

A mass of bronze, cast into the forms of a boy and a woman, mounted on a pedestal, placed in the lobby of our school . . . cold inanimate metal . . . yet more than that . . . a symbol . . . a part of hundreds of young Americans who have left our school . . . of those who mature here now. To all entering here, there is a daily silent welcome from the statue . . . that mute eavesdropper to your plans during the day . . . the one who waits with you for your friends . . . shares your hopes for the future . . . gazes at your departing figure after school. No, this is not solely the finished, created product of some artist's brain . . . rather a spirit that has grown and multiplied itself a hundred-fold . . . that of Mt. Lebanon High School.

AROUND MT. L.

The "gateways to education" hear the latest from these students.

C-stickers had nothing on seats in the bus for being hard to get.

Looking down Mt. L.'s commando course to our athletic field-to-be.

Early arrivals waiting for the "pearly gates" to swing open.

The dismal effects of gas rationing — we "hoofed it" up to the Mellon auditorium for assembly.

TO THOSE WHO SERVE OUR

We dedicate this Log of 1944

In days like these, our hopes reach out
To brush a navy blue or khaki-clad shoulder
And dwell there lingeringly; for the world's youth
Wears war's garb and learns the use of new machines.

The products of our colleges and high schools,
The kids who played gangsters and football
Down the street—they pit their strength,
Their minds against strange adversaries.

Yet bravely, and with eyes on the horizon,
They go to fight for their destiny and ours,
To make secure the life they have forsworn
These years, some perhaps forever.

We, their younger brothers, still at school work,
Soon, by twist of fate, may join them.
Let us go just as courageously as they, and Make out of this war the world we desire.

Bernadette Wyrough, George Adair, and Marian Korb proudly welcome Mt. L. alumnus Capt. Paul Mullen, U. S. Marine Air Corps, who has distinguished himself in the Pacific fighting.

OUR STATUE . . .

OUR STATUE may be somewhat on the quiet side, but it has proved its mettle many times to Mt. Lebanonites.

Sophie Soph knows our two-some only as the half-way notch in our miniature Grand Central Station, where "I'll meetcha after school."

Jake Jr. and the statue aren't the strangers they were last year. By now Jr. associates certain very nice happenings with that spot . . . especially Tillie. Besides—it's the only thing on hand to greet him personally when he arrives in the morning—late.

To Samson Sr. that spot's an old, well-known friend—like detention hall. Although he'll undoubtedly forget Macbeth's soliloquy, or Lavoisier's Law, he'll not forget his pals soon. To him they're a symbol of three happy years at Mt. L.

COMES TO LIFE

FIRST period . . . that time of day (or night around Pittsburgh) when your brain has more wide open spaces than the C lunch counter . . . had tripped up Mt. Lebanonites once again. And—to the disgust of some who hadn't read their Shakespeare, or just to the disgust of others, tempus wasn't fugiting as fast as it should have. But something was cooking at Mt. L's best-known twosome—Lebanore and her mandolin-toting son, Geoffrey—and not Home Ec. class's applesauce.

LEBANORE: Well Geoffrey, after nineteen years of serving Mt. Lebanonites as public-leaning post number one, we're going to make a goodwill tour to decide whether we'd like to renew the lease or turn ourselves in to the scrap drive.

JEFF: Dis here's our blue 'n golden opportunity, huh Ma!

LEBANORE: Thou hast said a mouthful, son. But come on, let's leave this peak to Pike. (Flapping her skirts like a parachute)—Getting off this pedestal almost floored me, but I've managed it nicely.

JEFF: (Diving from his mandolin)—Ouch! Say Ma, I'm gettin' the "feel" of Mt. Lebanon the hard way! Well, here we are—what a break!

LEBANORE: (Picking him up and shining him off)—It would have been if you'd have jumped much further. Honestly, Jeff, it's things like that that make my hair tarnish. But—before we start, I'm going to give you the "Thou Dosts" and "Thou Don'ts" of polite etiquette, and if you don't obey me, I'll show you that your mandolin can be used for other things beside playing.

JEFF: Aw Ma, the only reason I'm going is to protect you!

LEBANORE: Yes, but who'll protect Mt. Lebanon from you? Well, let's go! But first I want to stop at the Medical Office and get an aspirin.

JEFF: Got a headache?

LEBANORE: No, but you're going to give me one before the day is over!

And with a whoop that lifted the trophies from the shelves, Jeff was off—leaving in his wake a trail of sparks and a pursuing mama.

THE STATUE TAKES A LOOK

Elbie "Clem" Fletcher gave the football team some stiff competition.

Remind me to clean out this locker some day!

We don't wanna brag, but that's some mighty nice scrap our trophy case is hoarding.

AROUND

Various dramatis personae
"gave their all" on the Wednesday morning devotional program.

waited for Santa during four performances of our Christmas play.

bedside manner while wondering if there's a doctor in the house.

Something has been subtracted

Executive Boards spent our hard-earned cash
... Student Court gave room & big business ... presidents called us to order ... keeping Mt. L.
on the almost straight and narrow was well done by our Administration.

VICTORY POLKA

There's gonna be a hallooish day when the boys have all come home to stay, & a million bands begin to play we'll be singing the Victory Polka. And then we'll light the torch of liberty in each blacked out land across the sea - A man can proudly say I'm - we'll be dancing the Victory Polka. And
The mighty cheer when a nation back is up we'll leave a mighty stomp when each boy is kissed sweetly then we'll come with avenue the united nations in review dreams has All come true we'll Victory Polka.

Superintendent

JEFF MEETS OUR DIRECTORS

SCHOOL BOARD

"The meeting will please come to order. Business before the board this evening is"—thus began monthly meetings of the Mt. Lebanon school board. All seven members were kept busy seeing that our school's policies were followed in classes and activities and that sufficient funds were provided for maintenance of our building. Our new recreation center might still be just a dream but for the board, who granted use of the Washington School. A big job at any time, keeping Mt. Lebo running smoothly within its budget during another year of war was no small task. Congratulations to our school board for a difficult job well done.

SUPERINTENDENT

"May I see Mr. Herlinger?"

"One minute, please. All right, you may go in now."

It was as easy as that to interview our superintendent, yet "busy" is a mild word to describe his duties. As his title implies, Mr. Herlinger's activities were administrative and supervisory. It was his job to see that the policies of the school board were carried out. To do this, he frequently visited all departments of our school system. Crowded into his schedule were meetings with teachers, principals, or other schoolmen; but our amiable and active superintendent was never too busy to advise or help us.

