Above & Beyond

Ah, high school, this is the prime of your teenage years, even if it is in the bubble. Moments like these only come across once in a lifetime, they can never come back. High school days consist of: play, work, eat, sleep, wake up and do it all over again. Remember that these days are the days when you can live off of your parents and not be labeled "bum" by all your friends and family. Take time out and enjoy yourself, enjoy life, and enjoy these days here at Mount Lebanon High School. Life is a slow dance, don't dance so fast; life is short, the music won't last. Go the extra mile, go a little farther than necessary. Lots of Lebo kids stay late for sports and spend hours upon hours at night making straight A's to get into Ivy League schools, all while going to playoffs in their favorite sports. Seriously, people, 95 % of Mount Leboners go to college. Come on now, steeds, we totally go above and beyond!

Mt. Lebanon Publication Celebrates 75 Years of Excellence

History of the Schools of Mt. Lebanon

"As early as 1749 the pioneers of this section felt the need of a school and constructed the one-room log structure which was lately moved from its original site to the one in Mt. Lebanon Park. As the population grew rapidly, a larger school, the Academy, was built on the street that now bears its name. After the outbreak of the Civil War, the Academy was used little for school purposes but served as a skating rink and dance hall...A white frame school-house, located at the corner of Washington Road and Cedar Boulevard, was completed about 1895. At first the building housed 250 pupils with eight regular and a few special teachers. By 1921 the enrollment of this school had grown to 395 pupils. This relatively small building was soon overcrowded and the Mt. Lebanon citizens took a step forward, voting to build a huge school of eighteen rooms which would "take care of the pupils forever," as they said. This building, the Washington School, was rightfully marveled at by the people. However, the enrollment of the school increased very rapidly, and in 1925 an elementary building, the Lincoln School, was constructed...As early as 1926 the walls of the Washington Building began to bulge, and a wing of eight rooms was added to relieve the situation. In 1927 a kindergarten system was organized in both schools. The next year the organization of a Senior High School was begun. As the population of the township was spreading widely, two more elementary schools, the Edwin Markham in Beverly Heights and the Julia Ward Howe in Sunset Hills, were erected in 1929. Not long after this a bond issue was floated to make possible a separate high school building one unit of which was completed by the fall of 1930 and is now occupied by the Junior High. The academic unit, to be completed by September, 1931, will take care of a Junior-Senior High School of approximately 1200 students and with it a dream of many years will come true."

Beyond the Books

Mt. Lebanon Students Enjoy the Social Scene

Ah, summer--don't we all love that crazy time of year when we can let go. There's no more homework, no teachers, no pressure. You can wake up at 11 o'clock and go to bed at three if you want. Just watch out; that school year will creep up on you. Before you know it, you'll be solving quadratic equations, eating cafeteria lunches, and picking your outfit for a dance. Aside from the monotony of the daily routines, there are events that make the whole ordeal worthwhile.

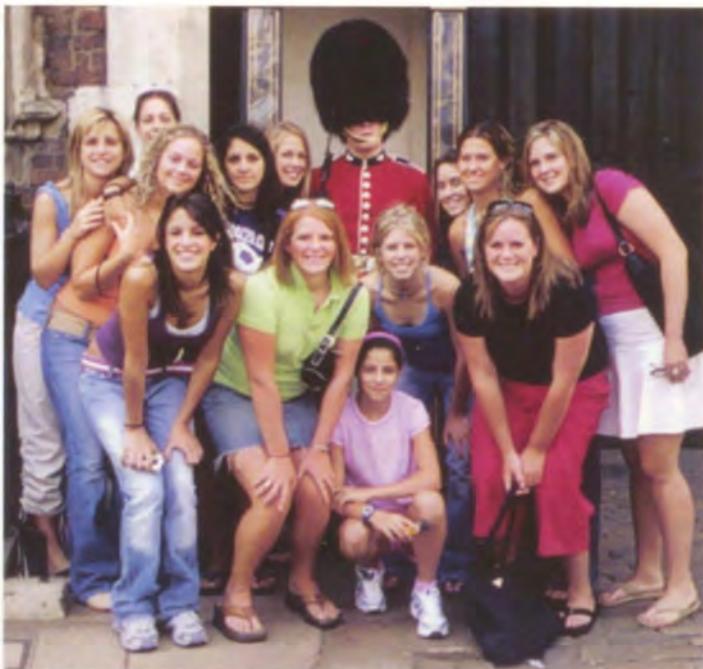

The year opens for the seniors with Boatride and then the underclassmen with the Homecoming Parade followed by the dance. The competition comes out between the classes with the Halloween Door Decorating contest, which gets pretty intense because of our level of creativity. The Spirit Assemblies promote class spirit with the incentive of donuts, t-shirts, and other prizes of the sort. Of course, the intramural games also allow students to engage in a variety of sports such as football, bowling, hackeysack and frisbee.

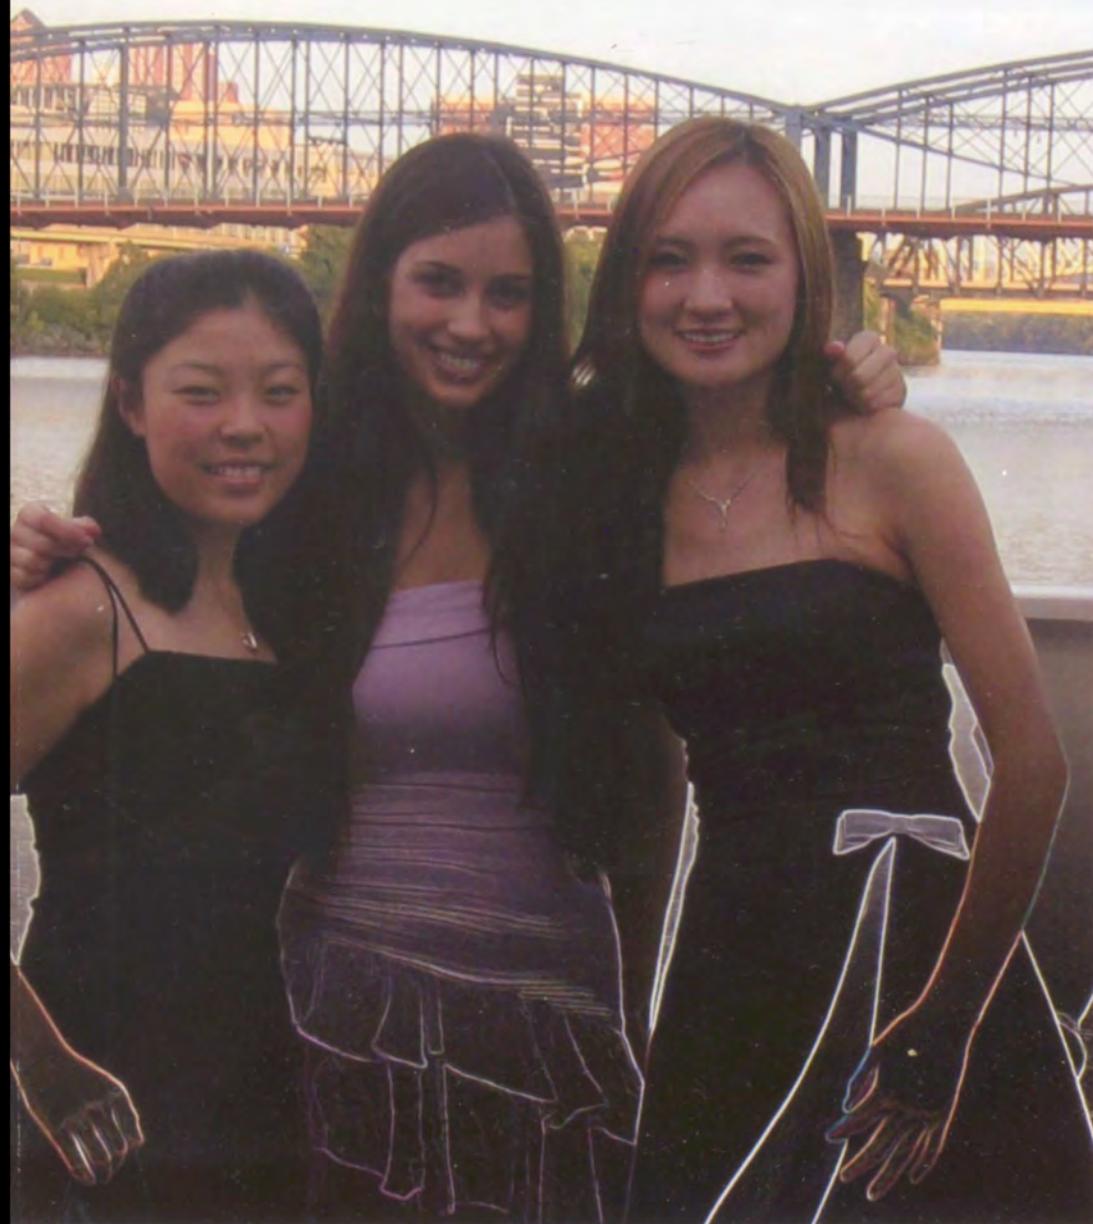

The talent of the school shines during several shows performed by the student body. These performances include the annual Holiday Show, Evening Theatre Company productions, winter concerts, and Dance Company daytimes. From summer activities to school events, our student body enjoys activities well above and beyond the norm.

Angela Luppинetti, Katherine Woodard, Alison Vatz, Caitlin Kerr, Mia Carosi, Jamie Roman, Meredith Magdsick, Jean Chavez, Carli Anselmni, Alex Russo, Amanda Kale, Kathryn McCaffrey and Catherine Dunn pose with a traditional English guard in London, England. Tourist protocol is to distract the guard from his watch, but the girls decided to opt for a fun picture instead.

Junior Christina Harding and Barbara Serafini with their friend from TJ attend riding lessons at Timber Oaks Farm in Finleyville. The girls enjoyed the opportunity to spend some quality time outdoors with the horses.

Mrs. McLaughlin and Usher pose for a picture in Grand Hotel Stockholm, Sweden in June 2004. "He was friendly," said Mrs. McLaughlin, "and he said 'Enjoy your conf.'"

Kostadin Petrov and his two host brothers, Felix and Matthias Fabian, went bicycling through Cologne, Germany, resting in front of the largest medieval cathedral in the world. Spending a total of 10 months in Germany during 2003-2004, Kostadin was able to tour parts of the Czech Republic, Italy and France. "Being on an exchange year is one of the most valuable experiences a person can ever have. Getting to know another culture broadened my perspective on life and helped me understand myself better."

Break from the School Year

Lebo Students Enjoy their Summer Vacations!

Though many students simply hang around the house or at the pool, others go for slightly more sophisticated ventures. From mission trips to sightseeing halfway around the world, these kids have done it all. Germany, Sweden, and Italy are just some of the many countries visited this summer.

Others spent the twelve weeks traveling around the United States looking at various colleges. Some of our ambitious students even spent their summer taking enrichment classes or getting a head start on college visits.

Many of those who stayed in town spent their free time earning a little extra cash by working at various places including restaurants, grocery stores, the library, or the mall.

Jamie Roman and Katherine Dunn traveled with some friends to Rome. One of the stops on their tour was the Coliseum, an ancient Roman architectural structure that once housed the gladiatorial games.

Alyssa Cox, Paul Katz, Allison Koval, Mr. Savarese, Andrew Freeman, Joyelle Freeman, Scott Trumbull and Mrs. Hoffmann enjoy the scenery on a Forensics trip. The team works hard all year long to prepare for competitions across the nation.

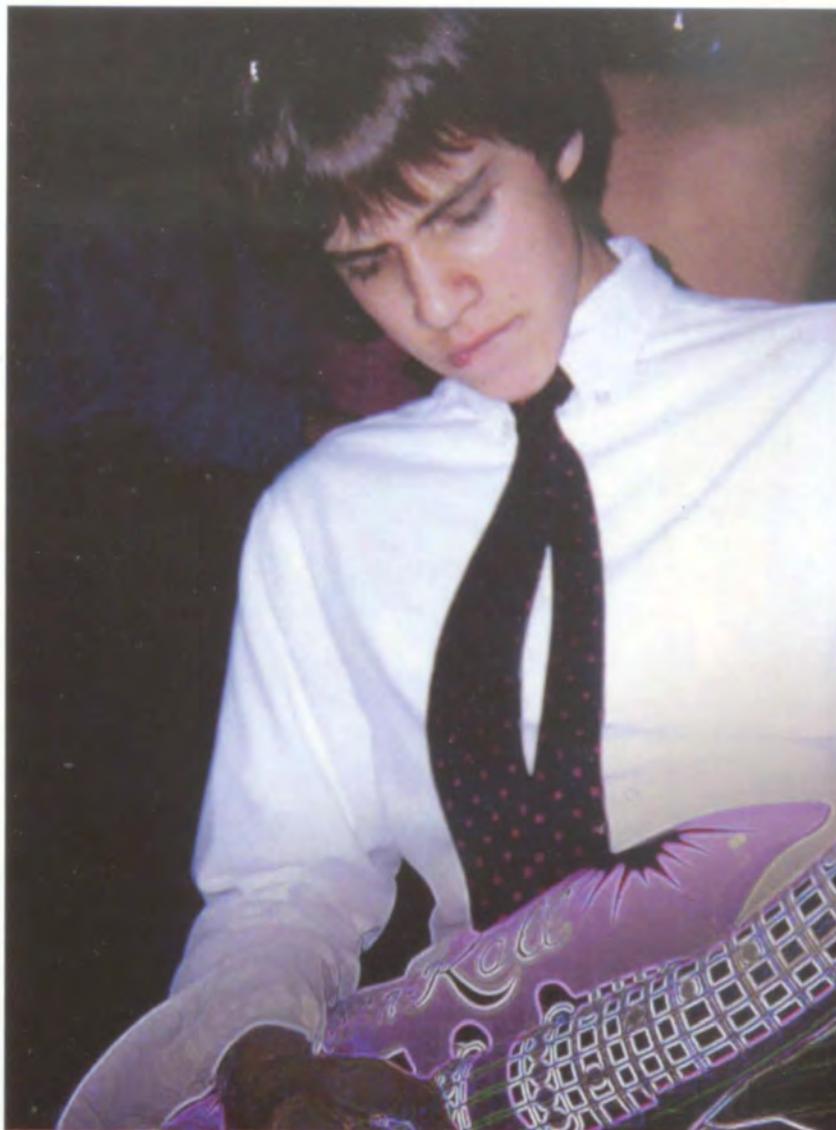

Senior Alicia Zhu enjoys her day at Penn State during the summer college visit. "I'm sure the campus will be much more crowded during the fall so it was great to see everything before students swarm the place!"

Dave Altares and Val Woolaghan take a break from busting some moves out on the dance floor. If you watched closely, you'd see many students taking a break after wearing themselves out by dancing to their favorite songs.

John Stickler and Allie Banks sneak a picture away from their groups. With the convenience of the dance being in Center Court, many students already knew of the perfect spot to take a quick break.

Homecoming

Dance the Night Away

The glitter in her eyes, the gel in his hair, the corsage, the boutonniere and that really annoying cummerbund... who knows where those things go anyway! With all of these formal dance requirements, the boys and girls of Mt. Lebanon Senior High School pulled together the stockings, french manicures, suits, and ties just in time to run off to the dance like movie stars off to a premier.

Cutouts of James Dean and Marilyn Monroe, among others, along with a little glitter from Mrs. Henderson's miracle team, enhanced the dance's theme, "Hollywood." "There was so much action out on that dance floor," says senior Rose Davis. "You could put your hand into the area where the people were and it was like a force-field of heat." The crowd's enthusiasm was clearly evident when groups reached for the several "pseudo-guitars" that were thrown out by the DJ. "The music wasn't really up to the usual 'Mt. Lebanon expectations,' but we managed to have fun anyways," recalled freshman Lily Hozakowska.

Ethan Stark jams to the beat with a pseudo electric guitar on the dance floor.

Emily Evron, Nina DiGregory, Sara Giotto, and Jess O'Hara pose before the "big event". Many students head to dinner with friends before they hit the dance.

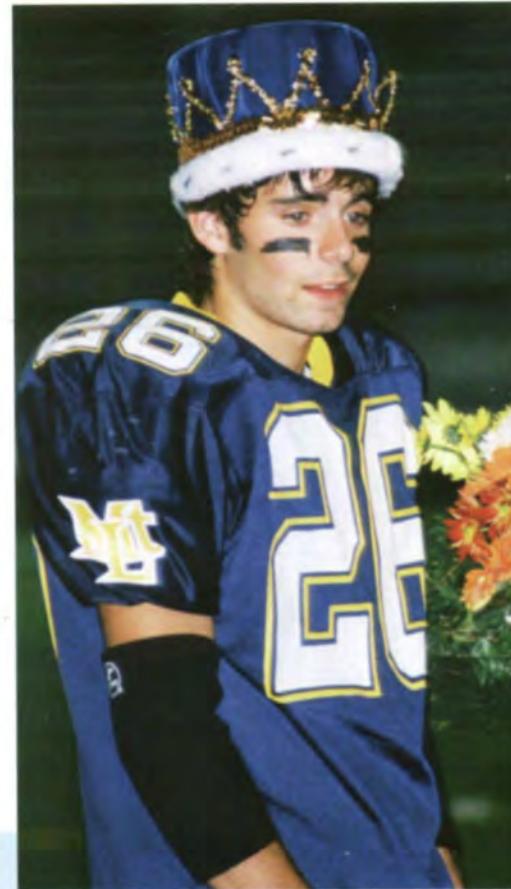

Christian Pfug, a German exchange student, and Emily Gigler rock on. It's always fun to see someone's wild side (and their tonsils)!

