Mount Lebanon

A School, A Year, 2200 Students

To define the Mt. Lebanon student is difficult. He is from cities and states all over our nation—the product of countless different environments. He is vivacious—you will encounter him going to or coming from parties, dances, football games; he is serious—he listens in class, is carefully considering his future, and if you are unusually perceptive, you will note that he has a textbook before him while he absorbs the comments and frantic music of his favorite disc jockey.

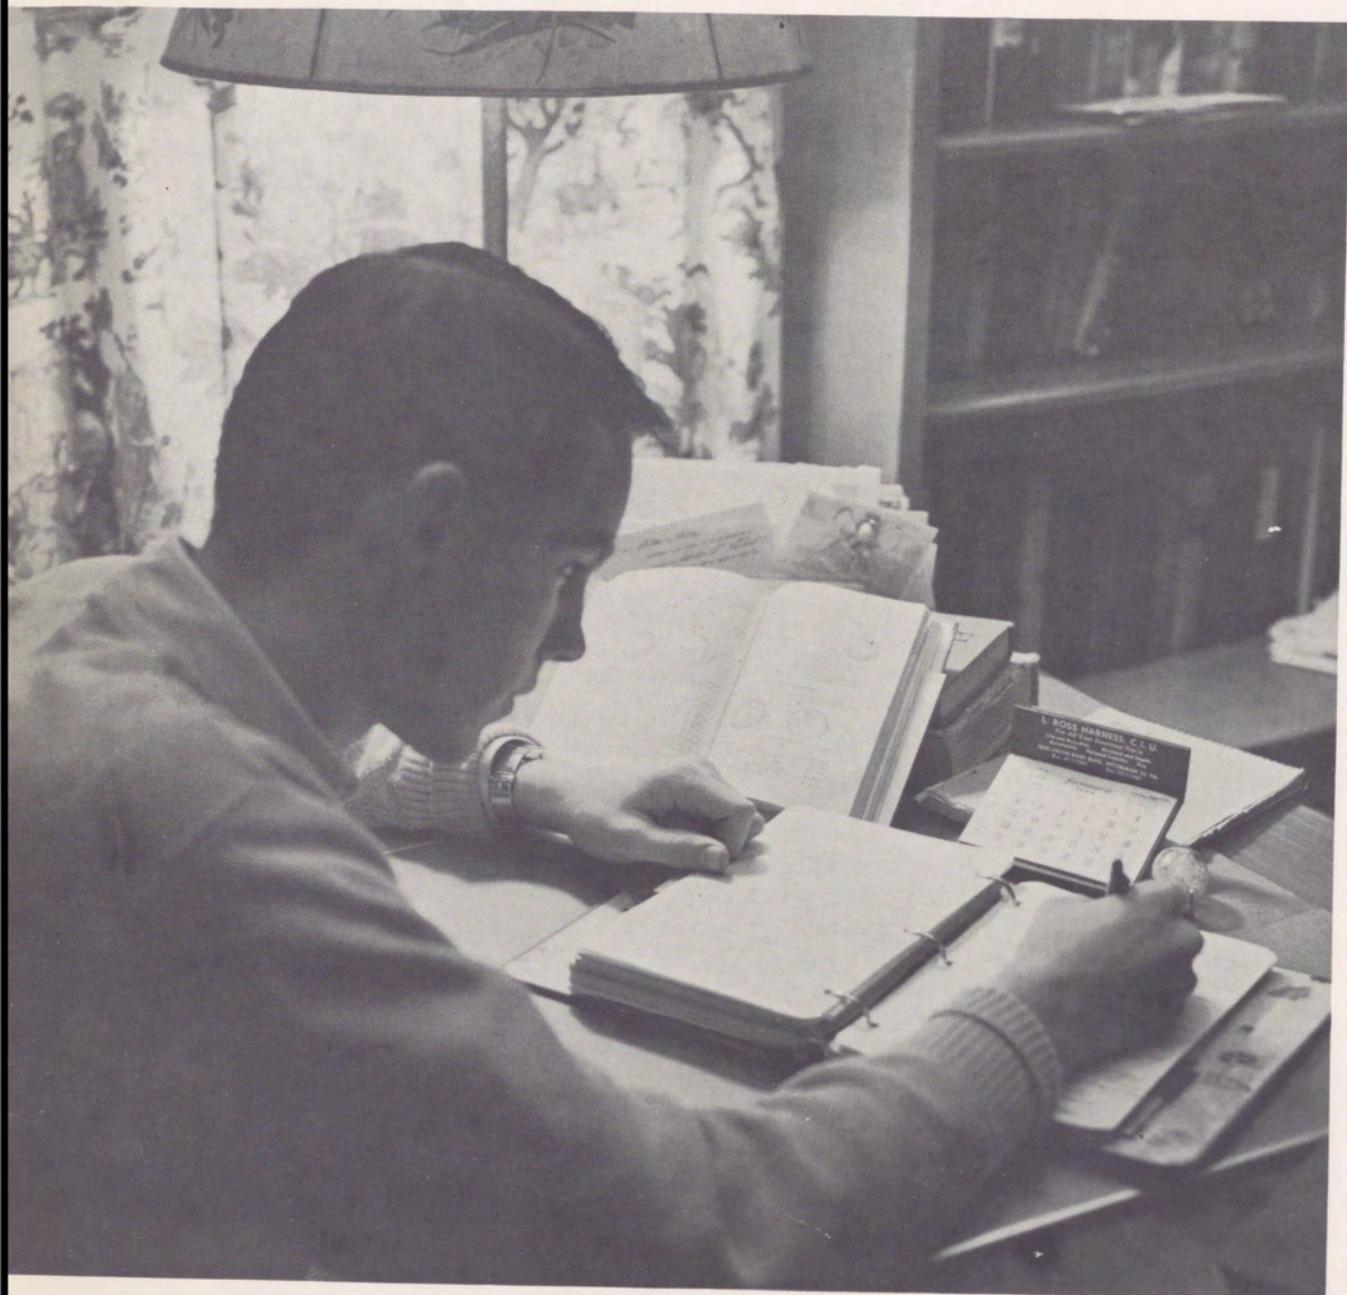

He shouts—
when he supports the varsity teams;
he whispers—
when he is awed by his surroundings.

He smiles—
when he is delighted by a time, or a place, or a person;
he frowns—
when he is perplexed or disgusted with himself.

He is talkative—
when he is with his friends or at a party;
he is strangely silent—
when he is alone.

He is unsure about colleges, careers, life in general—
but he is just a little more confident because he went to
Mt. Lebanon High School.

The instruction we received. . .

was symbolized by a blackboard, a piece of chalk, and an understanding teacher. The blackboard, a means of instruction, was the surface where hazy mathematical equations suddenly crystallized. The chalk, a connecting link, helped to transfer the knowledge from the mind of the instructor to the student's notebook. But it was the teacher who meant the most to us. We learned self-discipline from the strict idealist and his unflinching standards. The warm assurance and advice of the understanding friend gave encouragement when it was needed most. The cheerful enthusiast, with an ever ready joke to put across a point, proved that learning need not be drudgery. With our teachers' help, we learned as we grew and grew as we learned. Through their patience and perseverance, we learned to absorb, to reason, and to live — this was the instruction we received.

Upon the strong shoulders of Drs. Ralph D. Horsman and Joseph C. Keifer fell the almost impossible task of supervising the entire Mt. Lebanon school system. Managing only our tremendous high school was a feat in itself, so imagine tossing in six grade schools and a junior high school for good measure! But the two superintendents were more than equal to the task of keeping the Mt. Lebanon schools in their usual top conditions. Certainly it is to the credit of these men that our schools are among the best in the country.

Moulders of Our Destiny

SCHOOL BOARD

The educational policies of the Mt. Lebanon school system were governed and established by the school board. This year the members were — SITTING: Mr. Otis C. Hogsett, Miss Miriam Headly, Mr. Beckley Smith, Mrs. Donald C. Lewis. STANDING: Mr. Robert F. Dyson, Mr. James Daniell, Mr. William C. Berg, Mr. Edward Buck, and Mr. Samuel A. Schreiner.

With the backing of a progressive administration, our schools moved steadily forward. Under the able supervision of Dr. Horsman, the administration worked diligently executing plans for school improvements, while the enthusiasm and efforts of our school board helped to make Mt. Lebanon High School what it is today. All ten members of the board were kept busy seeing that our school's policies were followed and that sufficient funds were provided for the maintenance of our buildings.

Under the capable leadership of Dr. Mills, our principal, and Dr. Moore, vice-principal, our school continued to operate in its usual smooth manner. Dr. Mills' busy day was filled with many appointments, co-ordinating the various activities and sports, maintaining harmonious faculty-student relations, organizing the curriculum, and, in general, supervising the over-all program of the high school. If a perplexed student was confronted by a conflicting schedule, he found willing help in Dr. Moore's office.

The final member of our competent administrative staff was Mrs. Morgan, who was usually found in the attendance office, faithfully carrying out her duties.

We, the students who enjoyed the advantages of our school system, direct a vote of gratitude to our administration for their hard work and sincere interest.

The excellent administrative guidance and progressive planning of Dr. Mills have been important factors in making Mt. Lebanon one of the top thirty-eight schools in the nation.

Dr. Mills and Miss Speckhals, his secretary, were always ready to help faculty and students alike with questions and problems that came up during the school day.

A man of many talents.

Before having that schedule changed from driver's training to shop, stop and consider the amount of patience required in the making and remaking of two thousand, two hundred schedules. Not only do Dr. Moore and his secretary, Mrs. Davies, handle the schedules with efficiency but also the class rank, college transcripts, the never-ending registration of new students, and a complete backlog of graduates, with their grades, records, and achievements.

Mrs. Mayberry, the president of the PTA, discussed program plans for each class parent-teacher banquet with Mrs. Horne and Dr. Moore.