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBERS: Seated—Miss M. Headley (Secretary), Mr. E. S. Stanier, Mr. A. C. McMillan, Mrs. R. K. Conaway. Standing—Miss B. Walp (Secretary), Mr. H. V. Herlinger, Mr. J. S. Huey, Mr. R. B. Hecht, Mr. B. K. Smith, Mr. O. C. Hogsett, Miss V. Valicenti (Secretary).

Mr. Herlinger and Mr. McMillan, president of board, confer.

R. D. HORSMAN
Principal

PRINCIPAL

"So this is the head man around here. Ma, why're you taking me in to see him?"

"Mr. Horsman knows how to manage problem children like you, Jeff. I've seen many a student get straightened out after they've talked to Mr. Horsman. You see, he's a friend to all the people in this building, and he gets lots of letters from teachers and alumni who've left it. Besides, the kids know he's interested in them; he's always there with Tommy, rooting for the football and basketball team, and he's often in classes or at student meetings around the school."

"Of course he's got many duties too. You'll find him at P.T.A., the school board meetings, and other community affairs that concern our high school. Yes, he's a very busy man."

"But ma—why bother him about me? After all, are the cut-ups of a statue very important to him?"

"Anything that concerns Mt. Lebanon High School interests him, whether it's a new idea for rotating the schedule or the June class's senior colors. Long after the crowd's departed for the 'Rec', Mr. Horsman heads for his car and ends another school day."

... AND THE RULING FORCES OF MT. L.

ATTENDANCE OFFICE

"Schedule changes 12B5—report to the Attendance Office now."

After receiving this invisible summons via the P. A., down trooped the 12B5-ers, little bits of green pasteboard in hand. Although students juggled and juggled their classes during the first week of school, teachers, too, followed a carefully devised routine based on a master schedule prepared by our competent vice-principal, Miss Ion. But—this was only a small drop in her bucketful of duties. Besides sponsoring the Achievement and the Class Rank Committees, she consulted students about their courses. The Attendance Office force under her direction prepared transcripts for colleges and business schools. Workers in the Attendance Office had a full-time job checking attendance, excuses, schedules, forms 41, and would-be hookers. Next door, Mrs. Ferne Horne, test supervisor, saw to it that although you weren't ready, your eighteen-weeks' chemistry test was, when the great day came.

FOURTH ROW: Geo. Bearer, Cummings, Eichenberg, G. Bearer, Friday, Reynolds, Sommerfeld, Shepherd, Marlowe, Kraft, MacLaren, Stoner, Starling, Ostergaard, Bush, Callahan, McMasters.

EXECUTIVE BOARD

A gavel raps quickly on the table, and the room becomes suddenly quiet as the president says, "The meeting will please come to order." Out of Executive Board meetings come many of the worth-while changes that are made in the school. The students owe a vote of thanks to the Board, its capable presidents, Tom Leathers and Don Brown, and to Miss Taylor for all they have done in working together to sponsor events on the athletic and social calendars and to promote student government.

STUDENT COURT

"Since this is your second offense, you will be removed from all activities."

This ruling by our eight student judges sounds harsh, but sometimes it must be said. The plan of having students judge their classmates' misdeeds has worked successfully for Mt. Lebanonites; and although our Student Court is still Mt. L's baby, its ideals are grown-up. So—you would-be "law-breakers" had better keep on the straight and narrow, or it'll be "ten days of bread and water" for you!

MT. LEBOITES CIRCLED THE GLOBE

Lt. Col. Perry

Lt. Col. Perry, Mr. Horsman's predecessor as principal of Mt. Lebanon High School, writes: "From somewhere in the Mediterranean theater I am happy to send greetings and best wishes to the Log and to all who read it."

Pfc. Ralph Bald, Camp Gruber, Okla., formerly taught English to our Sophomores: "Tulsa has more than its share of pretty girls and reminds me of good old Mt. Lebanon enough to give me a slight attack of homesickness."

Lt. Lawrence Bromberick changed from physics in 302 to instruction in mathematics and navigation at Cornell University Naval Training School, Ithaca, N. Y. "The saboteur in the high school is the one who wastes his time and the time of his teachers."

Ensign Browne, once our chemistry teacher, is stationed at present at Naval Air Station, Glenview, Ill., as Navigation Instructor in Ground School: "I often think of the teachers and students I knew at Mt. Lebanon and hope an early end to the war will permit me to renew old acquaintances."

Lt. Streams

Lt. Fred Ford was our former test supervisor, now stationed in New York but doing extensive inter-state travel: "To all of you who are doing so much at Mt. L. in these days, I send my congratulations and best wishes for continued success."

Major Glafka, our biology prof, is tied up in more than the fauna of Africa: "Keep up the good work. We MUST have and keep faith, work, and sacrifice, devoting our energies to the task of winning this war and a victorious peace."

Ensign Gordon, our home and school visitor, is now at the Naval Operating Base in Norfolk, Va., likes our Navy and its salty flavor very much, but will be glad to return to civilian life after the war.

Capt. Grimes, once our physics teacher, was previously in North Africa with the supply lines. He was brought back home on the hospital ship "Arcadia" and is now awaiting an assignment at Camp Croft, South Carolina.

Capt. Russell Kelly, Headquarters 5th Armored Group, Camp Hood, Texas, formerly Mt. L. biology teacher: "It was very pleasant to get cards from so many of my friends at school. Please see that my thanks are conveyed to them."

Lt. Luecht, the Coach who put our football team through its paces, is at Iowa Pre-Flight School. He is teaching the boys the fundamentals of existing in the jungles.

Ensign Florence McLaughlin, former typing and journalism teacher, sponsor of Armed Forces, Publicity, and LANTERN, writes from WAVES Barracks, Receiving Station, Navy Yard, Washington, D. C.: "This is a rugged life to be sure. Never have I been so engrossed in anything as in my new life here. Love my work, love being a WAVE."

Lt. Peterson, at Norfolk, Va., is a part of the American history he used to teach at Mt. L. Lt. Peterson and his wife often see Ensign Gordon, who is also stationed there. Speaking of the teachers' War Bond Drive, he said: "Your War Bond Drive was exceptionally good and the fellows deserve much commendation."

Katheran Stoner, class play coach and public speaking teacher in Mt. L. for nine years, stationed at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, as head recreational worker with the American Red Cross: "To the graduating classes of 1944 I offer my congratulations and to all of you—good luck!"