Chris Barr and Kathy Horn pause shortly after their coronation as Homecoming King and Queen for a photo opportunity.

Each class proudly displays their banner at the parade. The class signs are an annual tradition that students look forward to creating every year.

Homecoming Parade

Legends Never Graduate

The homecoming court nominees stepped onto the football field, anxiously awaiting the announcement of Homecoming King and Queen. They were presented like royalty, wearing suits and "fancy dresses" as the crowd radiated excitement and energy. After days of anticipation, the ballots were finally in and the announcement was made; Christopher Barr and Kathy Horn were crowned Homecoming King and Queen for the Class of 2005.

The nominees were not, however, the only ones who were preparing for the parade. Students from each class took time out of their study halls or lunches to complete their class banners. The days of preparation didn't go in vain as each of the classes brought out their banners and brightened the stadium with their respective class colors.

Of course, that was just the beginning; the excitement continued as Lebo fans cheered on the football team. As the ball was passed from one side of the field to the other, the eager crowd was on the edge of the bleachers. The sound of the buzzer roared in the background and the crowd went wild as Lebo scored a decisive victory. The colors, noise, excitement, and victory brought the night to a close and everyone left with fond memories of this year's Homecoming Parade.

Oh What a Night!

Rocking the Senior Boatride

Wow! What a night! Suits, dresses, and crowd surfing, oh my! For most seniors, Boatride is one of the most anticipated events of the year. It was raining cats and dogs on the original day, so it had to be postponed. After an excruciatingly long week of delay due to flooding, the Class of 2005 finally boarded the Majestic for a wonderful evening of dancing and fun with friends. "For all of the time that we waited," says Athena Kitchenflint, "I could have waited millenniums more. It was one of the most amazing nights that I have ever had."

Time flew by and the night came to an abrupt end as the lights brightened the dark dance floor. Reluctantly, the seniors left the cruiseliner with spectacular memories of the night. Those who didn't want the night to end so early, stayed around the Station Square area, enjoying the view and grabbing a bite to eat.

The Class of 2005 swarm the dance floor of the Majestic. The dance floor was packed for most of the evening.

Annie Brannigan and her boyfriend Bryan Colligan catch a glimpse of the skyline of downtown Pittsburgh. The Majestic gave students a tour around the Point where they were able to view the wreckage from the flood.

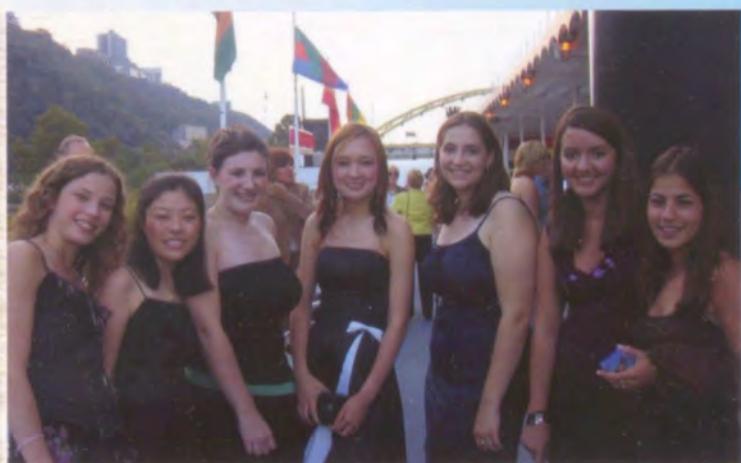

Grady Yue takes a break from dancing to make fun of the cameraman. Boatride provides the perfect atmosphere for students to cut loose.

Elizabeth Smith, Catherine Dunn, Jamie Roman, Kathryn McCaffrey, and Meredith Magdsick wait to board the boat. Students were there up to an hour before the Majestic set sail and many used this time for pictures of larger groups.

There was chaos on the dance floor that night, but the girls still managed to twist and twirl in their heels as the guys did that "group huddle" thing they do.

Chrissy Hall, Hannah Yin, Jackie Gattuso, Alicia Zhu, Jess Smith, Hannah Timm, and Nora Shnorhokian enjoy the breeze. Stepping outside was like walking into an air conditioned room compared to the heat of the dance floor.

Show Your Spirit Fingers

Students Bring It On for a Little Spirit

The crowd went wild when the band opened and as Dr. J followed with the recognition of each fall sport and activity. The cheerleaders then pumped up the crowd for the games with a dance. The first game was the balloon toss, for which Mr. DiNardo and the freshmen were the winners. Next, the faculty beat the students in a quick football game. The assembly was capped off with a t-shirt toss by class officers into the stands.

"The best part of the spirit assembly is when the students fill the stands and everyone starts screaming," says class co-president Leigh Argentieri, "but my favorite part is always the band and drumline." The students' willingness to participate in all of these activities helped boost the school's overall spirit and once again proved that the students go beyond all expectations to show what's important.

Seniors Alejandro Barreto and Dan Schultz pose for the camera. Dan Schultz was dressed up as the opponent of that night's football game, USC.

The student body officers enter the field to kick start the show. "The crowd went wild when they saw them coming out onto the field," says senior Alissa Antle.

Shea Anderson speaks while the Blue Devil Cheer leaders pep up the crowd. Co-presidents Shea and Leigh were the proud announcers of all sports and activities recognized during this assembly.

Mr. Ptachcinski and Mr. Scalzo block for Mr. Gullo against defender Rob Wolfe. This was one teacher strategy that enabled them to defeat the student team.

After the balloon toss, the students attacked Dan Schultz. To help excite the crowd, Dan dressed as the USC mascot.

Matt Kreinbihl, Tom Antonucci, and Brad Olshensky cheer on the teams during both games.

Pledge Baby, Pledge

Senior Pledge Day

A nun, a blue bunny, Samara, and even George W. Bush were seen in the hallways of Mt. Lebanon High School this past November. No, it wasn't a "celebrity visits day;" rather, it was the high school's annual Senior Pledge Day. All students had the opportunity to buy raffle tickets from participating seniors and win them for a day.

The winners could get their senior to do anything they wanted as long as it was school appropriate. Some had fun embarrassing their senior by making them perform awkward tasks. Kelsey Lind bought fellow senior Everett Manns and had him stand up during his Statistics class and sing the National Anthem. Unfortunately, he ended up forgetting some of the words and had to hum part of his way to the end. Others used their seniors for more self-serving tasks. Several students asked their senior to leave a study hall or lunch to come to their class to take notes for them.

Some people bought certain students just to give them a new look. Senior Jen Martinson, who can usually be seen in a mohawk of various colors, dressed up as a nun. Everytime somebody swore, she would have to cross herself. Others tried to cure the swearing problem by forcing students to substitute in other words. When Physics teacher Ms. Kennedy bought her student Erin Caffee, she forced her to say "fluffy-white clouds" instead of an expletive.

Senior Pledge Day turned out to be an opportunity that allowed all students to let loose and take the school beyond the regular routine. Even if you weren't bought or hadn't bought someone, it was one of the most entertaining days of the school year!

Chelsea "Elle" Marsh does the bend and snap for the camera. Any hot delivery guys hanging around this nail salon, I mean, classroom?

Lauren Christmas adjusts her bunny ears and picks up her stuffed bird. Anyone ready for an egg hunt?

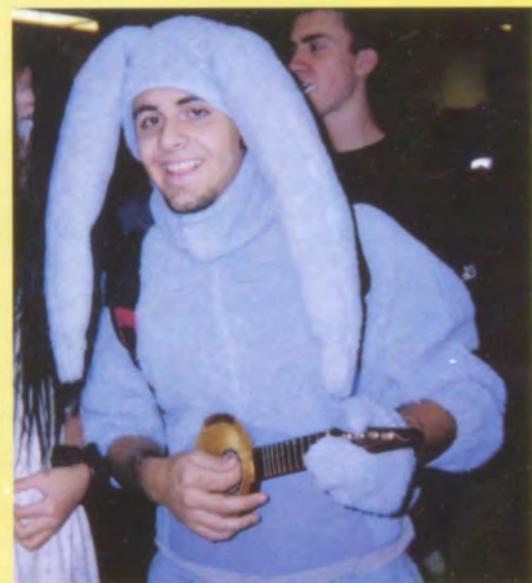

Kathy Horn is ready for an extreme sports outing. Her dirtbike attire comes complete with boots, gloves and goggles.

Hannah "No Limit" Yin and Cecelia "Off-Limits" Ratay hang out before AP Statistics. Not much different from their usual gear (just kidding!), the girls are decked out for Pledge Day.

Louis D'Ambrosio enjoys strumming his ukulele in his blue bunny suit. He was won by Rachel Stock.

Alicia Zhu poses as Samara from The Ring movies. "It's just so scary," says Zhu of her costume.

Chrissy Hall juggles like SNL Superstar, Mary Katherine Gallagher. "Sometimes, when I get real nervous..."

Erick Hunziker, Christine Louch, and Lily Snyder smile for the camera a la movie poster.

Open Locks...

Erica Jordan, Dominique Hudson, Trista Bonomi, and the ghoul smile for the camera. From scary to fairy, the students and faculty dress in very creative costumes.

Danielle Bielawski, Stephanie Yessler, Monster, Lauren Twigg, Kasey Hull and Emily Gilberg hang out on Halloween. The girls enjoyed the haunted festivities that Pittsburgh has to offer.

And the winners are...

Grand Prize: Mr. Savarese

Freshmen Door: Ms. McConnell

Sophomore Door: Mrs. Silver

Junior Door: Mrs. Glover

Senior Door: Mr. Petrich

Ms. McConnell's freshmen really pulled it off with their door covered in eyeballs and a camera. The eyes even lit up to aid navigation of the looming 6th floor.

...Whoever Knocks

Halloween Door Decorating

Bubble bubble toil and trouble. The students of Mt. Lebanon High School gather once more on Devil's Night to duke it out in a door decorating contest to win doughnuts for an entire month. "Weapons of Mass Distraction" was the winning theme created by Renata Wleklinski and Rae Westcott for Mr. Savarese's senior homeroom.

The door consisted of various pictures of celebrities and events and was accompanied by music that came on between periods. Other doors that stood out included Mr. Mysliwczky's which was covered with repetitive images giving out an eerie aura and Mrs. Glover's "Blue Book Hell" theme. Along with the doors, the costumes that some faculty and students donned were breathtaking. English teacher Mrs. Graham, known for her detailed costumes, was a scarecrow complete with straw stuffing!

Catherine Gallagher and Mr. "Indiana Jones" Minnett chill, in their own special way, in study hall.

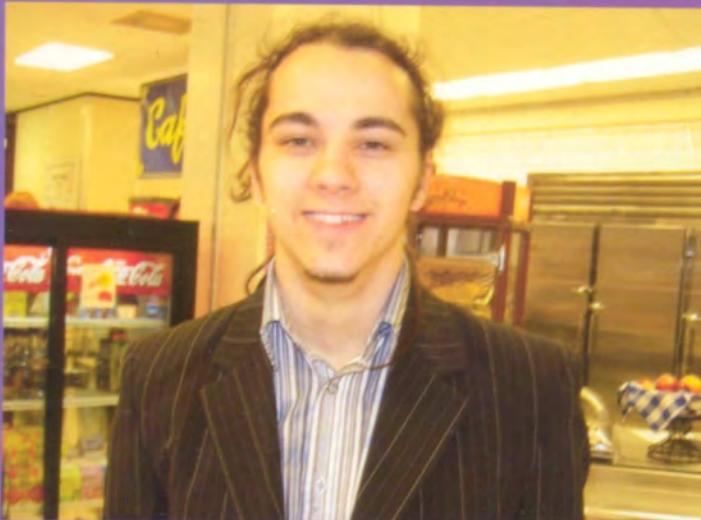

Is this too Cerebral for you all? Mr. Mysliwczky sported the costume of none other than media critic, Robert McChesney. Mr. M is known for his crazy outfits, even ones that involve leather pants that stick to the seat.

Mr. Schrader and his homeroom worked extremely hard to finish this masterpiece which used Mr. Schrader's head as the main photograph. What a great sport!

Alex Herms, seen here with pal Corey Rymer, ponder the world of political viewpoints. Corey and Alex have had heated debates all year long.

A Whole New World

Foreign Exchange Students from Germany and France Get a Taste of Lebo

For a new kid in a new school, it's pretty rough learning class schedules and trying to find your way. Take a moment to do as John Lennon says and imagine that you are a new kid. Not only that, but a new kid in a completely different country. Language, currency, street signs, fashion trends, and even weather, are all different in some regard. Each year at Mt. Lebanon, we are graced with the presence of a handful of these "new kids." It was not for long that they felt new, as these extraordinary individuals lived with host parents, made new friends, and created lasting memories. Exchange students are invited to attend school functions as if they were seniors so they can experience high school with all of its privileges.

As we consider the differences and similarities between cultures and individuals, we offer you a bit of insight into this year's special people. A few questions that you may, or may not, have thought to ask were answered by each student. Now is our chance to learn something about them!

Alex and Christian hang out in the cafeteria. As evidence in Ms. Mattern's classroom and the LOG office, these boys enjoy a hearty meal.

Charlotte's Web

Evening Theatre Company

This year's Evening Theatre Company production, EB White's classic tale, Charlotte's Web, was a huge hit. From rough hewn benches to the beautifully done elaborate webs to the amazingly constructed animal costumes, the Company has once more outdone itself. "The actors did a fine job," says junior Ben Smith. "The props they used were an excellent way to create the perfect mood." Ben's sentiment was echoed by many others in the audience who thought that this production was one of the best they had ever seen. And considering the reputation of Mt. Lebanon's ETC, this is saying a lot. The actors, the rustic farm setting, and even Templeton's sneaky performance in the corner, made this production a hit with people young and old. It was, however, very hard to have some of the actors act as animals, taking a lot of practice, time, and energy. Seeing as how this particular cast was filled with talent, the ETC students were able to pull off a great performance each and every night; this was also the first time that ETC did matinees. It was an exhausting week for the ETC, but they were very happy with the results.

- Erin Lacek

Wilbur, played by Tim Race (junior) and Charlotte, Erin Campbell (senior) have a very touching moment in the end production where they see each other for the last time. The audience was very silent during this part of the show which made the scene even more dramatic and intense. Even children were mesmerized by the solid performance given.

During this dramatic scene, Pat McStay (junior) falls into a trough while surrounded by Thom Och (senior) as Templeton, Tim Race as Wilbur, and the rest of the animals.

Wilbur has a sit-down with Farmer Brown. Much time and effort was spent on the costumes to help the actors to get into characters for this production.

Tim Race portrayed an excellent Wilbur the pig in this production. This was Tim's first semester of evening theatre, and he showed true talent that went beyond the classes expectations. After his many lines were memorized, he was like a pro.

Thom Och made a very amazing and very amusing Templeton. During one of the shows, Thom was on stage standing on a barrel (as seen below) when it suddenly collapsed, leaving him inside. Even though the audience laughed at this unplanned mishap, Thom went on.

Junior Jenny O'Connell had one of the most difficult parts in the cast as a Farmhand. Throughout the show, Jenny had to change costumes more than anyone else. She maintained this difficult task for every night of the production.

The Winter Concerts

Jazz Up the Holiday Spirit

Sara Timberlake, Ina Kostova and Emily Fogoros play their flutes at the Winter Concert.

The band played songs such as "His Honor." The winter concerts are a highlight of the year as the student body shows off its classical music talent.

Students from the Mt. Lebanon Fine Arts department put on an impressive show for the winter holidays. From Orchestra to Triple Trio, the talents and charms of the students could be seen throughout the winter season. All of the Concert Band, Orchestra, Dance Company and Jazz Ensemble performances were held in the school auditorium, attracting audiences of all ages. "Students in our school's music program are all very talented; they all sound like professionals," commented senior Rosie Calland. Beside the amazing performances of the music department, the annual dance daytime at the end of January was a tremendous success. Students and teachers took a day off to enjoy the show after two days of semester exams. Senior Jackie Gattuso added, "I really enjoyed the show, and the beautiful costumes and the matching lighting really enhanced the quality of the performances."

The saxophones emote an emotional piece of music. The students practice for hours in and out of school to prepare for these performances.

Sophomore Gabrielle Williott executes an arched back leap in the dance "Mad World." The music selection was contemporary this year with songs such as this, which is the theme song in Donnie Darko.

Kaitlyn King, Kate Northway, and Grace Meyer play their clarinets during the band's winter concert. The clarinet is one instrument of the wind family that requires strong lungs and very nimble fingers.

