful! Even though the weather wasn't very agreeable, the Senior Class of 2003 journeyed to Pittsburgh's three rivers for the annual senior boatripe on September 22, 2002. The senior year had just begun and it was off to great start. Although it was cold outside, the dance floor heated up quickly. With many seniors planning to attend formal dances throughout the year, senior boatripe is "a great opportunity for the senior class to come together and have a good time, without the troubles of most formal dances," offered Caroline Hewitt. As the senior class begins to prepare for their futures, they find time to go "rockin' down the river" at this low key celebration.

SPORTIN' YOUR GAME FACE

There is something about playing intramural sports at Mt. Lebanon High School. Perhaps it is the wild and creative team names and jerseys that intramural teams devise for their seasons. Or maybe it is the opportunity to play competitively for those not talented or committed enough to play for school teams. But more than likely, the lure of this activity is the thrill of competing with and against your friends and classmates; not even varsity sports offer this advantage. As Junior Dave McDonald explains, "Intramural sports are the lifeblood of Mt. Lebanon athletics. They are all about pride, not the money. I'm all about pride, so that's why I play." Of the numerous games offered to Mt. Lebanon students, among the most popular are flag football, where Citrus Funk took the 2002 title, as well as basketball and softball which keep students occupied by something else other than studying throughout the academic year.

GET YOUR MOTOR RUNNIN'

Cars are not just a method of transportation, or a big hunk of metal. When Lebo students get a coveted Parking Permit, the fun has only begun. Some students drive every day, others only when mom or dad don't need the car for the day. Weekends are an excuse to cram all your friends into the car and go cruisin'. Cars range from mom's dorky mini-van, to pick ups and convertibles. Some students own their cars, and some just borrow dad's but it doesn't matter.

Juniors and seniors get a sense of power behind the wheel, even though it may be just driving to school and back. The excitement peaks at the 3 o'clock bell on Fridays. Students can't wait till they get out of the school, and they do some strange things when leaving the lot. Whatever the reason for a student to drive to school, and despite the new laws that make students wait 6 months, the car still stands for freedom, and no one can take that away, except for mom and dad.

GETTIN' THE PARTY STARTED

The 3:03 bell rings and students are ecstatic with the start of the weekend. There are many things to do outside and inside the Bubble. Each Friday night during winter, the ski and board club travels by buses to Seven Springs for a fun filled snowy evening on the slopes. But at home, students sometimes just veg out in front of the tv with some snack food or live out the good old days of middle school with a girls' night in. Pigging out and watching movies are just some things that people find to do when they're just hanging out. "We Chillax," said juniors Lauren Wood and Bridget Alex. Other students, like Carly Bondy, think that, "Weekends are the only time in a Mt. Lebanon school week to catch up on your sleep, what more can you ask for." But the best break from academics is a long weekend. The extra days off allow more time for kids to escape a tiresome school week and be with friends. "Weekends are a great time to have fun with friends and unwind from the long week of school," said senior Gina Holzworth. Sleeping in, going to the mall, and staying up late partying are a few Bubble favorites. But when enjoying the weekend, some Lebo teens cross the line and break the law. Although most students believe weekend partying is just good fun, the media portrayed these antics in a negative light. With exposure to the Lebo party website and the prevalent underage drinking in the Bubble, many were forced to rethink their choices for weekend activities. For others who never engaged in questionable behavior, their choices have remained the same. With the multitude of choices available, the dilemma is not so much what to do, but rather how to do it without crossing the line between fun and getting in trouble.

ACTIN' OUT

For the small hobbit, Bilbo Baggins, adventures were the last thing he ever wanted to undertake. When the famous wizard Gandalf pays a visit, however, and later the dwarves he invites begin flooding Bilbo's home, the poor hobbit unexpectedly finds himself agreeing to join them on their quest to reclaim their treasure from the evil dragon, Smaug.

Thus starts the epic adventure enacted by the first semester Evening Theatre Company from November 13, 2002 through November 16, 2002 in the play by Patricia Gray, adapted from the work by J.R.R. Tolkien, The Hobbit. Along the way to the Misty Mountains, Bilbo, portrayed by Pat Shaw and Kevin Bigger, realizes the truth in Gandalf's words, "You will find there is more to him than meets the eye." Even though the dwarves, led by Thorin Oakenshield, portrayed by Courtney Reed and Bethany Remely, constantly doubt the wizard, played by Matt Freas and Evan Jenkins, they watch the seemingly pitiful Bilbo, the small hobbit, repeatedly surprise himself and the others. Bilbo discovers his formerly untapped abilities and courage while facing the challenges of the journey, including survival skills when supplies are lost, a robbery attempt on the fearsome trolls, an intense battle with viscous goblins, outsmarting the odd predator Gollum, escaping capture by elves, and finally, defeating the malicious Smaug.

With the aid of a stunning set designed and made by the Technical Theatre students run by Mr. Kuhar, the lighting and sound effects overseen by Mr. Runquist, and whimsical costuming managed by Mrs. Disque, Mrs. Schreiner was able to impressively direct the play and produce a success. The performance of the classic story reminded audiences of the goals that can be achieved with cooperation and teamwork and the importance of challenging oneself to pursue one's full potential.

ROCKIN' DOWN THE HOUSE

The Class of 2003 Holiday Show, directed by Dr. Robert Rosen, went off without a bang again this year. Many unique groups brought their talent to the stage on December 18, 2002. Even though the entire cast had only one dress rehearsal, the show was a success. "The Holiday Show went really well this year. It was fun to see the different acts that were went on stage. Everybody did a great job!" said Elana Barliowitz, sophomore. Despite the rowdy crowd, the senior emcees kept the show moving along with their hilarious, quirky, & colorful in-between-act commentary and witty skits. Ehsan Sadeghipour, tenth grader, exposed the students of Mt. Lebanon to Tar, a Traditional Iranian musical instrument. Others danced their way on and off the stage to a roar of applause. Many students that attended had different favorites, but Blake Pieretti was often a top choice. When asked which act he liked best, Ryan Rex said, "definitely the kid with the Glow Sticks," and Zach Long barely hesitated before concurring with "Uh... Blake's." The entire cast had a fun time performing for their peers and were left full of memories for the class of 2003. The Holiday Show was a perfect way to end 2002 for the graduating seniors.

PUTTIN' ON THE RITZ

Lebo's stages hosted many good ensembles and concerts this holiday season. The Concert Band started out the week of concerts with an extremely well performed, heart pumping, performance with selections such as To Fly Without Wings by James Cunow & the Ukranian Bell Carol. The Jazz Band followed with a peppy rendition by Billy Strayhorn of Take the A-Train. Both concert band and jazz band were conducted by Mr. Doug Reichenfeld. Before intermission the wind ensemble performed Night Blues by Bruce Yurko. The evening ended with a Marching Band in Review, with special appearance by the Senior High Drum Line. Again this year, the Mt. Lebanon Senior High Orchestra split into two. Concert Choir and Triple Trio combined with these two orchestras to create a stellar, almost three hour long show. Triple Trio began that evening with a piece accompanied by Katie Ventura on harp. Concert Choir showcased its soloists Alyssa Cox, Steven Meredith, Winston Cook-Wilson, & Jeremy Landon on O Holy Night and Hayley Goldstein on Ose Shalom, The One Who Makes Peace. All groups combined for a Holiday sing along was well received by all. Then they collaborated on Leroy Anderson's A Christmas Festival which was an audience sing along. The orchestra finished the concert with the traditional performing of Sleigh Ride. The Senior High Percussion Ensemble concluded the week with two sold out concerts performed in the high school Little Theatre. Those who found themselves out of luck and with no ticket settled for listening to the melodious sounds on the Mt. Lebanon television channel.

Alyssa Cox and her date RJ Garrett purchase telescope pictures at Snowball. For just five dollars each, Telescope pictures are one of the favorites at dances. Students love to cherish their memories by attaching them to backpacks and key chains.

LETTIN' THE GOOD TIMES ROLL

Where is your favorite place to be? If you chose New Orleans then you'd feel right at home at the Snowball dance on February 8, 2003. With Mardi Gras as the theme, the dance offered attendees a very lively atmosphere. With hard work and much perseverance the group in charge of decorations devoted many hours to the outstanding appearance of Center Court. The masks that were made for the walls brightened up the dance floor, and the jesters were one of a kind. The music played was selected in advance by members of the Student Council. The dance also was full of color as the main shades of Mardi Gras are gold, green, and purple.

In addition to all the work needed for the decorations, much other help was required. This year the rules of the dance were better enforced. There were three police officers, twenty-five parents, three administrators and even Mt. Lebanon coaches who helped with the supervision of the Snowball dance. Although arrival by nine o'clock has always been a policy, the administrators decided to better enforce this rule by requiring latecomers to meet with a principal and explain tardiness to the dance. Overall the dance went very smoothly as the 850 students enjoyed their night in New Orleans.

Right: Senior Emily Caffee makes an upfield throw to senior Daniel Winer (not pictured). As the only female team member on varsity, she sets a great example for all players with her athleticism and spirit.

Circles: Mt. Lebanon seniors Nate Shestak (center) and Tom DeCesar (left) mark the thrower. Marking the thrower is similar to guarding a player in basketball. Lebo's ultimate team was founded in 2000 by Steve Hall, David Vatz, and Mark Harris.