Lt. Streams, who taught us plane geometry, now teaches the sailors at Midshipman's School, Columbia University: "Whatever destiny the future may hold, of this I am certain—you will accept the challenge for the greatest service that you can render to your country in this time of national emergency."

Ensign Earl Whipkey, instructor of navigation, Owens Court, Whiting Field, Milton, Fla., whom we remember as our algebra teacher: "It has been a welcome pleasure getting the LANTERN—seems like renewing old acquaintances."

Pvt. George Abbott, training to be a flight engineer in the Army Air Corps, Tyndall Field, Fla., is specializing in the Sperry lower ball turret which is under the B-17 and B-24 bombers.

F1/c Richard Colgate, with a Rhode Island P. T. boat unit, is studying radio and navigation.

Pvt. Art Grosso, somewhere in the Pacific: "I am very proud to have attended Mt. Lebanon High."

Pvt. Bob Livingston, stationed at Prisoner of War Camp, Livingston, La., is a military police escort guard. In a letter home Bob described an experience he had with an escaped German. In charge of the M. P.'s, he led the chase and after he fired two shots, the German stopped. "This goes to show that you can't drop your guard a minute."

A/C Henry Pischke, Elton College, N. C.: "Training here is a type of military college training. Our officers and student officers are the finest I have ever known. I've enjoyed every minute here."

Pvt. Glenn Shoemaker, Marine Corps, Camp Lejeune, New River, N. C.: "Finished my boot training before Christmas. Find the Marine Corps first-rate."

SENIORS HUMMED BY DAY

Oh, those busy Senior days! or is it "daze"? A mad rush to beat the bell is their usual beginning. If you win, swell! If not, why go on? You know what's coming anyhow. During first period, you launch a few mild worries about that precis you didn't write.

Oh, oh! Today is the last day to order name cards. H-m-m, shall I have the plain or paneled style? If I can't find some kind-hearted Shylock, maybe I'll have to make my own! Causing quite a mild flurry is the arrival of senior pix. This always brings on such exclamations as, "Imagine, your pictures actually look like you", and the answer, "O.K., tell the truth—you're among friends!"

On another big day the girls don their only pair of nylons and prance down to the Senior Tea. But, Senior Day with its wearing of colors, special lunch, and assembly at the Mellon auditorium is the real climax to all these activities.

The winnah and still champeen in poetry quoting—Mrs. Morgan.

Yellow jerkin-clad Seniors lunch together.

Our principals' wives do the Senior tea table honors.

The rest of us sit around and chat in cozy groups.

... RELAXED BY NIGHT

And how do Seniors spend their nights? Of course, you could always do your nightwork, but surely there must be some better way to waste time! Isn't there a G. R. or a Hi-Y meeting? Wish there were a basketball game this P. M. Or maybe it's Friday and there's a dance scheduled—so your problem's solved. At home it's, "Mother, where'd Helen put my new sweater?" or "May I borrow the tires tonight, Dad?" Upon arriving, your work-out is broken only by, "Punch a fast one now," followed by the usual, "Whadda ya mean! The last was fast. Play a slow one." Or—you're the one in a million who made the class play, and that means plenty of rehearsals. Comes the end of the semester and a Senior's "night of nights"—the dessert followed by entertainment by members of your class, and the prom with its jiving to a good orchestra. And this is just a small part of the long-awaited life of a "Senior".

Our school has a different atmosphere at night.

ENGLISH

Having successfully killed off "Macbeth", once again, we seniors passed on to that long-warned-against precis. When it had been mastered, nothing seemed hard. Tennyson and Keats, Arnold and Stevenson, all were read and enjoyed greatly.

Why was it that when a 120C student was asked what he was doing that night, he always replied, "Collecting material for my research theme"? . . . But they learned how to write themes and undoubtedly saved themselves many worries later in college.

The colorful world and the theater of Shakespeare's day—the subject of these sophomores' perusal.

Whether reading "The Idylls of the King" in 10A or "The House of the Seven Gables" in 11A, Mt. Lebanonites found English could be interesting as well as informative.

Pantomimes, monologues, and the fundamentals of speech were the highlights of Public Speaking I. We also delved into the intricacies of radio broadcasting.

SOCIAL STUDIES

With the war holding the spotlight on current news, many of the social studies classes devoted a great deal of time to discussion of various aspects of the war as well as of the peace to come. Through this course we came to understand a little better the timeless heritage that we are fighting to preserve.

A series of units on such subjects as "Time", "Place", "Law", and "People" gave a new slant to World History. Economics and sociology came in for their share of our attention, too.

Just a dot on the map—but it's the scene of the bloody warfare of the current events these three discuss.

"Man's numerous attempts at self-government through the ages"—our world history classes compare national efforts.

SCIENCE

Thanks to formaldehyde, 10A biology classes found frogs still intact as they ripped into an operation. Future Darwins and Audubons, too, were kept well informed during '43-44.

$\text{CO}_2$  and  $\text{H}_2\text{SO}_4$  became familiar to the juniors. We were confused at the beginning, but by the end of the year we knew how to talk formulas.

Many of our 12A's could be found in the physics lab. Physicists will find occupations waiting for them in laboratories, defense plants, and in the armed forces because science is playing a leading part in this war.

Believe it or not—the chemistry class finally did get sulfuric acid from this maze of flasks and tubings.

Room 302 is the scene of varied activity—for the physics classes prove many a fact in lab periods.

Exploring a frog's anatomy—this biology class seems to have found it a rather absorbing task.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

Learning scientific terms in a foreign language — that's advanced Deutsch for tomorrow's Einsteins.

A new civilization, with its own culture and Latin ways of living—Spanish teaches this, too.

As our G.I.'s tried out their French on North Africans, Mt. Lebanonites polished up theirs and heard some lively Gallic songs during the weekly visits of Helene Ragner. From Vergil students down to sophomores, Latin showed us the derivation of much of our own language. The increasing importance of another language was echoed in the "Como esta Ud?" of Pseudo-Latin-Americanites who discovered the other half of the hemisphere while they studied Spanish. In the Deutsch department boys got a background for their future technical work as well as a sound knowledge of a very rich, useful tongue.

MATHEMATICS

There's more to plane geometry than just twirling a compass—so many a sophomore discovered.

These are the complicated blue prints and loci in the math exhibit—but they're simple to these "solid" fellows.

Since mathematics has become a "MUST" in these war years, more and more students took math as groundwork for future jobs. Many of us will become members of the armed forces, engineers, draftsmen and defense workers where equations and formulas are important tools. We were all bent on learning a little more, a little faster. And for the first time the question "Why am I taking this?" was answered. Time, rate, and distance problems for bombers made algebra seem immediately useful. With new careers beckoning in aviation, math also became more appealing to girls.