Mr. Doug Reichenfeld conducts the Concert Band during their performance. Not only is he responsible for the Concert Band, he is also in charge of the Marching Band which performs during the football season and at various parades.

Dancers gracefully lift freshman Dana Sander while dancing in a modern style. This number involved the girls one at a time moving behind the screen to complete the dance.

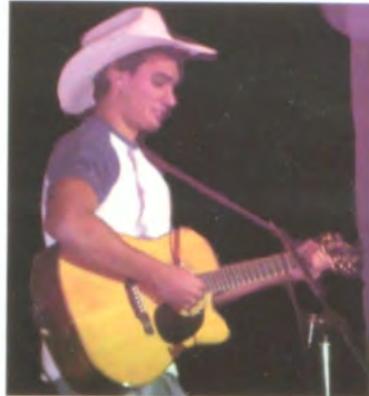

Melissa Shaw, Jordan Barson, Alexandra Till, and Lizzie Lizowski perform with the Drumline in the Dance Daytime. An all-time audience favorite, the Drumline was the perfect finale to the show.

Jeana Zamanski and Ellen Abbott leap through the air in "Footloose." Hearing the introduction to this song, it brought to mind many of the scenes from the movie starring Kevin Bacon and Sarah Jessica Parker.

Sam Choura performs his world renowned song, "Plagiarism". Sam's hilarious performance caught the attention of the audience 'til they were clutching their sides.

Galen Spielman and Jess Tambellini rock out to a cover of Weezer. Their lively performance was one of four bands presented. Bands are always one of the audiences' favorites, especially those with blaring music and bright flashing lights, an extreme change from the daily atmosphere at school.

Claire Gates and Jean Chavez do a spoof off of Hilton Sisters Paris and Nicky. In the skit, Paris told the tale of a wild night of partying as Nicky listened carefully.

"What a bright time, it's the right time, to rock the night away." In the movie Mean Girls, the girls did a little dance to "Jingle Bell Rock." In a Student Council spoof of this, Ehsan

Sadeghipour, Abby Coffin, Alejandro Barretto, Leigh Argentieri, Shea Anderson, Kathy Horn, and Megan Loughran could all be seen dancing the night away.

Holiday Show

Lebo Students Put their Talents on Display

Lebo Clause strikes again! He was spotted during intermission throwing candy into the audience. Always a treat!

Senior Alex Datillo waves his arms around in a "What's-wrong-with-you-Ashley-Simpson-you-chronic-lip-syncer" fashion during the Ashley Simpson Skit starring Leigh Argentieri as Ashley. The real Ashley appeared on SNL this year and started lip-synching to the wrong song. Later she admitted that is was due to Acid Reflux.

Dance Dance Revolution

Enjoying Snowball

Think back and remember: the administrators scrutinized your face making sure everything was "in order;" the green and yellow silk were hanging all over the walls adorned with Christmas lights; the music varied from fast to slow, R&B to house to rock 'n roll; you danced the night away with people you didn't even know; the telescope pictures were so fun to take and so sad that you had to patiently wait for them to be developed.

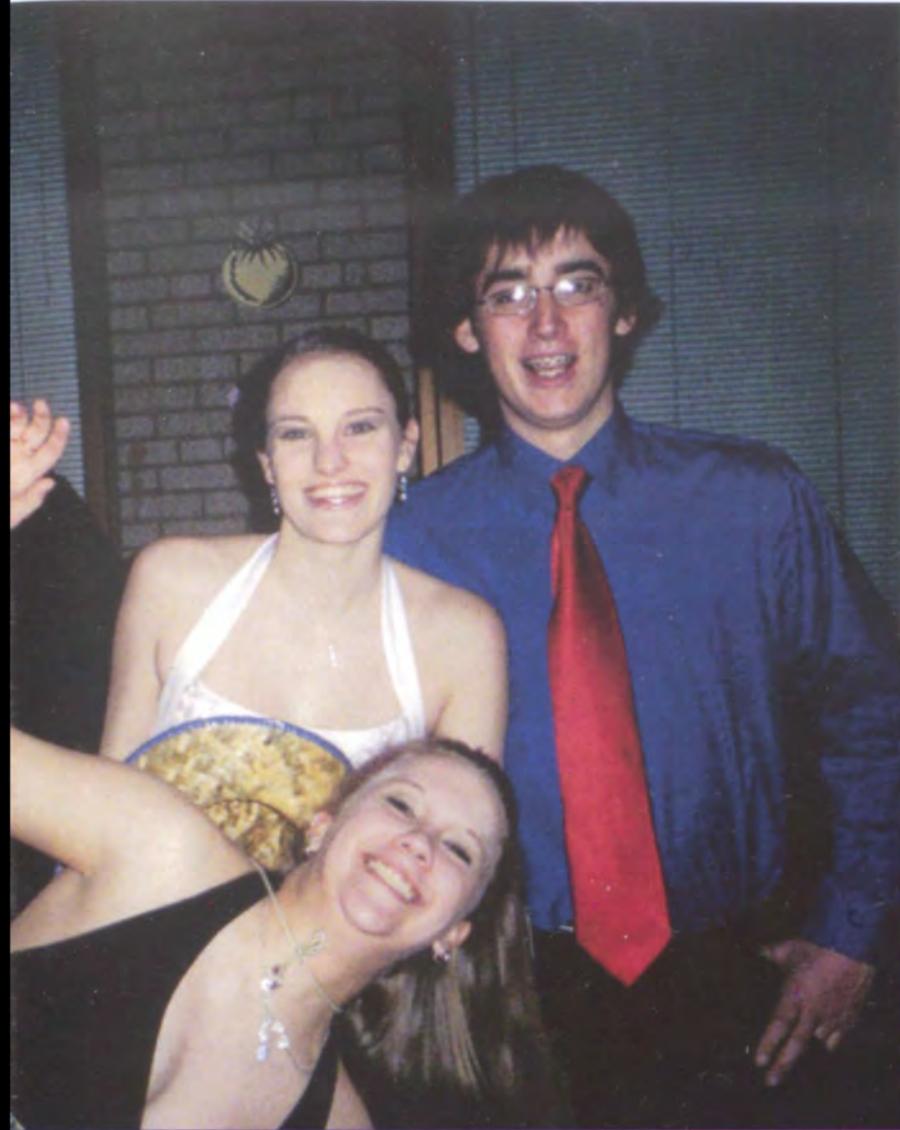

Okay, now close your eyes, only half way, so you can still follow these directions. Now you are back there, back in Center Court. Look at the side windows, do you see the cops? How wild was that! Come on now, we were all good kids back then and we still are today. Remember how they played Donna Summer's "I will survive," and how all the folks on the dance floor went crazy and sung every word. Not one person was shy about it either. Those were the good old days, when life was light hearted and fun. These are the memories we will cherish forever. Now open your eyes and smile while thinking of how you danced like nobody was watching.

Juniors Mike Kurek, Doug Stein, Evan Stokar, Dylan Schweers, and Dave Kleifgen stop dancing long enough to flash their million dollar smiles. As the night wears on, the shirts come untucked and the ties are placed in pockets. This crew managed to look pretty sharp the whole night through.

Inspired by his friend who was extremely late for the ride to the dance, Phil Talarico made up a song. In moments like this your true colors come shining through. It was AWESOME!

Kaitlyn Loy and Alex Till went stag, but still managed to grab a quick picture between dances with the single boys. Sometimes we have the most fun when we head out with our friends instead of with a date.

Alissa Antle, with her date Dan Quinn, get in on the dancing with Allie Banks who is known all around the world for her skillful dancing. There will always be the crazy ones and the onlookers. Either way, it's a blast.

Senior Lily Snyder, junior Emma Snyder, and senior Katy Rosen squeeze together for a picture in their cowboy hats. The wild accessories look adorable with the formal wear and it shows how fun and relaxed we are.

Juniors Alice Ely and Shira Mahler take a sweaty picture with their friends while their dates were breakdancing on the floor. Everyone dances hard and needs a break periodically to recoup.

A failed attempt to grab a teacher's flag leaves Dan Schultz on the ground. You win some, you lose some.

In the last few seconds of the girls game, the students managed to intercept the ball and run back for a 100 yard touchdown.

While most of the faculty just watched (it was already over), Ms. Kennedy ran her heart out trying to stop them from that one last score.

Mr. Hyland searches for an open receiver down field. Can't wait too long though, three Mississippi and the students will rush the quarterback.

Thanks to an excellent block by Steve Mathews, Shea Anderson is able to run an outside route with no chance of being caught by either Mr. McGregor or Mr. McCloskey. The students called a mixture of successful running and passing plays.

Football Champions

Who's It Gonna Be?

Students. For the second consecutive year, the intramurals program held a competition between the faculty and student champions. Under the bright stadium lights, the fierce competitors attached their flags and prepared to battle. There were a few professional-esque plays, but not many, as the students once again ran all over the faculty. As much as the faculty would enjoy the opportunity to be the better team, students will always have more practice to back up that fire in their eyes.

Even with the crushing defeat, the faculty enjoys these outings with the students. Not only are they playing against the championship football team, but there is also a basketball game (which both student teams won this year) along with the numerous competitions at Spirit Assemblies (that the faculty is able to occasionally win). It proved to be a great night out for both players and spectators alike.

Ms. Grasso reaches in for the ball in the event that her opponent doesn't make the catch. The girls team was full of stellar athletes and they made it known every second of the game.

What a catch made by Mr. McCloskey as he barely comes down inbounds! Thanks to the rain that night, the field was quite slippery. Looks like he did a fantastic job of maintaining control - no need for a red challenge flag here. The APUSH teachers strike again.

Mr. Gullo, aided by Mr. Ptachcinski, does his best to outwit Evan Neu as he stops on a dime and changes direction. Making such a quick move is attributed to Mr. Gullo's soccer career. Just like riding a bike, it all comes back to you.

Pushing the Limits

The Blood, Sweat, and Tears

One of the most popular, supported, and rigorous parts of Mt. Lebanon is sports. Through the years, our graceful athletes have competed in sports against the surrounding communities creating intense rivals. This year, our players have given it their all and it has paid off. Through the blood, sweat, and tears, they defended well, outscored opponents, and fought hard to make us proud.

Some of our most memorable high school moments are of Lebo sporting events. We had much to be proud of this year with many of our teams finishing the seasons with winning records and some making it to the WPIAL playoffs. The fans are huge supporters and can be seen in droves at all football, basketball and soccer games. The parents of Mt. Lebanon are also very supportive of the teams and are very active either individually or through the Blue Devil Club.

While our focus at school is academics, athletics truly add to forming well-rounded individuals who are willing and able to defend our school honor against rivals such as Upper St. Clair, Bethel Park, and Peters Township. Our sports provide an outlet for all students whether on the field, sidelines or in stands. Without a strong athletic program, students would not be as prepared to take on the challenges that lie ahead.

As Will Grunewald receives a pass, he quickly sets up to score on the opposing team. Will was one of three players to be named all-section this year.

Christine Hammer, one of the three captains of the Girls Field Hockey Team, gives it all she's got to keep the ball from her teams' challengers. She is one of the six seniors graduating in 2005 whose presence will be missed on the field next year.

The Beat Goes On...

Wherever the Band Plays!

Once again, the Mt. Lebanon High School Marching Band had a very successful season. From supporting our football team, to marching in various parades, to band festivals, and energizing the student body at Spirit Assemblies, the band entertained audiences with their wide array of songs and drills. We participated in three band festivals, including our own, and the trip to Virginia Beach proved to be an excellent one. Summer and weekly practices during the fall truly paid off, as all of the Marching Blue Devils' performances drew much applause from crowds. The band had a fun time supporting our football team, even when it was ridiculously hot, or freezing cold. When the band wasn't playing during games, the always popular Drumline kept the audience and the band excited with their cadence set.

The Marching Band was under the direction of Drum Majors Jessica Vietmeier and Heather Tillman while Drum Captain was Dave Alcorn, and Percussion Front Captain was Bob Foglia. All section leaders, seniors, and auxiliary captains were valuable to the band's success. And of course, the band wouldn't have done as well as they did, if it were not for everyone's participation and cooperation. Following tradition, the seniors were honored at the last home game for their commitment to the marching band, and senior Dave Alcorn brought back fond memories for the seniors by arranging a medley of songs from the past four years. Spending at least ten hours a week with one another, the marching band became very close within their sections and the band as a whole.

- Elana Barkowitz and Jessica Vietmeier

Drum majors Heather Tillman and Jessica Vietmeier prepare to lead the band onto Heinz Field. The Marching Band was invited to the stadium to play in front of the crowd and inspire the football team to victory.

Senior Gerard Larotonda enjoys the game as he drums along with the rest of the Percussion Ensemble at Heinz Field. It takes a true fan and a great talent to simultaneously concentrate on the music and follow the action on the field.

Singing can often be heard as bus rides are sometimes the highlight of away games. These underclassmen show just how fun it can be, but watch out, even the chaperones get a little crazy at times!

Tim DeVito, Ryan Dreger, and Ted Bushman pose for the camera while taking a short break from the game. Spending so many hours together creates a tight bond among members and allows for special, silly moments just like this one.

Some Girls Just Got It...

Silks will Shine as the Rockettes Rock On!

The Silks and Rockettes made it through yet another exciting season of band. Last school year, these girls traveled with the band to the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Florida. This year, the Silks and Rockettes traveled with the band on a new adventure to Virginia Beach for dance competitions.

The Silks and Rockettes are also traditionally part of the school's Holiday Show each year. Sadly, the 2004-2005 season marks the end of band for 9 of the senior girls, Allie Banks, Erin Lacek, Beth Denicola, Sara Wylie, Dana Williams, Erin Gaetano, Kaitlin Kemper, Mimi Jenkins, and Katrina Very. With all of the time and effort that these girls put forth, teaching the others what it is to be a good team player, next year's squads will be in good hands. There is no doubt that the same outstanding performances will once again carry on.

- Erin Lacek

The Rockettes line up on the field for another great show on Senior Recognition Night. Seniors are easily identified by the crowd as they proudly display their corsages.

Elise Suprano gives it her all while she tries to fire up the football team and the crowd. The cheerleaders do their best to keep the fans excited about what's happening on the field.

Christine Pennesi, Ryan Puz, and Tori Riley coax the crowd into cheering louder for our football team. Time after time they always succeed on hyping up the players.

Senior Cheerleaders Catherine Battle, Alison Koval, Christine Pennesi, Kendra Ivol, Kristen Spence, Lauren Christmas, and Sara Colosimo enjoy a break from the vigorous training brought upon all cheerleaders. From the looks of it, they enjoy working together, but really have fun when they get a few moments to relax.

Bring It On One More Time...

And Pump Up that Spirit!

"Lebo fans help us out, yell Go, Fight, Win!" Throughout the season, Lebo fans join the Mt. Lebanon cheerleaders as they cheer varsity sports to victory. Their preparation begins in May with tryouts and continues until pre-season camp in August. Rain or shine, all three squads support Lebo football and girls and boys soccer during the fall season. In November, the cheerleaders continue their year-long season by attending girls and boys varsity basketball games and varsity wrestling matches. Throughout the year, cheerleaders gave their best to encourage Mt. Lebanon fans to support their teams through crowd response cheers, sidelines, stunting, and half time shows. Every year, in addition to the excitement of the games, the girls look forward to bus rides, team dinners and so much more!

- Christine Pennesi

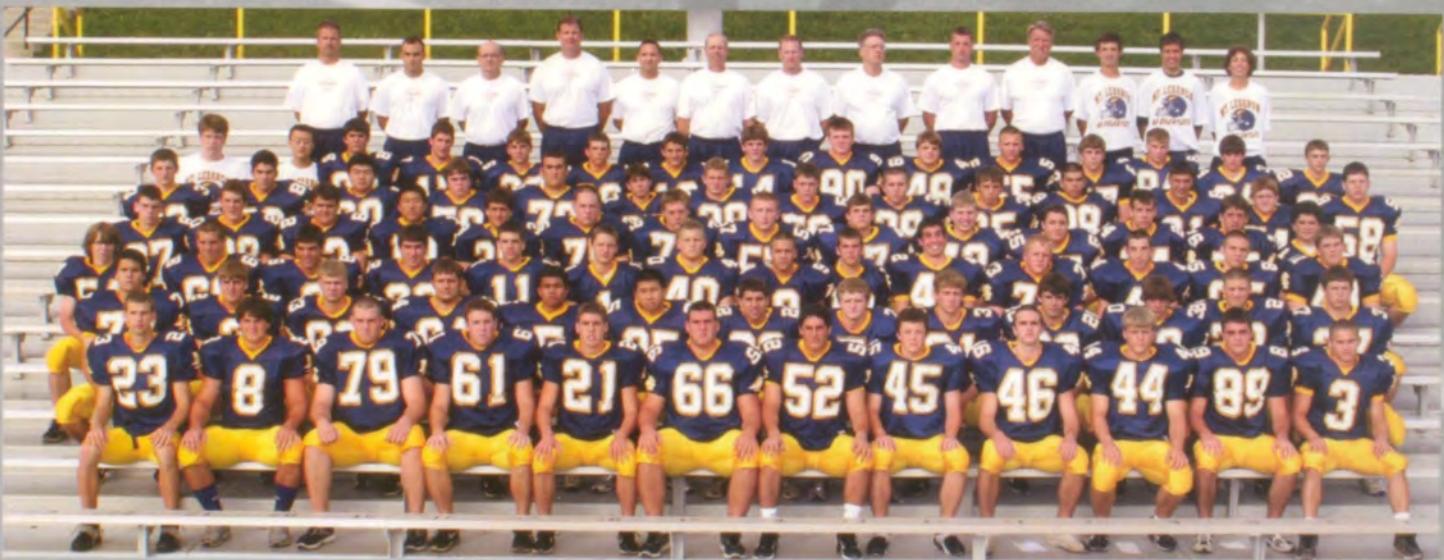

The girls get ready to leave for an away game. Just like the athletes on the field, these girls have their superstitions and traditions (look at that helmet and friendly team mascot!).