HUCK OR YOU'RE NOTHIN'

Ultimate in 10 Simple Rules

1. The Field - A rectangular shape with endzones at each end. A regulation field is 70 yards by 40 yards, with endzones 25 yards deep.
2. Initiate Play - Each point begins with both teams lining up on the front of their respective endzone line. The defense throws ("pulls") the disc to the offense. A regulation game has 7 players per team.
3. Scoring - Each time a player catches a pass in the endzone they are attacking, that player's team scores a point. A standard game ends when one team reaches 15 points.
4. Movement of the Disc - The disc may be advanced in any direction by completing a pass to a teammate. Players may not run with the disc. The person with the disc ("thrower") has ten seconds to throw the disc. The defender guarding the thrower ("marker") counts out the stall count.
5. Change of Possession - When a pass is incomplete, the defense immediately takes possession of the disc and becomes the offense.
6. Substitutions - Players not in the game may replace players in the game only after a score or during an injury timeout.

7. Non-contact - No physical contact is allowed between players. Picks and screens are also prohibited. A foul occurs when contact is made, unless the contact is incidental.

8. Fouls - When a player initiates contact on another player, a foul occurs. If any foul should disrupt possession, the play resumes as if the possession were retained. If the player committing the foul disagrees with the foul call, the play is redone.

9. Self-Refereeing - Players are responsible for their own foul and line calls. Players resolve their own disputes.

10. Spirit of the Game - Ultimate stresses the spirit of sportsmanship and fair play. Competitive play is strongly encouraged, but never at the expense of respect between players, adherence to the rules, and the basic joy of play.

SHAPIN' THE BUBBLE

many working as one

As September rolls around, students can think of one thing: Activities Day in center court.

Whether it's the thrill of seeing what new clubs there are, signing up for old time favorites, or trying new things to stimulate the mind, there is always a variety to choose from, and usually clubs are formed to meet new friends, learn something new, fight for personal rights or just have a good time. Students can also write, govern the school, explore history, or study different cultures. As a freshman though, it can be overwhelming. It's hard to choose one club with such a wide array to pick from. Most underclassmen, and even a lot of upperclassmen who have been here for four years, find that choosing any of the numerous clubs can be difficult. Students have a tendency to sign up for many clubs, yet as the year progresses they come to realize what clubs are most important to them. As anyone can see, there are many different organizations offered to Mt. Lebanon High students. Whatever you enjoy, whether it's performing, debating, taking pictures or trying new things, you can always find a way to express yourself.

LEADIN' THE WAY

At the beginning of every school year, every homeroom nominates two representatives to the school wide Student Council. Additionally, each grade is led by its own Executive Council. The Student Council officers, Chris Trumbull, Dave Scheiferstein, Lily Junker, Brad Rodgers, Jamie John, Adam Katz, Julia Dattilo, and Steve Hall, spearheaded this year's daunting issues. They convinced the school board to keep Mrs. Henderson at Mt. Lebanon, set up the September 11th memorial flagpole, and created the novel Student Connection system to let students propose ideas to help make the high school a better place, such as Everett Manns' suggestion to improve clocks around the school.

TESTIN' THE MIND

Can't get enough academics during the day? Well, the students in Academic Games, History Day, Chess Club and Science Club can't. These kids enjoy expanding their intellects and strengthening their minds. Every year students from Science Club and History Day choose a subject, research it, and present it to a committee who judges it and decides on a winner. The winners receive money, scholarships or awards. In Academic Games there are numerous activities to compete in. These games challenge the players logical, mathematical, verbal, and mental skills. Students compete against other players from different schools, and for the past two years the team has won many titles at nationals. Chess club tests the students' patience and logical skills. There isn't any special competition held by the school, but the students still compete in tournaments. Although these clubs are academic in nature, they still provide a social outlet for students.

MAKIN' THE MUSIC

Despite the hectic school schedule, Mt. Lebanon students excel in many things outside the classroom. Most students are concerned with having the hardest and most appealing classes for colleges. Because students often look for a little breathing space in their challenging schedule, orchestra is becoming a harder class to get a spot in. The Senior High Orchestra has been overwhelmed by the growing number of students and this year was faced with four classes and two separate orchestras. "It is great to see the growing support in the arts, Bobby V's class rocks," said senior Melissa Karolewski. With the addition of Mr. Doug Reichenfeld to the fine arts faculty the jazz band flourished. The jazz band has a night of jazz each spring and the Jazz Band is an extracurricular, so students spend a lot of time out of school practicing. The orchestra members also spend a lot of time after school practicing for their two concerts a year and the all school musical, The King & I. Both groups have many talented students and offer an outlet for artistic expression.

FIGHTIN' FOR THE RIGHT

Mt. Lebanon students have many opportunities to speak out about what they believe in and form their own opinions about provocative issues.

In Amnesty International, which managed to survive a government shakedown in the 1970s under Mr. Canning's guidance, students educate themselves about human rights abuses and come together to take action.

Created five years ago, The Gay-Straight Alliance focuses on promoting the rights of LGBT (lesbian, gay, bisexual, transsexual) individuals both in school and the community and brings together many different kinds of students with similar values. In addition to sponsoring the Day of Silence, this year the GSA also initiated the Day of Awareness.

ERACISM, made popular by its tasty food, insightful speakers, and informative movies, has valiantly persevered despite Lebo's lack of diversity. Eracism teaches students about the differences and similarities that makes everyone unique.

PAC is an organization that doesn't just fight for a specific group of people, but instead they fight for everyone's rights by informing the principal on how to better the school, and the students. They give suggestions and discuss what the principal can do improve our learning environment.

HELPIN' ALONG THE WAY

In AFS, SADD, and Medical Aides, the key idea is learning. Students learn to help themselves, help others and learn to make the right decisions in life. Students in Medical Aides help Mrs. Joseph and Mrs. Drew with various responsibilities such as helping to find medical cards, and finding out symptoms of sick students. A good number of aides are doing this to help them prepare for a career in medicine. Students in SADD come together to talk about decisions that people make about the subjects drinking, smoking, politics and other important topics. They talk to one another and explain the consequences of making the wrong decisions. In AFS students learn about other cultures and heritages. They learn how people live in a society completely opposite from our own, and how young people in other countries aren't so different from us. With the knowledge these students learn, they will definitely be well prepared for life outside the bubble.

INFORMIN' THE PEOPLE

The Devil's Advocate is a monthly student-run publication which covers school news and serves as a forum for student opinions. Volunteer editors and writers of the paper devote long, hard hours after school in order to piece together each month's issue before the deadline, sometimes working until 6:00 PM.

Postscript, the literary magazine, is an outlet of creative expression for the students of Mt. Lebanon High School. At weekly meetings, members of the Postscript staff review student submissions and decide whether or not to include them in the final product.

LOG, or the yearbook, is a year round process that students from all grades participate in. The LOG staff is supervised by Ms. Grasso, and with the five editors and the help of many many hard working students, the LOG is created.

Forensics teaches students about expressing themselves in public. They meet every day to practice, and they take trips all around the country to major colleges such as Princeton, Harvard, and Yale.

Natasha Kim and Travis Larchuk review a layout for the Devil's Advocate. The Devil's Advocate is a monthly news paper distributed to all the homerooms. Students on the news paper staff put in a lot of work to create the news paper on time.

Freshman Sarah Haddad helps out with a mailing for the LOG. At the beginning of each school year, almost 2000 LOG order forms are sent out to the student body, resulting in sales of over 1500 yearbooks. And with special bargain pricing during LOG week, many students take advantage of the discount $35 price to make sure that one of the many books sold will belong to them.

Senior Steve Bechtold searches through literary pieces to find just the right selections for Postscript. Students and teachers may submit fiction, poetry and even artwork for inclusion in the literary magazine which is published once annually. Due to very creative and witty morning announcements and flyers, the membership of Postscript increased dramatically this year.

ACCEPTIN' THE CHALLENGE

Ever wonder about the challenges of life? Well the students in NHS, Mock Trial, and Model UN do. These students are preparing themselves for their future by challenging themselves. Mock Trial is an organization that stages trials to help the students prepare for a future in Law. It teaches them about how to research and explore the situations they are given. Model UN lets students role play as diplomats from all over the world, they discuss problems with their own and other countries. They learn what it's like to make decisions that will affect their country and the world as a whole. NHS teaches students to help their community and the school by volunteering to do community service. The students in these clubs like to be challenged and see if they have what it takes to meet the challenges they are given.

PUSHIN' THE LIMITS

Lots of Mt. Lebanon students feel they need a club to test their bodies along with their minds, so these students join more adventuresome organizations such as Ski, Outdoors, Environmental, and Hackey Sack clubs. They take trips, talk about improving the ecosystem and even just hang out. There is always something new and exciting to look forward to, like a new trick, or maybe a new run down a mountain. Whether it's exploring Casparis Cave, racing down Avalanche, protesting the use of Styrofoam, or hacking in Center Court, these students try to take their skills to a new level, and also try to discover new ones that they never new they had. These Mt. Lebanon students are always trying to take their interests and abilities to new heights.

BUSTIN' THE BUBBLE

showin' the way out

In Mt. Lebanon High School, the teachers tackle several roles: that of mentor, cheerleader, guide, role model, and friend among countless others. They provide their students not only with the information and training that aids in their academic success, but also teachers instill wisdom, interest, and passion for learning. While exposing students to new ideas and encouraging them to develop individual outlooks, teachers sacrifice their energy and free time in order to cultivate a lifelong joy for learning in their students. Teachers impart knowledge in their students that helps them simultaneously to appreciate the restraints within the community and also to discover opportunities outside of Mt. Lebanon. Thus, teachers essentially offer their students the insight for "bustin' out of the bubble:" they show the way out.

Junior Drew Isler weighs his salad during lunch, which helps to determine the salad's price. The cafeteria staff listens to student feedback and continually makes changes, such as including a greater variety of food and improving food quality.

