Play Ball!

A day at Mt. Lebanon High shows all the restless excitement of a big-league baseball game. We, the players, out on the diamond every day throughout the season did our best to knock in the winning run; we played the game in class. And we had fun, too, both in our activities and with our teammates. For us it was the big game, but its real purpose was to condition us for the bigger one to come. This book is the record of the 1950-51 season at Mt. Lebanon.

The players swarmed into the stadium and out onto the field to limber up for the day's contest.

im thought he was safe sliding into homeroom, but Miss Ion said the bell got there first. As usual, the umpire had the last words: "Yer out!"

The players stepped off the diamond and relaxed on the bench during the seventh inning stretch at the Junior-Senior Prom early in the season.

teacher recruits like Mitzi coached these green rookies in the fundamentals of the game they would later play as veterans in high school.

Curious spectators thronged the ball park when the management declared a "Parents' Night" for interested mothers and fathers to come and look.

During the newspaper strike Ronnie, Jim, and Julie kept us posted daily with a play-by-play account of local, national, and international happenings.

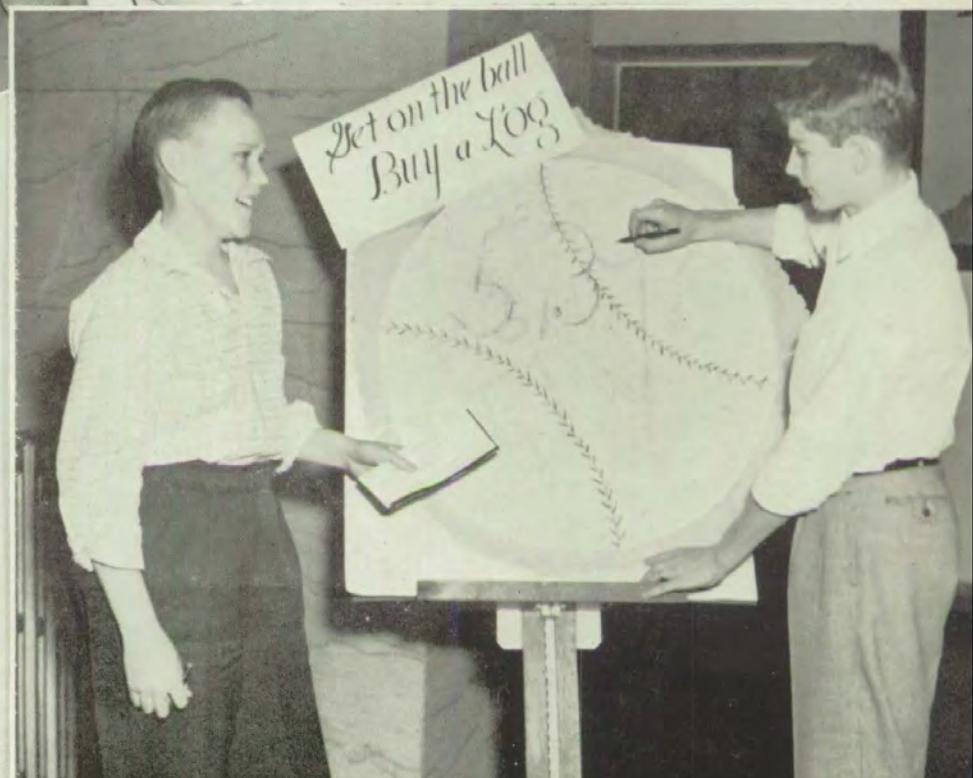

Our team representatives spoke out at weekly league meetings where the Executive Board handled all the details of runn-

Sonny turned in the highest fielding average; throughout the season he consistently topped the entire circuit in catching flies and catnaps.

added one more signature to the list of subscribers who had already heard and obeyed the familiar refrain, "Get on the ball!"

Administration Umpired the Game

Mr. J. C. Keifer, our principal, is enjoying a discussion on mashies and niblicks with Mrs. Keifer.

ADMINISTRATION

"Democracy in the Schools" was the keynote of the Civic League's informative School Night Program, and the administration carried the theme through the entire year. The overall plan called first for putting more emphasis on the practical courses by expanding the shop equipment and home economics rooms. Adult edu-tion was another point in the plan, and the popular evening classes were continued with added recreational facilities. Thirdly, students were urged to take part in the community's activities, thereby linking our schools more closely with the community.