When it comes to firing up a crowd, these Lebo cheerleaders have never failed! The girls are always on their toes and it's best when the crowd is too!

Nick Till searches downfield for an open receiver as lineman Joe Swed buys him some time. Our quarterback is well protected by the offensive linemen which allowed them to develop a strong sense of team.

Charging The Field...

Before the Buzzer Sounds!

After a slow 1 - 3 start, many people were ready to write off the Mount Lebanon football team for the rest of the season. However, the Blue Devils were resilient winning 4 out of the last 5 games. This brought the team's record to 5 - 4 for the regular season, with the team going 5 - 2 in the Quad North Conference. With this record, the Blue Devils earned second place in the conference, earning a first round playoff game at home.

On offense, the Blue Devils were led by senior running back Jimmy Mullen who finished third in regular season in rushing yards, in the WPIAL Quad A. Mullen complied 1,886 yards and 20 touchdowns during the regular season behind an offensive line anchored by seniors Nick Garlitz and Matt McCracken. On defense, the team was led by three year starter, cornerback Chris Barr, and senior linebacker Ed Contestabile. Despite a first round playoff loss, the Blue Devils had many strong performances with wins over conference rivals North Allegheny and Bethel Park. With a solid core of players returning, the team should be strong again next year.

- Danny Todd

Brad Stombaugh kicks off the football in the third quarter.

Shea Anderson takes a handoff from Nick Till as the offensive line blocks for him to run up the middle. Although it might not look like the most open route, our running backs know how to create a hole.

The referee watches closely as Mike Mathews finds his way into the endzone on a pass from Nick Till at Heinz Field. Reach, Mike, Reach!

As the Miles Get Burned!

After the exciting return of long time coach Ron Schreiner, the Girls Cross Country team finished out a successful season with a third place finish at the WPIAL championship at Slippery Rock University and an eighth place finish at the state championship in Hershey. Sophomore and first year runner Katie Hrebinko placed ninth in a spectacular showing at WPIALS, while the senior runners ended with only one section loss for over 4 years, as well as first, second, third, and fourth place finishes at WPIALS. All the girls have been an enormous contribution to the team throughout the year and the senior girls will be deeply missed. This will require the large and extremely talented junior class to continue the tradition in the 2005 - 2006 season, which is something that they will undoubtedly accomplish.

- Chelsea Ely

Outside of practice and meets, the girls maintained strong friendships. Shown here are many of them enjoying the Homecoming Dance.

"Squirrels...I mean girls!" The girls were ecstatic to have Coach Shreiner return. There's a time for pressure and a time for release and he understood that.

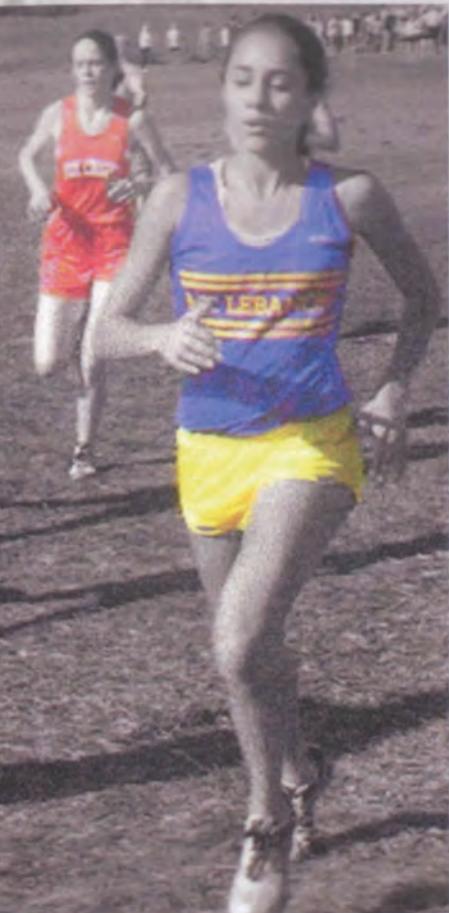

This year was particularly successful for the Girls Cross Country team and especially for its seniors, even if it meant early summer morning runs and cold practices after school.

As Competitors are Left in the Dust!

This season, the Boys Cross Country team trained their you-know-whats off. They could be seen nearly every day after school running for hours around Mt. Lebanon, through pouring rain and inches of black snow. Their dedication has led them to a great season which will continue the ongoing tradition of having industrious characters competing for Mt. Lebanon High School.

Without the support of the departed champs of last year, they took on a difficult task and were forced to pick up the pace to keep up with the competition. This was difficult, considering most of the team were new recruits and raw talent, but overall, they managed to pull it all together. An example of this team unity is the fifth place finish in the Red, White, and Blue Invitational. Additionally, the PAC winners were Josh Caputo (September), and David Scheimer (October). Though the season was a rough one, there is clearly talent to be refined and the years to come look to be promising for current freshmen and sophomores and the future of Mt. Lebanon Cross Country.

Lebo and their opponents begin the competition with an incredible start. The mass will eventually begin to spread as runners find their position. Most runners have a strategy and know how fast they must start and what pace to maintain in order to finish in the place they desire.

Lebo runners Alex Dattilo and Jake Winschel keep up their steady pace as they jog down the grassy course, ahead of the rest. They keep a steady pace by judging their progress with the other.

Digging Up The Green...

While You Swing the Season Away!

This year our girls golf team has a great deal to be proud of. They finished with a great 9-4 season, an amazing feat. The girls have practice all the time, and, like the crew team, they must go to a different location for their practices. This takes a great deal of commitment and determination on the part of the team members, as well as the coach, Ms. Luanne Smail.

Additionally, the materials are extremely expensive, such as the custom-made golf clubs and gloves that help the girls grip the handles. All these factors contribute to a challenging yet fun sport; the bonds created between these girls last even beyond the green.

Kaska Komosinski, Samantha Veights, Grace Calland, and Jackie Harris flop down on the ground after a strenuous practice. The team is able to practice outdoors weather permitting, otherwise, they practice indoor and work in the weight room.

Go Get 'Em Tiger...

You Can Make that Hole-In-One!

Going into the 2004 season with four returning players, a chance for much success seemed to be true for Mt. Lebanon Golf. With a successful tryout in late summer, new recruits for the varsity team looked promising. From day one, all the players knew that team golf is meant to be played together. No individual efforts are highlighted over the team results, but the accumulative play is measured.

After a very successful regular season, Mt. Lebanon was ready to compete in the Golf Team Finals. With highly talented and strong teams as opponents, Lebo proudly came in third place overall in our WPIAL division.

At the end of the school year, five seniors have graduated. The rest of the team, however, along with Coach Kmec are determined to continue to strive for success. Hopefully next year this very young team will be able to make dreams come true and make WPIAL finals.

Sarah Cummings tries to steal the ball from an opponent as they make their way down the field. Defense is a key component to winning any game and as the scoreboard shows, the girls did an awesome job by holding opponents to one point or less.

Liz Smith keeps an opponent away from the ball so her or a teammate can attempt to score.

Knowing and being friends with your teammates can always help with this process, and if you need some proof, just look at our Field Hockey Team!

As You're Going for the Goal!

The 2004 Mt. Lebanon Field Hockey season will go down in history as one of the most successful yet. The team conquered its greatest rival when it defeated North Allegheny by a score of 2-1. The girls went on to become WPIAL runner-ups, with an outstanding overall season of 14-4. Every player was a valuable contributor including the seniors Rosemary Bolich, Sarah Cummings, Katie Donnelly, Christine Hammer, Kathryn McCaffrey and Liz Smith. The team was so enthusiastic and spirited thanks partly to the coaches, who always set the right attitude. This season's success can also be credited to the commitment, drive, and heart of the players. The team will share memories of eating, bus rides, the USC cheer, and of course the night they beat NA. Next year they will miss the seniors' talent and love of the game, but look forward to a strong group of upcoming underclassmen.

Spike For Victory...

And Bury that Ball!

The Mt. Lebanon girls volleyball team exceeded all expectations this year with their enormous will and drive to succeed. After a two year losing streak, the girls fought their way out of this slump. Our team this year left behind the losses of years past and started with a new dedication. We finished the season as section champions with a record of 9-1. "We were good friends when we were on the court, and off the court. We were really lucky to have that kind of camaraderie," said Rosie Calland, senior. Together we pooled our talents and worked hard throughout the season. Our success this year was undeniably due in large to the closeness and friendship that our team had. Regular events such as the "Pony Game" and team dinners at Olive Garden became tradition. The parents were phenomenal this year as well with their never ceasing commitment to the team. Their concession stand became famous after the introduction of the "walking tacos." The girls finished out the year as section champs, WPIAL runner-up, and placed 6th in the state. The girls had the best record and went the furthest of any of the fall sports teams this year. This team, led by its 6 seniors, has grown and built a strong relationship with each other over the past years. With this closeness, determination, and hard work, the girls were able to achieve high rankings and an overall successful and gratifying season.

- Alecia Revitsky

Senior Caryn Brown goes to the floor to pass a ball while Junior Ashley Ropar shadows her. This performance is one of the numerous things that are practiced every day by our team, and as you've seen, it's paid off.

Junior Juliana Traut serves the ball to the opponent. The juniors took on a large role this year, despite the enormous amount of seniors, and have succeeded with flying colors.

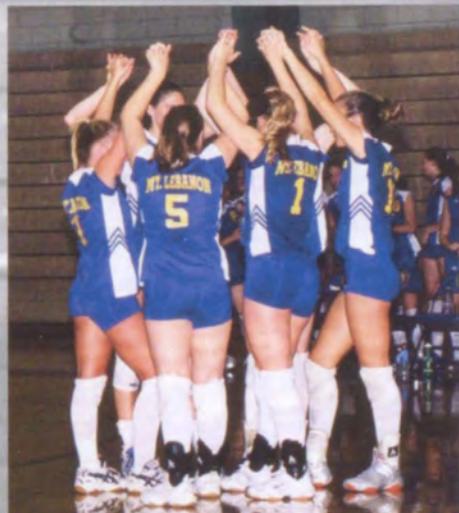

Seniors Caryn Brown and Rosie Calland double block the opposing left side. With such teamwork, the girls manage to stuff many attempts by opponents to spike the ball.

Junior Juliana Traut spikes the ball over the net. She has been a major asset to the team and a well-known player as she landed a scholarship to Duke.

Kicking It Up A Notch...

With Some "Fancy-Footwork"

This season, the girls' soccer team came out strong. They worked hard all year, but unfortunately fell short of their playoff goal. Many of the younger players on the team had to step up and this will prove an advantage entering next year's season. The opportunity to play with the same people each year helps to create a true team mentality and will give the girls a solid chance at accomplishing their goals next season. The 2005 seniors will be greatly missed as they were big assets to the team on and off the field. They left big footsteps to follow in and the underclassmen are willing to accept that charge.

- Missy Sunseri

Casey Baranet takes the ball off the Bethel player, using her experience to predict what the next move will be. Playing opponents multiple times through out the season creates expectations about how each game will be played and what moves the opponents tend to make.

Emily Harper chestes the ball from the other teams' kick allowing the team to gain control. It's a natural reaction for soccer players to lift their arms out of the way, eliminating any chance for a foul.

Far Left: Sarah Sharbaugh gives her teammate a five when she is subbed out. Slapping hands while subbing in and out is a requirement of the game, but also keeps the team spirit high even though the game seems tough.

Blocking Passes...

And Stealing Control

Lebo's soccer team had an amazing season this year, they struggled and strived, eventually making their way to WPIALS. While the team banded together to hold an overall record of 10-7-3, several individuals were honored for their outstanding achievement. Every year, certain players are recognized for their performance and proficient skills. Proudly, Lebo has had a few players of its own who have met and achieved these select honors given every year. This year's All-Section winners were Will Grunewald, Sean Langton, and Rich Sunseri. In addition, an Honorable Mention was awarded to Derek Dumont for his exceptional performance. Also, Will Grunewald (September), and Sean Langton (October) were PAC finalists for this season.

The Blue Devils also placed in the WPIAL Class AAA, Section 4, with a section record of 6-2-2, though one loss was in a close game to Plum. Even so, making it all the way to WPIALS is a phenomenal achievement that was possible only through sweat, pain, and intense teamwork.

Though the team is sadly losing several precious seniors to the college teams after this year, there are over ten juniors and even a handful of sophomores on varsity waiting to step forward. Hopefully, with this strong group, next year will be just as or more successful than this year.

Junior Alex Gorski races down field with the ball to reach the goal while keeping the sideline in the corner of his eye.

and We Make Quite a Racquet!

The girls had a spectacular season this year! Although we lost three seniors at the end of last season, the team was lucky enough to gain three amazing freshmen players this year. We worked hard throughout the season and when it came time to travel to Altoona, not only did we have a great time, we dominated the invitational! After beating Peters twice, we entered the playoffs in a great position, but sadly lost in the quarter finals. Individually, Rebecca Robbins placed third in section singles, gaining a spot in WPIAL play. In doubles action, the team of Amy Marchlen and Rebecca Robbins placed second in the section, also gaining a WPIAL birth. Led by a group of six fantastic seniors, the Lebo Girls' Tennis Team worked hard and had a lot of fun!

- Claire Kelly & Amy Marchlen

After a long and stressful practice, Claire Kelly ices her shoulders with an enormous bag around her neck. Claire, along with her teammates, put in a lot of hard work and dedication into every game, resulting in an overall satisfying season for Girls' Tennis.

Rocking the Boat... And Rowing Hard with Crew!

The crew team has had a terribly rocky fall, yet they still managed to pull through. The entire experienced boys' team quit after losing morale in the three fall matches and for various personal reasons. The experienced girls' team, however, held together through a river evacuation because of a freighter, a head race with terrible winds, and difficult rain. Crew has a saying that was tagged on the bridge that runs near their boathouse: "s cold, 's wet, 's windy, 's crew." Despite having only three races in the fall, the team has indoor rowing practice five days a week and running on Fridays; they're only day off is Sunday -- a schedule nearly as strenuous as the swim team.

The Boys Get Down On the Floor!

At first all you see is tight clothing and strange positions, but after taking a closer look at the wrestling team, the hard work and passion that these young men put into their sport is evident. These boys put their body through any stress and strain necessary to perform their best in the proper weight classes.

This season started off a rather young team as two key wrestlers were out due to injury. However, as time passed, a strong team was formed. Their skills and technique improved and the team pulled together to win several matches by the end of the season. The boys gained experience and confidence throughout this year and are incredibly prepared to beat next year into the mat!

Leaving All Challengers Behind!

After losing many seniors and some of the best players in Mt. Lebanon history, the 2004-2005 Blue Devil hockey team has responded with its own. With a 22-2-0 record, this year's team was looking to repeat as Penguin Cup Champs. Unfortunately, the dream fell short as the team lost in the semifinals to Bethel Park. Regardless, the team had overcome many obstacles that arose in the beginning of the season and finished as one of the main threats in the league.

With great senior leadership and an enormously important contribution by the underclassmen, the team put themselves in position to go far in the playoffs. This year's team will sorely miss the graduating seniors who will be very hard to replace in the upcoming seasons, yet they look forward to a bright future with the emergence of many other underclassmen.

Blocking Opponents...

On Your Way Down Court!

GET ON THE LINE. Say this phrase to any player and watch as their smile quickly fades and a large puddle forms at their trembling feet. The girls' basketball team went through a very stressful and physically demanding schedule, with strong aspirations for victory every time they put on a jersey. The varsity team finished with an impressive 23-6 record, falling only to top WPIAL teams such as Oakland Catholic and Bethel Park. The JV team also finished with one of the best records in a long time. The varsity kicked off their season with a great 8-0 run, winning both the Blackhawk and Moon Thanksgiving tournaments. There were also many nail-biters this season, including a triple overtime win against Trinity and a huge double overtime victory against Greensburg Salem in the first round of the WPIAL playoffs.

The successes were due in a very large part to the indestructible friendships that were formed off the court. Bad jokes, Internet clips, embarrassing Indian dancing, Sandstorm, SNL skits, Kassie's lovely voice, and loud chants about substitute teachers made practice run much more smoothly. The team toughed their way through "Sueys," fouls, hot drills, Hubie Browns, and 17's almost every day for five months, but the hard work always paid off. Although the team will be losing seven seniors, everyone is looking forward to an even better season next year.