Top: Senior Matt Cassidy and other art students study a large painting on a field trip to Washington, D.C. Part of creating amazing artwork is viewing amazing artwork, because students gain a better understanding of design and acquire new ideas for techniques. Junior Wanwan Zhang commented, "It was very inspirational, and the trip truly opened up my eyes to the world of art."

Juniors Perry Skoutelas, left, and Peter Harvey, right, prepare for a simulation in the library for AP U.S. History, or "APUSH" as students commonly call the class. Simulations allow students to play the role of a historical figure and engage actively and passionately in discussion. Despite the extensive amount of time students commit to the class, they gain a vast amount of knowledge during the year and improve their study habits and writing skills in the process.

1. Senior Matt Kuchera raises his hand during an English class. Students commonly look forward to class discussions, an enjoyable and enlightening activity.

2. During biology class, Emma Snyder looks through a microscope. Many students enjoy labs as an opportunity for hands-on exploration.

3. Sophomores Nick Smith and Josh Godish play calculator games at their lunch table. Although some students enjoy the length of lunch periods, others resort to different activities which include card games and homework.

4. Junior Rachel Kolko reaches into her locker after school. A simple challenge for many students is fitting numerous books and binders into their backpacks.

5. Art teacher Mr. Pelusi helps Samantha Miller with a project. Students have the opportunity to work in a variety of media including pencil, charcoal, and acrylic paint.

MAKIN' SENSE OF THE WORLD

The relationship that exists between English and Social Studies becomes increasingly stronger as Mt. Lebanon students enter high school. Information from Social Studies classes enriches literature read in English class and vice versa. In Social Studies, students gain the opportunity to explore, for example, the history of a multitude of countries including the United States. With this knowledge, students develop the ability to analyze what they learn in their Social Studies classes and discuss their ideas in a passionate manner. Similarly, students use these skills in their English classes when engaging in-class discussions, writing papers, and reading literature. Although many students do not look forward to in-class essays and Blue Book exams, English and Social Studies are generally exciting and interesting classes in which students nurture their individual opinions.

Embellishing her normally colorful outfit with a frog theme, Ms. Printz even carries a frog umbrella. She is also well-known for her extensive collection of neck ties, which she wears frequently.

How does what you learn in social studies connect to the world today?

"This year, in AP U.S. History especially, I have rethought what it means to be an American and question my American identity."
- Stacy Barron, junior

"I learned in Civics that all people have rights, but Mr. Donoghue taught me that I have no rights on the football field."
- J.J. Bianco, freshman

"By learning about the past, I feel that I better understand the origin of terrorism and even my heritage and that of my classmates."
- Marie Noonan, freshman

"By learning about the history of other countries as well as that of the United States, I feel that I better understand world conflicts and my role as a citizen."

Mr. Peter DiNardo

Although Mr. DiNardo enjoys being an A.P. U.S. History teacher, he did not always know what he wanted to be. In his years at Upper St. Clair High School, he prided himself in his exceptional math skills. Interestingly, he considered being a Civil Liberties Attorney for a brief moment. Despite devoting a lot of himself to his profession, he commits his free time to his family. In fact, in Oakland, CA, 1987, Mr. DiNardo helped a woman off the bus with her bags; it turns out, she was his future wife. He was married in a cathedral of pine trees, as well. Mr. DiNardo also says that he has learned a great deal from his children. Mr. DiNardo's hobbies include reading extensively and watching and playing sports. Although he was senior class vice-president, he was called into a private meeting with the principal and authorities for various undisclosed reasons. Surprisingly enough, he was registered as a Republican in his first presidential election.

Mr. Kich continued pursuing math at Duquesne University and Indiana University of Pennsylvania.

The high school provides a variety of Math, Science, and Business classes to students in order to ensure for their flourishing futures.

The proficiency gained in these classes is becoming increasingly essential for life after high school in which an understanding, for example, of creating a budget and using a microscope are key.

Calculators save the lives of many students who are forever indebted to the graphing capabilities of their techno-savvy, electronic "friend," the TI-83. Exploration, a uniting aspect of the math, science, and business classes, allows students to discover the inner workings of an atom, imaginary numbers, and even the proper way to balance a checkbook. These classes truly prepare Mt. Lebanon students for success in their future.

EXPRESSIN' YOURSELF

World Languages and Fine Arts classes develop the skills that allow students to express themselves in a variety of ways. In foreign language class, students learn about other countries and cultures and practice speaking and writing in another language. The Fine Arts department encourages student expression, ranging from perfecting instrumental skills, painting and drawing, and acting in a daytime or theater production. Regardless of the outlet of expression and language of choice, Mt. Lebanon students take pride in their creativity.

Senior Joah Brown exhibits her creativity as she forms a sculpture in her art class. Many students enjoy taking one of a variety of classes available, which include both 2-Dimensional and 3-Dimensional Art as well as an Advanced Placement class.

What do you like the most about learning a foreign language?

"I have family friends in France and learning French will help me converse with them. It is also important for me to learn a foreign language because I want to be a voice major in college."

- Gina Morgano, junior

"I took Spanish because I hope to use it in my future or in my career. I would love to visit Spain or Colombia where my grandpa lives."

- Alyssa Patton, freshman

"I love that you can go to Spain or Mexico and talk with the natives without sounding like an ignorant American."

- Estee Hausman, junior

Mrs. Dorish loves her job. She started teaching at Mt. Lebanon about nine years ago, graduated from Boudoin College in Maine, and studied romance languages and flamenco in Spain at the University of Seville. Sports constitute an important part of her life, for she participated in swimming, field hockey, lacrosse, dance, and ice skating. Despite her busy schedule, she still skis, golfs, and runs frequently.

Ironically, she even met her husband through sports: they were both taking karate and she side kicked him. Mrs. Dorish also enjoys spending time with her family, which includes her daughter Madeline. Her biggest regret in life is not practicing the piano as much as her parents told her, and her favorite foods include coffee and chocolate. In general, Mrs. Dorish is a very active person with a fulfilling career.

Mrs. Sharon Gamble

The aroma of freshly baked chocolate chip cookies wafting through the sixth floor halls can be traced back to Mrs. Sharon Gamble's foods classroom. For the past eight years that she has been teaching at Mt. Lebanon High School, Mrs. Gamble's topics have included the foods courses, fashion arts, and consumer science. After graduating from college, Mrs. Gamble started teaching right away, but quit six years later when her son was born. Before joining the Mt. Lebanon faculty,

Mrs. Gamble taught adult cooking classes and developed recipes and package instructions for H.J. Heinz. At one time, Mrs. Gamble did behind - the - scenes food preparation for a local cooking show; she has not, however, harbored a desire to host her own cooking program. At home, Mrs. Gamble enjoys sewing and preparing pasta dishes. So, if you want to enjoy the foods that create the wonderful smells filling the halls, take one of Mrs. Gamble's classes.

Sophomore Allison Vatz stretches before playing kickball during Ms. Billotte's gym class. Gym teachers dedicate at least the first five minutes of class to stretching in order to prevent any pulled muscles or other injuries.

For most students, gym is a much needed, though often not desired, break in the school schedule. Two times for each five day rotation seems to be the best fit to achieve the required physical education half credit each semester.

However, all this is about to change, with a new policy taking effect for the 2003-2004 school year. Incoming freshmen will complete an information technology course for a semester, then, along with the sophomores, one semester of gym that will be four times a rotation. In an effort to ease hectic schedules and for the opportunity to take additional courses, physical education will become an elective for juniors and seniors. Of course, there will still be upperclassmen who can't get enough of their favorite gym sports/activities, including dodgeball, football, water sports and the fitness room, so they still take gym. But, for students who don't participate in sports or other physical activities, gym provides time for much needed exercise.

LIVIN' TOMMORROW FOR

What do you think of next year's gym policy?

"I feel bad for the freshmen, but I'm glad I don't have to take time with gym anymore."
- Kostadin Petrov, sophomore

"Sounds horrible! Who came up with it?"
- Evan Mendenhall, freshman

"I would rather have study hall twice a week then gym four days a week."
- Emily Fogoros, freshman

SERVIN' THE SCHOOL

At Mt.

Lebanon High School, the student body is extremely privileged to have various support staffs besides teachers. Among these groups are the guidance department, student services, and the athletic office.

Students pose with a reclining Dr. Susini to wish him luck and say good-bye during a party in the AO. Many students cultivated friendships with Dr. Susini and expressed sadness at his departure from the high school.

Questions regarding colleges, schedules or even personal problems are directed toward one of the school's many guidance counselors. Student services includes the Study Center, where homework help can be received, the Community Service Office, where students can give back to the community, and the Activities Office, which runs various school-oriented activities. Another helpful place is the Athletic Office which provides students with various opportunities to participate in sports, both WPIAL affiliated and intramural. Whenever something comes up, there is always somebody who will be able to assist, no matter what the situation.

Why do you visit your guidance counselor?

"I just go to talk to my guidance counselor and eat the candy in her room."
- Bailey Cahall, senior

"I don't go to my guidance counselor because I seek the advice of my friends instead."
- Steve Dayoub, sophomore

"I go to my guidance counselor when I have questions about my schedule or college."