Mt. Lebo students were fortunate to have one of the most outstanding high school guidance departments in the nation. Mrs. Horne was always ready with helpful advice concerning colleges and curricula, while Mr. Nicklas aided many students in getting on the right vocational track. With Mrs. Irwin, their secretary, they introduced all the latest college and business opportunities to the student body.

The Medical Office saw quite a bit of activity this year. The excitement began at World Series time, continued through the flu epidemic, and finally abated as the last "victim" braved his polio shot. Miss High found a remedy for all our complaints — including frostbitten ears.

In the midst of active people and their activities points worked Mrs. Cargill, the activities director, and her assistant, Miss Olzack. Together, they sponsored Student Congress and Student Court along with several committees and squads, and saw that all interested students had a chance to develop their abilities through the school's program.

Keeping track of the whereabouts of Bob and Nancy at Mt. Lebo produced a mountain of paper work for Mrs. Morgan and her secretary, Miss Wass, in the Attendance Office. But, if Bob wasn't in school, it became the responsibility of Miss Gordon, the home-school visitor, to find out the reason why.

The friends we made...

were gay and serious, brilliant and athletic, loyal and kind. We found them in chemistry class when a test tube exploded and at track meets as we cheered Mt. Lebo on to victory. We laughed together as the curtain fell on the '58 Activities Play and when we dropped our books in the mad scramble between classes. We spent evenings with them at Junior Achievement business meetings and worked beside them in the library doing frantic last-minute research for a term paper. We met new friends at the Rec and in Student Congress, in the Rockette line and during the last minutes before the Devilette's deadline. These, the friends we made, were bound to us forever by the memorable experiences we shared with them in 1958.

With a Touch of Regret

The Class of '58 had liveliness — enough spirit to spark the cafeteria with "Stand up and cheer" all through football season, enough vitality to bubble through the anxious days of waiting for college news, enough generosity to share their exuberance with all Mt. Lebanon at seven o'clock the morning of Senior Day. Some seniors approached this big year of their lives with timidity — "How am I ever going to keep my grades up with all these activities?"; "Will I be invited to all the big Senior parties?"; "Am I really good enough to be at the 'top of the heap'?" Then Commencement came — evidently the grades had been good enough; judging from the smiles on their faces, they had had many "blasts"; and from their Senior Day celebrations, you knew that they now felt they were good enough — the "best", in fact. But it was not without a tinge of sorrow that these seniors approached Senior Day and Commencement. They had let loose a lot of "blood, sweat, and tears", yet they were better for it — they had matured. Although they were first and foremost the Class of '58, they had become young adults.

Classes

With a Fanfare and a Flourish

Beauty, Brains, and Brawn — that's what the junior class is made of. The good looks, talent, and athletic ability of the Class of '59 have been demonstrated in many ways during the last three years. They have taken part in school functions and activities with sparkling enthusiasm and have shown their maturity and self-discipline in the classroom. The well-rounded junior class has not only excelled in the athletic world but has proved itself throughout the year with its mental and social prowess. From shy, unsure freshmen, they have become a class which will be greatly admired and respected by future underclassmen. At the year's end, the juniors look forward longingly to the time when they will take their place at the top with a fanfare and a flourish — the sophisticated seniors of Mount Lebanon High.

With Pride and Perception

The old adage "Birds of a feather flock together" is an accurate description of the sophomores, who are known for their outstanding class loyalty. Rightfully bursting with pride over their class, overflowing with school spirit, active in school clubs; confident, at last, in their surroundings, the Mount Lebanon Class of 1960 is a vital part of the student body. Halfway to the ultimate goal, graduation, each member of the class is seriously preparing himself for the future. Finding time for cheerleading; band, orchestra, and chorus participation; and squad membership, they are ever learning the responsibilities which they will soon face as upperclassmen.

Now over the threshold, may the Class of '60 continue to set the excellent example that will immortalize the already famed record of Mount Lebanon High.

With Mixed Emotions

Sometimes confused . . . sometimes organized, often gay . . . occasionally miserable, this year's freshman class rushed through the halls, never quite sure where they were going or why, but unceasingly optimistic about the direction.

Socially, scholastically, sports-wise, the Class of '61 made its mark. The freshmen learned to coordinate their studies with the hectic round of activities and parties. They staunchly supported the football, basketball and track teams, turned up at all sorts of meetings, and haunted the Publications Office. By the end of the year, they understood the meaning of a new idea . . . responsibility.

The interests we developed. . .

were varied and valuable.

Budding journalists anxious to display original work, frantically pounded typewriters before deadlines. Aspiring actors and actresses emoted in round tones and flung out graceful arms, praying for a part in a coming play—a lead, a walk-on, any part. Mt. Lebo's social butterflies planned themes and decorations; our scientists of the future discovered the chemistry squad. Artists with visions of grandeur and dreams of Van Gogh daubed paint on huge canvases, while future teachers and nurses shared their problems and eager expectations. Throughout the year we discovered new interests — interests which developed latent talents, helped determine our vocations, and moulded our lives.

Electing Representatives and Representing Electors

It was one o'clock in the afternoon and the student body was crowding into the auditorium. A momentous decision was to be made here that day. For the past week the main topic of conversation in the halls, cafeteria, and study halls had been, "Who are you going to vote for in the Student Congress elections?" The pictures of the candidates over the main steps and above the entrance to the cafeteria had helped the students to become more familiar with the nominees. A hush fell over the auditorium as the students waited expectantly for the speech of the first candidate. At last all the candidates had presented themselves to the students — some inspiringly serious, others jovially persuasive. The students then had to go to their homerooms to vote for the three candidates whom they felt were best suited to the offices. Their decisions — difficult ones, to be sure — were certain to be good ones, for the candidates had been chosen from among the best qualified students in the senior class.

Thus, the first step in the forming of the new Student Congress was completed. Now the homeroom presidents, the main body of the Student Congress, had to be elected. This election was closer to the individual student than the election of the executive officers because the homeroom president led the homeroom meeting every Thursday and represented the interests of his homeroom in the weekly Student Congress meeting. With their yellow ballots before them, the members of the homeroom considered carefully the merits of each nominee before marking their "X" in front of the candidate's name. The person elected then became one-eightieth of the body which governed and voiced the opinions of the Mount Lebanon student body.

Vice-president George Schein and Secretary Nancy Hoover helped President Ed Beachler keep the workings of our representative democracy in the right channels as he directed Student Congress discussion into action for school improvement throughout the first semester.

As the spring semester rolled around with the last week of January, the new Student Council officers — President Paul Sica, Vice-president George Cain, and Secretary Gretchen Taylor—moved into the executive position and finished up the direction of a successful year for Mt. Lebanon's Student Congress.

"The meeting will now come to order."

ACTIVITIES KEYS

THESPians

Gretchen Taylor, Doug Walgren, and Donna Thomas of the National Thespian Society are discussing a script that has possibilities for a troupe production.

Quill and Scroll

Advisory Council

The principal's advisory council consisted of students from each grade and members of the faculty and administration. Seated with Dr. Mills are Mr. Taggart, Mrs. Cargill, Mrs. Morgan, and Miss Billingsley. Pat Tichenor, Mary Head, Dave Wyles, Tom Lasko, Eddie Beachler, Paul Sica, Diane Krueger, Denny Phillips, Beth Breitenstein and Dick Wyles complete the group.

ENTERTAINMENT BULLETIN

Keeping the school up to date on current entertainment and cultural events are Mary Mitchell and Peggy Falke of the Entertainment Bulletin.

F.T.A.

Ella Wilson, Alison Young, Nancy Vanderslice, and Chris von Stocker of our F.T.A. club gained valuable experience in teaching as they not only observed but taught in our local grade schools. Here they are planning the course of action for the next month's general meeting.

F.N.A.

Future nurses Sally Dickson, Peggy Schwartz, Neddie Kerr, Joyce Humphrey, Jill Japp, and Dot Fitch had a more definite picture of the nursing profession as they finished their first year in the F.N.A.

FORMAL CONCERT

A highlight of our school's musical scene was the annual Formal Concert held in February. The soloists, chosen by experienced musicians in the Pittsburgh district, were Ella Wilson, soprano; Sue Bletzinger, pianist; Miriam Kelly, soprano; Linda McIntyre, violinist; Jim Forrester, accompanist; Sue Hoffman, violinist; Alison Young, accompanist; Jane Rearick, soprano; Cindi Barrett, accompanist; Carolyn Moore, flutist.

STUDENT COURT

The Student Court served as the judicial branch of our school government. Preparing for another session with the out-of-doors are Linda Conaway, Karen Christiansen, Jeanne Ketchum, Cindy Brown, Ricky Collins, Sally Coltman, Tom Lasko and Bill Lynch. MISSING: Bob Coo, Joe Ott, Susie Beidler, and Lorry Hathaway.

NATIONAL MERIT SCHOLARSHIP FINALISTS
The National Merit Scholarship Program each year offers recognition and scholarships to the nation's most outstanding students qualifying in their examination. The finalists from Mt. Lebanon were Edward Becker, David Brownlee, Judith Dean, James Forrester, Jill Galbraith, Linda Greenberg, Robert Keim, Susan Langreth, Thomas Lasko, Bruce Menke, John Meyers, John Mintun, Mary Mitchell, Daniel Murphy, John Sowa, Kathryn Van Atta, Suzann Watson, Robert Wilhelm, and Carol Wilson.

VIOLINETTES
The Violinettes are a sextet rapidly rising to prominence in the Mt. Lebanon public eye. While Mike McCombs strummed his bass, Marcia Dilling, Sue Hofmann, Linda McIntire, and Dick Miller harmonized on their violins, and Sue Bletzinger accompanied on the piano.

Romance and Party Politics

"Do you need any help?"

The Class of '58 seemed determined to be different, and indeed, the production of their class play reached the height of unusuality. The play itself, Goodbye, My Fancy, was a selection far off the beaten path from the type of comedy so often stereotyped for high school production.