- Katie White

Emily Hauser strives to keep the ball in her possession just long enough to pass it to a teammate. It's a hard fight to maintain control and then pass to an open teammate.

Kyle Coval guards an opponent with her lengthy reach. She makes it as difficult as possible for the opponent to pass the ball into play.

Jessica Boyer collides with a competitor as she throws a lay-up. Although there is no tackling in basketball, it can get pretty physical. Watch those elbows, girls!

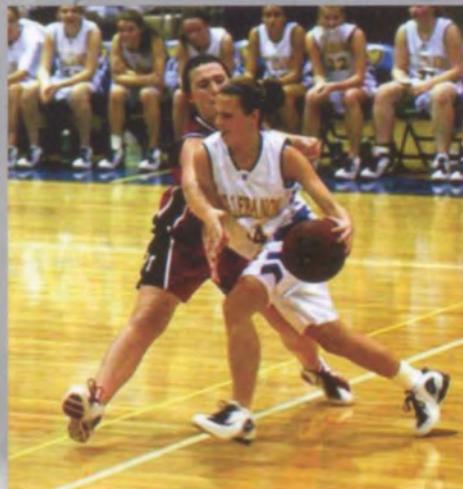

What a leap as Lauren Brake tries a jump shot for three. This perfect form is practiced and perfected by all players before they are able to step on the court as a member of the varsity squad.

Katie White drives past a rival as she makes her way down court. The girls play hard and never stop pushing through every quarter of every game.

Shoot the Ball...

and Hear It Go "Swish!"

The boys basketball team had a very impressive season this year as they fought hard to the WPIAL finals and the state playoffs. As a send off for the WPIAL Championships at the AJ Palumbo Center, there was a spirit assembly to rally the team to victory. Although it was disappointing to lose to Upper St. Clair by a basket, the team rallied together and made the long trips to the PIAA playoffs. Playing in locations an hour or more from home didn't hold back the team or fans from enjoying the first and second rounds of the PIAA playoffs. Even falling short of their goal, no one could deny how exhilarating the season was.

As with many strong varsity teams, boys basketball will lose a number of seniors, but some key players such as Evan Stokar, Adam Potter, and Nate Gannon will hopefully lead the team to states again.

As senior Geoff Kestler leaps with the ball, he avoids an attempt from the opposing team to block his shot.

Brett Stoker pushes aside his opponent who tries to block him from driving down the lane for a score.

Brendan Babe brings the ball into scoring territory as two opponents prepare to sub in.

The Girls Get Down With the Water!

The swim team drags themselves out of bed nearly every morning at around 4:00 and are at the pool by 4:30 or 5:00 am. In the spring and fall, when it's warmer out, they swim at the Mt. Lebanon Pool where the water is so cold that they can't wear swimsuits -- wetsuits are the only way to go! They can also be seen running down Washington Road after schools -- sometimes even passing the track team. The girls' swim team reached phenomenal heights this season.

Not only did they work hard six days a week this year, they also placed 7th overall in WPIALS with many individuals and relay teams placing higher in other events. For instance, Molly Engelmeier placed 4th in the 200 freestyle, 5th in the 500 freestyle and was part of the 200 freestyle relay along with Lindsay Champ, Alex Bekampis and Alison Stang who placed 5th. The 400 yard freestyle relay team also placed 7th. These outstanding ranks earned some swimmers a place in the state meet.

Colin Quirk slices his slick body through the water at 6:00 in the morning at practice. Swimmers must manage their time very well to fit in the many practices and meals along with the school work they must complete.

Welcome to Chlorine Land...

Home of the Slickest Guys!

The male swimmers knocked this season to the ground, dominating in nearly every meet to which they went. Furthermore, the Lebo Boys won WPIAL Championships for the first time in thirty-four years, and several went on to states. Individually at WPIALs, junior Gunnar Aasen placed 1st in the 200 medley relay and Dan Robinson placed 3rd. In the 100 fly, Dan Eckel placed 2nd and in the 100 yard breaststroke he placed first. Colin Quirk placed 4th in the 200 freestyle and Wes Aasen placed 6th. The team, fortunately, has a great deal of solid juniors, and are looking forward to more victories next year.

As You "Load, Lock, and Commence Fire!"

Though some teams may suffer when over half of their starting lineup graduates, this rifle team was not phased by the changes. Under the excellent coaching of Mr. Dietz and Ms. Philp, they had an awesome season. Most students on the team never shot a gun before trying out for the team, yet they continually crush teams comprised of club shooters with years more experience.

To finish off the season, senior captains Lauren Zasadil and Justin Brandt shared the first place gold at senior shoot with two perfect doubles scores of 200-20x apiece while junior Cody Gonze brought home the state championship. Although the results took a few days to come in, Cody maintained his cool and waited patiently. Rifle was one of the only sports to have someone reach such prestigious final rounds as state playoffs.

En pointe

Sophomore Amy Barker en pointe as the Dew Drop Fairy in the Nutcracker.

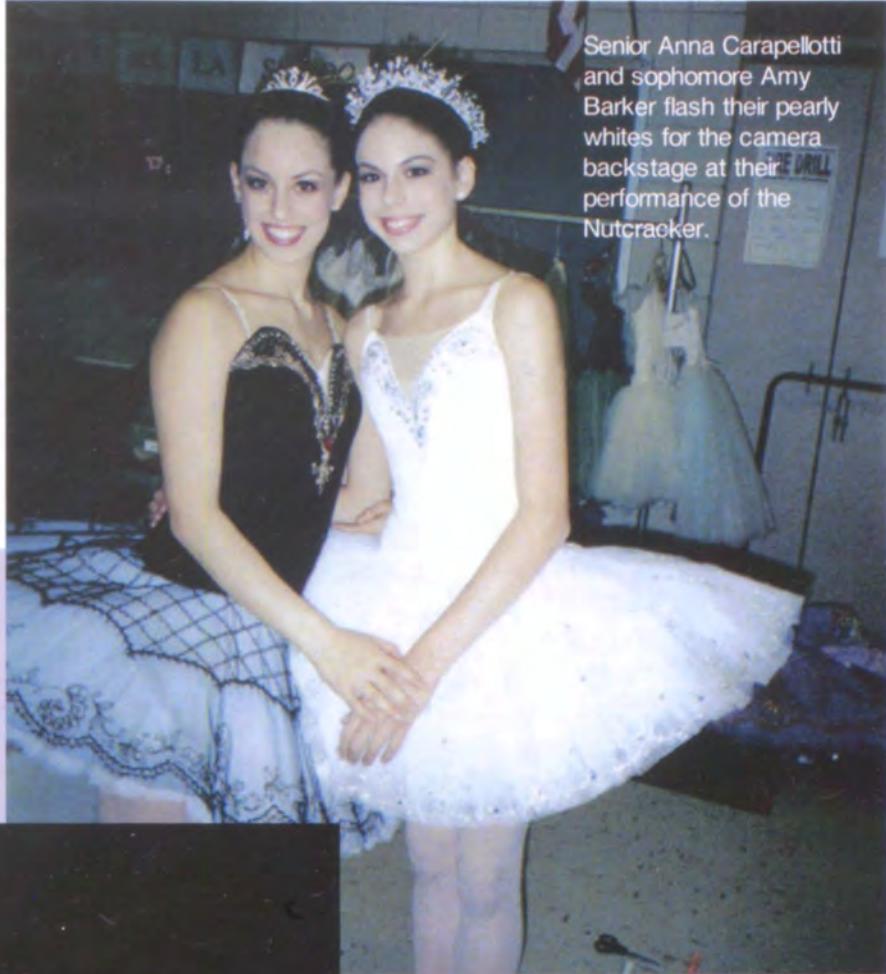

Anna Carapellotti holds a graceful arabesque position as the Sugar Plum Fairy in the Nutcracker.

Ballet

Amy Barker, Anna Carapellotti, and Katie Rinaldo hang out at PYB.

Senior Anna Carapellotti and sophomore Amy Barker flash their pearly whites for the camera backstage at their performance of the Nutcracker.

Sophomore Katie Rinaldo flies through the air in arabesque as the lead Spanish in the Nutcracker.

On Their Toes

Anna Carapellotti, Amy Barker, and Katie Rinaldo are all members of the Pittsburgh Youth Ballet. The girls are in an early release program with Mt. Lebanon that enable them to pursue rigorous ballet classes nearly everyday for several hours. These intense ballerinas have participated in productions such as "Stars and Stripes", "Serenade", and "The Nutcracker". As the only senior, Anna is currently trying out for a number of companies in order to dance professionally. As underclassmen, Amy and Katie are also considering a dance career and pursue month long study workshops in various cities including New York City. We know they will continue to captivate audiences with their style, talent and grace. Stay tuned!

Beyond The Individual

LEBO Organizations

As Mt. Lebanon students roam these hallowed halls after the day has ended, they find themselves drawn together by various pursuits. Whether making sweet music with the jazz band or chillin' in the computer lab, Lebo kids can have the best of any world. After a day of running down halls, cramming for tests, and squashing homework into that beloved study hall, nothing is better than relaxing with something you truly enjoy.

This year, our clubs and organizations have branched into all types of new territory. New organizations such as Political Forum and the Book Club have proved that an inaugural year is no reason to hold back. Student-led organizations, a unique aspect of Mt. Lebanon, prove that a school can go "above and beyond" to adapt to the interests of its students.

Gay Strait Alliance, Amnesty International, Eracism, and Feminism Explored help each student reach beyond the rich and disinterested persona of Lebo, and resolve social issues: in our own country, and around the world. As students explore their personal taste in the photo, art, tech, theatre, voice and dance departments, creative souls can unleash their emotions and hone skills, while working with teachers and mentors in a comfortable environment.

Students and teachers, brought together by similar interests outside of the classroom, gain a common bond that reaches far beyond interests or goals. Oftentimes, these organizations provide a second home and family.

Melissa Shaw, Gabrielle Williott, and Amanda Till perform in the annual dance daytime. The Dance Company performed for the students six periods that day in the auditorium.

Jesse Bastiaens, Scott Trumble and Ruthie Neely show off their teeth in a warm-up for Forensics. Their voices need to be prepped for the intense competitions, which range from dramatic interpretations to comedy.

Year after year, the Forensics Team earns high honors in all categories.

Student Councils

From Mrs. Henderson . . .

The Mt. Lebanon High School Student Council serves as the governing body and voice of the students. Student Council is composed of 2 representatives from each of the 80 homerooms and the Executive Council members from all four classes. The Student Council provides leadership opportunities for students in all grades and works to develop new projects, clubs, and programs which are of interest to the students. Creating a positive atmosphere in the school where all students feel valued and respected is another goal of the Student Council. This year, students worked on organizing high school projects such as three Spirit Assemblies, three Blood Drives with the Central Blood Bank, a Holiday Food drive, and numerous fundraisers for charities. They also sponsored two school wide dances: Homecoming and Snowball. Additionally, Student Council created a Military Display to honor Mt. Lebanon graduates presently serving in the armed forces. They also sponsored a major drive for flood victims in the South Hills area, giving not only a monetary donation, but sending numerous boxes filled with backpacks, toys and stuffed animals to the Carlynton School District for children who had lost these items in the flood. When the tsunami catastrophe happened, Student Council sponsored a school wide drive to aid the victims of this disaster. Student Council encourages input from students and works hard to see that concerns are addressed and that students feel connected in the high school.

The tsunami that hit southeast Asia on December 26th, 2004 was one the worst natural disasters in history. Fortunately, many people found a way to use their resources to aid in the relief effort. The senior class collected donations and each participant signed a hand. These hands, on display outside of the principal's office, symbolized what everyone can do, when working together.

Brianna McDonough participates in a Freshman Student Council meeting. Although this is their first year, the Freshman Council have shown great progress and leadership.

Representing the Masses

Why Join MUN?

This club teaches you why foreign relations are so difficult and about the wonders of Afghani cuisine. The trips are my best high school memories, with Mr. Savarese and Mr. DiNardo, two amazing teachers. What happens in Canada, stays in Canada.

- Claire O'Hanlon

Why Join Mock Trial?

I think anyone who is able to work with others, reliable, and able to rock out to Britney Spears should join this club. If you're in Mock Trial you are able to learn things you never knew before, and experience things you couldn't anywhere else.

Why Join FBLA?

FBLA is a great opportunity for a variety of people, especially if you are interested in a career in business. At conferences, you have the opportunity to meet many different people in an interesting setting. If you are able to speak in front of a group, and are interested in teamwork, this would be an excellent opportunity for you. Mr. Sabina introduced this organization last year, and its progress shows how great it is.

- Alejandro Barreto

Why Join NHS?

This organization is a reflection of contributions, service, and academic integrity, so it is a truthful reflection of a person's character. The benefitting of the National Honors Society is what it demands. The society is a group of people benefiting their community and improving themselves. The journey is just as important as the destination.

Why Join GSA?

The Gay-Straight Alliance raises awareness through different forms of communication including protests, community efforts and volunteering. It also acts as a support system and resource for the Mt. Lebanon High School students. Although it is perceived as a group for only Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual and Questioning youth, it is a club for both gay and straight students to come together and raise awareness and promote understanding. The biggest stigma of the GSA is that associating with the club automatically defines the member as gay. In actuality, the club reaches out to people of all sexualities in the hopes of building a better future and breaking down the stigma surrounding homosexuality.

Amnesty International

Why Join Amnesty?

Amnesty gives its members an appreciation and understanding of life around the world. Advocating compassion and action, Amnesty has been known to motivate the rest of Mt. Lebanon with their activities. Famous for their concerts featuring local talent, Amnesty has raised funds for organizations around the world, including relief efforts for victims of the tsunami.

Feminism Explored

Chelsea Garber, Erin O'Boyle, Caroline Kao, Hannah Sholder, Heather Tillman

Why Join Feminism Explored?

One of the letter writing campaigns Feminism Explored completed this year was the case of Daso Adamu who was sentenced to death by stoning for adultery. International human rights groups and parliamentarians in the European Union have all outspokenly opposed sentencing women to inhumane sentences. Sharia law has been introduced in twelve states in northern Nigeria. Last year, Amina Lawal was sentenced to death by stoning for having sex out of wedlock. Following an outcry from women around the world, her case was overturned in September 2003. We hope the case of Daso Adamu will have the same results.

Why Join Book Club?

This club spurs the imagination. The discussions give you an opportunity to express opinions and somewhere to meet others with similar interests. Compared with English class, the topics are picked by the group, from books like The DaVinci Code, and it prepares you for in class debates.

- Barbara Murray

Why Join Environmental?

I was first interested in this club freshmen year, because I wanted to learn what I could do to protect the environment. This is the only earth we have, and I wanted to share ways to preserve it with others. It would be a benefit to our school and community if more people joined.

- Rachel Kerber

Environmental Club

Rachel Kerber, Brenna Levine, Aleks Lange

Why Join POFO?

Our school has many clubs which deal with politics, but nothing low pressure, which is why we began POFO. It was something our school needed, something that would develop our interests in politics and debate early on, and prompt us to listen to each others opinions.

- Tenley Brownwright

Brenna Levine, member of the Environmental Club at Lebo, and an avid reptile lover, pursues her interest in all things herpetological while showing off her snake, Kerby, and her snake stick.

Why Join AFS?

I joined AFS because I thought it would be a cool experience. I've always wanted to live in another country, like Italy, and spend time abroad. This is a once in a lifetime experience; you're not just a tourist, you get to really experience the culture.

Why Join Tech Crew?

The main reason to join tech is twinkie cake. Kuhar's mom makes the best twinkie cake. As you work more shows, and learn more about sets, you get to meet a lot of techies and actors. Families often involve their younger siblings in tech, as legacy techies.

- Steph Becker

Why Join Forensics?

Coached by Mr. Savarese and Mrs. Lisa Hoffmann, the Forensics team teaches students public speaking and acting skills. The team then not only competes locally, but also at nationally ranked tournaments in places such as Harvard and Princeton. It is on these trips when students compete in individual events, the entire team also receives awards for their accomplishments. The team boasts numerous district champions as well as national finalists. This year proved to be no different as "the talent on this team is the best we have ever had," said Savarese. The team looks forward to competing once again in the National Speech Tournament to be held in Philadelphia. Graduating seniors and four-year members include Joyelle Freeman, Alison Koval, Paul Katz, Benjamin Moore, Catherine Gallagher, Alison Emery, Kelsey Henson, Jessica Winschel, Stephanie Yessler, Michael Barasch, Hart Ford-Hodges, Sarah Brown, Andrea Hnath, Anna Reilly, Bill Passodelis, and Danny Hackett.

- Joyelle Freeman

Why Join Dance?

As the only senior this year, I think the greatest thing about dance company is that you get to know everyone, and to become close as a company. This year, although we didn't have a full company number, we had more control over our daytimes, using more recognizable music like "Mad World," "Sweet Dreams," "Footloose" and "Seasons of Love."

- Meghan Libman

Why Join Triple Trio?

It's a more selective opportunity to work in a small group, and is for anyone who enjoys singing and a challenge. Everyone is important. This year's Winter Concert featured a smaller group than before, so we hope for more people to get involved.