Principals and Counselors Gav

Miss Ion and Mr. Keifer seem engrossed in serious business.

VICE PRINCIPAL

One of our busiest administrators is vice principal Miss Ion, who is the final link in the system which turns out schedules for both students and teachers. Her job includes giving advice and aid to students with individual schedule difficulties. Also she finds time to sponsor the class rank and achievement committees and the attendance squad which takes up so much of her time. Keeping track of eleven hundred students is no small task, but Miss Ion has the job under control.

Assisting Miss Ion in the matter of truancy is our home-school visitor, Miss Gordon. But attendance is only a very small part of her job. Students seeking part-time work may obtain their working permits from her and may even find jobs through the student services exchange, which she sponsors. Another important duty is visiting the homes of new students and talking with their parents. Miss Gordon is well-known to newcomers.

Our smiling secretaries are Mrs. Irwin and Mrs. Booth.

Mrs. Horne stands by during a conference for prospective nurses.

Helpful Advice to Everyone

GUIDANCE COUNSELOR

Room 109 is the headquarters of our guidance counselor, Mrs. Horne, who has the appalling job of making sure that every student in the school is taking the course best suited to his individual needs. A large part of this job is helping seniors to choose their colleges, keeping in mind their abilities and limitations as well as their needs and desires. To furnish background for selection of college and career, Mrs. Horne arranges conferences at which representatives from various schools can discuss with the students the qualities of their colleges. She has collected innumerable pamphlets and folders dealing with nearly every conceivable vocation and the responsibilities encountered in different fields of work. If a college-bound senior needs scholarship aid or part-time work at his prospective school, Mrs. Horne has the latest available information for him. Her job is to handle any student problem that may come up, whether it be personal, social, or scholastic, and somehow she always seems to find time in her full schedule to give help to anyone willing to ask for it.

The domestic side of Miss Ion comes to light as she mixes up a pie.

Many a student was influenced in his choice of college by meeting its representative.

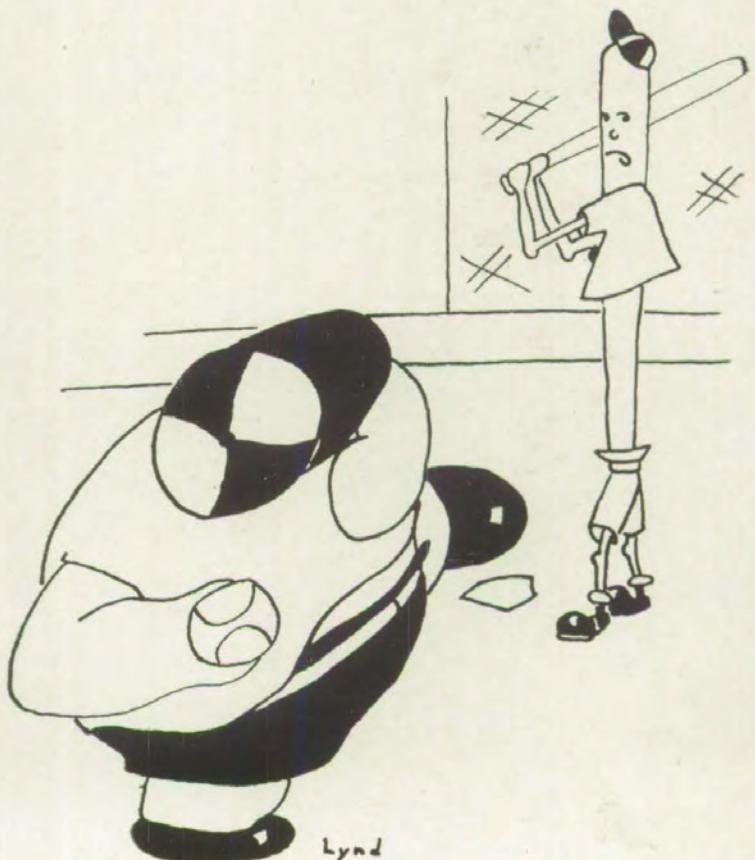

Miss Gordon is off to locate some wayfaring student.