Goodbye, My Fancy is the story of a Congress-woman, Ann Thompson, who returns to her alma mater to receive an honorary degree only as an excuse to renew her romance with Bruce Menke, the college president. Complications arise in the person of a certain Life photographer, Lynn Love, and the play winds up with a surprise finish. Of course, since the play is set in a girls' college, comic relief abounds.

Strange as it may seem, this is a play that does have a point. Line after line pleads that young minds be given a chance to see all of that which affects—the good, the bad, the harmless, and the harmful.

The set, too, was an innovation. Composed of walls four feet high and pictures floating in space, it received well-deserved applause when the curtain opened on the night of November 22.

Backstage credits must go to Ned Garnhart for creating the set and to Mr. Myers along with students John Mintun and Sandra Lamont for direction.

"And I just pick up my little box Brownie . . ."

"We thank you for coming to our commencement, Miss Reed."

"I always said I'd marry a two buzz."

"It's convenient having a husband."

"Last night I was parked . . ."

Fun and Fantasy

"Aaaaaah Shadduppp!" is the war cry of the gangster set, as anyone who saw this year's Activities Play, Mrs. McThing, fully realizes. Mrs. McThing was a delightful fantasy with some fascinating subtleties, which the competent cast brought out clearly before the audience.

All the elements of the play worked together to produce a feeling of reality in the audience. Anyone who was not convinced by the end of the performance that Larue was really a warm-hearted person, Howay, a typical exuberant boy, and the Stinker, a Runyonesque character of the first order, must have been present for intermission only.

Expert emoting conveyed the humorous intensity of the conflict of the drama. When it was resolved, an audible sigh was heard. The sigh meant relief at the explanation of the problem, but those who worked on Mrs. McThing like to believe that it also spoke of sadness at leaving the world of fantasy which they had tried to create.

"She says her mother's a witch."

"My heart is breaking."

"Follow me."

"I am a dear little white rose."

"Ooof!"

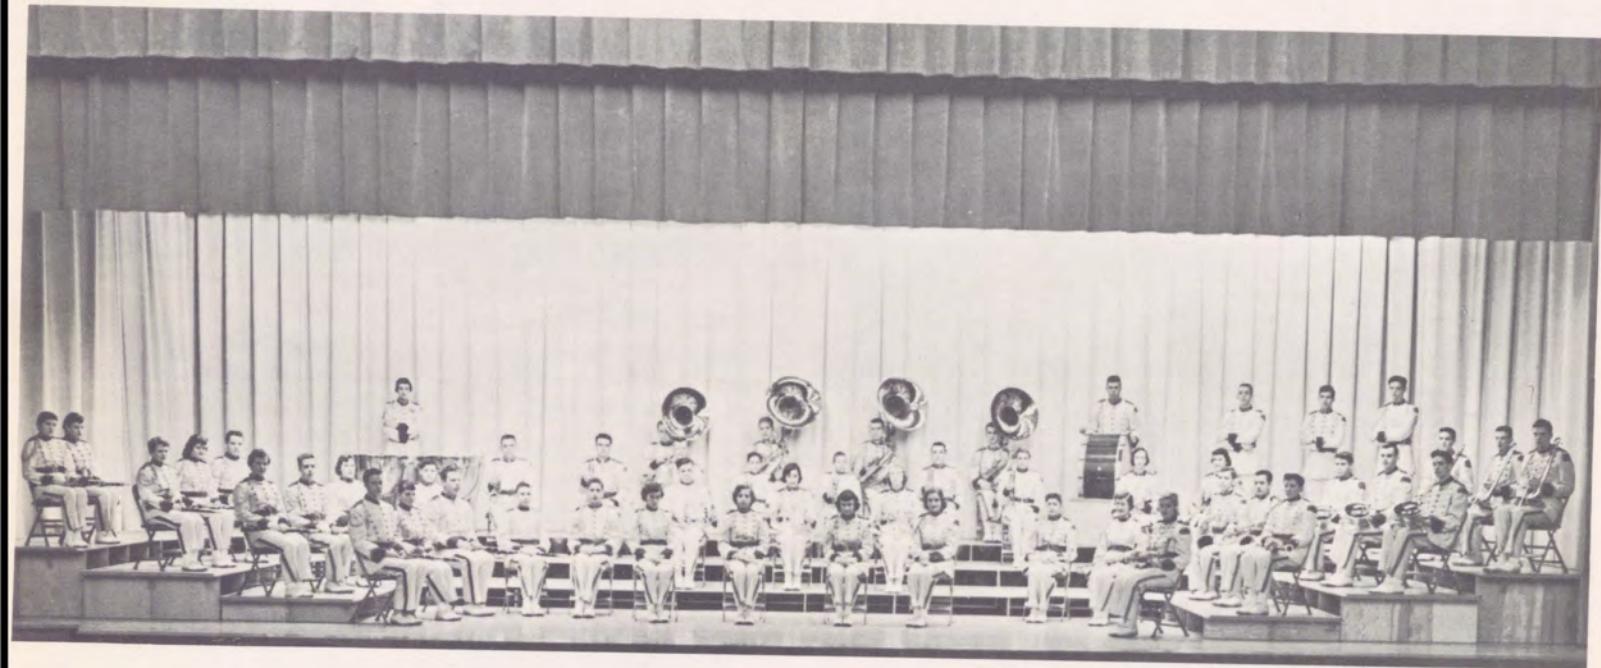

"Oh, it's so good to see you!"

"Get out of here, you ugly, old hag!"

Recipe for a successful concert band: to a heaping portion of exceptional music, add a well-balanced group of skilled musicians, a large dash of spirit, and an inspired conductor. The result will be a musical organization capable of entertaining hundreds of admiring people.

The above recipe is the heretofore well-guarded secret of the success of Mt. Lebo's concert band. That band included in its 1958 recipe an extra ingredient — guest concerts. This bit of seasoning satisfied nearly everyone's taste. On April 12, the Morgantown, West Va., band played a guest concert at Mt. Lebo. Our band returned an engagement at Morgantown on May 2 and performed as the guests of Midland High School on May 15. The exchange concert program thereby made a successful debut.

On May 7, Mt. Lebanon's students had their first opportunity to hear their concert band at a regular assembly. An enjoyable afternoon of music made them eager to hear the annual concert on May 20.

One of the groups which performed at the annual concert was the select band, composed of 48 students of extraordinary ability, which had appeared previously at Webster Hall for the Rotary International Club and in the Terrace Room of the Penn Sheraton Hotel for the Shrine Luncheon Club. Together with the Junior and Senior High bands, the select band made the annual concert the highlight of the concert band season.

Mt. Lebanon's Range Rockettes

The premiere of Mt. Lebo's "marching 200" took place at the first football game. Three weeks of sweat and intensive drilling had produced spirited music and precision marching, and the band had consumed much more time in the initial practice sessions than they were to spend in public performance.

Throughout the football season, our band represented us admirably. Transportation to away football games was provided by six buses. Because of the flu epidemic, however, the band was not able to participate in one of the away games.

On a cold, clear night in September, 3500 people turned out to watch the band revue. Featured were the elementary, junior, and senior high school bands. The South Fayette and Midland High School Bands appeared as guests.

Each year the band has tried to plan one big trip to an away performance not connected with its usual activities. This year the band's annual trip was to Akron, Ohio for the Rubber Bowl game. There, Mt. Lebo's musical organization took part in a colorful half-time show with other exceptional marching bands.

If the spirit of a school is in its music, then Mt. Lebanon's spirit consisted of many moods. Gay, melancholy, or majestic . . . from a Hawaiian hula to the alma mater . . . this year's exceptional band presented them all.

Mr. Prutzman, surrounded by band officers Carolyn McCune, Jan Hall, Jack Zimmerman, Al Hammond, and Joan Maitland, directed a most successful season for the marching unit.

"We look sharp."

"Alma Mater, for thee."

Feeling Rhythm, Tone, and Beat

Students who were lured away from their algebra texts by the stray notes which escaped from Room 124 during first periods may be interested to know that the harmony came from Miss Sneary's mixed chorus. Although the institution of a new placement system in the choral department shrank the size of the group, the quality of the performances improved steadily. The girls' glee club, which rehearsed during second period, made up the other half of Miss Sneary's excellent performing chorus.

The combined choruses supplemented by the boys' glee club took part in various musical activities. This year they sang for the Christmas assembly, presented the traditional Handel's Messiah, and gave a winter concert. One of the highlights of the season was the annual Spring Show.

Competition for the mixed chorus and the girls' glee club was keen but any student in the school who could pass an audition and a written examination was eligible. Those who wished to develop latent musical skills or qualify for the performing groups elected choral training.

Any boy with vocal skill who wished to audition for the boys' glee club could participate in that extracurricular activity. This group was under the able direction of Mr. Myers.

Through the diverse musical activities carried on at Mt. Lebo, its students found plentiful opportunity for enriching their school lives.

On December 19th, the combined choruses presented the Christmas portions of the Messiah. The featured soloists were Tom Ambler, Joy Wertz, Judie Hoag, Bruce Schein, John Mintun, Sandra Lamont, Ella Wilson, Steve Ferito, Jean Landefeld, Doug Naismith, and Miriam Kelly.

MIXED CHORUS

ROW 1: Irene Schietinger, Sally Simpson, Judy Japp, Karen Christiansen, Mary Baird, Sue Herb, Cindi Barrett, Jane Rearick. ROW 2: Kristin Love, Alison Young, Virginia Bright, Lynn Henderson, Alice Ann Myers, Sandy Dublin, Lenke Vietorisz,

DEVOTIONAL CHOIR

One of the principal duties of the Devotional Choir was to sing for the weekly devotional program over the Public Address. Choir members this year were Sue Bletzinger, Nancy Taylor, Mary Baird, Karen Christiansen, Joyce Schnars, Judy Shaffer, Tom Ambler, Jim Forbes, Phil Bumpus, John Mintun, and Frank Wadsworth.

TRIPLE TRIO

Only girls who love to sing tried out for Triple Trio. The result in '58 was a smooth blending of fresh voices belonging to Sandy Dublin, Alison Young, Judie Hoag, Beth Miller, Ella Wilson, Judy Button, Alice Ann Myers, Cindi Barrett, Marilyn Masterson, Jane Rearick, and Joy Wertz. MISSING: Anne Witman.