HEALTH

A change in girls' gym during the year was the course in dancing. We tripped through different forms of the dance from the Virginia Reel to modern ballroom and "jitterbug".

Cageball, volleyball, basketball, and tenequoit were some of the many sports we enjoyed.

Although the girls weren't up to taking gym four days a week, many boys enjoyed the heavier schedule. Exercise took up much of our time as we prepared ourselves for the service of our country. It was tough, but those already in the armed forces wrote us that this training had helped them.

THE ARTS

With rings on our fingers and bracelets on our arms, we Lebonites proudly displayed the products of metal arts class. Would-be artists worked on various other projects this year, such as pen sketches of interiors.

Home economics was a course for prospective nurses, interior decorators, or homemakers and the study of nutrition played an important part.

Bookcases, tables, chairs and lamps were a few of the many useful articles made by boys in shop. Both boys and girls prepared themselves for drafting and engineering jobs by studying the intricacies of mechanical drawing.

Skillful in cooking and accomplished in sewing—our home ec lab turns them out like this every semester.

Like learning another language—yet those peculiar scrawls mean accomplished shorthand linguists.

COMMERCIAL

With civil service and defense jobs beckoning, students prepared themselves for the future by taking many of the commercial courses our high school offers.

In typing class we learned to do that age-old exercise, asdf; lkj. But soon, however, we graduated to typing paragraphs and finally to letters and business forms.

By the end of the year, we could take between 90 and 100 words a minute in shorthand and then type them. That was certainly different from the beginning of the year when we first tried to master those little symbols.

By learning to operate the highly skilled machines used in the high school office, the office practice girls were trained for their prospective jobs.

Bookkeeping, we students learned, is an art. Those books must be kept accurately, you know.

Commercial law and business principles helped us to learn the jargon of the business world.

CROSS-COUNTRY

Running against the best that Pennsylvania could offer, Mt. Lebanon's cross-country team kept intact a winning streak of eighteen straight meets, including the W.P.I.A.L. and state championships. Paced by Kraemer, Rhodewalt, Murphy, Toler, and Leathers—lettermen from last year's championship squad—the boys rolled to easy wins in early meets. Highlighting this part of the season was a duel between Toler and Connellsville's Jack Senior, which ended in the Coker's collapse across the finish line, a few steps ahead of the Mt. Lebanon ace. In the W.P.I.A.L., the joggers passed their first big test with flying colors, totaling a record-breaking sixteen points. Here Leathers took individual honors by nosing out Toler in the final drive for the tape. The next stop was Altoona, where the state meet was run. Rising to the test, our wood-nymphs tracked over Upper Darby by eight points, bringing the championship back to Mt. Lebanon for the second consecutive year. Toler (second), Leathers (fourth) and Rhodewalt (eighth) took individual honors to wind up a high-flying season. The man responsible for this successful climax and distinguished record, Coach Mollenauer, attributes it to the perseverance and fighting spirit of the team.

GOLF

Playing a hard seven game schedule, the Mountie golfers finished with four wins and three losses. The boys started badly with a loss of 14-1 to Baldwin, but came back to beat Brentwood with a vice-versa score of 14-1. The team lost to Snowden and Baldwin by scores of 10-5 and 8½-6½. But after shaking off this losing streak our boys couldn't be stopped. They met Brentwood for the second time and again hit the green by defeating the visitors 10½-4½; then Snowden, by a score of 8½-6½. The final test of the year was against a very strong Shadyside Academy quintet. The score: Mt. Lebanon 8½, Shadyside 6½.

This year's squad consisted of two returning lettermen, Schmidt and Mayer. New members were Kunkle, Read, Langford, Massey, and Moore. Capt. Bob Schmidt did a nice bit of extra season work when he shot an 86, to finish eighth, and qualify for state honors in the W.P.I.A.L. Qualifying Match held at State College, Pa.

RIFLE

The rifle team, coached by Mr. Peters, had one of its best seasons. Shooting against the best teams in this section of the state, they closed the year with a record of 5 wins and 2 losses. In January the members of the club were sifted to pick out the best shots, and two trial squads were formed. These teams shot a long string of N.R.A. targets, but the real test came when the "A" squad was victorious in a match with Norwin. Following this came wins over Millvale, Oakmont, Aspinwall, and losses to Munhall and Somerset. As the season progressed the "A" squad was narrowed down to gun-toters Specht, Mershon, Bearer, Magill, Stitt, Weimer, Jack and Cliff Ostergaard, Eichenberg and Schlienger. It was this team which placed eighteenth in the N.R.A. junior matches, and which was not defeated in inter-scholastic competition until the end of the season.

THESE SENIOR GRIDDDERS

The football squad had twenty-two lettermen, probably more than any other team in the history of Mt. Lebanon. Here are our outstanding senior lettermen: DOUG ANDERSON was on the receiving end of many passes for long gains, one for a touchdown; BOB BALL played plunging fullback and really hit the line; DON BROWN helped open many holes in the opponents' line from the left tackle position. FRANK CORBETT, a letterman from last year's team, did most of the passing. A very elusive halfback was "AUGY" DE GIOVANNI. Many opponents found themselves caught behind the line of scrimmage by smashing right tackle, LEO DELONGA. The center position was well handled by stellar JOHN DONOGHUE. FRANK HALEN received several injuries during the season, including two broken bones, but continued to star until the last game.

WON RECOGNITION

Pulling out of line, leading the interference, and cutting down the defense was done well by CAPT. TOM HANOVER, who was a strong side guard. "CRACKIE" O'CONNOR was a tough and scrappy guard until the middle of the season when his leg was broken. Another high-spirited guard prevented from seeing much action because of an injury was DICK PETERS, who received a broken arm. DALTON RUMBERGER played right end and specialized in catching a short quick pass over the center of the line. UGO SICONOLFI stopped many line plunges from going any farther than the line of scrimmage. Kicking, passing, and running the ball were all done well by quarterback JIMMY WILLIAMS, a true triple threat man.