Also, she keeps records on every student's volunteer hours and is an adviser to National Honors Society applicants. Mrs. Goldschmidt is a native Pittsburgher who has participated in community service projects since the age of fourteen. Before working for the Mt. BUSTIN' THE BUBBLE

Rising to the Challenge

This year, the student-athletes of Mt. Lebanon again proved their commitment to winning by claiming several WPIAL titles, continuing the tradition of athletic achievement inside the Mt. Lebanon bubble. Although each of the teams adhered to the fundamental recipes for success by exhibiting great tenacity, perseverance, and desire to win, they showed themselves to be more than capable of cutting loose to have all kinds of fun in the process. Despite several teams losing key senior athletes, they adapted remarkably well and bounced back to post impressive records despite encountering setbacks. Additionally, strong bonds were formed among teammates, resulting in lasting friendships. This promoted a strong sense of camaraderie, contributing to the overall unity that resulted in a strong drive towards a common purpose-success. Regardless of the final records, each team claimed victories on many levels.

Marching Towards "Respect"

To kick off the busy but fun-filled band season the band performed on their last day of band camp in the Kennywood Fall Fantasy Parade. Other performances in the season included all the football games, the Memorial Day Parade as well as the Mt. Lebanon Halloween Parade, and the South Fayette, Upper St. Clair, and Bethel Park Band Festivals. The band also excellently performed at their own festival of bands in September for a packed stadium. All of this success occurred despite the scramble for practice time on the turf caused by the rescheduling of events due to inclement weather. In addition, the band held regular early morning practices to solve the problem of being bumped from the field. And with the blue lines in the parking area, the band also utilized the parking lot after school to get in much-needed practices. All this hard work is necessary for the band trip to Myrtle Beach in April.

SILKS/ROCKETTES

Despite being faced with the challenge of yet another new sponsor, the Silks and Rockettes had another successful season. Both groups began practicing early in the summer to learn the complex routines they performed throughout the season. In addition to following the football team to every away game, the Band, Silks, and Rockettes also participated in three band festivals, three parades, and a spring trip to Myrtle Beach. Even with this intense schedule, the morale of each group remained high. Silks were led by senior captain Caroline Hewitt and assistant Lindsay Antonucci, the Rockettes by co-captains Catlin Lee-Covert, Erin Flynn, and Andrea Walkowiak.

Overcoming Obstacles

The Mt. Lebanon cheerleaders had another great season this year. To start the year off right they had "one of the most productive summer camps in a while," claimed Mrs. Stilley, the varsity head coach. The Elite Cheerleaders taught them new dances and cheers. As a result, the first football game gave the girls a chance to display their talents. "The girls just looked amazing!" said Coach Stilley. Even though the cheerleaders had a great season, they have had to overcome many obstacles. Many of the girls were injured and unable to cheer. They also lost the junior varsity coach halfway through the year and had to find a replacement. Despite these challenges, the girls had a wonderful year, full of lasting memories. The favorite moment of Lucy Frank, Jessi Mineo, and Lauren Brown came when "There was a mounting chain reaction of falls. By the end, we were in a heap of laughing bodies."

Continuing the Tradition

Mount Lebanon football has created an unquestionably impressive legacy by following a winning tradition that persists year after year. The program's accomplishments and the hard work of its players make Mt. Lebanon a perennial threat to claim the WPIAL title. Success is not always measured in statistics and championships, however, as many players make significant contributions and achieve great things both on and off the field, often without recognition. Although this year's team failed to make the playoffs, they displayed admirable commitment and perseverance by improving game after game and never giving up in spite of setbacks that faced the squad. Overcoming injuries and filling gaps left by last year's graduating seniors proved the greatest challenges, but the team nevertheless met them with unyielding dedication. Despite these obstacles, the team achieved numerous personal victories that cannot be conveyed through scores and statistics.

Swinging in the Sun!

The Mt. Lebanon girls golf team started the season off with one main goal in mind: to beat last year's record. Although the team had trouble keeping some of the players that started at the beginning of the season, they quickly recovered with two juniors who joined mid season. "Carrie and Hannah did a great job holding the team together. Even though Carrie was an unexpected golfer, she showed great potential," said Coach LuAnne Smail. Some other first year veterans who joined the team with returning players Emily Scichilone and Kathryn Hart were Laura Beynon and Julia Dattilo, who "made the practices very interesting to go to," according to Carrie. Awarded "Athlete of the Month," Kathryn did an amazing job in the Individual Section Qualifier at USC Country Club. According to Coach LuAnne, "She has led the team once again!" The girls golf team had a challenging start this past fall, yet they accomplished their goal with a final score of 4-10. Coach LuAnne says, "next season looks bright with several promising players," although senior Julia Dattilo will be missed deeply.

While the team was busy reducing their scores, teammates Dattilo and Beynon found time to relax and have some fun on the green.

Emerging Talents

Despite losing key players to graduation last year, the golfers played hard and practiced long to lower their scores and remain competitive with some of the best teams in the WPIAL. Critical to the team's success were senior leaders Mike Heher, Andrew Shannon, Brad Alcorn, and Jed Anderson. In addition, underclassmen Bruce Schmerling and Zach Lewis posted impressive scores to assist the team in their victories. Zach, a sophomore, surprised many by qualifying for WPIAL's. Junior Ryan Eckenrode remarked, "with the talent we have I think we did very well. We overcame a lot of adversity and hopefully our momentum will carry on to next year." With over half of the Varsity team being seniors, the team will also need to rise to the challenge next year, but several rising talents will allow the team to approach the new year with confidence.

GIRLS CROSS COUNTRY

"They Get Around"

Showing that expectations for the season were not too high, the girls cross country team met their accomplishments from last year, while achieving further successes. The team again finished with an undefeated regular season. This year, however, the girls bettered themselves by becoming WPIAL champions and capturing sixth place in the state meet at Hershey Park. Their hard work and ability to face pressure assures all that they will return next season, prepared, competent, and ready to win. The seniors leading the team this year were Casey DePasquale, Chrissy Geiger, Blair

Kurtz, Erin Marmion, Cara O'Boyle, Miki Palchick, and Kelly Towns.

The Mount Lebanon Boys Country team had an outstanding season this year. Training began in June and the team ran and lifted weights throughout the summer. The hard work paid off in the regular season when the team became undefeated section champions for the twelfth consecutive year. As the season came to a close, the boys also finished the year with a WPIAL championship first place trophy for the third year in a row. The team was led by front runners James O'Toole and Brad Rogers. Also contributing to the impressive success of the team this year were Derek Heiss, Andrew Davidson, Chris Trumbull, Ryan Bunch, and Brent Thiel.

FIELD

HOCKEY

Ready for Action

A second year WPIAL sport, this field hockey season was definitely a step up from last year. (Helped in part by the new warmups!) The team's continued improvement was spurred on by Coaches West and Jess McGarry as well as two new coaches, Erin McNeil and Jess Kates. The team was also propelled by its twelve seniors. WPIALS were not an option this year but varsity certainly played their hardest in the two battles against North Allegheny. North Allegheny is a powerhouse and best known in this area for field hockey. The Mt. Lebanon team showed great strength in pushing them into overtime at both games. The Mt. Lebanon team was also fortunate this year to have five players make WPIAL teams. Katie Wheeler, Sarah Szefti, and Katherine McCaffrey made the first team. Gina Crough and Lora Sodini made the second team. Congratulations to both JV and Varsity on a successful season.

GIRLS VOLLEYBALL

Preparing for the Future

Losing several key players, Mt. Lebanon's girls volleyball team underwent a reconstructive season, finishing with five wins and seven losses in section play. During this season, however, all the players stepped up to fill the positions of the graduating seniors. Among their accomplishments this season was earning a second place finish in the Penn Hills Tournament. The girls volleyball team may not have won any championships this season, but they certainly grew as individuals and players. After putting in hours of arduous work, a cohesive team emerged to come back and finish the season strong. There is an abundance of talent on the team, and the future looks bright for next year's season.

Lisa Pascoli shows her tenacity by challenging a St. Clair player for control of the ball. Lisa, a senior, has started on the varsity team all four years and has proven her talent countless times.

GIRLS

Driving to Victory

This year saw another impressive outing for the girls soccer team. The girls team, ranked number one throughout most of the season, finished with an amazing 21-2-1 record. The girls also went 14-0 in section play, winning Section IV and claimed first place at the Family First National Premier Cup. In the playoffs, the girls team was stunned by Upper St. Clair in the semifinals. The team also made the PIAA state playoffs, but was stopped in the quarterfinals. Despite a disappointing finish, the girls nevertheless posted outstanding individual achievements in addition to their impressive regular season performance. Seniors Robin Bunch, Christine Gans, and Lisa Pascoli were nominated to the all-WPIAL team. In addition, Lisa earned a place on both the PIAA all-state and eastern regional All American teams. Emily Cooperstein, Shannon Rengers, and Mollie Puskar made the all-section team as well.

Boys Soccer Unstoppable

Following two early season losses to Upper St. Clair and Chartiers Valley, the boys soccer team overcame their early season difficulties to finish with an impressive 23-3 record. The team also went undefeated in section play, winning all fourteen games. The team progressed through stiff competition in the WPIAL playoffs, claiming victories over Ringgold, Pine-Richland, and Chartiers Valley, to advance to the WPIAL finals. In the championship game, played on Halloween night, Mt. Lebanon defeated Upper St. Clair in a decisive victory. The team also advanced to the quarterfinals in the PIAA playoffs. While the team stuck together to win numerous games, several individuals were honored for their individual performances. Brad Frye, Matt Langton, Pat Kerr, and Nate Timm were nominated to the All-WPIAL team. Junior Matt Langton was also recognized by making the PIAA all-state team.