For Discriminating Tastes

A steady diet of Beethoven, Bach, Tchaikovsky, and Victor Herbert — and the Mt. Lebanon High School orchestra flourished. Under the able direction of Arthur Yagello, the seventy-two-piece organization rehearsed diligently fifth period every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday during the year. This hard work was rewarded when the group was recognized as being one of the finest in western Pennsylvania.

During the past year, the orchestra performed for many school and civic functions. On its long list of appearances were the Senior Class Play, the Christmas Program, the Junior Programs, and the Activities Play. On March 14, after weeks of practice, practice, and more practice, the orchestra presented its annual spring concert. Featuring a varied program of classics, light classics, and standards, the organization performed before a warmly enthusiastic audience.

The most exciting event of the year was the visit of the Haverford High School Orchestra of Philadelphia. Arriving in Mt. Lebanon on Friday, April 18, this excellent musical group presented an afternoon assembly program for the students and returned after dinner to present a concert for the community. Following this performance, both orchestras relaxed at a dance in the gym. This visit inaugurated the orchestra exchange program which will be completed in April, 1959.

Director Yagello and his seventy-two proteges can look back on 1957-58 with satisfaction, for seldom have Mt. Lebanon High School orchestras surpassed the accomplishments of this year's organization.

Hopscotching the School for Headlines

The Devilette assembly crew maintained a spirit of cooperation and companionship which not only produced a carefully put-together paper, but managed to provide "official" eavesdroppers with plenty of gossip and social news for the next issue.

The hangout of the LANTERN staff, the producers of our award-winning newspaper, was the middle "cubby-hole" in the Publications Office. Here, under the direction of Jane Trevaskis, the editor, nine editions of the paper were produced. Jane had a staff she was confident could take care of anything. Nancy Reed, the assistant editor, helped assure Jane that each issue contained news of all important events at school. Eddie Beachler, the Sports Editor, or "Beachcomber," highlighted the top sports in his column. Joy Kramer had a knack for "Periscoping Your Education" while Mary Ferguson, the news editor, gladly interviewed any famous personality that came her way.

The LANTERN's sidekick, the Devilette, came to life amidst mass confusion. Hundreds of eager reporters roamed about school digging up all the dope they could get on our football heroes, prom dates, and summer vacations. Then, editor Pat Negele collected all the odds and ends and organized them into a mimeographed paper. The reporters assembled the paper themselves, walking in circles, piling, stapling, and then starting on another round.

These two publications, along with the Scholastic Roto, a national magazine, all came out together furnishing the students with enough reading for an entire study hall.

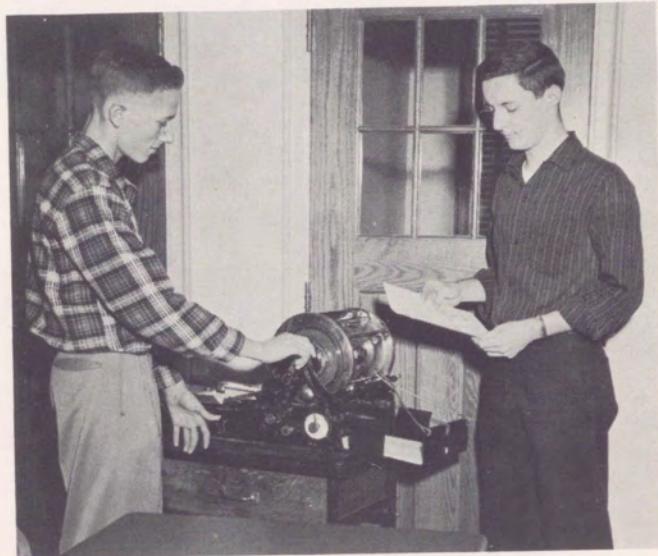

Under the enthusiastic direction of Editor-in-Chief Jane Trevaskis the Lantern staff, composed of Carol Nobel, Mary Ferguson, Wayne Nicholas, Nancy Reed and Joy Kramer, regulated the intricate workings of our award-winning school newspaper.

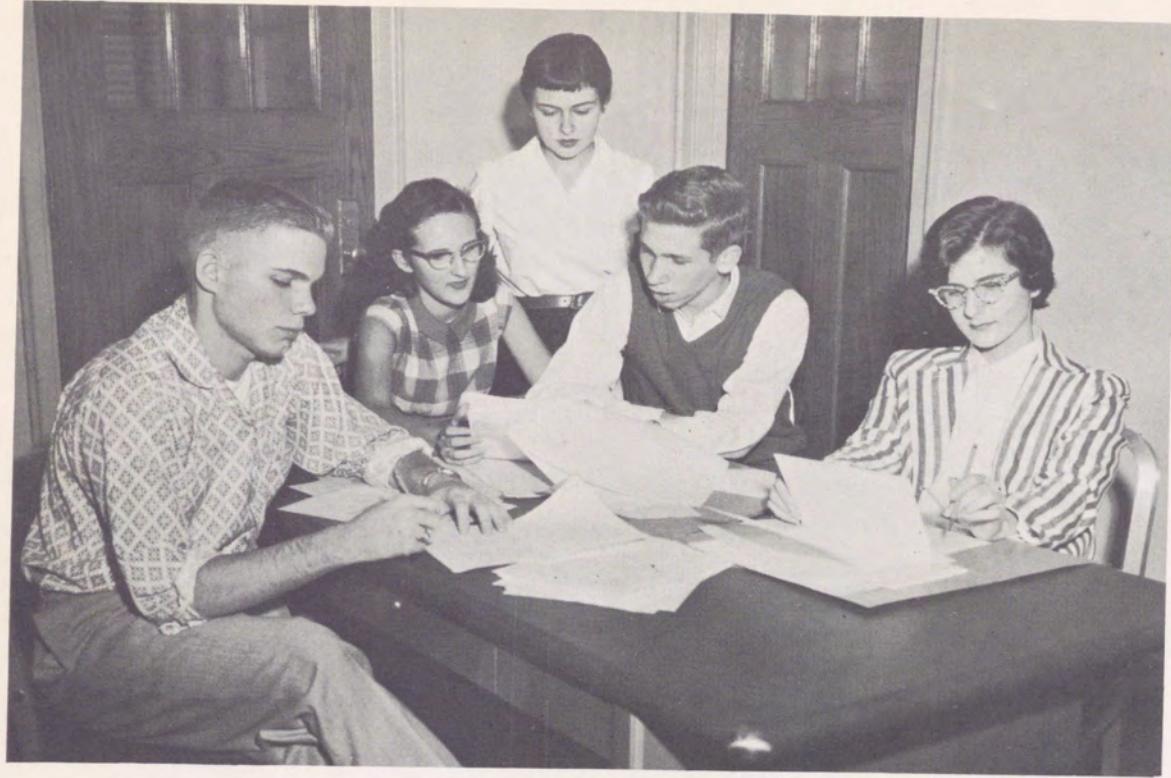

Sue Gullion, Marilyn Klostermeyer and Bonnie Raymond, working with chief editor Pat Negele, brought the spirit of the school to Devilette readers through carefully chosen features and innumerable polls.

Despite the double pressure caused by deadlines that came too soon and a mimeographing machine that had trouble adjusting to life, Devilette mimeographers Phil Gottschall and Bob Sharow successfully handled the job.

No one was busier than Lantern business staff members during their sales campaign. Carolyn Tamplin, Patti Ellison, Bonnie Raymond and Ann Burnham handled the record breaking sales in fine style.

Co-editors Linda Greenberg and Bob Wilhelm, assistant editors Lenke Vietorisz and Herb Short, and business manager Connie Sterner contributed personality plus to the new Mounty, making it truly a magazine of distinction.

The Mounty of Distinction

Linda and Bob gave the word to their staffs five times this year as work began on each new issue of the Mounty.

No one but an imaginative member of the Mounty art staff could have created an illustration for some of the abstract poetry the magazine published. But Ned Garnhart, Carolyn Moore, Virginia Redpath and Loretta Smith produced etchings to satisfy the most unconventional author.

The MOUNTY for 1958 introduced a series of sweeping changes — in format, in editorial policy, and in publishing procedure. The most striking change, the adoption of the Xerox process of photo-litho reproduction, made possible high legibility and eyecatching illustrations. In addition, the new printing technique released the staff from their ten year's slavery to the Publications Office's ancient and leaky mimeograph machine and gave them more time in which to improve the MOUNTY's readability and literary standards. The prizewinning poems, stories, and essays included in the 1958

MOUNTY's pages brought lengthening subscription lists as well as high praise from both faculty and students.

Upperclassmen were the largest audience for the MOUNTY this year; the sales campaign was limited to juniors and seniors in its opening days. The staff felt that only more experienced readers could fully understand and appreciate the MOUNTY's mature appeal.

With Miss Elliott as a capable sponsor, the close-knit compact MOUNTY staff worked long and hard to bring a newly attractive magazine of literary quality to Mount Lebanon.

The Mounty, with its amazing new format, offered a tremendous challenge to the writing staff — Bruce Menke, Sandy Lamont, John Mintun, Virginia Butterworth and Mary Mitchell.

Memories are Made of This

Building an outstanding yearbook requires a lot of ingenuity as this lineup of editors discovered. Co-editors-in-chief Jerrine Ehlers and Dave Brownlee directed their ambitious colleagues Gretchen Taylor, Jill Galbraith, Bob Taylor, Pat Weaver, Clarence Renshaw and Diane Davies to their final goal of a well rounded and distinctive Log.

With a flair for keeping names, dollars, and records straight, Virginia Butterworth, Rita Giegerich and Carol Nobel boosted the sales total to heights far above their first expectations.