MOUNTIES GAVE GROUND

Last fall Mt. Lebanon's football team had one of its most disappointing seasons. There were only two lettermen back from last year's squad, which accounted for the team's lack of experience. The first game with Dormont, present section "A" co-champs, was won 6-0 after a hard fought battle during which Williams pushed over in the second period for the afternoon's only tally. In the second tilt the Blue Devils were overrun 13 to 0 by a powerful Westinghouse eleven, and although totally outclassed all afternoon, fought hard to stay in the game. Probably the hardest-played contest of the season was an away conflict with New Kensington, an "A-A" team. In the second quarter the Blue-Gold offense started to click, and with the help of some penalties, Mt. Lebanon scored and converted for 7 points. The second half was spent defending their lead, with New Kensington scoring a touchdown but failing to convert, making the final score 7 to 6 in favor of the Blue Devils. On their return home, the Mounties had considerable trouble in defeating a very under-rated Brentwood eleven. After playing a dangerously close game all afternoon Mt. Lebanon came out on top by a score of 6 to 0. The second double "A" game was with Clairton, at that time rated one of the top teams in the W.P.I.A.L. During the first 15 minutes the game showed promise of being a very close contest. However, Clairton opened their attack in the second quarter and had little trouble in scoring 25 points to Mt. Lebanon's 0. Monessen came to Mt. Lebanon the next week, expecting to go home with an easy victory. They went home with the game, but it was only in the last part of the fourth quarter that they were able to score their 6 to 0 victory. Each year Washington looks forward to beating the Blue Devils, so when the opportunity arose they were able to play better than normal football to defeat Mt. Lebanon 19 to 0. In the final game the Mounties immediately scored 6 points, but were not able to hold their lead, Braddock scoring a touchdown and kicking the extra point to make the final score 7 to 6 in their favor. With several injuries, including four broken bones, the season as a whole wasn't too successful. However, in view of the fact that several juniors and sophomores gained valuable experience, Mt. Lebanon can bank on a much more seasoned, successful team next year.

LEBO LASSIES HAD A FUN-PACKED YEAR

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Girls' Athletic Association started off with a bang-up membership this year, the greatest they've had in four years! With Uncle Sam taking over most of the transportation and transporters, more interest was given to afterschool sports.

The G.A.A. Council, back-bone of the association, did a great job this year; and all loyal G.A.A.ers should be indebted to them. They sponsored the play-day which everyone agreed made for a fun-packed afternoon. The time was March 9. The "Big Tent" was put up in the gym and 325 Lebo Lassies, divided into ten teams depicting circus events, participated in all indoor sports. It was a great day at the circus! The Council had lots of good times too, for they had swimming parties and the annual picnic in the spring. The girls all owe Miss Billingsley a vote of thanks for being such a grand sport in gym classes and after school. Also how about a few orchids to the G.A.A. Council for all they did in refereeing and scheduling the sports and planning other activities!

It was impossible to have the regular tennis tournaments because of the condition of the courts, so the badminton matches were first on the calendar. Jane Warnick and Margie Cameron took the laurels in the finals after a hard contest with Jayne Iams and Nancy Lee Nicklas.

Basketball was the favorite sport again this year and since over three hundred girls signed up for it, seniors, as well as council members were chosen to captain the teams.

The spring semester opened with the highly popular volleyball tournaments and mushball games. Besides appearance of blue skies, robins, and the baseball team, came home-runs, and thrown bats by our "mighty ball teams."

Now, as school draws to a close and another year of G.A.A. ends, the seniors turn their hockey sticks over to the juniors, and the sophomores say, "See ye next year!"

Miss Billingsley

Our Lebo lassies turned to calisthenics this year.

There was lots of bowing and scraping in the Virginia reel.

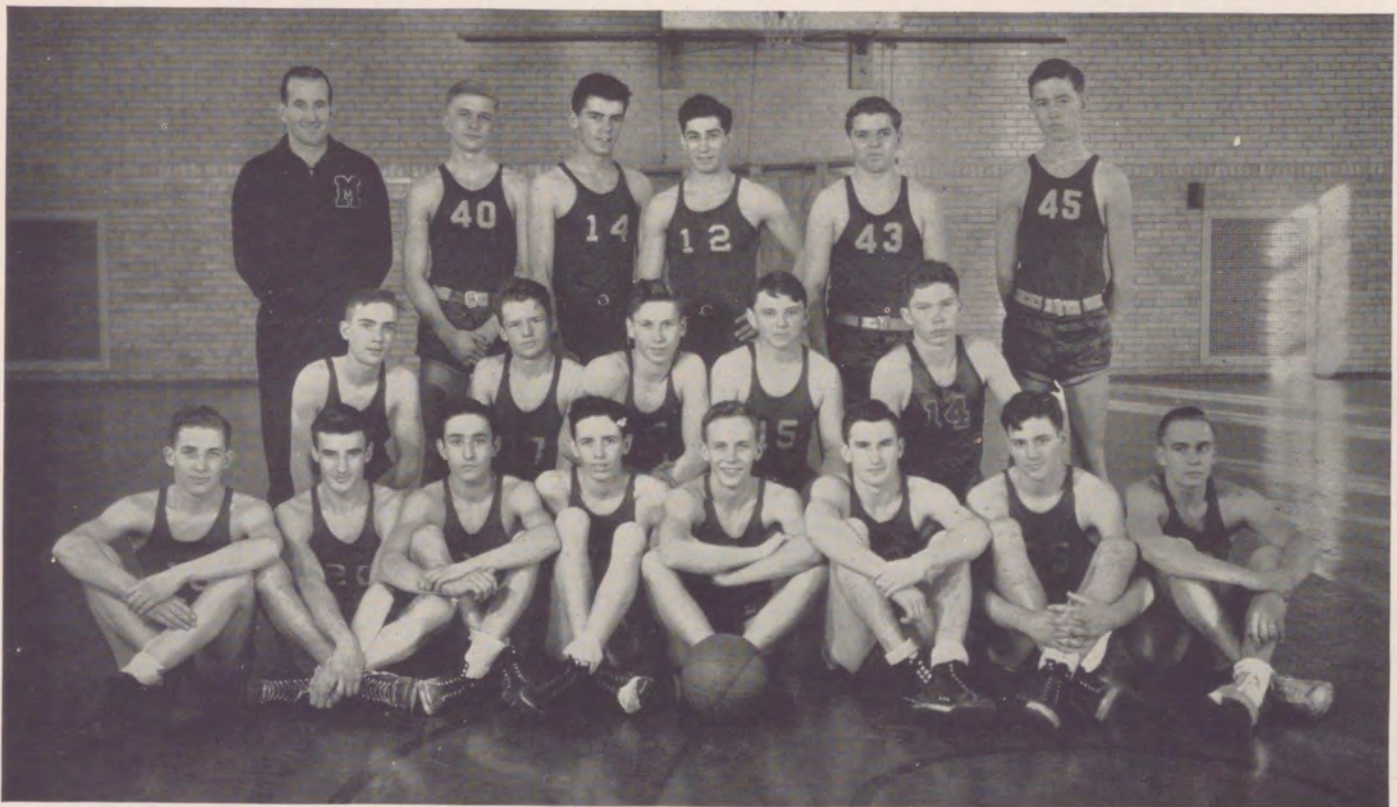

The basketballs really traveled in our relays.