GIRLS TENNIS

Servin' up Success

A perfect combination of team camaraderie over an Olive Garden dinner table and exciting matches made this year's season memorable for the five seniors on the varsity squad. From family bus rides filled with "Lean on Me" to pumpkin cheesecake, the girls tennis team served their way through another stellar season. The secret to their success this season was a combination of strong preseason practices and continued improvement throughout the year. As senior Rachel Abbott put it: "My girls worked hard and played even harder. The family will be my fondest memory." This hard work was evident in their strategic singles and competitive doubles play that led the team to 10 wins this year. In section doubles, senior Kelsey Nee and freshman Amy Marchlen battled their way through a tough three-set playoff match in order to gain a birth in WPIAL competition. For seniors Rachel Abbott, Abby Hnath, Kelsey Nee, Anjani Ravindra, and Michelle Santoro, this year's season will always be remembered as one filled with energizing matches, challenging practices, and enduring team spirit.

Fightin' the Currents

Two-and-a half-hour workouts, five days a week, August through May. Back-wrenching exertions to either fight the current of the waves or glide with precision across swift water. Gaining lifelong friendships with a variety of exceptionally funny, strong, and smart teammates. Mt. Lebanon's Crew Team means all this and more. What makes crew a remarkable experience, though, is not just each student's commitment to attaining his or her personal best. It is a real attainment of the satisfaction of balance, discipline, and teamwork, brought about in some of the most natural locations. By the end of this year, the team will have competed regionally at the Head of the Ohio and in sprints on Lake Arthur. At the national level, races occur at the Midwest Scholastic Championships on Lake Michigan. Qualifying boats then compete internationally at St. Catherine's in Canada. These trips not only provide the thrill of competitive success, but, more importantly, serve as the background for the experiences of a lifetime.

Coxswain Anna Langsdale motivates her rowers Mike Dunbar, Mike Gallagher, Bob Morgan, and Matt Nalitz in the Varsity Men's Four event at the Head of the Cuyahoga. With three coxswains already on the girls team, and the need for a light weight coxswain on the boys team, Anna Langsdale was a perfect fit for the guys.

Leading By Example

This season, the wrestling team showed great promise. Two of its juniors, Andy Pritchard and Travis Irwin, qualified for the National High School Wrestling Championship. To gain an invitation to this prestigious tournament, the guys had to finish among the top four wrestlers in their weight class in the state. In addition to this impressive achievement, expectations were further met by senior captains Dan Delitto and Sam Karp. With a combined eleven years of wrestling experience, both Dan and Sam led the team by consistently performing well both on and off the wrestling mat. The combination of experienced seniors and rising talent enabled the team to record a record of 12-8, with a 5-3 record in section play. In addition, freshman Maryna Trusova joined the team this year, becoming the first female wrestler in the history of the Mt. Lebanon program.

Junior Travis Irwin locks his opponent's arm in a half-nelson. Along with Andy Pritchard, Travis qualified for the National High School Coaches' Association Open National Championships.

Blades of Steel

ICE HOCKEY

This year's hockey team featured a potent offense, which repeatedly registered games with 5 or more goals. Among these lopsided victories were their 9-1 win over Hempfield and their 8-1 triumph over Erie McDowell. Leading the attack were junior captain Bill Leckenby, senior Eddie DiGregory, junior Eric Sloan, and sophomore Chad Uddstrom. In addition to their goal scoring capabilities, the Blue Devils displayed remarkable defensive tenacity. Sophomore Evan Baehr and freshman Matt Vaughan split time in the net. Both underclassmen gained valuable experience at the goalie position this year. Helped by defenders Kevin Carlin, Jeff Simons, Josh Evron, Dan Wilen, Brian Hammel, and Jack Milhouse, the young goalies helped protect the leads generated by the more experienced offensive corps. Despite playing in the intensely competitive South Division of the PIHL class AAA, the Blue Devils notched another impressive season.

Junior Eric Sloan retains the puck with one hand on the stick while being hooked from behind. Eric, an alternate captain this year, was selected along with Eddie DiGregory to represent Mt. Lebanon at the PIHL class AAA All-Star Game.

Sophomore goaltender Evan Baehr clears the puck along the end boards before an approaching forward can play the puck.

"The preseason showed us that we had a lot of slack to pick up, as soon as the season rolled around we knew what had to be done."

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Sticking Together

The girls basketball team likes to start off the season right: bonding. This, of course, means the annual sleepover at Katie Kestler's house playing capture the flag and roasting marshmallows. It seems to work because the team continued to grow together and has had a remarkable season as a result. The team was led by senior Katie Kestler who has a career point total of over 1000 points. In addition, Katie sunk the most three-pointers. With the good, however, the bad likes to follow. Half of the team's starters were injured at the midpoint of the season. In addition, another obstacle the team will have to face in the future is the replacement of Head Coach Pete Serio. Coach Serio will be leaving the team because his wife got a job as the head coach of the WNBA's Minnesota Lynx.

A Winning Combination

BOYS BASKETBALL

The Mount Lebanon boys basketball team surprised fans and coaches alike with an impressive regular season that yielded an 18-6 record, including an 8-4 record in their section, and a first-round playoff birth against Pine-Richland. The team got their senior leadership this year from Travis Bluemling, Zach Beebe, Chris Mikita, Pat Dougherty, Colin Wells, Corey Wingen, and Justin Yakovac. Many underclassmen such as Bill Babe and Brent Stokar also helped propel the team to many victories. The basketball team's strong combination of talented, athletic players and a solid coaching staff headed by second year head coach Joe David should lead the team to many successful seasons in the future.

Martha Kulic, one of four juniors to qualify for the WPIAL swim meet, practices the backstroke.

Building a Dynasty

Despite losing five members of last year's state championship team, the girls swim team still had high goals for success entering this season. Led by senior co-captains Nikki Staar and Kara Zamanski, as well as fellow senior Ashley Kochanek, the girls posted a 9-3 record. Junior Kaitlyn Orstein, a two-time state champion in the 100 breaststroke, continued to impress, qualifying for WPIALs in every event with the state cut time. Juniors Mackenzie Stunkard, Martha Kulic, and Ellen Pierson, sophomores Molly Engelmeier and Allison Stand, and freshman Lindsay Champ all qualified for the WPIAL championship on February 20 and 21. As the girls attempt to win "wips" for the third consecutive year, Engelmeier says, "It's always scary going into a big meet like WPIALs but I know, no matter what, we'll all go out there and swim our best."

A Promising Future

Boys SWIMMING

The boys swim team recovered from losing two vital seniors with the addition of some freshman talent: Gunnar Aasen, Wesley Aasen, and Colin Quirk all qualified for WPIALs in their first year on the team. Sophomore phenom Dan Eckel continues to impress, along with fellow classmates Dan Quirk and Dan Robinson. The junior qualifiers Chip Smith, Jake Hoyson, and Kris Clements bring a spirit of fun and adventure to the team. Under the exemplary leadership of senior captain Dan Aiello and the managerial skills of senior Ben Chin, the team achieved an impressive 8-5 record. With a young and talented team, hope for the future is bright.

Senior Captain Leah Morrison takes aim downrange. She has been the leading shooter over the past few years.

Junior Alaina Cauchie goes through the five steps in order to shoot the perfect bullseye - breathing, sight picture, position, trigger squeeze, and follow through. Coach George Dietz always reminds team members that the exclusion of any of these steps is a guaranteed way not to hit the bullseye.

Sophomore Lauren Zasadil lines herself up to make sure that her position is dead on. Even being a centimeter off of position can cause a shot to be out several rings.

RIFLE TEAM

On Target for the Gold

The 2003 Rifle team accomplished many goals this year with hard work and dedication. Working extremely well as a team, it was not surprising that they act much like a family unit. In fact, Steve Kasky is dubbed the "name picker" of the rifle team. Leah Morrison is called Button, Cody Gonze is named Princess Kitty, Alaina Cauchie goes by Felix, Erik Ostergaard is Colonel Paunchy, and Lauren Zasadil's aliases include Pizazz, Tilex, and Phoenix.

This year the rifle team encountered many incidents including one that left captain Ben Sun devastated. For the first time during a match one of the Anschutz rifles broke and was no longer able to operate. At a price of two thousand dollars per rifle, a broken rifle is no laughing matter. Captain Ben Sun used another rifle and the match continued, although the frantic events shook the team so much that defeat resulted, being one of only two losses for the entire season. During another match, Lebo's friendly rivalry with Bethel Park grew even more intense as the Blue Devils pulled out a hard fought victory with a score of 800-795. Lebo ended up beating Bethel Park in both matches they shot against them.

With Leah Morrison and Ben Sun leading the way, the rifle team continues to prevail. The Junior Varsity is also off to a great start while striving to later become worthy of shooting at the varsity level. Freshmen Cody Gonze and Molly Mathews both made remarkable strides by earning varsity letters in their first year of competition. With such a lineup of talents, it was no surprise that the rifle team claimed this year's WPIAL title.

BUSTIN' THE BUBBLE

gettin' to know ya

While some find the Bubble restrictive, there is one overwhelming positive; the people. The people are what make the Bubble bearable, and Mt. Lebanon High School is lucky enough to have 1,885 wonderful personalities within its walls.

The freshman raised over 1,000 dollars with their cookbooks, the sophomores had Market Day, the juniors saved the rest of the school from an early morning with their testing, and the seniors pushed the limits of the law, but that's all part of the Mt. Lebanon experience.