Playing the Game

We all played the game in the classroom, and even though we struck out now and then, we usually came through in the clutch. We managed to finish the season with a pretty fair batting average.

EXECUTIVE BOARD AND COURT

"Mr. President, why can't we have commencement on the high school field?" This was one of the problems discussed at Executive Board meetings this year. The Board consists of the presidents of each homeroom plus one representative from each senior homeroom. When an important question is raised in a homeroom meeting, the president of that section reports the question at the next Board meeting where it is discussed and perhaps solved. This system of representation gives each student a voice in his school government.

Another important group in the student government is the Student Court. It consists of four senior judges, two junior judges, and two sophomore clerks. Disapproved conduct often means an out-of-order slip, which summons the student to report to the next session of the Court. The judges consider each case carefully and impersonally before making a decision.

MOUNTY

Most of you have stayed after school at least once this year. When you were leaving, you may have noticed a slight hum coming from the direction of the third floor. If you had followed this hum, it would have led you to room 305, where you would have found a dozen or more people working and planning. Upon inquiring, you could have quickly learned that the object of their attention was the next issue of the Mounty, our literary magazine. Few people realize how much work really goes into this magazine. There were about eighty people on the staff this year—writers, artists, typists, proofreaders and mimeographers. They worked together to produce four big forty page issues of stories, essays, and poems. Also appearing in various adventures on the back of every issue was Montgomery Mole, the Mounty mascot. The Mounty is actually a product of our whole school since anyone can submit his work and many articles came from students that were not on the staff. This is one of the main reasons why the Mounty was so popular this year.

LANTERN

Credit for keeping the Lantern lit goes to dynamic editors Ronnie Clemens, Roxi Ryman, Susie Wagner, and Bruce Thielemann and to their energetic sponsor Miss McLaughlin. The process of cleaning the chimney, trimming the wick, and replenishing the fuel supply of the school paper goes something like this: first the staff racks its collective brain for news that might make interesting reading. Then the reporters drop into room 208 to pick up their assignments. When the stories and feature material are done, they're turned over to the typists and, when typed, sent to the printer, who returns the "galley proofs"—long sheets of pink paper with the stories printed on them. These are scanned for mistakes and pasted on the "dummy sheet", which is a blank Lantern with the columns marked off. The headlines are written in above the articles, and the completed dummy is returned to the printer. When the printer sends back the finished products, they are assembled with the mimeographed "Devilette" inside, and that's when we hear that familiar announcement from the studio, "The Lantern shines tonight!"

MUSIC

Mt. Lebanon copped the pennant in the musical league this year. Mr. Prutzman and the band started the ball rolling with their tricky formations and arrangements of popular songs at the football games. The Stadium Band Revue at end of the football season was often postponed but well worth waiting for.

The next big event was the presentation of Handel's "Messiah" by the choruses. Watching the candlelight processional and standing for the glorious "Hallelujah" were impressive experiences.

HI-Y

Fellowship has been the aim of our Hi-Y this year, and its members have participated in many enjoyable and worthwhile activities.

The Blue, Cedar, and Gold Chapters, sponsored by Mr. Raines, Mr. Whipkey, and Mr. Mitchell, respectively, met with other "Y" organizations at a convocation at Trinity Cathedral. Here local charters were granted.

Emphasis has been put on both religion and education. One of the highlights, a movie on religious tolerance, was shown to the groups.

OUT OF THE FRYING PAN

Three actors and three actresses living together in one apartment above a producer who makes gumbo, somebody named Stanislavsky, a proper father on Boston's board of censors, two slightly thick-headed cops—it sounds confusing, but everyone went home happy; the actors found jobs and the audience found an evening of howls.

HONOR AWARDS

At the end of the first semester the students pictured on these two pages had won one or more of the most coveted awards offered by Mt. Lebanon High School. Onyx and gold Activities Keys went to those diligent students who had accumulated ninety points in scholarship, athletics, committees and squads, publication staffs, student government, and all the other school activities. Two particularly outstanding seniors, Paul Murphy and Julie Maehling, amassed two-hundred points and qualified to receive the tiny but elusive Activities Guards.