CAGERS SCORED

BASKETBALL

Mt. Lebanon had another first-rate basketball team, which under the guidance of Coach "Speed" Clark came close to taking the section title until a long string of injuries crippled our chances. The squad showed a lot of promise; and although only one letterman, Jimmy Williams, returned, the team felt that this might be THE year. Although they were without the services of Tommy Thomas who had fractured his skull in practice, they had the power to beat Bridgeville in the opener, 34-31. Clark came close, but it was Bellevue that handed us our first defeat by the one point margin of 38-37. The cagers rebounded against Bethel, but were stopped by Clark in a return match 19-17. A victory over Avalon to the tune of 36-34 made a total of five wins and two losses for the first half.

The five regulars who had carried the mail up to this point included, the veteran, Captain Jimmy Williams, "high pockets" Bob Hill, as forward, "towering" Dalton Rumberger at center, "long shot artist" Dean Steliotes, and "speed-merchant" Leo Schober at guard. They had developed during the season into a smooth-working machine that could usually produce a victory. Tommy Thomas and rangy John Marlow saw a lot of action, as did "south-paw" Jim Sommerfeld, diminutive "Moe" Hardy, Dick Kapsh, "Swede" Anderson, and tenth-grade Harlan Wardwell who replaced the injured Dean Steliotes until hurt, himself. The team, fighting hard to stay in the race, began the second half by trouncing Stowe and Crafton but lost by one point to Coraopolis. Victories over Carnegie and Dormont were followed by a one point defeat by McKees Rocks. In the crucial game of the season a gym packed with partisan rooters saw the Mounties bow 23-18 to Brentwood. Bellevue tagged us again and after winning over Stowe and Crafton, we lost again to Coraopolis. Victories over Dormont and Carnegie and losses to McKees Rocks and Brentwood finished the season, making a total of 18 wins and 9 losses.

TRACKSTERS TOOK SEVERAL

1943 SEASON

Last spring our exceptionally well-balanced track team experienced another remarkably successful season. The squad, believed by Coach Mollenauer to be the best in the history of Mt. Lebanon, won more championship meets than any other Mt. L. team. The season was marked by only two losses, one a dual meet to Connelville and the other the W.P.I.A.L. Championship to the same team, which the boys credit to sickness and overconfidence. Of a very large number of boys participating during the season twenty-two were definitely outstanding. Several tracksters who wasted little time running the 440 were Captain Clark, McKee, and Mitchell. The half mile was exceptionally well taken care of by Toler, Frost, and Taylor. Leathers, Bray, and Kraemer made one of the strongest mile combinations in the state. Gregory set a fast pace in the relays and was backed up by Romain and Mitchell. Among sprinters specialist Lang held his own. Swartz' long arms helped him in throwing the discus and putting the shot for several needed points throughout the season. Also worthy of recognition for his shot-putting was Fletcher. L. DeLonga and Corbett were particularly strong in throwing the javelin, Corbett also getting considerable distance in discus contests. In jumping events our fellows vaulted Mt. Lebanon's reputation right to the top.

CHAMPIONSHIPS

Schroeder took part in all three jumping events, doing unusually well in the pole vault. Dick Young's speed and light weight aided him greatly in the high jump and broad jump. Fleet-footed Kapsh took several hurdle records in his stride. Outstanding in still another field was Clark, one of our better broad jumpers. Still along the line of jumping, Schober was outstanding in the high jump and pole vault, while Morian specialized in high jumping. B. Reynolds combined the high jump and running the hurdles with more than a little amount of success. All these boys, well distributed through all events, formed a team worthy of much praise and credit.

The 100 yard dash is won by Lang.
Milers are off.

Young comes in for a landing.

BOXING AND WRESTLING

For several thrill-packed days at the close of winter the boxing and wrestling tournaments took the school by storm, and the gym reverberated to the cheers of an enthusiastic throng as they watched the best in the school battle man-to-man. The bouts, ably refereed by Coach Clark, were jammed with action from the very beginning until the last match had been decided; and as the medals were being awarded by Don Brown to the tired but happy winners, everyone agreed that the '44 tournaments would be remembered for a long time.

1943 CLUB BAGGED SECTION I TITLE

Using nineteen players, including a liberal sprinkling of last season's wrist-twisters, Coach Mercer Clark headed for home with the ablest aggregation of base-ballers ever to be rolled out of Mt. Lebo.

In completing the most successful diamond series in the school's history, the Mounties batted up six out of their regular eight game schedule to finish as Section I W.P.I.A.L. champs. Entering the Championship play off, the diamond-nymphs lost by a score of 10 to 2 to a powerful Aliquippa team.

The first two games were non-league tilts with Langley, last year's undisputed City Champions. Our local Babe Ruths, struck with luck, caught both of these games by scores of 7-4 and 5-2. The Section league contest was then opened by taking a series of two from West View, the scores being 7-4 and 11-4. We took on Baldwin next and were handed defeats of 14-5 and 14-1. Playing into a bad streak, the Mountie squad dropped two games to Crafton, 3-2 and 2-1.

Blue Devil pitching chores were effectively tossed by Rumberger, Johnson, Bush, and Laboon. To this can be added the fine work of our catchers, Del Grande and McMasters. The iron infield, so essential to a strong team, consisted of Corbett, McShannic, Feisley, and Vollmer, plus the added strength of Crain, Callahan, and Hasselman. Rounding out the 1943 squad was the unusually good outfield of Williams, Wylie, and Hanover; included in this last group were Owen, Simpson, and Steliotes.

HI-Y

The Hi-Y, Mt. L.'s last stronghold against femininity, chalked off another calendarful of events, both social and useful in nature.

On the lighter side were our semi-annual dances, movies, basketball, a pep rally, the yearly Father and Son banquet, and to close the semester, a picnic.

The boys served the school and community through participation in scrap and Goodwill drives and recruiting of farm labor.