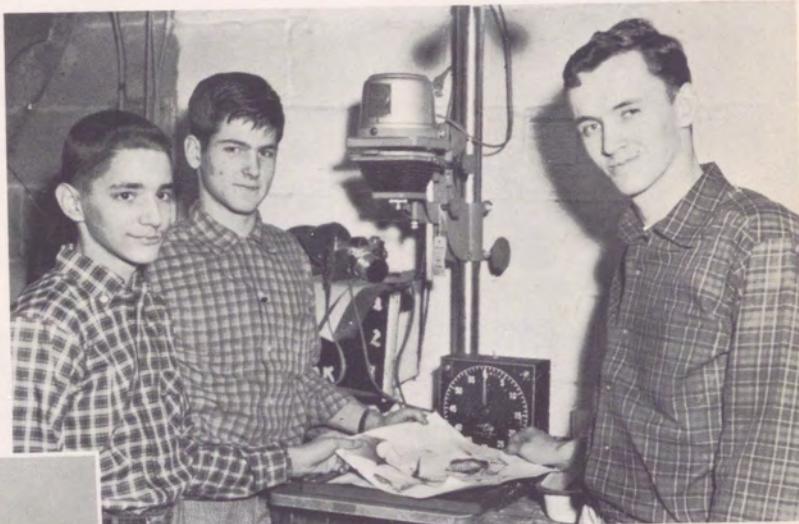

"How about changing this thing around." "What a wonderful idea!" "Heavens, girl, you can do better than that!" With remarks like these flying around the Log's tiny cage in the Publications Office, it's no wonder that contrast became '58's yearbook theme. The freshness and variety of ideas that seemed to radiate from the very walls surprised even the editors. Take for instance the Student Life section which grew from a few scattered pictures into a calendar of the school months, pinpointing all the vital, interesting events that happened throughout the year. Or take the enlarged Senior section with its new approach to the polls — and that's not mentioning the bonus surprise of color shots and padded covers. Yes, the much publicized "big surprise" aroused enough active interest in the '58 Log to enable the staff to go on to the bigger and better, and go they did.

Balancing the really hard work put in by the various staffs were the rollicking jam sessions, when everybody sang — such harmony — and ate peanut brittle and Lifesavers. But best of all, was the actual satisfaction everyone felt when the Log was finally complete and ready for distribution to the students.

The combined literary talents of Nancy Barnhart, Suzy White, Gretchen Taylor, John Mintun, Bev Wood and Marty Mulliken brought about the superior quality always sought for in Log write-ups.

Dan Lee, John Delo and Pete Peckham found that canvassing the gym and athletic field for good shots of the team and spectators could be an interesting business especially when their victims were eager.

"A Log, a Log, my kingdom for a Log," and "What, me worry? I've got my '58 Log," were some of the attitudes posted for the students' benefit by the Log art staff.

Fun, Faith, and Fellowship

At the end of the 1958 school year, the Y-Teens looked back upon one of their most successful seasons. The members of all four clubs shared their problems, formed lasting friendships, and gave valuable service to others. After their initiation in November, the Y-Teens came to appreciate the "Y-Teens Triangle", symbolizing the individual and the three sides of her personality — physical, mental, and spiritual.

The sophomore Betas and Deltas, under the leadership of Miss Frobese and Mrs. Furlong respectively, had a variety of programs ranging from a swimming party to tips from team members on the games of football and basketball. These sophomore girls helped out at the School for the Blind every Saturday, as well as supplying favors for the Ward Home on every holiday.

With a year's experience behind them, the Alphas, sponsored by Miss Hay, started the year off planning the Recognition Service. In addition to the fun they had at their meetings, these Juniors derived enjoyment from collecting books for veterans' hospitals and providing Easter Baskets for underprivileged children.

The Senior Sigmas, under Miss Manning's supervision pursued an active program featuring a "Panel of Americans", an Earl Wheeler model, and a presentation of European slides. In addition to these programs and working with the Red Cross, they gave their traditional party for the children at St. Paul's Orphanage.

Highlighting their activities was the participation of all four clubs in the "Round-Up" held on April 28 in the Whitehall Gymnasium. It proved to be a successful climax to a year's fun and service which is well worth remembering.

A troop of Explorer Boy Scouts was established at Mt. Lebo this year to replace the Hi-Y. Jim Baker, Jim Watters, and George Winters moved immediately into the action spot as officers and helped to make the troop's first year a successful one.

JUNIOR ALPHAS—Sitting: Vanita Bauknight, Marcie Smith. Standing: Pam Lore, Kathy Young, Nancy Sander.

SENIOR SIGMAS — Sitting: Sue Bletzinger, Diane Davies. Standing: Neddie Kerr, Ann Boggs, Pat Kidney.

MAKE-UP

Sally Coltman and Eleanor Henry
Each Make-up Squad member found plenty of competition as she ran around trying to find her essential three shades of stick make-up along with the purple eye shadow. Missing materials eventually did turn up, and she was always able to powder off her character whole minutes before curtain time.

SOCIAL

Jill Galbraith

The active imaginations of the social committee, after dreaming up all sorts of novelty social events, manufactured even more novel ways of inveigling students into buying tickets.

STAGE CREW

Dan Lee

Flicking lights, dancing on catwalks, and constructing tombs were a few of the many occupations enjoyed by the stage crew.

ACHIEVEMENT

Judy Reynolds

Everyone of the overworked members of the achievement squad who recorded the accomplishments of our graduates came to the obvious conclusion that graduating from Mount Lebanon High School is an advantage.

LIBRARY JoAnn McKay

Did you know that General Burgoyne fought in the French Revolution and Sophocles wrote Much Ado About Nothing? If you disagreed there was one way to settle the argument. The library squad directed you to the proper reference.

BULLETIN BOARD

Irene Beitler

The attractive posters and snappy slogans conceived by the bulletin board squad informed us of school events. Through some expert juggling, members of the squad were able to convey the messages of all the people who wanted to use the bulletin boards at once.

USHERS

Jerry Cooper, Fred Bailey, George Phillips, John Harper
Neither exciting auditorium nor rambunctious students could keep these worthy fellows from their job of preserving order in the auditorium.

WAYS AND MEANS

Pat Negele and Richard Barker

Ways of obtaining unusual items never eluded the members of this squad who never forgot their means of making money.

ATTENDANCE

Joan Stein and Martha Manley

The attendance squad kept tabs on Mount Lebanon's huge student body through innumerable slips of innumerable colors. As they were authorities on the average student approach, the students were forced to invent a variety of excuses.

PROJECTION

Pete Hoehler

If the teacher promised a test in history and there was a movie instead, it was due to the excellent timing of the film's arrival and the diligence of the projection squad.

CHEMISTRY

Bob Keim, Bruce Menke, Dick

Miller, John Sowa, Bob Wilhelm

Free from restrictions such as balanced equations and the ridiculous laws of grey-bearded scientists, the chemistry squad produced concoctions and brews undreamed of, in Lab. They also managed to keep sodium hydroxide out of the bottles marked sulfuric acid.

PROPERTIES

Bob Carney

"If Edward's crown is unobtainable, would Victoria's do?" With an attitude like that, nothing could stop the properties committee from finding simpler things, like Agatha Reed's "Uncle Willie" and the voice of the Unknown Soldier.

COSTUME

Susan Curran and Rita Giegerich

Working on the theory that costumes cannot disguise individuals but can heighten their characterizations, the costume committee produced amazing results.

PARKING

Lee Purnell

Model T Fords, snappy MG's, and rattling station wagons were all geometrically arranged in our parking lot through the efforts of the parking squad.

CHECK ROOM

Margie Hilsinger and Delby Geeseman

The only thing the check room squad couldn't keep for you was a date. During the course of an evening they filed away such fascinating objects as an original recording of Nikita Kruschev's reaction on seeing Mickey Mouse.

RED CROSS

Maggie Conomos

A spirit of charity toward those less fortunate than themselves prospered with the Red Cross squad. Orphanage parties, gifts for overseas friends, and many other worthy projects rounded out their schedule for the year.

INFORMATION

Mary Jane Mordash

"The cafeteria," explained my pert informant, "is right after the telephone booths, at the end of that little hall, only on the next floor down, under the gym." And that's the way our visitors were directed to their destinations by the members of the information squad.

HOST AND HOSTESS

Jack Best and Nola Carroll

Those students who became accustomed to a member of the host and hostess squad supervising them during lunch found it hard to understand how they were able to eat at home without their guidance.

MEDICAL

Stella Hulsberg

Are you sick? Do you have a chemistry test next period? The medical squad accommodated students with similar ailments — at least until they discovered whether the students suffered from bronchitis or testitis.

DECORATION

Sue Lightner

When the decoration squad went to work, only the cedars escaped the crepe paper. The hills were bolder, adorned with their bright colors, and Mount Lebanon was often a realm of blue and gold. Mood was the watchword; color, the key.

ART

Ned Garnhart

Supplying old Rembrandts with new mustaches and creating original masterpieces were specialties of the art squad. They also splashed paint.

BIOLOGY

Edwin Gales

Nikolai 'Sputnik' Shostakovich, the distinguished rabbit star of the biology lab, was somewhat put out when the squad members adopted three snakes and a pair of guinea pigs. His quivering nose and entreating eyes were reminders to the squad that he did not savor the fragrance of formaldehyde.

HOSPITALITY

Charm integrated with information brought a smile to any newcomer's face. The hospitality squad understood the hesitations of new students and strove to put them at their ease.

PUBLICITY

Sue Langreth

Anyone who was not aware of what was going on at Mount Lebanon High School must have been blind and deaf. We should thank the publicity squad for the frequent announcements and colorful posters which kept everyone up to date on our current events.

PHYSICS

Jack Zimmerman and Burton Cohn

"What goes up must come down." The physics squad found that Newton's law of gravity worked every time, unfortunately for some of the lab equipment.

TRAFFIC

Bob Taylor

The traffic squad's inspired shoving and cheery grins helped many a student reach his class on time. Lights out in the halls was their official reminder to laggards that classroom doors were beginning to close.