Excellence in scholarship, leadership, service, and character are the requirements for membership in the National Honor Society. By the end of their 12B semester twenty-eight Mt. Lebanon students had received this highest honor which a secondary school can bestow.

Quill and Scroll, an international literary society for high school journalists and writers, requires outstanding work on the Log, the Lantern, or the Mounty before the student can qualify for membership.

FOOTBALL

Mt. Lebanon's 1950 football team started the season aiming for the championship. For the first four games it looked as if they might make it, too, but the following games didn't go as they had planned. The Mounties completely over-powered their non-league opponents and then went on to tumble Penn from the "double A" race in their first league game. Aside from their league games, the boys wanted most to win their opener. This first game was against Waynesburg, the only team to hand Mt. Lebanon a defeat last season, and so the boys had only one purpose in mind, to avenge that defeat. And avenge it they did as they wallop Waynesburg, 27-0. Each succeeding week brought competition a little tougher, but the Blue Devils had little trouble in downing first Perry and then South High. In the South game our boys showed terrific driving power as they marched down the field time and again only to fumble within the 15 yard line. The final score of 40-6 might have been more one-sided if they had held on to the ball on those scoring threats. It was evident the next week that the Mounties did not have power to spare against improved competition as they finally downed a never-give-up Penn team, 14-7. However, the following week an unusually strong Washington team was too much for the Blue Devils, who just didn't have that extra bit to pull through. The Wilkinsburg game was probably the thriller of the year as the score seesawed during both halves, with it anybody's ball game until the final whistle. There was one difference between this and the Penn game—the biggest difference possible—Mt. Lebanon came out on the short instead of the long end. The following two weeks found the Mounties losing to both Uniontown and Butler to end the season in defeat though not disgrace. The team was paid a high compliment by the coaches who said that though the boys were not the best football players, they were the nicest bunch of fellows they had ever coached.

With their best record in the past few years the Mountie harriers regained their supremacy of former seasons and proved themselves to be the best squad in statewide cross country competition. Coach Mollenauer's capable guidance helped the thinclads to win nine consecutive meets this season, four by perfect scores, including the W.P.I.A.L. and state championships.

a Fifth State Championship

This is the fifth time since 1940 that the harriers have won the laurels at Penn State. The Mounties had plenty of good material coupled with the will to win, which showed up in each meet. Pacing the squad were Wally Giordano and Bob Cherry, while other standouts were Pete and Paul Bowell, Bob Kortner, Eddie Mihm, Doug Terman, Drew Higgins. Wally Giordano burned up the track as he set a new record while leading the team to victory over New Kensington. Eddie Mihm, who is only a sophomore, consistently placed in Mt. Lebanon's first five and showed great promise for the next two years. Coach Mollenauer has high hopes that the squad will extend this record in 1951.

A large junior varsity squad finished the season with a creditable record of four wins and one loss. Their only defeat was at the hands of the Central Catholic varsity. The team defeated the Shadyside varsity and the junior varsities from Ambridge, New Castle, and Aliquippa. Jon Thomas and John Thomas were the sparkplugs of the jayvees, along with Eddie Reddy, Jack Bell, Tom Blandford, and Dan O'Connor.

BASKETBALL

Lacking in height, but not in spirit, the 1950-51 edition of the Mounty hoopsters finished the season with a record of ten wins and nine losses.

In the opener our fighting floormen came from behind during the second half to defeat Avalon by three points. Subsequent wins over Penn, West View, Crafton, and Bethel twice, coupled with losses to Washington, Munhall, Charleroi, McKeesport, and Wilkinsburg, rounded out the exhibition season for Mt. Lebanon.

The Blue Devils started off well in W.P.I.A.L. competition, defeating Baldwin by more than twenty points before recording their first loss to Dormont. They edged Clark and tumbled to Brentwood before dropping Baldwin again, but losses to Dormont and Clark forced the Mounties to topple Brentwood in the final game to maintain their .500 record in section play.