Under Mr. Ruth, our sponsor, fall officers Dick Victor, Jim Taylor, and Bob Ferguson, and spring directors John Marlow, Harry Nelson, and Randy Troxell, our '43-'44 activities reflected the Hi-Y pledge to create, maintain, and extend high standards of Christian character.

HI-Y, G.R.'s SERVED SCHOOL AND COMMUNITY

GIRL RESERVES

Among the nicer institutions around our ole Alma Mammy were the G. R.'s, with their covered-dish dinners, fun nights, dances, and guest speakers. This year however, we concentrated on doing our bit for the War Effort. All three clubs pitched in to aid the Goodwill Drive and to fill Red Cross boxes. Among other things, the Betas made favors at Christmas and Eastertime for the Marine hospital, while our Alphas, embarking on second childhood, dressed dolls, and the Deltas made scrapbooks for the U.S.O. But in doing this, we had a grand time, made new friends, and felt that we were backing up our motto of "Service".

THEY WERE OUR RHAPSODY IN BLUE AND GOLD

THE BAND

As the "mares and does" were eating their "oats and ivy", the Mount Lebanon High band hit the keynote of perfection at our football games, parades, and concerts. This success was due to the loyalty of the members, the baton-wielding of student director Jack Greene, and the competence and patience of A. Stephen Mieser.

All the band members and quite a few other passers-by enjoyed those unrationed arguments between the trombone players. Added to this were the ear-shattering cut-ups of the clarinets or our enthusiastic "boogie-woogie-ists", who drowned out everything before, during, and after sixth period—dismissal bell included.

During the football season, the band drilled . . . drilled . . . and drilled some more. Up and down the field they marched, starting briskly behind the whistle or stopping snappily. They wrote those huge letters again and again, or staggered through intricate spirals and slightly square pinwheels behind our two jack-in-the-box majorettes. All this went into preparation for their display at the game's half. But—rain, shine, or anything else that the weather threw their way never kept the band from raising the morale and the eardrums of our elite eleven.

After the football season came concert preparation. Those passing the band room probably heard "The Merry Men" eating their "Shortenin' Bread". Soon however, because of a slight case of indigestion, the boys were "Moanin' Low" for "Komon Susser Tod", commonly known as "Come Sweet Death". Also from Room 5 sprouted the celery, carrots, and weeds of the "Victory Garden".

This year, one of the "swellest", "brassiest" organizations of Mount Lebanon marched through victorious again—to the delight of the shoe-repairman.

THEY MADE OUR MELODY

ORCHESTRA

Are you one of the many who, in meandering around the basement Mondays or Wednesdays sixth period, have come down with an advanced case of the galloping jitters over those weird sounds issuing from the band-room? Well, you'll be glad to know that these noises have been tracked down, and contrary to public hopes, the school is not caving in—it's merely the orchestra getting in tune! This is a very detailed process, consisting of some boogie-woogie on the piano, a blow-test between the trumpet players to hear who can make the most noise, plus several heart-rending pleas from the violinists for "just one more A, please!" All this is combined with the determined efforts of the drummer, who is sure that if he tries hard enough he can make more noise than all the others put together. But with the entrance of our maestro, Mr. B. Swanson, the bedlam turns into more noise—but of a different sort. Our practicing eventually leads to one of our very frequent performances in public. The orchestra played for all this year's assemblies. We also radiated notes at the class and Christmas plays, January commencement, Fun Concert and other events outside school. So now, next time you're in the basement Mondays or Wednesdays sixth period, you can take off the earmuffs and rest assured that the noise is nothnig more than the orchestra tuning up—not the entire zoo on the loose.

WE FROLICKED AT THE FUN CONCERT

FUN CONCERT

Will any of us ever forget that hilarious event put on by the Music Department last March? It was so successful that Olsen and Johnson swiped some of our ideas for their "Hellzapoppin'" (it says here!). Included in the program were excerpts from Gilbert & Sullivan, the Gay 90's, and Sigmund Romberg, with a concertized version of Carmen as a grand finale.

Nancy Rohrkaste's dancing, Ralph Petty's imitations, Al Goldman's burlesque of the opera, the Triple Trio's patriotic lyrics, plus the antics of Elbie Fletcher and Charles Kane, and Russ Martin's hayseed humor were the final touches of an unforgettable evening.

The girls' chorus put on bustles and handlebar mustaches to sing the tunes of the "mauve decade."

WE STAGED CHRISTMAS 1943

CHRISTMAS TABLEAUX

"Where'd ya put those Christmas tree lights?" "But I laid that pin right here!" "What happened to my beard?"

Yep, you're right. It's a play—one of the best Christmas programs we ever produced. The story hinged on the conversation of three soldiers who, during a lull in the fighting somewhere in Italy, recounted the story of the first Christmas and of Christmas today. As each soldier told his incident, it was reenacted in inspiring tableaux on another part of the stage. We'll long remember not only above-average acting and scenery, but also unusual lighting effects and wonderful arrangements by the huge chorus. The directors, sponsors, and committees in working together turned out one of the most memorable programs since our annual Christmas series began.

"And the glory of the Lord shone round about them, and they were sore afraid."

JEFF AND LEBANORE SAW

THE LANTERN

"Oh, oh, looks like we're going to need another inch of Devilette—come on, staff, what's the latest?" "Where IS that story?" "Anybody seen the typists?"

Yes, the LANTERN had a busy year of changes. Miss Florence McLaughlin, long the LANTERN'S sponsor and friendly adviser, joined the WAVES. Moving day came, galleys, dummys, and other LANTERN props were carted from 312 to 208, homeroom of our new sponsor, Miss Virginia Elliott. "Fortnightly," Lenning Davis' column of opinions 'n ideas, became a regular feature. Like everything else, the LANTERN was affected by the war. Copies were sent to alumni G. I.'s by the Armed Forces Committee while Ila Hallowell wrote a Service Column, keeping us informed of their doin's. The LANTERN even acquired a new printer, who contrary to previous legends concerning printers, was a sane and likable human being.

When the ill-fated deadline arrived, harassed reporters slunk in and out with apologies and excuses—but few stories. Typists dug in and deciphered copy, then editors Virginia Reese, Marian Korb, and Don Brown reread, rewrote—or just wrote when material was scarce. Make-up editor, Oliver Brown, racked his brains for an appropriate headline. Circulation manager, Irene Chotner, and business manager, Jean Hathaway, made sure the customer was always right and that all shekels were banked. Sure, it was work, but there was fun for everyone when the LANTERN shone.