COOKIN' IT UP

In school years past, the freshmen class has been thought of as the bubble gum on the high school shoe, worthy only of being scraped off and thrown away, but this year the underclassmen have busted out of the bubble by earning respect in academics, athletics, and community outreach. Although making the transition from middle school to high school may be overwhelming, this year's ninth graders have risen to the challenge. The freshmen have proven they are more than mere shadows wandering aimlessly around our hallowed halls when they participated in many service projects, like Random Acts of Kindness Day, where they could be spotted remulching Bird Park, working at Mt. Lebanon's Fire Department, and interacting with the little devils at Lincoln, Foster, and Hoover Elementary schools. The freshmen's efforts also extended to areas outside of Mt. Lebanon as they lent a helping hand to the Salvation Army, Sojourner House, and the Three Rivers Youth Home. In years past, the freshies thought of prom and senior boat ride as far off occasions pulled off by last minute fundraising, whereas this year they enthusiastically designed and distributed a teacher cookbook to raise over a thousand dollars for their account. Freshman Naomi Blaushild said this year's amazing response to the sale "was a good start to what we will accomplish as a class."

WHAT IS YOUR REACTION TO THE EXPOSED UNDERAGE DRINKING IN THE BUBBLE?

"I don't think that this issue is as big as everyone makes it out to be. People have always been exposed to alcohol, so it's going to be hard to change it now."

-Dina Alberts

"It's about time someone found out. You can't stop it, you can only hope to control it."

-Adam Potter

"I believe that even if underage drinking was exposed, there is nothing adults can do. Even if they restrict and ground their kids, alcohol is still out there. Parents are fighting a losing battle."

WHY DO YOU WANT TO "BUST OUT OF THE BUBBLE?"

"I'm sick of not being able to experience other cultures. There's very little diversity here."

-Sarah Hicks

"I really don't see why people find Mt. Lebanon so horrible.

Personally I am glad I don't need to deal with some things other districts need to."

-Erik Ostergaard

"Because you are so protected in 'the Bubble.' You are not prepared for the issues of the future in the Real World."

-Katie Sullivan

"I think the school is a little too overprotective about what kids wear and say, but other than that it's cool."

-Brad McKnight

MOVING ON UP

Mary Kate McAuley, Hannah Oramas, and Chelsea Ely head off to see fireworks on the 4th of July.

As members of the class of 2005, we rejoice in escaping the freshmen fears. No longer looked down upon as freshman, the sophomore experience overall is positive despite the increased amount of homework. But all sophomores are happy that they got to sleep in while freshman and juniors had to come in for testing. As sophomore Katherine Woodyard explains, "With my new understanding and experience of the school, my 10th grade year has been a lot easier than 9th, but I'm in fear academically for next year." As well as challenging themselves academically, the sophomore executive council, under the supervision of Mrs. Anselmi & Mrs. Koprivnikar created class T-shirts and adopted a family for the holidays. This year we continued to work on an ongoing the Market Day fundraiser. By working hard to raise money for the class we hope to be able to cover the many expenses of senior year. The strong involvement in class activities we hope will continue through our senior year. The class members were also happy with the increased freedom of sophomore year, "My favorite memory from sophomore year was being old enough to go the ski trip to Smuggler's Notch, Vermont and chilling with upperclassmen," said Lily Synder. As junior year quickly approaches, we must bid farewell to the memorable sophomore days and face the challenges junior year holds for us.

WHAT ADVICE WOULD YOU GIVE TO FUTURE SOPHOMORES?

"If you're not cool, and by cool I mean sweet, and by sweet I mean totally sweet ninja, then watch your back!"

-Derek DiPietro

"My advice would be to balance schoolwork time and social time, because trying overly hard only leads to stress."

FLOATIN' TO THE TOP

Characteristics of the typical junior year were again conveyed by the Class of 2004 as they encountered various challenges academically and with their chosen extracurricular activities. While the juniors of Mt. Lebanon High School progressed through 2002 and 2003, many experienced a sense of frustration as they struggled through the hours of homework and team practices. This was the year where many found it imperative to perfect the concept of time management amidst their busy schedules, especially for those individuals who have carried a demanding load of Honors and AP classes and participated in sports or clubs. Rachel Graham, a junior, summarized her feelings about the 2002-2003 school year, "Junior year is a lot of work-with the homework and hard classes; but it's also fun. It really depends on how much you put into it." While many juniors welcomed their sixteenth or seventeenth birthday, they had the added privilege of driving to and from school with the licenses they received over the summer or during the school year. Juniors were also permitted to get a glimpse of potential colleges through daily college meetings and were given the chance to participate in career days. Both programs helped many juniors to "bust out of the bubble" through the presentation of various careers and fields available to them after high school and in college. Nicki Crock, a junior, in response to the college meetings said, "Even though I haven't gone to any meetings yet, I've heard that they were really helpful. They can introduce many new, exciting, and sometimes scary aspects of college life in the safety of the high school environment." However, with much learning and new discoveries, the Class of 2004 is prepared to make another transition from their junior year to their last year in high school.

WOULD YOU RAISE A FAMILY IN THE BUBBLE LATER IN LIFE?

"No, because it is too sheltered in the Bubble and there's a lot more to see in the world that Mt. Lebanon can offer."

-Ashley Henning

"I would never raise a family here. Because of the overprotective nature and attitudes, I don't think it's a healthy environment to expose children to. They need to understand that there is more to life than LEBO."

-Cassie Ramirez

"I wouldn't raise a family in Mt. Lebanon because I refuse to ever come back to Mt. Lebo once I leave."

-Chris Cain

"Yes, I would raise a family in Lebo because I am familiar with everything and everyone here. Plus, this has been my home- I'm comfortable here."

WHY DO YOU WANT TO "BUST OUT OF THE BUBBLE?"

"To see what real like is like and to encounter different kinds of people. Leaving "the Bubble" gives you a very different and valuable education about the world than you would get in the High School."
-Afton Manning

"Because people of this town aren't real, not that I'm saying I am, but just that it all really gets to me. I hate it here."
-Dave Kipp

"I just want to be chillin' out; havin' a good time in Montana."
-Nate Wells

"To get out and see the world and how different it is from Mt. Lebanon."

CLASS 2004 OF

Dave Heinz pulls a "Jimi Hendrix" at the 2003 Holiday Show. This year's holiday show featured numerous hard driving rock acts highlighting the recent return of more traditional music, while previous shows were predominantly influenced by pop and hip-hop.

Long time couple Brandi Engel and Andy Goff snuggle at the Snowball dance on February eighth.

Laura Beynon chows down on a taco filled with all her favorite toppings.

1.

As the Class of 2003 prepares for the world outside of the Mt. LEBO Bubble, let's take a moment to reminisce about the memories created here. When driving home after a crazy day at the high school, many seniors smile at the elementary school safeties; they remember wearing the orange belts that allowed them to boss everyone else around. When stuck inside the school's cafeterias, one recalls the days that they could go home, Uptown, or Beverly Road for lunch only to return to their exciting recess. After school, girls learned about teenage life when Clarissa explained it all and danced in front of the TV when Ed McMahon announced the winners of Star Search. Boys enjoyed battling Shredder with those "heroes in a half-shell" on their new SEGA or Super Nintendo. Don't forget the brotherly love between Pete and Pete! When not immersed in the current pop culture, kids were outside playing Release, all kinds of Tag, or goofing off at the Towne Fair. Many hours were also spent slamming POGS or buying cards from Juan at Legends Sport Shop.

4.

Yet there were the glory days called Field Trips; the Planetarium, Camp Lutherlan and Kon-o-Kwee, Simmons and Trax Farm, and the Zoo. Who could forget the sixth grade trip to the Science Center for Wonder of Wonders? Fridays were complete with after school skates and the old TGIF lineup on ABC. Birthday parties at Spinning Wheels and SNICK filled the hours of the weekends. Sleepovers were commonplace and no parent thought twice about what their kids were being exposed to.

5.

With the big move to the junior high, then the 2 middle schools, this class became the only one to experience 4 schools in 4 years. A new sense of maturity formed as students began to juggle an 8 period schedule with a Day 1-5 week. Everyone can remember getting lost at some point and being terrified to ask an upperclassman for directions. Entering the school as lowly freshmen, some were a bit intimidated by the high school stigma, but most couldn't wait to be SENIORS! Well, Class of 2003, we have made it. We have survived SAT's, the AP Exams, and the craziness of finding dates to the dances. We've made new friends and possibly left some old ones. We've fallen in and out of love as many times as we change our clothes. But all this cannot change the fact that this was our last year in Mt. Lebanon High School. Though we can't wait for graduation day, make these last moments count. This has been the Class of 2003's year, and these have been some of our memories.

6.

1. Courtney Kist thinks deeply about her senior year agenda.

2. Matt Cassidy works diligently on the class mural of 2003.

3. Waiting for their food, Laura Donahoe hopes to satisfy her hunger on Steve Garland's shoulder.

4. Adam Cooper smiles for his victory on the Alpine Slide at Seven Springs.

5. Julie Davidson and Emily Frankowski demonstrate their Blue Devil spirit before a field hockey game.

6. LEBO boys Ben Webster, sophomore Paul Katz, Pat Shaw, Tom DeCesar, and Ben Chin cheer on their favorite field hockey players at every game of the season.

7. Seniors Scott Criswell, John Bonenberger, Ross Acrey, Chris Zimdahl, Matt Rusnic, and Brian Egal walk up to the school after the early morning senior class picture in the bleachers.