The most valuable player and consistent high scorer was Bob Witt, who had a season total of 228 points and an average of 12 per game. Bob was chosen for the all-section team as one of the district's outstanding players. Playmaker Paul Murphy starred throughout the season and was a great morale booster. Other standouts were cagey ball-handler Jack Smith, deadly southpaw Dick Bradway, push-shot artist John Keegan, pivot man Bill Hyams around the keyhole, and rebounder Herb Cox. Al Johnson, one of the squad's two juniors, also saw plenty of action.

Coach Kirk Tallman's all-sophomore quintet showed great promise of prospective varsity material for the next two years. The jayvees breezed through their schedule with 12 wins and 7 losses. Ronnie Jones and Jack Kern showed fine form throughout the season and were the usual high scorers.

BASEBALL 1950

On the diamond our blue and gold sluggers sported a season record of seven wins and four losses. Art Cusick, the team's hard-hitting catcher and a member of the varsity for three years, was elected the most valuable. Chuck Dickerson finished the season without an error and Ed (Boom-Boom) Beck displayed unusually fine form on the mound. The final game of the season saw twenty Blue Devils step up to the plate in one inning to score fourteen runs. Of the sixteen members of the squad five underclassmen will return next year.

1950 TRACK

1950 will go down as another outstanding track year in Mt. Lebanon's sports history. As a matter of fact, it is more out of the ordinary for Mr. Mollenauer's boys to have an average season than it is for them to have an outstanding one, for year after year they have made sports headlines and broken records for Mt. Lebanon.

To mention only some of the highlights of the 1950 season, the team won the Connellsburg Relays, the Washington Invitational, and the Allegheny Independent Districts Meet, three of the biggest meets in Western Pennsylvania. Some of the boys had the unusual honor of running in the Mansfield Relays in Mansfield, Ohio, one of the largest high school meets in the country. A third memorable event was the setting of several new records by some of the great competitors on the team as a fitting climax to a most successful season.

And now filling out the highlights let's look first at the indoor season. The Blue Devils won their dual meet with Central Catholic which opened the season. Incidentally, Mt. Lebanon hasn't lost a dual meet since 1945. The next meet was the trials for the Tri-State Coaches Meet, and Mt. Lebanon qualified with a good team. However, the following week at the finals Mansfield High edged the Mounties by a few points to win the trophy. It was during the indoor season that the two-mile relay team set a new Schoonmaker Hall record in their event.

We mentioned the Mansfield Relays as one of the top meets of the outdoor season. It was quite an honor as well as a thrill for the boys to travel to Mansfield since they were the first team to represent Mt. Lebanon since 1941. The Mounties stacked up very well against competition from all over the East and Midwest as our relay teams earned a third, fourth, and fifth place. Washington and McKeesport offered the Mounties plenty of stiff competition in the three big meets. In fact, the lead changed hands with each succeeding event so that many times it was the last two or three events which decided the meet. As the season progressed the Blue Devils continued to add to their string of undefeated dual meets, and the season's end found that record still intact. New individual records were set by Dave McSteen in the high and low hurdles and by Ward Jones in the shot-put.

Girls Took Their Places o

Rough and tumble action characterized those speedy basketball games.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

What a serve! What a backhand! What form! Let's peek through the fence and see what we can. There are Madeleine Driessen and Nancy Tressel—celebrities, you know. They not only took the tenth grade tennis championship but also the school championship. If we let our eyes wander just a bit farther, we see the junior champs, Ruth Lease and Louise Hyde. And last but not least, we find the senior champs, Barbara Gooding and Peggy Linn, giving the ball some exercise.

Next in line was tenniquoit, which gave many girls a chance to participate. It looks much easier than it is; just try to catch that little ring without spearing it.

Time out! Yes, time out to tell you that we had a very successful year in basketball. An all-star team was chosen for each grade.

Grunts and groans were the most common signs of the bowling tournament getting under way, and stoved fingers seemed to go hand in hand with volleyball. We really weren't as crippled up as it sounds for what would gym be without a few aches and pains? And what would the G.A.A. Dessert be without howls of laughter? This was the main event of the year. Dessert was served and the Council put on a skit that no one will ever forget!

We had a tremendous year, packed with many wonderful times and we owe a very big thank-you to our friend, Mrs. Aspiotes, for being so helpful. Until next year the G.A.A. says, "So long."