THE LOG

Hi there! Gosh we're pleased to find you reading our '44 Log! Do visions of slave-driven staff members appear as you turn these pages? No? They should. The Log ought to bring to mind exhausted editors, writers, and sponsors, Miss McClure, Miss Stephens, and Miss Behen, laboring over steaming typewriters and dummies. And can you gaze at our art treasures without seeing junior Raphaels toiling tirelessly till their works were completed? You can! Well, MAYBE, it is a trifle exaggerated.

Don't you look ravishing in that picture on page—? Since we snapped it last October, you've made the rounds of developing, retouching, and mounting, which incidentally oomphed you up a bit. But if the photo pleases you, we're satisfied.

And incidentally, you can thank your bank account for our Business Staff, who kept your subscription straight despite late installments, and who nobly resisted the temptation to squander your $2.25 on that T. Dorsey album at Horne's.

While we're reenacting the crime, let's remember January grads on our staff. Among them were Jerome Weisman, now Pvt. Jerome Weisman of the U.S.A., and Patty Meily, last year's chief doodler.

And that's how Lebanore and Jeff broke into print and overnight became Mt. L's most famous twosome! But here's to quite a few other famous citizens—our graduating class—and to the "colossal" Log of the future—good luck to both of you!

"PAPA IS ALL"

Although most of Mt. L's citizenry had trekked off toward "upstreet," Lebanore and Jeff weren't nearly ready to shinny back up on their back-rester. For them the day was still in rompers, and there was much to be poked into before it struggled into its tux. And—the natural spot for Jeff to exhibit his sterling, "Junior"-like qualities was Mellon Auditorium, where January Seniors were trying to prove that there's more to the Pennsylvania Dutch than schnitz and "the surrey with the fringe on top."

Straight from the heart of the Mennonite country was "Papa Is All," a tale of the unhappy home-life of one Aukamp family. Lord of the house of Aukamp was Bill "Papa"

Porter, no slouch when it came to wielding a mean whip. Customary receiving stations for their father's Simon Legree qualities were his two children, Jake and Emma (Bill Ballon and Patty Meily) who spent their time ducking papa's leather. Between trying to pacify an irate husband and keep Mrs. Yoder (Margo Gardner) from spilling the beans about Emma's "surveyor," Mama (Ruth Barton) had a busy time. But—it took the law, in the form of Bob Stoner and his persuasive revolver, to make the Aukamp home a happy one.

As the cast consumed gallons of coke and tons of candy during rehearsal, our new director, Mr. Nelson Mills had only one comment—"They're the eatenest bunch I ever knew."

The arrival of Nan Masters causes a furor.

"FLY AWAY HOME"

In certain quarters of our alma mammy it's the opinion that had B. Franklin been chosen to emote in his class play of 1750, he'd have revised his famous proverb to read, "In this world nothing is certain but death and taxes—and class play rehearsals." For 7 P.M. every evening found fourteen survivors of March winds, April showers, and Pittsburgh smog leaning limply against Mellon Auditorium, debating whether to bother about rehearsal or to "Fly Away Home."

But—as opening night crept closer, Mr. Mills discovered why directors get gray and hoarse. Up on the slightly worn "golden boards," Al Goldman became expert in de-burring Mr. Dooley; Bill Lambie explained Malinowski's theory; Kay Gould tried to get reservations on the "Crucible"; Rosa McNulty and Bob Hall waged war against porcupines; Tom Shepherd revised his "jist" and "idear" to fit our Pittsburgh brogue; Doug Anderson attained that "masterful air"; Marylin Andreen boned up on her spelling; Marianne Bercsi and Sherwood Webber got a priority for their refrigerator; Helen Baumbach put in overtime trying to make Cory propose; Janet Scott practiced setting the table; John Donoghue squandered his gas on rush calls at the Masters'. Between acts prompter Dotty Buschow turned card-shark, and Betsy Briant advocated "economic collectivism."

Only one red mark marred the happy home life at Maison Masters—measles. It seemed that you just didn't rate backstage if you weren't an alumnus of a measles seige.

A quintet of January grads, each the proud owner of an Activities Key and Guard: Pat Meily, Marcia Bulger, Nancy Nicklas, Tom Leathers, Judy Rust.

ACTIVITIES KEY

Did you ever notice those small black and gold keys worn by certain Mt. Lebanon students and have you wondered how you could get one? The Activities Key is one of the most prized awards given by our high school as recognition for outstanding participation in activities. It is awarded upon the earning of 90 points and may be received as early as the second semester of the junior year. The key has a black background with a gold cedar tree and the initials MTL engraved upon it. Those students who are especially ambitious may have a guard to go with the key by earning an additional 110 points. Truly, this is an award worth working for.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

It all started with a letter from the school announcing that YOU were elected to the National Honor Society. Several weeks later at Senior Assembly, after present members had conducted the traditional ceremony, you were paged! Proudly you bounded to the front of the auditorium, had the blue and gold ribbons flung over your shoulders, and pocketed your key and membership card. It felt wonderful to wear the keystone pin, with its torch of learning flanked on either side by initials for character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Since this symbol is nation-wide, it is something you can be mighty proud to own! To all you metal-toters "Congratulations"—and if you're too modest to strut your jewelry, anyone around Mt. L.'ll gladly take over the job for you.

QUILL AND SCROLL

"That little gold pin? Well, that signifies membership in Quill and Scroll." Ownership of "that little gold pin" is the goal of all Mt. Lebanonites who rank publications high on their activities list.

Each year outstanding staff members of the LOG and LANTERN, who rank in the upper third of their class scholastically, are initiated into this society of high school journalists.

Last year we boasted only one survivor, "Bill-e-e" Bode. But—the race was saved from extinction in May, when seven new pen-pushers received their scrolls.

With all this talent our school surely ought to produce a Dorothy Thompson or Ernie Pyle somewhere along the way!

QUILL AND SCROLL

SEATED: D. Brown, Bode, McCandless, Meily, Reese.
STANDING: Korb, Price, Weisman.

Dear Mt. L.,

After being stuck up here with nothing but this mandolin and some sheet music in my paws for so many years, discovering jive and juke boxes in our jaunt around these fair precincts was wonderful. We must say you have quite a set-up here, and in more than a musical way--never realized so many things could come off under one roof. I've found that education includes a lot more than those books I've seen you totin' around. It sure makes me wish I could stay with you now, 'stead of tarnishin' away on this block of marble. But Ma says we've got to go back--bronze wasn't made for your kind of life. So--well, that's about all--'cept thanks for the tour, and I guess the scrap drive'll have to get along without us this year.

Jeff