- Mimi Jenkins

If you would like to play a variety of music, you'd love concert band. It's a great way to pass down the music tradition to the younger grades. This past year, the Concert Band had the opportunity to play at the elementary schools, and the kids got really into it. Anytime you can play music in school and get class credit, it's awesome.

Why Join Orchestra?

Orchestra is a great opportunity to meet others who share your interest in music. Mr. Vogel makes being in class all the more enjoyable with his analogies and stories such as taking care of each note when you play like you would take care of a baby making sure not to drop it and using dynamic contrast like climbing up a mountain when you crescendo and running down quickly to supito piano. Throughout the year we prepare for our winter and spring concert and playing in the pit for the yearly musical with musical theory tests in between. As a principal, I got to go on different trips, such as playing at the Carnegie Museum, while singing Disney songs on the way.

Why Join LOG?

The yearbook staff, although sometimes a dysfunctional group of kids, is a gaggle of interesting people. By pulling all of varying talents, skills and personalities together, the LOG staff produces a great work of heart. Our mentors, especially Ms. Mattern, contribute so much of their time and energy to ensure differing projects are the best. From the announcement of the theme "above and beyond," in August of last year, we knew that was what we were going to do.

- Chelsea Garber

Why Join Devil's Advocate?

In a room filled with the couches carried in by staff members last year, computers, rough drafts laying everywhere, and walls decorated with issues of the best newspaper ever (or at least in the top five of the state, according to the Pennsylvania School Press Association), you can find staff members of the Devil's Advocate at any given time of day. These close-knit writers, editors and photographers put in countless hours to make our school newspaper what it is today, often staying until 7:00 p.m. perfecting each section before sending it to be printed. Many staffers have received recognition for their outstanding writing, layout or artistry and received a Keystone Award, the Pennsylvania School Association's highest ranking. In addition, members from last year's staff traveled to Harrisburg this November to receive an All-State Award. After redesigning the entire appearance of the paper last August, we continue to outdo ourselves with innovative styles and tackling the subject that we feel best represent our student body and their interests. From exchanging students with Langley High School for a day, to a student camping out in their back yard to experience Thoreau's writing firsthand, to paying tribute to Lebo alums in the military, we continuously strive to maintain the interest of our audience by mixing entertainment with information.

Last year, we even put out a musical CD full of student musicians, and we would like to do so again. Pulse plans to continue this trend of expansion, and enrich the literary scope of Mount Lebanon High school.

Why Join Big Sister?

Entering into the second year of Big Sister, the idea of long-lasting friendship was the main goal of the entire club. With the objective of breaking the boundaries between older and younger girls, we hope to let every girl leave each meeting with one more friendly face in the halls and one more good friend. Another important goal of Big Sister is to let girls become more aware of women's health issues. With one of the school's best and most loved teachers, Mrs. Booth, as our inspiration, we hope to run in the Race for the Cure for Breast Cancer research. We hope to inspire our entire community to join with us in her honor.

Why Join Academic Games?

I first joined the club to have fun, and as a challenge. The games involve different academic interests, such as math, social studies, and language. For example, one of the games uses clues to guess the name of a president, and another uses varying clues to solve an equation. Every spring, the team goes to Atlanta to compete, one of the best experiences in the club.

Why Join Ski Club?

The Mt. Lebanon Ski and Board Club is an organized group which goes on Friday trips to Seven Springs during the snow season. It's a great way to hang out with your friends, meet new people, and just to have a good time. We accept new skiers through the most advanced. You can choose to go on as many trips as you want. ## Why Join Latin Club?

The Latin Club meets only once a month, but they do countless things throughout the year. Among others, they do a Fall Italian Dinner, Holiday caroling at Mercy Hospital, weekend visits to Carnegie Museum's Greek, Roman, and Egyptian collections, and attend a Latin Mass at St. Boniface.

Brianna McDonough, Andrew Freeman, Katie Madison, and Hao Su watch the instructor demonstrate a salsa move. Hao, however, learned some salsa on his own over the summer.

Why Join French Club?

We go to lots of different French restaurants and eat more food than you can possibly imagine. Also we sell croissants and listen to French music, especially Lorie, the French Britney Spears. This club allows us to gather a greater understanding of the French language and culture.

Why Join Spanish Club?

The Spanish Club has invited guest speakers from Pitt's Center for Latin American Studies, and gone to Mexican and Hispanic restaurants for authentic food. We also went to see "Man of la Mancha", took salsa dancing lessons, sampled fresh salsa at Phipps Conservatory, and attended the Latin Boat Cruise on the Gateway Clipper Fleet.

Why Join German Club?

We get to do cool things, like watch movies in German. We also get to build gingerbread houses, with lots of icing and sprinkles. The best things, however, are meeting the German Foreign Exchange students, participating in German Day, and learning about German culture.

Why Join Japanese Club?

We eat lots of authentic sushi, and also have fun playing with Japanese toys. Watching Japanese movies and listening to music is always a plus, as well as going out to restaurants and learning origami after school with Ms. Yamamoto.

Above Average

Taking Our Knowledge to New Heights

Three Blue Ribbon awards in excellence, superior test scores and top-notch educators define our school as one of the top one hundred in the nation. The academic curriculum consists of a variety of Advanced Placement courses, honors courses, and enrichment opportunities. For example, senior Matt Humphrey graduated early last year to attend Carnegie Mellon University, while Paul Katz was one of the few students in the nation to achieve a perfect score on the ACTs.

Students are not the only ones striving for success, however. Some teachers, such as Mr. John Donoghue and Dr. Laureen Hurt, are working on, or already have earned, their doctorate degrees. Even with all of these achievements, our student body still maintains a down-to-earth attitude about a lot of things. Although Lebo students are framed with many stereotypes such as "cake eaters" or "preppies," our student body is so huge and diverse, that no one word can describe us.

The success of the school isn't due solely to teachers and students. The administration and support staff play a huge role in running day-to-day operations and in achieving long-term goals. The combination of all of these groups create the enriching environment that is Mt. Lebanon.

Sophomore Chelsea Zimdahl presents a paper to her social studies class. Students have many opportunities to share their work with others in the form of presentations which have become a requirement in most courses. An emphasis has been placed on communication because it is a key component of success in today's fast-paced society.

Freshmen Bridget Shannon and Alli Philippi do their part to keep the above average image of Mt. Lebanon students alive.

With our competitive student body, most kids are compelled to do the same.

Beyond APUSH

MR. JOHN DONOGHUE

As a dedicated athlete, Mr. Donoghue played football, baseball, and basketball in high school and continued to play football through college. However, he was also an avid reader, especially of military history, and remembers bugging his mom to take him to the library. Though born in Silver Springs, Maryland, Mr. Donoghue went to high school here at Mt. Lebanon. He took AP US History, and was deeply motivated by his teacher, Barbara Kern, but he never thought that he would end up being a history teacher.

He met his wife, Laura, in tenth grade biology; during a fire drill he asked her out, only to be rejected! She eventually agreed to a date and now they are happily married. Known for his intense lectures, Mr. Donoghue teaches World Cultures and AP US History.

The Past and Future

English & Social Studies Go Hand-in-Hand

English and Social Studies, where would one be without the other? With the grammatical and analytical skills of English, History can be recorded and understood by the masses. With the events and cultural backgrounds of Social Studies, writing has an added dimension. Without basic language skills, all the information on the Declaration of Independence has no significance. And even if a student is the reincarnation of Mark Twain, without the historical knowledge of slavery in America, the words amount to nothing.

Both departments go hand in hand. For example, they come together four times a year to grade the dreaded blue books. They divide the essay so each department grades its respective area of expertise.

With the knowledge of both, students have the opportunity to achieve whatever they desire in today's society. Also, the combination English and Social Studies enhance students' perception of the world as they see both disciplines intertwined.

Brittany Barnes, Suzanne Smith, Alex Caffee, and Catrina Vargo go over a paper together before class. Similar to how teachers of each discipline collaborate, students find this technique of using each other's strengths helpful as well.

Explosions and Integrals

Real-life Math and Science In-class

Remember those times when it felt like science was more math than animals and chemicals? How about the number of times the cheesy math books described the migratory patterns of birds or the proportions of Silly Sally's chemicals in lab?

No matter how much anyone tries, it is impossible to escape them both. They pop up in art when scaling an object before drawing, in history disguised as Leonardo Da Vinci, and even in gym class when calculating the amount of weight a student can pick up before fainting. Even though math and science may be the most hated subjects by many, they are also the most necessary and useful.

Science and Math are inevitably vital to success in the world. Without the guidance of the teachers from each of these departments, dealing with these situations in the real world would be impossible.

Seniors Gerard Larotonda, Peter Shannon, and Roman Supan take a break from their egg-drop lab and pose for a picture with Physics teacher, Ms. Kennedy. The egg-drop lab involves students creating containers that will house the egg as it is dropped from the ceiling. The goal is for the egg to stay in one piece.

BEYOND MATH

MR. JOE PROKAY

Mr. Prokay, though a teacher in the math department, was always more interested in history. He even says that he wants to be just like Mr. Donoghue! The graduate of Bloomsburg State College was an avid swimmer in both high school and college, and his favorite class was gym.

Over the course of his long career at Mt. Lebanon, Mr. Prokay has taught every math course offered, save computer science. His favorite class, AP Statistics, he adds, "renewed my career." Despite his claims of being entirely uninteresting, two years ago he climbed the Chichen-Itza Pyramid in 120 degree weather.

Currently, Mr. Prokay is working in the math lab with his focus on giving extra help to students. He is also looking forward to his first grandchild in June, a perfect way to begin his retirement. We'll miss you, Mr. Prokay!

Sophomore Kristen Campbell uses chemistry as an excuse to do what no one should ever do; play with fire. Many of the science labs come with the warning, "Don't try this at home!"

Sophomores Liz Heeley and Laura Gans studiously take notes during Biology class. Although many are disturbed by the dissections of animals, Biology is mostly about plants and genetics.

Language & The Arts

At the high school, Foreign Languages and the Fine Arts are typical courses selected by students. There are a variety of languages to choose from Spanish to Japanese so everyone can find something suited to their tastes. In the Fine Arts Department, a student can choose anything from creating music to building sets for the various performances. Both of these departments help students broaden their horizons and allow them to look past the typical academic experience.

BEYOND WORDS

MRS. MAUREEN STAUB

A Pittsburgh native, Mrs. Staub went to Baldwin High School and graduated from Dickinson College. She spent her junior year in England, at the University of East Anglia, where she took her favorite class, Masculinity in American Literature. She had leading roles in her high school plays, and even considered becoming an actress. Luckily for the students, she chose teaching English as her career and, at one time, also taught drama classes. Literature, singing, drama, and creative writing are her passions, despite her limited time. Mrs. Staub, in addition to her classes here, is also finishing up her masters degree at Slippery Rock.

The Basics Of Life

Nutrition and Technology Pave the Road

Food and technology are two of the most basic needs in today's society. Food helps us survive in the biological world and the technology helps us get through the fast paced 21st century. Obviously, this school would not be complete without both of these departments and without them, students would be subject to confusion regarding nutrition and technological advancements.

In a society where "fad diets" and obesity are a growing problem, students need to know the facts. Courses such as Foods and Nutrition and Foods for Today help spread awareness of proper diets and nutrition habits, while Health and Phys Ed classes give students the proper tools and exercise needed for a healthy lifestyle.

Through the business classes that the school offers, students have the opportunity to have a preview of college classes and material. Classes like Financial Accounting and Office Power even offer college credit for students who wish take full year courses. With these types of courses, students are prepared for the work force.

Lending a Helping Hand

The Support of the School

When you have to make up that test, look up information for a research paper, change your classes, get community service hours, or just need some extra help with class, where do you go? Well, with a school like ours, you don't have to go far. With an excellent faculty that consists of very willing and able staff, students can find what they need without going out of the building.

The Study Center allows students to make up missed work, do homework, get help from other students, or cram for a test the next period during study halls or lunches. The library is also a good place to go during the school day to get away from the hectic hallways to work on English or Social Studies assignments.

The school's Support Staff and Special Education department, go further by designing individualized instruction and tutoring to students. The amount of time and dedication these folks put into their job is unrivaled.

The Activities Office and the Student Services give students the opportunity to go beyond graduation requirements and give a little something back to their community. Many students take advantage of these offers and help make Mt. Lebanon and other surrounding communities a better place.

With the combined efforts of each department, our school provides a powerful force enabling every student to succeed.

The School's Backbone

Whether it's having a headache or a cell phone in hand, these guys always have your back. The nurses are there to give you an ice pack for that bruised lip you got from dodgeball or let you take a nap during study hall to recover from last night's cramming session. And where would we be without those wonderful ladies in the cafeteria? From Pizza Fridays to a bag of pretzels, these ladies have got it covered. Of course, how can we forget the man behind all your packets and papers? Surrounded by Xerox machines left and right, Jerome takes care of all your paper needs. If it's a work permit you're looking for, Human Resources is the place to be. Naturally, without Information Systems and Technology, this school would be in chaos. With the help of these departments, Lebo is efficient as can be.

THE RESEMBLANCE

The Stars of

Mr. Donoghue, a Social Studies teacher who sponsors Amnesty International, enjoys his weekends impersonating former Vice President Al Gore.

Whether it be at her daughter's swim lesson or during class, English teacher Ms. Vetere is often mistaken for ER star, Michael Michele.

Although he is the principal of Mt. Lebanon High School, no one will ever be able to get past the resemblance; Dr. J is Sylvester Stallone.

No imagination is needed to see the similarities between Mrs. McLaughlin, a teacher of imaginative writing, and Gilmore Girls' star Kelly Bishop.

English teacher Mr. Caputo, although seemingly calm, has his own wild side whether it be on his Halloween door or his Ben Stein impressions.

IS UNCANNY!

the Building

Famous Brady Bunch mother, Florence Henderson, looks on as she spots her twin, Home Economics teacher Mrs. Gamble.

It's difficult to enjoy a "normal life" as Social Studies teacher Mr. Black is stalked by waiters amazed at his likeness to former President Bill Clinton.

Math teacher Ms. McConnell and Coyote Ugly's Piper Perabo switch places occasionally to take a break from their usual routines.

In his spare time from baseball and school, History teacher Mr. McCloskey covers for his look-alike, Adam Sandler, when he can't attend the film shoot.

Between the science classes and the physics labs, Ms. Kennedy still has time to stand-in on the sets as her look-alike Ellen Pompeo.

Beyond the Faces

The Soul & Spirit of the School

Despite the large number of students that attend Mt. Lebanon High School and the uniqueness that each individual maintains, the fact that the entire student body is connected by a single spirit of excellence and achievement awes any onlooker. All four classes met their potential and more through various class activities, assemblies, fund raisers, and academics.

The new freshmen class quickly adapted to their social and academic surroundings and maintained the above average character of the entire school. Their enthusiasm to adapt into the new environment allowed many to join clubs and organizations with ease, while their talent proved them to the entire school at the spirit assemblies. The sophomores yet again made their mark with their fund raising and charity ideas as they worked together for one another. They grew closer and made new bonds that soon enough turned into strong friendships and loyalty towards each other. Juniors took their stand as they were put against the ETS and College Board when taking the SATs and other standardized tests. Their ability to balance both fun and work is clear cause for admiration. Despite the temptation and contagious nature of Senioritis, the majority of seniors demonstrated their maturity to themselves and the rest of the school by making important decisions as they went through the college application process and took their last breath of high school life.

Overall, the entire Mt. Lebanon High School student body took their knowledge, spirit, talent, and skills above and beyond in every aspect of the school.

The Fresh New Faces

To all the upperclassmen walking down the hall, the freshmen seem to be hobbit-size. And to the freshmen, the school is a labyrinth of confusion. Mean teachers, a new level of homework, more difficult classes, troublesome lockers that always seem to change their combination, and, even worse, the search for rooms that are absolutely impossible to find were just a few of the many things freshmen had to face.

After being the "rulers of the middle-school" last year, the freshies have had to start all over to earn their respect as students. Although this would have overwhelmed many other students, the class of '08 went above and beyond this challenge. They proved to the upperclassmen that they are more than the "little children" of the school by finding their place in various school activities. For example, they made their mark by cheering more in the Spirit Assemblies (along with making more baskets than the seniors during the winter assembly), contributing their creative ideas in the Halloween Door Decorating contest, and donating both time and money during the school's various fundraisers.

By the year's end, the freshmen seem to find their niche. No one gets lost anymore, there is someone to sit with in the cafeteria, and some sport or organization to head to after school. It doesn't take long to feel at home and begin looking forward to moving up the secondary school ladder. Next year, these freshmen will be one step closer to the top and someone will have taken their place on the lowest rung!

Mel May, Molly Sniegocki, and Erin Reidenbaugh, capture the last moments of 2004 as they take a picture of themselves on New Years Eve.

Tim Anthony and Keith Ewing get comfortable as they realize that they are going to spend the next four years in this building.

Despite many upperclassmen saying that four years pass by quickly, freshman year itself can feel like four years.

Katie Healy takes the time to look around the girls locker room and become familiar with the "high school gym experience" on their first day of gym class.