Hayley Goldstein

*Hayley,
It's hard to believe you're graduating high school. Don't look at it as an end but a beginning to new opportunities and challenges.
We're very proud of you!*

*Love,
Mom, Dad, Justin and Lindsay*

Mark McMahon

*Marko,
You're the last of the McMahons going through Mt. Lebanon and have carried on a proud tradition. You have grown in more ways than one into a fine young man with the world ahead of you. Keep your sense of humor and always know how proud we are of you and what you have accomplished.*

*Love,
Mom, Brie, Matt and Dad*

Julie Renee Davidson

*Julie,
Dad and I can hardly believe
it's time for you to go to college.
It was only yesterday when you were a small, curly-headed moppet. We are very proud of you. Always remember to carry your name proudly & to use your God given gifts to help others. Our love is everlasting.
God bless you,
Mom & Dad*

Kelsey Logan Nee

Princess,
"Heigh Ho, Heigh Ho" it's off to school you go! May you always
"whistle while you work" and may
"all your wishes" come true.
Thank you for sharing your cheerful, kind spirit with your sometimes "grumpy" family and for reminding us that we're
"never too old to be young." God bless you, Baby.

Brad Rodgers

Brad,
You have been blessed with so many talents! May God continue to help you achieve your goals. We are so very proud of you and wish you happiness always!

not if you care for us - stay, little Valentine, stay... true to who you are. Keep smiling!
We love you,
Mom, Dad and Renata

Jenna Laine Pollice

Jenna,
It is hard to believe how quickly time flew by, but now it's time to set you free. Remember everything you learned in the "big house," and you'll be fine.
Wishing you happiness and success on the outside.
With love,
Your Cell Mates

Maureen Rees

Mo,
*It all seemed to fly by in the blink of an eye.
One day a small girl hugging a pink bear,
The next day a woman all grown up and aware.*
May Life bring you happiness, good health & much love.
As you fly into the future like a beautiful dove.
We send you our prayers as you spread your wings & soar,
Just remember that love is waiting for you behind our front door.
Mom, Dad & Julia

Circle: Senior Vince Mancuso, Mr. Satira and junior Garret Drexler contemplate the errors in their final programs during seventh period C++.

Below: There's no stopping Leigh Argentieri & Jessica Nehme during their trip to Chautauqua.

Freshmen, Jenny Karolewski & Alex Hilbert put themselves to the test outside the Bubble at Camp Kon-O-Kwee's Teen Adventure Program.

For many the final holiday show of their high school career offers closure, while for others the promise for future holiday shows offers many memories to come.

Left: While waiting for all classes to get seated in the gym for the Rocky Bleier Assembly, students participate in the wave.

IS THERE LIFE AFTER THE BUBBLE??

After a year of working with our theme, one conclusion always floats to the top: The Bubble really ain't too bad! Despite how we often seem to think that it is, it really has turned out not to be so. The Bubble does not form us, or make us believe certain things. It also does not trap us, and is permeable. Students have found the courage to bust through the Bubble's walls, confident about who they are and what they believe. This year has brought forth many changes, from the controversial web sites to fighting for Mrs. Henderson's job. Through it all students have voiced their opinions and shown that they care. We have tested the norm and fought for what we believe in, becoming better individuals and much more aware of our surroundings. The world outside holds more obstacles to overcome, but what we have learned inside the Bubble will help us to win in the game of life. For seniors, we're bustin' out into the world, ready for what it will throw at us, but also knowing that friends and memories will be inside forever, always willing to welcome us back.

-Melissa Karolewski

Left: Senior Jacki Proie spends every weekend getting married in the interactive play Tony 'n Tina's Wedding. As a cast member since the play's opening in Pittsburgh in January, 2002, Jacki has taken on many roles. She started out as the third bridesmaid and has been every bridesmaid in between while working her way up to the lead role of Tina on Valentine's Day 2003.

Below: Mr. DeHaas displays his patriotism next to a picture of the flag. His signature attire of warm ups and whistle were worn by many on Mr. DeHaas Day, March 19, 2003.

Above:
Ms. Palombo rehearses with the chorus before the winter concert. With many numbers to learn, practice is crucial to a good performance.

Right: Siblings Sarah and Josh Sarchet take a photo to commemorate the last football game for 2002 at Norwin.

1. Sports Editor Adam Cooper pours on the steam to meet our final deadline. 2. Working on Valentines Day, Greta Dunn & Ms. Grasso show off their chocolate lips. 3. Senior editors, Greta Dunn, Adam Cooper & Melissa Karolewski strike a hard pose.
4. Photographer Kostadin Petrov shows off his chipped tooth which was a result of after school munching. 5. J.J. Bianco, Steve Dayoub & Missy K find a little time to horse around during a long yearbook session.

COLOPHON

Bound in 160 point binders board, the 73rd Edition of the Lebanon LOG incorporates special black matte stamped with original artwork in Premium Shimmer Blue Hot Foil. The cover is also treated with UV Clear varnish. The endsheets, made of Robins egg blue endsheet stock, feature a circle die cut design in the front to introduce our Bubble theme. Our 348 page annual was produced by Taylor Publishing Company in El Paso, Texas and Malvern, Pennsylvania. The fonts used throughout the book include: Headlines in Mickey, Subheads in Cabal Bold, Body Copy in Memento Bold, Captions in Memento, Quotes in Memento Bold Italic, Folios in Cabal Bold & Team/Club Names in Memento. Color was used in the thirty-two page Senior Section as well as the first Student Life signature. Process Blue (No. 9) Spot Color was used in all Sports pages. Inserted after the last page is the Taylor Yearzine of current events for 2002-2003. This is followed by an eight page autograph section.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

We would like thank all of the people who helped to produce the 2003 LOG, especially those who worked and didn't just come for the picture. To Mrs. Dorothy Albright for pushing the staff to make the LOG the best it could be, and for letting us have 'our' cover; Dale Smail for keeping the LOG office free of garbage, despite Steve's clutter; Mr. Batchelor for taking the team photos; Portraits Plus for graciously giving us team pics at short notice; Michael Good for faculty shots & stadium photo; Mrs. Rogers for the database; Laura Martinez our account executive for getting things back to us so quickly; the editors: Adam, Greta, Katharine, Melissa & Steve, for making sure all the pages got done, complete with a creative "in"; Mrs. Henderson and the AO, for information when we needed it; Kostadin & Evan for taking awesome pictures; J.J., for not knowing anyone or anything going on in the high school; lastly tech support, who got us out of our jams. Most importantly, we thank Ms. Peg Grasso for all of her hard work and dedication this year and the past three years. Without her motivation and yearbook "know-how," the LOG would never have gotten finished. The countless hours she spent working in the LOG Office, sometimes late into the night and early on Saturday mornings, cannot be matched. Her positive attitude, even when we didn't meet deadlines, kept us all going. The yearbook would not be finished or coherent without her and her many trips to Ritz. She is irreplaceable and an outstanding person, who will be dearly missed next year. She always brings a great attitude and outstanding patience, especially with Steve. Her strive for perfection and stellar proofing ability helped out everyone. We all would like to wish her the best of luck next year. She's done her duty, and we hope she discovers that there is life outside of yearbook.

Music

From hip-hop to electronica, pop to rock, no one musical genre dominated the airwaves and headphones of America. The year saw new albums from Moby, Red Hot Chili Peppers, Eminem, Leann Rimes and many more. Kelly Clarkson's career as a chanteuse took off, Lance Bass was grounded as a cosmonaut, Ozzy showed why he's an iron man, and Triumph marked his territory at the VMAs.

Forget East Coast vs. West Coast

It's rapper versus puppet as Triumph the Insult Comic Dog has a run-in with Eminem's posse on MTV's Video Music Awards.

Britney not so caliente

The divine Miss Spears is booed in Mexico City after she bails her concert just four songs in.

Still red hot

Flea and Anthony continue to assault eardrums and find creative uses for socks on the new Chili Peppers album, "By the Way."

Don't tell Elvis...

Kelly Clarkson becomes the first "American Idol" and hits #1 on the Billboard singles chart.

Bye bye bye!

Lance Bass trains to become the first member of a boy band in orbit. But when he fails to pony up the $20 million fee, the Russians say "nyet!" and send him home.

Something to Crow about

Sheryl Crow performs at the One World, One Child Benefit Concert in Beverly Hills.

Zebra, king of the ocean?
Scientists discover that great white sharks are repelled by zebra striping.

A long way for pizza delivery
The International Space Station receives its fifth three-person crew, who live and work in orbit for four straight months.

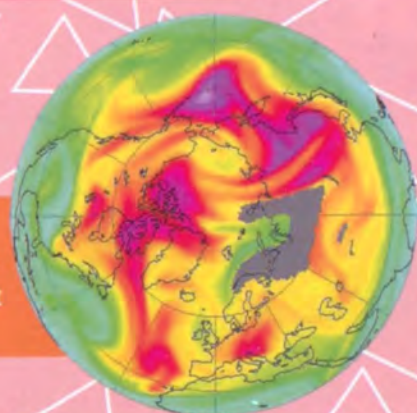

Around the world in 14 days

After some 21,000 miles and two weeks aloft, Steve Fossett becomes the first person to circumnavigate the globe in a balloon.

Well, that's disturbing

Meteorologists discover that the Antarctic ozone hole has divided into two parts that are spreading away from each other.

The dog did my homework

Researchers at UC-Davis theorize that dogs have basic math skills, including the ability to count. No word on differential calculus.