STUDIO

Bill Lynch and Doug Naismith

The Lebo Broadcasting System, which presented the daily announcements and weekly sportscasts, put bleary-eyed students back in the day's routine with a cheery "Good Morning".

HONOR AWARD

Pat Fisher

Recording the activities points of 2200 students was no "snap" job. All the students had to do was earn them; the honor awards committee inherited the task of tallying them.

DEVOTIONAL

Kay Matthews

The devotional squad prepared the inspirational programs which were presented to the students every Thursday morning and on special occasions.

PUBLIC ADDRESS

James Anthon

If garbled sounds were occasionally heard over the public address system, it was not the fault of the public address crew which kept the equipment in top running order.

LOST AND FOUND

Irene Vogel and Rosemary LaManna
Have you lost a green-eyed marionette with shaggy hair? Well, have you found a green-eyed . . . Somebody's looking for a green- . . . The many oddities which turned up in this department kept the lost and found squad fascinated.

The games we played. . .

were "played" by all of us. We all felt the elations and deflations of hard-fought victories and defeats. The football team knew well the drudgery of constant practice, but they knew also the thrill of scoring the first touchdown. Each member of the cross country team knew the feel of earth underfoot and the strain in every muscle. The basketball team strove for perfection on the indoor courts, moving as a compact unit; the tennis team worked on the outdoor courts, concentrating on the individual. The baseball team knew the sound of cracking bats and the smack of the ball against well-worn leather. The track team heard the shot fall to solid earth and saw the bar from the high jump drop into the sawdust pit below. The golf team could smell the fresh greenness of the fairways; the swimming team knew the dense humidity of the indoor pools. The rifle team felt the polished stocks and heard the constant crack of rifles. Each member of the wrestling team knew momentary defeat as he felt the mat beneath his shoulders, then triumph, as he pinned his opponent. These were the games we played. Although we won many trophies in these sports, their real value lay in the good sportsmanship that we, the "players" developed.

Everybody's Gotta Holler

SCHOOL SPIRIT—

... the feeling entered the building with the students on the first day of school.

It grew and expanded into wild excitement which came to a head at the annual bonfire kicking off the 1957 football season . . . the team in warmup . . . the band marching down the hill from the school to a throbbing street beat . . . pride in their band, their team, their school . . . alma mater. You Blue Devils, fight!

Freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors cheered themselves right out of the football season into basketball . . . frosty nights and a warm gym . . . rousing songs and cheers . . . the victory chant . . . one more point. Sink it, boy!

And the cheers never stopped as the emphasis changed to track . . . spring enthusiasm . . . will to win . . . strength and endurance . . . school support. Let's go, Lebo!

Pep rallies provided an extra-special boost to team spirit . . . sore throats and raspy voices . . . versatile cheerleaders. Iron 'em out, smoooooth.

Although it was impossible for all the students personally to cheer for our Mounties on every team, they did their best to support even the non-spectator sports. '58 was the year—and everyone in the crowd was shouting Hurrah for Lebo!

J.V. cheerleaders Mary Ann Higgins, Mary Head, Judy Dickinson, Bonnie Kasun, Peggy Colvin, Nancy Van Gundy and Janis Beachler (missing) found that the fun of spiriting our cheering section into fresh enthusiasm for the junior varsity boys was worth every minute of after-school practice.

Figuring out new cheers and better ways to do old ones kept varsity cheerleaders Ann Snee, Becky Stone, Susie Beidler, Judy McKibben, Anne Irwin, Beth Breitenstein and Nancy Hoover (missing) on their toes.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

The Mounty gridders, under the tutelage of coaches Fife, Stanish, and Lamprinakos, ended the season with a record of five wins, three losses, and one tie, placing them in the runner-up position in the Western Conference.

Losing their opener to Homestead by a slim margin of six points, the Blue Devils sprang back with fierce determination and shut out two neighboring schools, Bethel and South Hills. At the height of "flu-week," the Blue and Gold eleven tackled a perennially strong Penn squad and came off the field at the end of the game deadlocked in a tie that eliminated both teams from the W.P.I.A.L. title race. One week later the Little Presidents of Washington played host to the Mounties, with Lebo bringing home the victory from the Prexies. The following weeks our home field marked the battle ground for two engagements with Wilkinsburg and Uniontown, each contest ending in defeat for the Lebo eleven. These losses constituted the turning point in the season for the local heroes as they poured on the steam and finished off the season with convincing victories over Baldwin and West View, the latter being Mt. Lebanon's Senior Recognition game.

Senior fullback Dave Ward led the scoring parade with forty-six points, followed closely by senior quarterback-halfback George Schein with forty-two. Ten of Ward's points were the result of precisioned boots for points-after-touchdowns. Dave also was the top yard-gainer with a total of 765 yards to his credit and a leading average of approximately six yards per carry from scrimmage. Other members of the team received several scholarship offers as well as other post-season recognition for their fine performances.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

This year's Freshman football squad, coached by Mr. Batchelor and Mr. Walker, compiled a record of five wins and one loss, the best in the history of the team. Undefeated in league competition, they received a Junior-W.P.I.A.L. award for this achievement.

VARSITY CROSS COUNTRY

Ups and downs were the markers for the cross country season at Mt. Lebanon this year. The great potential of the team was never felt in its full force because of devastating injuries and sicknesses which riddled the squad's scoring punch throughout the season. There was no one particular member of the team that could have been named as MVP but, instead of one outstanding runner, Coach Mollenauer had several. Practically every member was out for a week or more with some sort of injury or illness and it was at these low spots where the boys who were still able to run showed their true determination and team spirit in their attempts to take up the slack and fill in for the absent members.

Toward the end of the season, the general outlook was brightened considerably. Coming from far behind, our Blue Devil harriers not only swept the W.P.I.A.L. Championship for the second time in two years, but also kept the State Championship trophy at Lebo for the second consecutive year.

The three co-captains for next year, John Pringle, Dave Blumfeldt, and Bill Sickles, were named to this office for their services to the team during the season and for their outstanding performances when the chips were down.

Ed Beachler and Frank Wadsworth, the captains of this year's squad, suffered much misfortune, with Ed in and out of uniform all during the season and Frank permanently sidelined with a knee injury. Senior Carl Greer also had difficulties but managed to make it back, along with Beachler, to help gain some of the team's laurels in late season. Tony Prezioso and Tom Pollok also were valuable team members throughout the entire season, placing well in the W.P.I.A.L. meet, and running at Penn State.

Considering all of the aspects, we feel that this team was certainly one of the greatest coached by Mr. Mollenauer and one of the finest in the history of the school.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

Under the coaching of Mr. Clark, the Mounty hoopsters, in their 1957-58 campaign, chalked up an enviable record of 18 wins and only 3 losses. With this record they captured the runner-up laurels in Section IV and maintained Mt. Lebo's perfect record on the new gym floor.

Led by team captain Roy Roscoe, the Mounties won the season's opener with Baldwin after a tough battle and then stretched their winning streak to seven games before losing. The first bitter taste of defeat came at the hands of Homestead in the New Kensington Holiday Tournament in which Mt. Lebanon placed third.

Soon after that the team embarked on their tough schedule of league competition. Washington appeared to be the biggest hurdle for the Blue and Gold and the teams split their two-game series. Unexpectedly, Canonsburg defeated Mt. Lebo in their second engagement, and all hopes for the Section championship were dispelled.

However, the team spirit was higher this year than in any preceding year and the combination of team spirit and a fine record made this season a memorable one.

JAYVEE BASKETBALL

Mr. Stanish's jayvee hardwood quintet got off to a rocky start this year but picked up when several juniors were added to the bench. The season's final record of 13 wins and 6 losses is a good indication of their future floor potential for Lebo.

The 1958 Mt. Lebanon High frosh basketball team, coached by Mr. Watts, had a mediocre record of 7 wins and 8 losses. The team lacked experience but had good potential and reserve strength. When seasoning is gained, these boys should develop into a fine team.

RIFLE TEAM

Sparked by Beverly Henry, the team captain, this year's rifle squad, said to be the best-looking varsity team in school, set an outstanding record by scoring nine wins and only one loss. Home-range advantage proved true when the Mounties beat Munhall at home and then lost the away match. Because of the resulting section tie, playoffs were held at a neutral range, and the Lebo marksmen proved their ability by nabbing the section title and W.P.I.A.L. championship. Coach Neal is rightly proud of his sharpshooters.

VARSITY WRESTLING

The Mt. Lebanon wrestling team, under the guidance of Mr. Lamprinakos and Mr. Walker, showed improvements in this, its second year of W.P.I.A.L. competition. After a slow start the boys began to gain confidence and finished the season with a 5 and 7 record. In the first few matches, the Mounties found "Hard-luck" was their middle name, but they improved as the season progressed. The season's record is not a fair indication of the team's true power, as many of the matches were decided in the last minute of individual competition. Outstanding individuals were Jay Windfelder, Bill Hofrichter, Lee Wells, and team captain George Schein. All of these boys and many others had good records and were great morale builders for the team. Jay and Bill won the section championship in their weight divisions, while Lee was runner-up.

This season also marked the formation of a jayvee squad with wrestling, which had as its coach Mr. Walker.

Both of the coaches know that these teams need a lot of work but feel that with needed mat experience, they should be turning out some more championship Lebo teams in the near future.

Shields, Thompson, Davidson, Lohrentz, Wharton, Niemi, Coulter, Swearingen, Mendel, Dave Bock, Sander.

Under the expert coaching of Mr. Grant, the Blue and Gold tanksters won the W.P.I.A.L. and Western Regional championships and placed second in the P.I.A.A. meet in their second year of competition. Broken records were familiar to this great team, as they set new marks in most of the meets in which they swam.

The mermen swam their way through a tough schedule of ten teams, including highly-rated Clairton High, last year's W.P.I.A.L. champion.

The team consisted largely of underclassmen, providing Coach Grant with an abundance of material for succeeding seasons. Leading swimmer on this year's team was Tom Lindsey, who has set many state, regional, district, and school records. His specialties are the 100-yard butterfly and the 150-yard individual medley, and he holds the State record of 1:35.5 in the latter.