Who Is Your Favorite Late Night Talk Show Host?

Although they make us cry sometimes with their bad jokes, late night talk show hosts are usually the highlight of the day after long classes and extra-curricular activities. When the freshmen class were asked who their favorite host was, they came up with the following responses:

Conan O'Brien: 27.5%
David Letterman: 32.5%
Jay Leno: 17.5%
Jon Stewart: 22.5%

Mel May, Kelly Klinefelter, and Amy Offner take a moment to display their pearly whites. All three freshmen say they loved their first year at the high school so much, they can't wait for the next three.

Sophomores

A Bit Sophisticated

They're not quite children with the care-free attitude and the curious tendencies that freshmen have; nor are they adults with the freedom of cars and the privileges that they probably should be given. Sophomores are the group that are in the middle of it all. You could say they experience the last drop of childhood before they are hit head-on with the stress and struggles of entering adulthood. It's the limbo between wanting to have the independence, but still being dependent.

This year the sophomores have outdone themselves by completing several community service activities and thinking of unique fundraising ideas. For example, they started a raffle ticket sale to help support the Caring Fund, an organization that gives aid to families that have lost loved ones. Megan Abbott, the winner of the raffle, won a signed Heinz Ward jersey. Recalling the fund raiser she remarked, "I don't think that I really appreciated the jersey as much as the knowledge that the money was going for a good cause." This mature and sophisticated thinking is what places the sophomore class above the average students.

Throughout the year they have excelled in their classes and activities, gaining more knowledge and experience to handle the next two years of high school. With their positive attitudes and the drive to surpass the standards set by their seniors, the class of '07 maintains a level that is above and beyond the rest!

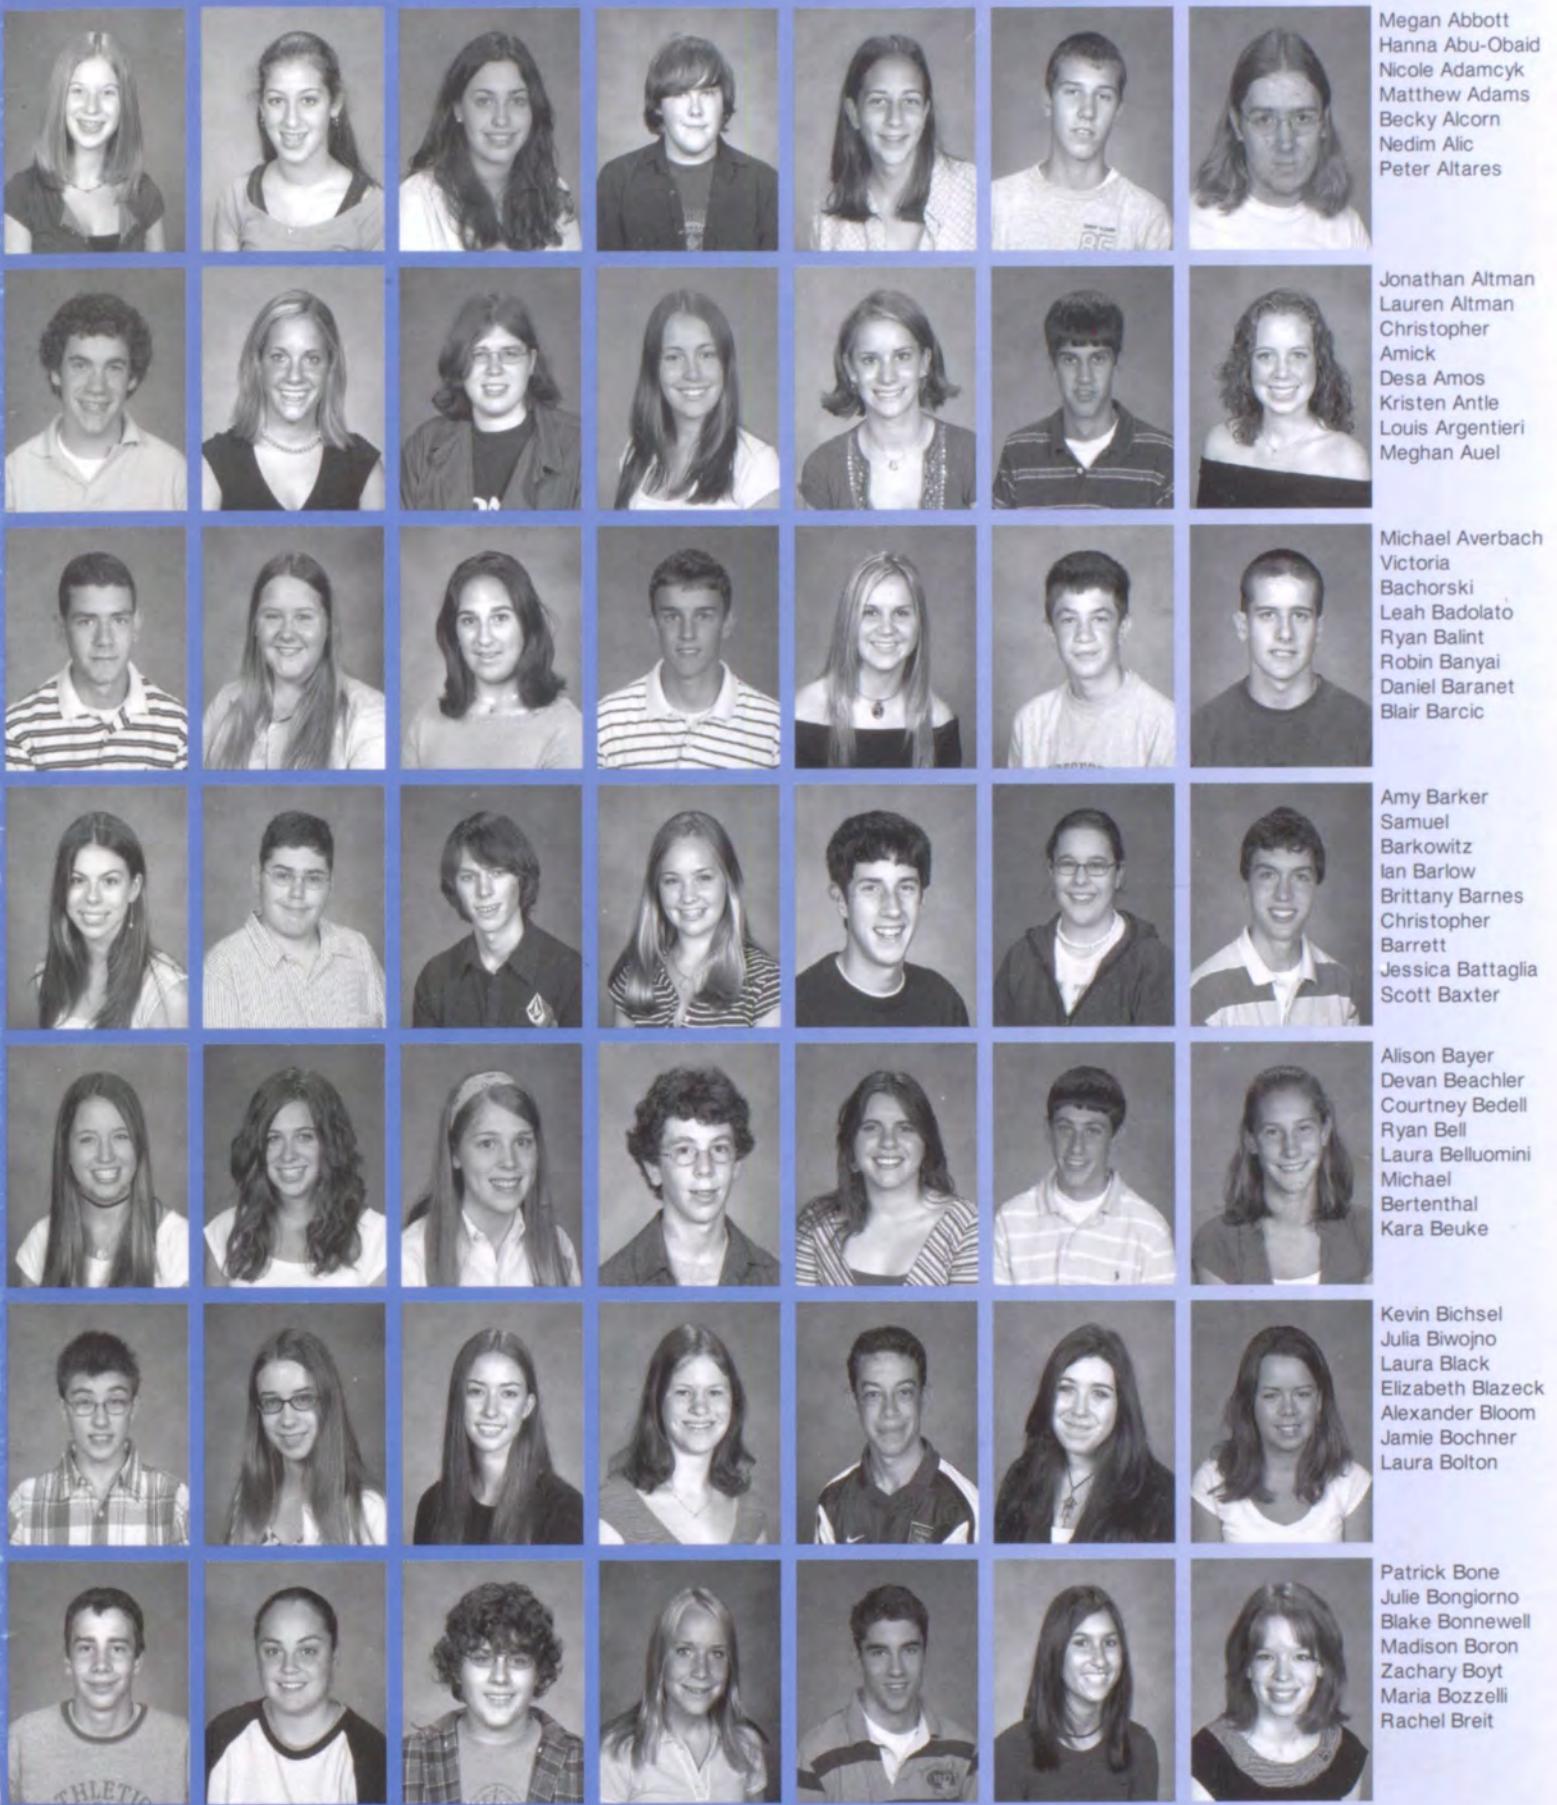

Vanessa Tomchik enjoys herself as she watches her friends play an intense game of Spoons. Lunch is a favorite part of the day for everyone: time to eat and socialize.

What is Your Favorite Music Channel?

Music is the essence of life and is everywhere; on radios, PA systems, Internet, and especially TV. When sophomores were asked to identify the channel they like to tune into, they said:

VH1: 20%
BET: 45%
MTV: 25%
CMT: 10%

Leah Badolato, Meghan Auel, Brittany Barnes, and Amy Barker amuse themselves with the various German posters around the room as they try to translate each of them.

What is Your Favorite Type of Pop?

Whether for caffeine or something cool and refreshing, pop always seems to be the perfect solution for parched mouths. When we asked sophomores what quenched their thirst, they replied:

Coca-Cola: 25%
Sierra Mist: 10%
Dr. Pepper: 40%
Pepsi: 15%
Sprite: 10%

Juniors

Waiting for June

Junior year carries a certain amount of fear among the underclassmen, and for good reason, too. Junior year is probably the most important year when it comes to colleges and futures.

Throughout this past year, these kids have worked their rears off in every way, shape, and form.

The class of '06 has gone through the stress of studying for several tests and essays, and perusing college catalogs. If that wasn't bad enough, the SATs that these students took were new and completely alien to them. The Blue Books were no less intimidating; to summarize and analyze the history of the United States in 60-90 minutes is obviously no easy task. After they thought that they were done with everything academic, they realized they had their futures to worry about. Thus started the quest for colleges and the last minute extra-credit assignments to bump up their GPA. To add to all this chaos of academia, the PSSAs and standardized testing came like an unexpected snow-storm. After going through all that, it's no wonder that so many juniors survived the year with less than 5 hours of sleep each night.

On a brighter note, there were always the Driver's Ed classes to look forward to. The wacky car drives and the crashes that follow are always a classic part of everyone's junior year. As the saying goes, however, it is always darkest before dawn. After all the stresses of this year, all the students can't wait till June when they will finally be seniors!

Kelly Guttman and Jenny Schmidt discuss the fine quality of cafeteria delicacies such as the school-wide famous Pepperoni Rolls and Salad Bowls.

Niranjani Thuppal works hard to finish her homework during lunch. Although other less sophisticated juniors spend their free time in lunch creating "messes", some, like Niranjani, utilize their time wisely.

Sydney Karpowich looks away from her lunch table as her fellow juniors engage in card games. Since most take only 20 minutes to consume their lunch, many students pass time with Spit, Spoons, or BS.

Bryson Powers takes the last few minutes of class to finish his assignment for the next day. Although few teachers allow this time to their students, many kids make the most of this rare opportunity.

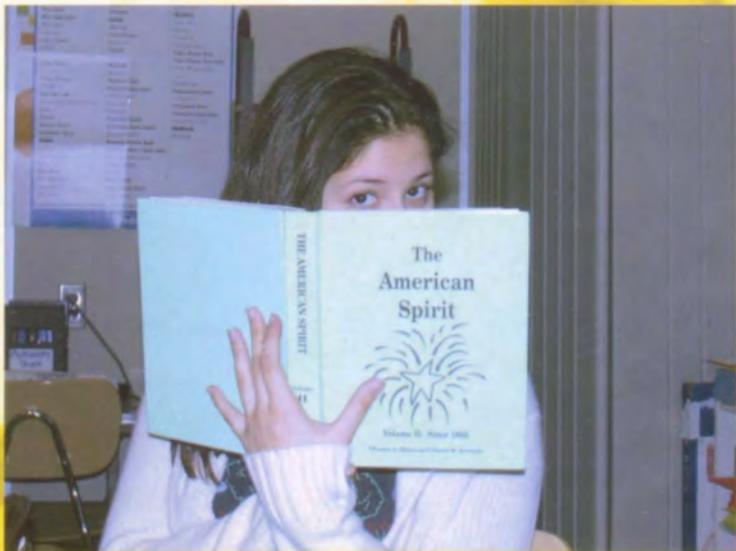

Maeve Jones patiently waits outside a classroom as her friend finishes talking to her teacher.

Zaritza Petrova screams as senior Melissa Newman-Evans suddenly picks her up. This type of behavior gives "hanging-around" a whole new meaning!

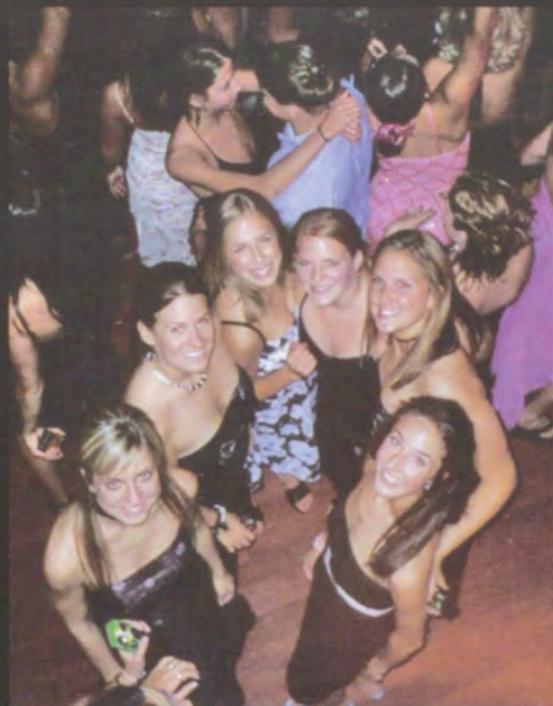

Emily Balsamo spends her homeroom time wisely as she concentrates on learning vocab words from her self-made flash-cards.

Chelsea Garber, the ever-industrious APUSH student, reads the fascinating works of Mr. Bailey. The best part of being in APUSH? "Mr. DiNardo's love of Joyce Appleby, even though she knows nothing about liberty and economic opportunity."

Senior Editor of the yearbook, Ariela Steif, glares at the photographer as she warns him of the consequences of using this picture. Thanks to her wild sense of humor, Ariela was not taken seriously as she knowingly sent these pages for printing.

Corey Rymer and foreign exchange students Christian Pflug and Alex Herms discuss intense politics during lunch.

Kayla Pinch and Laura Babisch spend time in the Study Center completing their homework assignments.

Steph Becker and Erin Campbell display their delight while working on the sets of Charlotte's Web.

Above & Beyond

Capturing the Moments that are Meant to Last

Mt. Lebanon has experienced monumental changes within the last several years. From new administration and policies to new school buildings, it is certainly a dynamic community. One thing, however, has not changed in over two and a half centuries: our students continue to go above and beyond in academics, sports, and the community, and they rise to meet every challenge that comes their way. Our students are able to achieve their goals with the help and support of family, friends, and the high school staff.