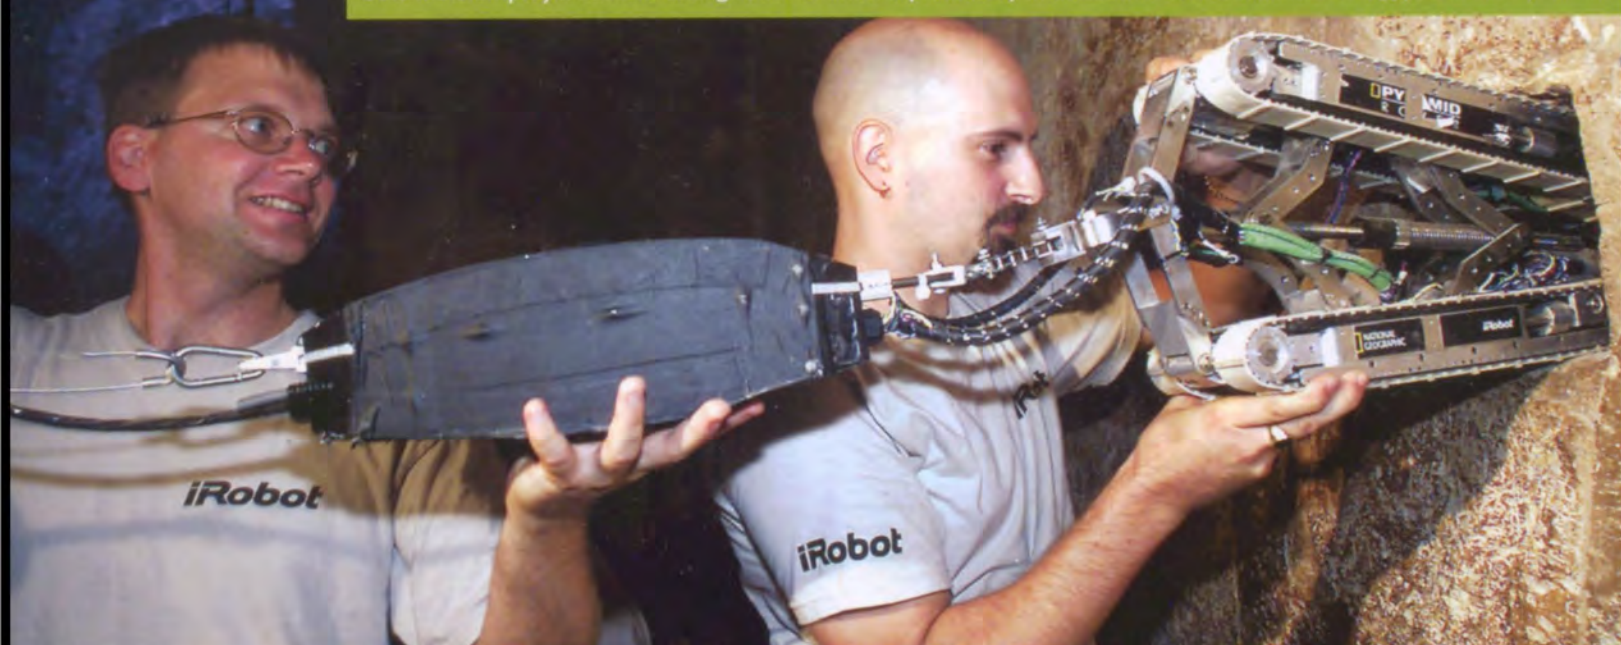

That's even more disturbing

The snakehead, a.k.a. the "Frankenfish", is discovered in eight U.S. states. The Chinese fish can walk on land and decimate native ecosystems.

Walk like an Egyptian

Scientists employ a camera-toting robot to enter a previously inaccessible secret chamber of Egypt's Great Pyramid.

Trends

Styles past and future, cheap and chic blended to make the year interesting for the trend-conscious. Denim made a comeback for the 287th time in history, while new electronic devices offered functionality that James Bond would envy. Not to mention that the modern look of Starck and Oldham hit traditional department stores, surfers hit suburbia, and lots of teen girls happily got mud on their faces.

It's, like, totally exfoliating!
Seventeen magazine opens its first spa dedicated exclusively to teens, just outside of Dallas, Texas.
www.seventeenspa.com

Who cares if we live in Ohio?
Surf/skate fashion is cool, with brands such as Ezekiel, Hurley, and BC Ethic making a big splash on the half-pipe.

Feeling blue?

Denim is in, from jean jackets to hip-huggers, hats to handbags.

Fire up those synapses

Gaming goes to the next level with Gamester's massively customizable Xbox Reflex Arcade Stick.

You will be integrated

High-tech worlds converge as new devices blend capabilities of the cell phone, MP3 player, camera, and PDA.

It's pronounced "Tar-zhay"

International designers Todd Oldham and Philippe Starck bring their unique looks to products at Target.

Television

The blue light continued to mesmerize viewers with lots of big departures, epic celebrations, and naughty puppets. The cast of "Friends" waved so long to their $1-million-per-episode contracts (or did they?), while "SNL" lost its #1 George Dubya impersonator. NBC dominated the Emmy Awards, Fox dominated the market for Comedies Set Three Decades Ago, and "Crank Yankers" made us all afraid to pick up that phone call.

Simon says...

Kelly Clarkson, Justin Guarini, and Nikki McKibbin vie for the top spot on "American Idol: The Search for a Superstar."

Bell-bottoms, bell-bottoms everywhere...

The Fox hit "That 70s Show" celebrates its 100th episode with a flurry of polyester and feathered hair.

Bad puppet! Bad, bad, puppet!

Never let a puppet use your calling card—"Crank Yankers" debuts on Comedy Central.

Gimme an L! Gimme an A T E R!

Will Farrell jumps the "SNL" ship and takes his cheerleader sweater with him. Let's hope it's not for "Another Night at the Roxbury."

The Emmy Awards

Conan O'Brien hosts as NBC wins big with 24 awards, including nods to "Friends" and "The West Wing."

Friends no more?

Joey, Rachel, and the rest of the "Friends" weigh whether to return for one more season of their insanely successful show.

America spent much of the year remembering those lost in last year's terrorist attacks and studying ways to bolster national security. Congress and President Bush debated responses to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict and allegations that Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein was building weapons of mass destruction. Meanwhile, forest fires raged across Arizona and other states, threatening thousands of homes and millions of acres of parkland.

Election 2002

Republicans keep control of the House and regain the Senate, while the Democrats pick up additional gubernatorial offices.

Sniper suspects

Police apprehend John Allen Muhammad and John Lee Malvo and charge them with killing ten people in the Washington, D.C., area.

National tragedy

Space Shuttle Columbia launches on a tragic mission. All seven crew members are lost after the vehicle disintegrates upon re-entry. February 1, 2003

Arizona ablaze

Firefighters across the southwestern U.S. battle intense forest fires fueled by severe drought.

Fighting terrorism at home

President Bush and Congress consider the creation of a Homeland Security Office to combat domestic terrorism.

E3

The world's foremost video-game developers test-drive the hottest titles before they hit the shelves at L.A.'s Electronic Entertainment Expo.

Movies

When good Jedis go bad
"Star Wars Episode II: Attack of the Clones" continues the saga of Anakin Skywalker's fall to the dark side.

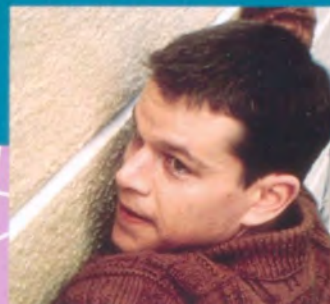

"The Two Towers"
Elijah Woods is back with furry feet and dangerous cargo in the second installment of "The Lord of the Rings" trilogy.

The word in Hollywood? Sequels. Samuel L. Jackson and a digitized Yoda drew their light sabers for "Star Wars Episode II," while the fellowship continued its dangerous mission in the follow-up to "The Lord of the Rings." Will and Tommy Lee kept the universe safe for another summer as Mike Myers went for another groovalicious turn as Austin Powers. There were also a few original flicks, including a sci-fi thriller from Steven Spielberg and new creepiness from the director of "The Sixth Sense" and "Unbreakable."

Bourne clueless

Matt Damon battles amnesia and bad men with guns in "The Bourne Identity."

Do you see the "Signs?"

Mel Gibson stars in M. Night Shyamalan's imaginative tale of crop circles and little green men.

Prelude to a pre-crime
Tom Cruise must prove his innocence in Steven Spielberg's "Minority Report."

Once bitten...
As "Spider-man," Tobey Maguire discovers that with friends like Willem Dafoe, you really don't need enemies.

Back in black
Will Smith and Tommy Lee Jones suit up to save the planet...again...in "Men in Black II."

Oh, behave!

Mike Myers and Beyonce Knowles get their retro groove on for the third Austin Powers movie, "Goldmember."

Sports

Trauma centers on alert

Gravity...and the human instinct for self-preservation...are defied once again as the X-Games roll onto ESPN.

It was another big year for world and U.S. sports. Fans across the globe stayed up late, got up early, and tuned in to live broadcasts of the World Cup from Japan and Korea. Ronaldo helped Brazil hoist the Copa Mundial after a disappointing loss to France four years earlier. Americans had their fair share of epic victories as well, with Lance rolling through the Champs-Élysées ahead of his European rivals and Serena Williams dominating the world tennis scene.

No strikes, just strikeouts

Major League Baseball avoids a strike while the Anaheim Angels beat the S.F. Giants in 7 games to win the World Series.

Sibling rivalry

The Williams sisters take the #1 and #2 spots in world tennis rankings.

Three-for-all

The L.A. Lakers earn their third set of championship rings in as many years.

Viva Brazil!

Brazil captures its sixth World Cup title, while the United States advances to the quarterfinals by beating Mexico.

16,726 plus 1

Cowboys running back Emmitt Smith breaks Walter Payton's all-time rushing record.

Unstoppable

American cyclist Lance Armstrong rides to his fourth consecutive Tour de France victory.

Super Bowl Champs!

Tampa Bay Buccaneers beat the Oakland Raiders 48-21 to win Super Bowl XXXVII.