Several relay teams showed well this year as did some other individuals. The 200-yard medley relay of Bill Hunt, Bill Lewis, Tom Lindsey, and Carl Warnes placed second in the State meet, while the 200-yard freestyle relay of Dave Larry, Chuck Borgerding, Jim Catalano, and Mike Warnes took fourth place honors. Carl Warnes won a silver medal for his second place performance in the P.I.A.A. 100-yard breast stroke, and Lindsey has a bronze one for his third in the 100-yard butterfly in addition to his first place finish in the 150-yard medley.

All of these boys and many more are truly champions on another great Lebo championship team.

The game of chess originated in India as war in miniature. The white and black pieces represented opposing armies and gave limitless opportunities for brilliant attacks, subtle strategy, and intricate combinations. From India, chess spread to the Arab lands and thence to Europe, where it became the pastime of kings and nobles. But this "royal game" has had universal attraction throughout the world.

In western Pennsylvania, the high-school devotees have formed a dozen teams of five players each. The schools clash in a double-round competition for the chess crown. At the end of the season, the winner of the first round meets the winner of the second in a play-off match for the title. The district finalists then go to Harrisburg to play for the state championship.

With Ed Becker and John Sowa, two of the strongest players in the league, the Mounty chessers built their finest team in eight years. Two five-nothing shut-outs helped the Mounties lead the pack at the beginning of the first round; however, because of some later setbacks, Taylor Allderdice edged out the Mt. Lebanon quintet with a score of  $24\frac{1}{2}$  to 24. In the second round, the Mounties avenged themselves with a three-two victory over Allderdice and showed excellent prospects for the championship. In future years, the chess club should continue supplying good players for winning teams.

VARSITY TRACK — 1957

Finishing another great season, the 1957 varsity track squad, coached by Mr. Mollenauer, repeated as the W.P.I.A.L. champs for the second consecutive year. After starting off with a predicted mediocre three and one record for the indoor season, the Mounty Thin-Clads proved the odds-makers to be wrong and moved on to many outstanding victories. The Blue and Gold spikers won all of their outdoor meets except one, the Mansfield Relays, in which they placed a slight 5/12ths of a point away from the number one spot. The season's victories extended Mt. Lebo's long standing string of dual and triangular victories to 97 consecutive, a remarkable feat for any track team.

Throughout the season, the cinder-men brought home innumerable individual awards as well as several beautiful team prizes. A first place trophy or plaque was awarded to the team for its performance at the following meets: the Bethany College Relays; the W.P.I.A.L. Relays; the Allegheny County Championship; and the W.P.I.A.L. Championship.

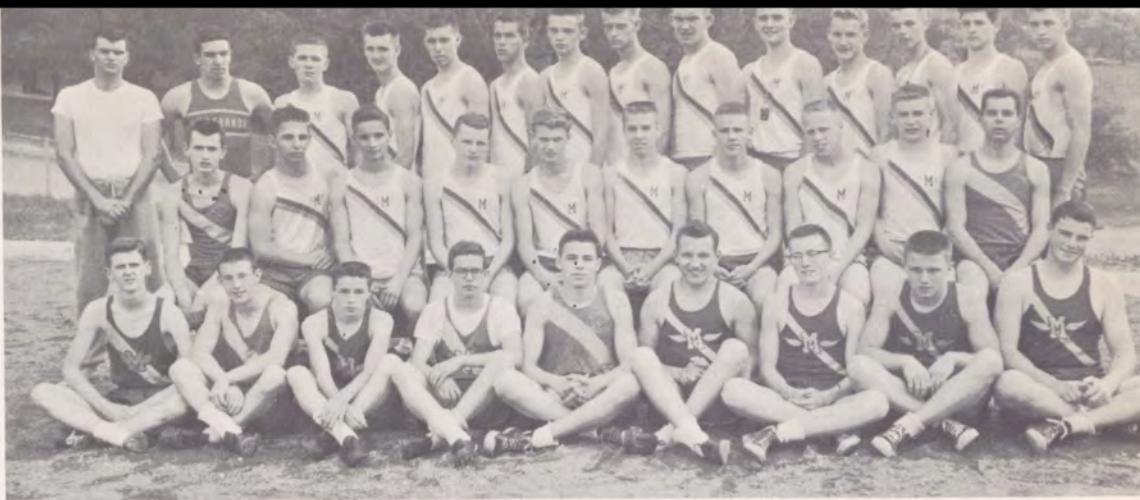

There were many outstanding members on the squad, most of whom either broke a record, were on a record breaking team, or turned in an excellent performance when it was most needed. Bob Albright, after playing with the school shot-put record, left it at 55'7" as well as bettering the W.P.I.A.L. distance for this event. Bob and other weight men, coached by Dave Batchelor, were a valuable asset to the team and aided greatly in all of the team's triumphs. The W.P.I.A.L. Relay's shot record received a beating from the trio of Bob Albright, Carl Hjerpstedt, and Art Hedgren, while the speedy foursome of George Schein, Chuck Reinhold, Clarence Renshaw, and Dan Lee shattered the seventeen-year-old school mark in the 880 yard relay. Tom Lieb tied the pole vault record set in 1937, making him the first person to near this mark in 20 years. John Gregg set a Bethany College record for the quarter mile sprint, and Dan Lee posted a record-breaking time in the 120 yard high hurdles.

After crowning his Blue and Gold running career by copping the first place position in State for the half-mile, Jim Inderwisch was elected MVP of the highly successful '57 team.

BASEBALL — 1957

The 1957 edition of Mt. Lebo's baseball team won the section title and the runner-up position in the W.P.I.A.L. finals last spring. The Mounties, playing through a tough schedule, suffered only two defeats, one in mid-season and the other in a play-off game. The post-season elimination contest was a big one for the Blue Devils, but the Freeport squad, gaining a one run lead in the 13th, edged out the Blue and Gold by this slim margin and took the W.P.I.A.L. championship. Our boys, however, were proud of the fact that they were the first Mt. Lebanon nine to participate in such post-season activities.

One of the contributing factors to the success of last year's squad was senior ace hurler Jack Karcher, who was also the captain of the team. Jack compiled a fine pitching record and was later elected the Most Valuable Player on the squad.

Coach Clark's underclassmen will have to scramble for the many vacant positions left open by the graduated seniors.

TENNIS — 1957

Ably coached by Mr. Doak, nicknamed the "father of W.P.I.A.L. tennis," the 1957 Mount Lebanon tennis team went through their schedule with only one defeat, and finished the season in a blaze of glory by bringing home the first place trophy in the W.P.I.A.L.

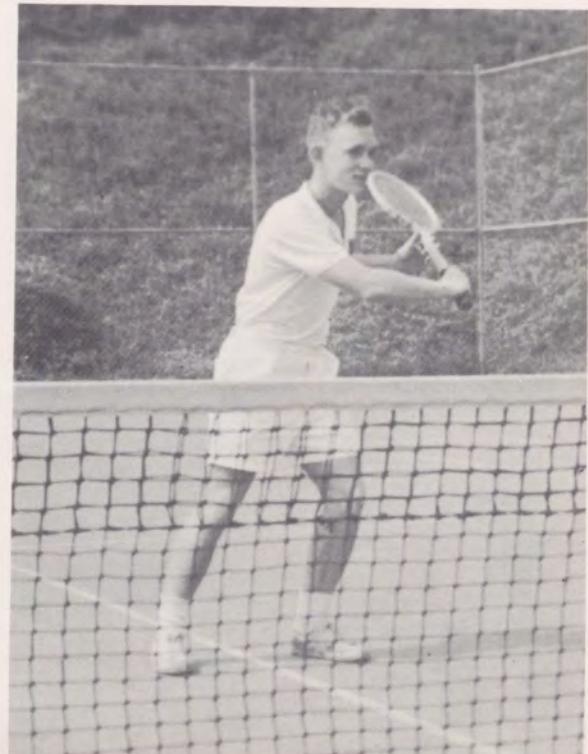

Sparked by such outstanding individuals as the team's captain John Connelly and squad members Ray Pierson, Ed Hartman, and others, the racquet-swinging Mounties defeated Shadyside Academy for the first time in years and overcame all of their league competition as well. The hard-hitting netters served up a few aces to Tarentum and Latrobe in elimination matches, defeating them and winning the coveted first place position in the W.P.I.A.L. for the second consecutive year.

The doubles team of John Connelly and Ray Pierson saw much action throughout the year and were W.P.I.A.L. runners-up at season's end. Due to his spirit and value to the team, Connelly was elected as the team's MVP.

Graduation left many court spots vacant and up for grabs by action-tested underclassmen, who will fill in their positions and carry on in the traditional Blue Devil spirit.

GOLF — 1957

Last year's golf team succeeded in producing another fine season, finishing with a respectable record of eight wins and only two losses. The two defeats came at the hands of Centerville High, one of the five teams in Mt. Lebanon's golf section. The other four were all defeated twice during the season by the hard-swinging Lebo squad.

The Blue and Gold's season record merited them the runner-up position in the section. Due to the abundance of players of equal skill, Coach Burrows had a difficult time selecting players for the various matches.

The team's captain and MVP, Butch Truesdale, won a fifth place in the W.P.I.A.L. individual playoffs, thus gaining an opportunity to represent our school in the P.I.A.A. championship at the Penn State course in University Park, Pa.

Decimated by the inevitable graduation losses, Mr. Burrows will have a small number of boys with which to build another championship Blue Devil team.

G. A. A.

This year's capable officers of the Leaders Club were Jane Langreth, Secretary; Ann Furlong, Treasurer; and Marty Mulliken, President.

The G.A.A., under the guidance of the Leaders Club and the sponsorship of Miss Shaver, had an exciting and eventful year.