Each year we proudly recognize individuals and teams for their accomplishments in academics, sports and organizations. The 2005 yearbook staff has strived in every possible way to realistically portray the exceptional students and atmosphere of Mt. Lebanon. Spending several hundred hours on the first all-color book took tremendous energy and persistence on the part of the editors. Although the LOG office is eternally littered with random yearbooks that are never opened, CDs with unknown content, notes on scraps of paper that magically disappear, and people who use our ink, eat our popcorn, and seem to do absolutely nothing, the end result has been satisfying. From tears to laughter, stress to apathy, and Adam Sandler to Ms. Mattern, these walls have seen it all. As this year comes to an end, we hope you are proud of our final outcome. It was made just for you.

Seniors Kassie Cable, Katie Nomides, and Katherine Woodyard roll gansta for the camera. What a good time these girls have letting off some of the senior year steam!

Andrew Koutsavlis and Owen Vogel practice their gymnastics in the fifth floor elevator hallway. Warning: do not try this at home.

Colophon

Published by Taylor Publishing Company in El Paso, TX and Dallas, TX, the 75th edition of the Lebanon LOG is 1400 copies, 248 pages, 100 lb enamel paper, almost total digital submission. Cover 4-color process matte lythecoat - designed at Taylor Summer Workshop. Names on Cover in silver foil. Endsheets printed in silver no. 81 at background screened at 40 % with 100 % screen for design. Book will be printed at Taylor Publishing in Dallas, TX as opposed to Malvern, PA plant because of the new four-color Komori presses being stationed in Dallas. All pages are a four-color process for the all-color book.

This year was our first all-color and, virtually, all-digital yearbook. The new challenges presented were infinitely easier with the help of many people. First, Mrs. Kathy Rogers, our business manager, for all her help with data entry and for setting up our first MS Access orders database. To everyone at Taylor from Laura Martinez to our favorite guys at tech support, thank you for all your at-the-moment telephone help. To Bob and Dorothy Albright, we never could have gotten this done without your help and encouragement. Mr. Dale Smail, thanks for the chair and for taking out the trash everyday; unfortunately, the yearbook is never done. Mrs. Gina Stein and the rest of the secretaries: as always, you guys are saviors when it comes to names and faces. Mrs. Kirkpatrick, thanks for all of the master lists and study hall changes; we're going to miss you next year. Mr. Paul Fantaski, our Photoshop guru from Kiski, your ideas and creativity made the book more interesting. To all my editors, as well as the rest of the world who hang in the office and eat our popcorn, thanks for getting all your pages in on time (or close at least). The Adam Sandler party and Mattern's bridal shower were awesome, and, inevitably, the office is now so much more than a storage facility, it is our home, locker, and Steve's closet. Ankita, you rock. From making strenuous deadlines to taking on virtually three sections, there was no way we could have done this without you. When you come back and visit me, we'll party with the make-shift strobe lights again. Megan, thanks for sticking with us, I know it's hard to be the underling. You'll get your own section next year, I promise. Alicia and Rose, you guys are our art masters, and Kostadin, our photo master. Steve, it's a shame you didn't become our techie like we planned, but you were great anyway and we'll miss you terribly. Chelsea, as always, your late nights in this box are invaluable, and btw, your two thousand post-its are still around here. Sports girls, thanks for taking on such a huge section as freshmen. Ben, I can't believe I'm mentioning you, since you don't seem to do that much, but thanks. Your key is coming. Ms. Mattern, thanks for the countless hours you spent in here working on, and sometimes actually doing, the pages, as well as your ever-sarcastic outlook on life. Getting mad and "pessy" when you see the entire school in the office eating seems to be one of your specialties. I had a blast being your personal venting box.

THE NATURE OF THE BEAST

We started the year watching Mother Nature repeatedly batter the US east coast with hurricanes. Then we watched as Martha Stewart weathered her court battle. And the climate in Iraq became hostile prior to the country's first democratic election. But all of that seemed trivial after the December 26 tsunamis in South Asia. Not only were they the biggest news event of the year, but they rank among the most devastating natural disasters in history.

FLORIDA HURRICANES ▶

Schools along the east coast have a hard time getting started because of hurricanes Bonnie, Charley, Danielle, Earl, Frances, Ivan and Jeanne.

◀ ASIAN TSUNAMI

Earthquakes in the seabed of the Indian Ocean measuring 9.0 on the Richter scale trigger tsunamis all across South Asia. The tsunamis devastate villages and resorts in more than 10 countries, leaving over 280,000 people dead or missing.

WAR IN IRAQ ▶

Major fighting continues in Iraq.

As US forces try to bring democracy to Iraq, insurgents carry out a series of attacks discouraging Iraqis to vote in the country's first democratic election.

SEARCH FOR ▶ "FORTUNES MADE..."

Google's co-founders Larry E. Page and Sergey Brin become billionaires overnight after their online search engine's stock goes public.

◀ ...THEN SEARCH FOR "FORTUNES LOST"

Not all stock market deals create billionaires. Martha Stewart was convicted of lying to investigators about her sale of ImClone Systems stock and serves a five-month prison sentence followed by five months under house arrest.

WE'VE GOT SPIRIT, ▶ HOW 'BOUT YOU!

The Exploration Rover Spirit explores Mars and discovers signs of water, which may indicate life on the red planet.

▲ OUT-OF-THIS-WORLD VACATIONS

Burt Rutan wins the $10 million X-prize when his SpaceShipOne travels outside of Earth's atmosphere. Can tourism in space be far behind?

ELECTION '04

The 2004 Presidential Election had the potential to be as close and controversial as the 2000 race. Nearly 120 million Americans voted on Election Day, the highest turnout since 1968. Some citizens waited in line for as long as five hours to cast their vote (below). Many thought that the high voter turnout indicated a surge of support for Democratic candidate Sen. John Kerry (left), others speculated that the nation was rallying to re-elect President George W. Bush (above). And after the polls closed on November 2, 2004, many Americans went to sleep without knowing who their next President would be. Ohio was "too close to call," and held 20 electoral votes, enough to bring victory to either candidate. As the votes were counted, it became evident that Bush would carry Ohio with over 100,000 votes. Wanting to avoid a repeat of the 2000 election scandal, Sen. John Kerry called President Bush on the morning of November 3 to congratulate him on his victory.

FROM ANTI-HEROES TO SUPERHEROES

This year kept us rooting for the underdog at the theater. We pledged allegiance to Average Joe's in dodgeball, we pined for Spongebob and Patrick to prevail over Plankton, and we campaigned with Napoleon to put Pedro in office as class president. The odds were stacked against Harry Potter, the incredible Parr family, and the Permian Panthers as well. Be it a big-budget blockbuster or an inexpensive indie-flick, as long as there's a good story along the way, we'll see our heroes through thick and thin until the credits begin to roll.

DODGEBALL ▶

Ben Stiller strikes again, bringing the obscure sport of dodgeball to the silver screen in Dodgeball: A True Underdog Story.

◀ INCREDIBLE FAMILY

Mr. Incredible and the rest of the Parr family are called out of early retirement to save the world in The Incredibles.

FRIDAY FEVER ▶

In Friday Night Lights, football is shown to be more than just a game for the Permian High Panthers of Odessa, Texas.

◀ FIRST DAUGHTER

Samantha Mackenzie just wants a normal college experience. But being the President's daughter makes her life anything but ordinary.

◀ DYNAMITE EXPLODES

After getting a lot of attention at independent film festivals, Napoleon Dynamite releases nationwide to sweet ticket sales. The high school anti-hero gets his friend Pedro elected as class president, and he's also pretty good with a bow staff.

◀ HARRY POTTER III ▶

Harry, Ron and Hermione return for their third year at Hogwarts, where the teens face a dangerous escaped prisoner and the equally foreboding Dementors.

◀ MOM, MEET MY OGRE ▶

In Shrek 2, Shrek faces his biggest challenge yet: The in-laws. The newlyweds return from their honeymoon to find an invitation to meet Princess Fiona's parents in the kingdom of Far, Far Away.

◀ I, ROBOT

Will Smith keeps overactive robots in check in this futuristic sci-fi flick that asks the question "What if humans become too dependant on robots?"

◀ BIGGER. BETTER. MORE ABSORBENT. ▶

Moving to the big screen means more responsibilities for Spongebob and Patrick in The Spongebob Squarepants Movie. They have to rescue King Neptune's crown aaaaand foil Plankton's plan to steal the Krabby Patty recipe!

SPORTS

IT'S HOW YOU PLAY THE GAME

Every year, athletes set out to break records set in years past. This year was no different, but brought added drama. Would the mighty BoSox break the Curse of the Bambino? Would Lance win six in a row? Would the Patriots win again? These questions weren't answered without a little bit of nail-biting. Hockey and basketball fans followed Court TV more closely than ESPN this year, hoping to see an end to the NHL lockout or hear the latest on the charges pressed against NBA players after the Staples Center brawl that occurred in November. How's THAT for drama!?

▲ SUPER BOWL XXXIX

For the third time in four years, the New England Patriots win the Super Bowl by three points, this time against the Philadelphia Eagles.

▲ HIT RECORDS

Ichiro Suzuki of the Seattle Mariners racks up a record 262 hits in a single season.

■ IT'S GOTTA BE THE SOX!

The Boston Red Sox stage a dramatic 0-3 comeback against the New York Yankees in the American League Championship Series. They go on to sweep the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0 in the World Series, breaking the 86-year-old "Curse of the Bambino" and bringing a collective sigh of relief to Red Sox fans everywhere.

ESPN TURNS 25 ▶

Alpha-anchor Chris Berman and the rest of the cable sports network's knowledge base celebrate ESPN's 25th birthday in 2004.

◀ HOCKEY LOCK-OUT

NHL players and owners can't agree on financial issues, so the players stage a lockout, preventing the NHL from playing until the issues are resolved. In the meantime, many NHL stars play in European leagues.

◀ GIRL ▶ POWER

During the 2004 X-Games, Lyn-Z Adams Hawkins wins the first women's vert ramp gold.

◀ BASKET BRAWL

Indiana Pacers player Ron Artest faces a misdemeanor charge in the brawl between fans and players during a game against the Detroit Pistons.

◀ FREDDY'S FOOTWORK

DC United's Freddy Adu becomes the youngest and highest-paid player in Major League Soccer. At only 15, Freddy scores five goals in his first season.

◀ CYCLING'S SIX-SHOOTER ▶

Cyclist Lance Armstrong puts his US Post Office-sponsored team in the record books by winning the Tour de France an unprecedented six consecutive times.

OLYMPICS

In 2004 the Olympic Games returned to Greece, their birthplace. A total of 10,500 athletes from 202 countries competed, a record turnout despite speculation of terrorism and anti-Americanism. The United States took home more medals than any other country -103, 35 of them gold.

Mia Hamm (above), one of the most famous U.S. soccer stars, announced her retirement and blew a good-bye kiss to the crowd after her team secured a gold medal. "There are only a few times in your life when you get to write the final chapter the way you want," said Hamm about the USA's gold medal.

Justin Gatlin, Bernard Williams and Shawn Crawford (above, L-R) of the U.S. swept the men's 200-meter final, after their introduction generated boos and heckling from the crowd in Olympic Stadium. The fans were upset that the Grecian sprinter Kostas Kenteris wasn't allowed to compete due to drug charges.

MUSIC

ARTISTS ARE VARIOUS AND NEFARIOUS

Musicians often stay in the spotlight by breaking out of their mold and trying new things. This year, Sean "Puffy" Combs took the lead role in a Broadway play, Gwen Stefani took a break from No Doubt to release a solo album, and Green Day brought us their first concept album. But Ashlee Simpson's unexpected antics garnered the most attention: She was busted lip-synching on Saturday Night Live, and was later booed after her performance at the FedEx Orange Bowl.

► THE GREEN PARTY

Green Day releases their album American Idiot, showing a more mature, politically-minded side than we've seen in the past.

RAISIN' ▲ THE ROOF

Sean Combs took off his VOTE OR DIE t-shirt to play the role of Walter Lee Younger in the Broadway production of A Raisin In The Sun.

▲ USHER SWEEPS UP
R&B artist Usher wins big at the American Music Awards, MTV MVA's and Grammys.

GWEN IN DOUBT ▶

Gwen Stefani takes a break from fronting No Doubt to release her first solo album, Love, Angel, Music, Baby. But "solo" doesn't mean "alone;" she collaborates with Dr. Dre, Linda Perry, and André 3000, to name a few.

◀ SISTER ACT

Ashlee Simpson follows in her sister Jessica's footsteps with a hit CD and her own reality show on MTV.

JOSS STONE ▶

17-year-old British singer Joss Stone releases her second album, Mind, Body and Soul, completes a successful US tour and performs for VH1's Divas 2004.

◀ LORD OF THE LINE DANCE

Country artist Kenny Chesney tops charts with his CD When The Sun Goes Down.

◀ RAP VAN WINKLE

After sleeping for six years without an album, The Beastie Boys release To The 5 Boroughs, and wake up to find that they are collectively almost 120 years old!

RED ROCKERS ▶

Maroon 5 stay on tour, and stay on the iTunes "Most Downloaded" chart all year!

PLENTY OF REASONS TO STAY HOME

While there were still a slew of "Survivor-esque" reality shows on the tube this year, we also saw more and more renovation-driven reality programs as Americans took an interest in redecorating their homes or "pimping their rides." But there was also evidence that Hollywood hadn't written off its writers completely. Well-penned dramas like CSI: NY and Lost gave us a great escape from reality, while Comedy Central's The Daily Show gave the nightly news a slant that caused us to laugh out loud.

"YOU'RE FIRED" ▶

In The Apprentice, competition and boardroom drama escalate until one winner is given a dream job with The Trump Organization and a six-figure salary.

■ BIKERS THAT BICKER

Reality renovation show American Chopper is a favorite among those who enjoy watching mechanics practice their craft, and those who enjoy seeing father and son argue while they work.

◀ THE OUTLAW JESSE JAMES

Sparks fly as teams race to build hot rods and race cars in Monster Garage, hosted by Jesse James.

WATCHING THE ▶ DETECTIVES

This year CSI took their high-tech forensic investigations to the city that never sleeps in CSI: New York.

WHERE ARE WE? ▶

Lost follows 48 castaways who try to survive on a deserted island. Luckily, none of them are named Gilligan.

◀ DAILY DOSE

Comedy Central's The Daily Show with John Stewart is America's most trusted name in fake news.

THE TY ▶ THAT BINDS

Ty Pennington, host of Extreme Makeover - Home Edition, brings people together with completely renovated homes for deserving families.

WHO NEEDS ▶ A TRAVEL AGENT?

Grab your best friend, sister, significant other or grandma; whoever you think would be the best teammate in The Amazing Race, an elimination-style race around the world for a million-dollar cash prize.

▼ JOEY

Joey Tribbiani trades "Friends" for family when he leaves Central Perk behind and heads for Hollywood, where he takes his nephew under his wing.

TRENDS

IT'S NOT SO BAD BEIN' TRENDY

Call it hip, popular or even conformist - this year's trends were more philanthropic than in years past. A little yellow bracelet raised big money for cancer research. A healthy diet has become so popular that fast-food restaurants are doing away with their "super-sized" menu items. And Ford unveiled the first Earth-friendly hybrid SUV to the delight of tree-hugging soccer moms everywhere.

EASY TO SEE, HARD TO FIND ▶

The first five million of these Lance Armstrong Foundation bracelets sell out quickly and start a trend that raises over $20 million in the fight against cancer.

◀ HOODIES OFF THE HOOK

Hoodies are a cozy alternative to wearing a jacket, and they can sport your favorite band, team, or even website!

◀ FAITHFUL READERS

NCV breaks the Bible down into easy-to-read magazine form. Revolve is for girls, Refuel is for boys.

◀ TWO COOL FOR SCHOOL

The Olsen twins turn 18 and head for college, but not before launching a clothing line for teens. Their summer job makes waaaay more money than yours.

GAMES THAT ROCK ▶

More and more bands are lending their music to video games. Tony Hawk's Underground wins the first MTV Video Music Award for Video Game Soundtrack.

◀ LOW-CARB

To attract low-carb dieters, fast-food restaurants start offering tortilla-wrapped-menu items.

MOTHER EARTH'S SUV ▶

Paris Hilton, Britney Spears, Milla Jovovich and P. Diddy have been trailblazers in the trend of teeny-tiny pocket-dogs.

◀ IT REALLY HAULS

The Dodge Magnum makes grocery-getters cool again. With a 340-horsepower 5.7-liter Hemi V-8, this station wagon hauls a lot more than just cargo!

GIZMOS, GADGETS AND GREAT GEAR!

Who says you can't take it with you? This year saw portables get even more popular. Sony and Nintendo each released new handheld game platforms, while Tapwave released the Palm-powered Zodiac for more organized gamers. People who take their music with them had a plethora of MP3 players to pick from, and Apple released the Mac mini, a desktop computer that challenges that whole "bigger is better" philosophy. But with all these gadgets, a bigger backpack would be nice.