Several new plans were put into effect, and all proved successful. First came the girls' gymnastic team which was started in the fall. Then in February, the Leaders Club sponsored a Carnival which involved a great deal of preparation but provided the girls with some hilarious fun, as they threw jello, shaved balloons, and braved the perils of the spook house. In April another new social event, the G.A.A. Spring Fantasy, transformed the sturdy girl athletes into dainty misses in net and taffeta. Of course, the favorite stand-bys — the tenniquoit, basketball, and volleyball tournaments complemented by the Jitterween Party, the G.A.A. Play Day, and the annual Spring Banquet — rounded out a year full of new friendships and good times enjoyed by the active girls in the G.A.A.

The girls of the Leaders Club, which planned the many G.A.A. athletic and social activities are: Sitting: Norma Blackburn, Judy Siedel, Ann Furlong, Pat Negele, Marty Mulliken, Judy Japp, Jane Langreth, Sue Langreth, Sue Williams, Chris VanStockier. Standing: Jill Galbraith, Barbara Watchorn, Sue Dana, Margie Hilsinger, Gay Hugo, Janis Zivic, Ardith Maurhoff, Regina Hancock, Alison Young, Nola Carroll, Nancy Zanhiser, Stella Hulsberg.

The moments we shared. . .

are now just memories. There was the frantic dash to school and the leisurely walk home, the bustle in the halls during the day and empty loneliness late in the afternoon. On brisk fall nights, we trooped to the football games, and we returned to the stadium when warm spring days brought track meets. Gleeful noises escaped from the gym, and the halls echoed with slamming locker doors; a hush prevailed in the library, and reverent silence was observed during devotions. There were those important letters that always got written during class and the history theme that was never quite finished. In the halls, we heard melodious offerings from the chorus room, smelled the antiseptic that escaped the medical office, and coughed in the clouds of  $H_2S$  which drifted from the chem labs. We were filled with spirit at the pep rally and felt a bittersweet sentiment overcome us at the Senior Prom. There was laughter at the senior play and silent tears at graduation. These were the moments we shared — memories we will always cherish.

SEPTEMBER

Let's face it.

The leaves of brown may have come tumbling down last September, but the students at Mt. Lebanon High were too busy to notice. Reluctantly, and yet expectantly, we turned back to our alma mater and renewed friendships which the summer had interrupted. Ninth graders were introduced to crowded stairways and the enchanting aromas which pervaded the halls from the chemistry classes. At last, the first week-end arrived, after two whole days of mental exertion had elapsed. Although there was no football game, the week-end was graced by a "rec" dance and many "new year" parties. Campaigns for the all-important subscriptions were launched beginning with the Mounty's "sophistication" theme, and continuing with the Lantern's gay posters. The bonfire and three exciting football games completed September's round of activities, and left us panting for more in October.

OCTOBER "PIGSKIN AND PUMPKINS"

Guess who

We did it again!
Cross Country State Championship

October's horn of plenty overflowed with not only pigskin and pumpkins but also a profusion of parties and projects. The Jay Michael girls-ask-boy dance, the Band Revue, the Black Watch Spectacle, and the Thespian variety show provided a healthy balance on the credit side of the entertainment ledger. Sports fans were also in the black with a large number of football games and cross-country meets to attend. The hauntings of Halloween came, but did not outdo the mysteries of Mt. Lebanon High. Those seniors quietly slipping out of classes were not skipping school, but actually going to either the dark doom of the National Merit Scholarship test or the dark eye of Mr. Rosser's senior-picture-taking camera. And the sophomores weren't destroying school property that Saturday morning but merely planting crocuses for the spring. October ended with frost on the pumpkin, mud on the pigskin, and satisfied smiles on the faces of Mt. Lebanon's students.

NOVEMBER

Mums and Memories

November was a month of highlights. In sports, our cross-country team won the state championship, and our football team won both its November games. Socially, the Stardust Ball and the Senior class play, Goodbye, My Fancy, were in the forefront. The school threw open its doors at Open House, and later the nine-weeks report cards came out. Of course, the real high point of November was the Senior Recognition football game and its connected activities. Vast spots of crimson seemed to float about school that Friday, and, at the pep rally, certain sections of the bleachers were almost solid red. The football game that night will not soon be forgotten. A freak wind caused paper to blow in spirals over the football field, thus causing the effect of a wispy spirit hovering over our boys to bring them luck. This charm worked, and, along with the many parties that week-end, made Senior Recognition perfect for all. Thanksgiving and its inevitable huge dinner gave us a much needed vacation and rounded off November by rounding off our figures.

DECEMBER

Time Out for Tinsel

December came upon us with a scent of pine and a feeling of excitement. All phases of school life were aiming toward Christmas: the basketball team was anticipating the tournament scheduled during vacation; the chorus was giving the final brush-ups to the Messiah; the language departments were getting their pronunciations and musical strains synchronized for the "Around the World" Christmas program; the decoration squad was gathering timely tips on tree trimming; the homerooms were making last minute arrangements for their projects; and every girl was giving her special smile to that special person in hopes that Saint Nick would bring an invitation to the Snowball. Christmas vacation, with its promise of time to catch up on school work, soon yielded that promise for a more tangible reward — "a good time had by all" at the many parties. December ended with a bang, a toot, and a whistle — Happy 1958!

JANUARY

Finals and a Fresh Start

At the Frosty Frolic

January was a hard month — it was hard to get back into the groove after Christmas, and, when we finally did, it was hard to begin studying for the semester tests. However, all was not drudgery. Many diversions were provided to lighten our loads. The Hilary Bogden Record Hop started out the month socially. In the sports world, basketball became the byword, and everyone followed the team closely at their games. The orchestra assembly proved to be one of the outstanding entertainment attractions in January.

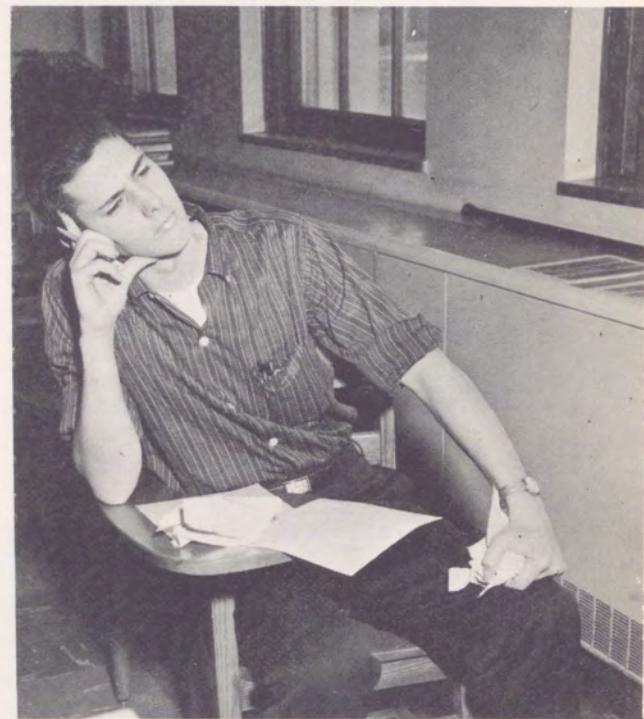

The semester was brought to conclusion by final exams and report cards. In contrast to these "happy" events, the end of the semester also brought the Activities Assembly and the Junior-Senior Prom, to everyone's immense relief. January began with resolutions and ended with many more — from students resolving to do twice as well the second semester.

FEBRUARY

Holiday for Hearts

"Do you think he'll get the message?"

February brought Cupid, and Cupid brought romance. However, busy February didn't leave much time for romance. Sports-wise, the basketball, swimming, and wrestling teams were finishing up their very successful seasons. Basketball fans saw the Blue Devils maintain their perfect record in the new gym as they downed Washington's Little Presidents. G.A.A. carnival time found the girls scampering over boxes and booths in an effort to escape a very real looking snake. The tremendously successful Foreign Exchange Campaign was climaxed by the long-anticipated Junior-Senior basketball game — and the senior victory. The Formal Concert and the Choral Concert, along with tryouts for Mrs. McThing and In the Pink kept students so involved that the day of hearts went quickly by leaving very few broken ones. Plenty of snow and ice made for a frosty February, but somehow we all got through the month — in spite of the weather, the activities, and Cupid.

MARCH

Shamrocks and Shenanigans

Marrying Sam ties two more knots.

With March came the first signs of spring-time. A slate of junior candidates for the coming semester's Student Congress officers brought seniors' thoughts closer to Senior Day and juniors' thoughts closer to the day when they would be seniors. Sadie Hawkins Day found the gals actually dressed a la mode parisienne as they appeared at the dance in their real "sack chemises." Indoor track moved into full swing out at Schoonamaker Hall amidst cinders and clouds of sawdust. And the Ides of March brought not taxes nor assassination, but worse yet, the College Boards. However, the hard-working college-bound students found relief that very evening in the form of the Mardi Gras Ball. Spring sprang, and, according to tradition, March marched out like a lamb.

APRIL

Fashions and Festivities

"Well, at least it will bring flowers."

April cried — showers of activities between the actual raindrops. Mrs. McThing, the hilarious activities play, followed close on the heels of the invigorating Easter vacation. Spring fever was in the air and the outdoor G.A.A. Playday along with a generous supply of track meets did nothing to discourage it. Report cards came and went, as did the elections for the coming semester's homeroom officers. The band stepped back into the school picture with their annual spring concert, and last minute preparations were completed for the choral Spring Show, In the Pink. Then April, its duty done, gave way to May.

"It's leaving!"

MAY

Cinders and Ceremonies

May was a time of too much to do in too brief an interval. Track meets and track championships abounded. After seeing the informal concert and the spring musical, we were given tunes to whistle as we marched to an impending doom — the semester tests.

The key-note in May was on the seniors . . . it was their last month at Mount Lebanon High. The graduation ceremony coming up in June would mean the end of many long friendships with both students and teachers. But the seniors didn't have much time to sit around and mope. There was too much to be done — college acceptances to worry about, final grades to anticipate, senior parties to arrange, the reception to attend, and above all, Senior Day to look forward to . . . and then to enjoy.
